Kirov Shot Down by Mystery Killer.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 1.—An assassin who the soviet government asserted was "sent by enemies of the working class" today shot and killed Sergei Mironovich Kirov, revolutionist for 30 of his 46 years and a member of the communist party's political bureau.

The assassin, who slew Kirov in the party's committee headquarters at Leningrad, was captured by soviet police. Despite the questioning to which he was submitted, he still had not been identified late tonight.

As one of the nine members of the political bureau, which makes the decisions on policy unfailingly followed by the government, Kirov belonged to what is generally regarded as the most powerful body in Russia.

Plan State Funeral.

He was also secretary of the communist party's central committee, from which the political committee is appointed, and was the most influential party member in Leningrad.

The government is preparing to bury the slain leader with all honors. A committee was immediately appointed to make the arrangements for his funeral, which will be held in famed Red Square on Dec. 6.

The assassination, the government announced, occurred at 4:30 p. m. in the Leningrad committee headquarters, the former Smolney institute, in which girls of the aristocracy were educated during the czarist régime.

Rose from Humble Beginning.

Kirov rose to power in the ranks of the communist party from humble beginnings. Born in Viatka province 46 years ago, he early became an orphan and spent his childhood in an orphan's home.

He joined the bolshevik movement in 1904, was appointed to the Tomsk committee, and was arrested that same year for revolutionary activities.

After serving five years imprisonment in Siberia, he returned to become active again in party work. He participated in the bolshevist revolution, was named to the supreme war council of the 11th army and fought through the civil wars of 1918-'20.

How News Was Broken.

"It is with great sorrow that we inform the party, the working class and all toilers in the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics and the toilers of the whole world that on Dec. 1 in Leningrad, at the treacherous hand of an enemy of the working class, perished a most outstanding worker in our party, a fiery and fearless revolutionary, a beloved leader of the bolsheviks and all Leningrad toilers, the secretary of the central and Leningrad committees of the communist party of the soviet union, a member of the political bureau of the central committee of the party of the soviet union, Sergei Mironovich Kirov.

"The loss of Kirov, beloved by the whole party and the whole working class of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, a crystal clear and unwaveringly staunch party man, a bolshevik-Leninite who gave the whole of his stirring and glorious life to the cause of communism, serves as the most heavy blow dealt the whole party and the country of soviets of late years.

Calls for War on "Enemies."

"The central committee believes the memory of Comrade Kirov and the emblazoned example of his fearless and tireless struggle for the proletarian revolution and for the reconstruction of socialism in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics will inspire millions of proletarians and all toilers to further struggle for the triumph of Socialism, and for the final extermination of all enemies of the working class.

"You have always been dear to us, Comrade Kirov, as a faithful friend, a beloved comrade, a reliable fighter, and up to the last day of our lives and struggles we will remember you, dear friend, and we will feel the bitterness caused by your loss.

"You have always been with us in years of hesitation and difficulties in our party. You shared the difficulties of recent years and we lost you at a moment when our country has attained great victories. There is much of your energy, your strength, ardor, and devotion to communism in this struggle. Farewell our dear friend Sergei."

REMAKE G. O. P. BY REVOLUTION, URGES BORAH

Senator Asks Revolt of Liberals.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A revolt by young and liberal Republican elements to force a "complete reorganization of the party for the 1936 campaign" was proposed today by Senator Borah.

The Idaho Republican demanded what he said could be called a "revolution" unless the conservatives now in control hold a meeting at once to cooperate to that end.

Issues Challenge to Fletcher.

In a statement commenting on a proposal of Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York, that the party guard against reorganization, lest it result in factional chaos, Borah in effect challenged Chairman Henry P. Fletcher and the Hilles group to hold a "plebiscite" if they believed the rank and file did not want a change.

"I venture to believe they will not be long left in doubt," he asserted.

"If these gentlemen are unwilling to do this, there is only one thing to do, as I see it, and that is to create a new organization.

"There are young Republican clubs all over the country which would form the nucleus of such a movement which would send representatives to a common meeting place and elect a chairman and complete a national organization."

Borah Wants "New G. O. P."

Insisting he did not want a "third party" but a new Republican party, Borah said his stand probably would be interpreted as "revolution."

"But does not the present situation justify revolution?" he asked.

"If this is not done then the party will drift along completely in the hands and under control of an organization which has lost the confidence of the rank and file until we approach the national convention. This situation ought to be dealt with at once."

The Borah statement served to intensify the factional differences in Republican ranks. As far as the senate is concerned, the independents are now about on an equal basis numerically with the regulars and it would not surprise some political observers to see the former take more of a hand in organization should the party remain strongly conservative.

"No Time for Change," says Hilles.

The Hilles letter, addressed to an unidentified member of the national committee or group of members, said the party "should continue to stand its ground in this tremendous crisis." Hilles contended it was "not a time for it to lose its equilibrium or change its character."

An attempt to set up a new party to absorb the old before the next national convention, he contended, would "not be pressed by practical persons because the formation of a new party in the brief interlude would be attended by an impossible confusion of tongues respecting a name, a creed and personnel."

To Hilles' observation that the

THE TURKEY HEAVEN

[Copyright: 1916: By John T. McCutcheon.]

The Old Turkey Told Wondrous Tales of the Turkey Heaven.

"My!" Thought He, "This Is a Swell Place."

Once upon a Time there was a young Turkey.

He lived in the Barnyard with the rest of his Family, and at Night, when he sat on the Roost, he would listen to the Elder Turkeys talk of the Great World beyond the Barnyard.

The Elder Turkeys told wondrous tales of the Turkey Heaven. It lay off beyond the Blue Hills, far away, and it took many days of traveling to reach it. The young Turkey loved, most of all, these marvelous tales of the Turkey Heaven.

Each day he would peek out through the Pickets of the High Fence and gaze longingly at the fringe of Blue Hills that met the sky away off yonder.

It didn't seem so very far to a stout young Turkey like him, and the more he thought about it the more determined he was to reach it.

And so one morning very early, before the other Turkeys were down, he flew from the Roost in the Trees and alighted in the Dusty Highroad.

It was late in the Summer and the Weather was Warm and Balmy.

Free at last to follow his Will, he started off Briskly toward where, hazy and dim in the Distance, the Blue Hills met the pale blue of the sky.

For many days he walked, eating a little along the Wayside, but with eyes always fixed upon the Distant Blue Hills.

But, alas! When he reached the Hills they all turned Green, and there in the distance, as far away as ever, lay the Blue Hills, beckoning him on, like a Will o' th' Wisp. And he would start on anew.

The days grew cooler and cooler. His fine young figure, once so plump and strong, now became gaunt and stringy.

One after another the Blue Hills changed to Green as he drew near them, but his Faith was strong, and he struggled on with the undaunted Spirit of a Crusader, even in the Face of Continued Disappointment.

"Surely I will reach the Blue Hills if I keep on," he thought.

Summer changed to Autumn. The Cold Winds whipped through the Trees and sent the leaves scattering in wild flurries.

With November came a new look to the Landscape. The Blue Hills that lay so far away seemed to be less Blue than they used to be. Sometimes they seemed almost Brown, and, finally, one day he climbed to the top of a Hill, and, lo! there ahead lay not Blue Hills but Brown Hills, as brown as autumn leaves!

He had passed the Blue Hills! The Turkey Heaven must be only a short Distance ahead!

With Hope revived and with the strength of Faith he rushed down the Hill and across the broad reaches of pleasant Valley Land.

Presently before him, rising to noble heights beside the Highroad, was a beautiful Fence, all white and clean, and through the Pickets he saw thousands of beautiful Turkeys, their wings and feathers of burnished bronze fairly glistening in the crisp sunlight. He gobbled with joy!

He had reached the Turkey Heaven.

Rows of beautiful white houses were ranged primly along the sides and many men in Spotless White walked about among the Turkeys and fed them great quantities of food.

Whenever there was a Turkey who looked a little hungry a man would hurry up and insist upon him eating a lot of corn or other delicacies.

It was surely a fascinating sight, especially to the glowing eyes of this poor tired and hungry Turkey who peered through the Pickets.

"Now, I must try to get in," said he, and he looked for a hole in the Fence. Fortunately he was so thin that he easily slid in between a couple of Pickets who failed to challenge him.

A man soon saw him and hurried away to get a large Bowl of Corn. All day long the man followed him around, feeding him corn until his sides swelled out and he became very plump and fat.

"My," thought he, "this is a Swell Place!"

One day the man pinched his breast and said, "I guess you'll do, all right," and the young Turkey felt awfully pleased at the compliment.

He talked with the other Turkeys and they told him they had been there some time and liked it very much.

"We shall be sorry to leave," they said.

"Why!" exclaimed the young Turkey. "You're surely not thinking of leaving a Nice Place like this? Isn't this the Turkey Heaven?"

"We are going away from here. We've been eating our heads off for several weeks and now we are going to give somebody else a chance to eat. We've all been invited up to a Grand Dinner up in the City, where we shall be the guests of honor at many beautiful banquets."

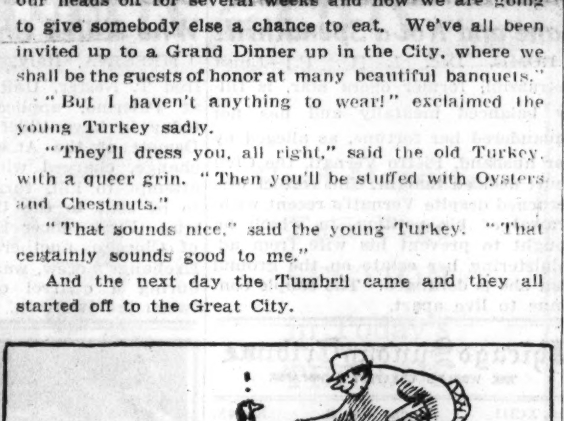
"But I haven't anything to wear!" exclaimed the young Turkey sadly.

"They'll dress you, all right," said the old Turkey, with a queer grin. "Then you'll be stuffed with Oysters and Chestnuts."

"That sounds nice," said the young Turkey. "That certainly sounds good to me."

And the next day the Tumbril came and they all started off to the Great City.

For Many Days He Walked.



A Gentleman Complimented Him.

SENIOR'S INDUSTRIAL HUM TURNS INTO HO-HUM; HE IS HURT

Fremont, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—All work and no play made Elwyn Judd a sleepy boy, but from now on it will be less work and more sleep.

Judd, senior from Los Angeles, Cal., is one of the most active students at Midland college, his list of offices including the business managership of the student newspaper, the Y. M. C. A. presidency, membership in the dramatics society, the debate team, and lesser offices in half a dozen other campus groups. He also is an honor student with a scholarship only .67 under perfect.

Sleepily he rolled out of bed to make an early morning class. He yawned and dislocated two vertebrae in his neck. The accident will keep him quiet for several weeks.

HUNTERS GET $75 FINES; POOR TO DINE ON VENISON

The relief recipients of Shields township in Lake county are to enjoy venison this week. Not only are the poor to get venison, but the county was enriched by $75 in fines as a result of the hunting expedition of three Wisconsin farmers. The three, Henry and Frank Wagner and Lee Zender of Hayward, were arrested early yesterday as they drove in Waukegan road through Lake Forest. When they were stopped by Patrolmen John Robertson and Richard Baldwin, three deer were found in their automobile. Justice of the Peace Samuel Sorenson fined them $25 each and turned the deer over to Daniel Hentges, township poor supervisor. The men were charged with transporting deer without a license.

Relief Office Closed After Raid by Idle

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—McLean county relief headquarters were still closed here today following the demonstrations yesterday in which rioting threatened as portions of a crowd of jobless tried to break through a cordon of police and deputy sherifs to enter the place.

Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, former state senator, now county relief chairman, said today that the relief office would not be opened before Monday and possibly not then.

In Doubt About Opening.

"We will not open until we have been definitly assured there will be no more such demonstrations," she said. "We do not feel justified in calling our people back to work as long as they are in danger of physical violence."

Picketing was resumed today by the unemployed. Bearing placards stating their demands for cash relief, payment of all rents, 40 per cent increase in relief, new clothing, etc., members of the group paraded up and down the walks in front of the building.

Predicts Early Opening.

Charles Fern, one of the leaders of the agitators, declared today that the relief stations will not be closed long. "They're not going to let 14,000 men and women wander on the streets with empty stomachs," he declared. "When these people get hungry, are they going to sit in the gutter and hold their stomachs? No, they are going to get food."

JEWISH BAGPIPE BAND TOOTLES WAY TO 1ST PLACE IN SCOTLAND

GLASGOW, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A blow to national pride has been administered here by the discovery that one of Scotland's very hottest bagpipe bands is composed exclusively of Jews. Hitherto Scotsmen have proudly boasted that only a true born Scot could master the rousing skill of the national musical instrument. Now comes the news hat the "Jewish Lads' Brigade" has won the Scottish championship trophy for their skill with the pipes and bellows.

In the excitement of seeing a member of his own gang appear suddenly at the rear door during a robbery last night of the Chick-Chick Poultry store, 7356 South Ashland avenue, a young gunman shot him through the head. The wounded robber staggered to the street and fell dead beside an automobile containing two other members of the gang.

The youth who killed him and his partner who were in the store ran out, jumped over their companion's body, joined the others in the car and sped away.

In the store were Leonard Kuroski, 6929 South Damen avenue, the owner, his brother Norbert, and their brother-in-law, John Fisher. They stood against one wall while one of the bandits emptied the till of $150. At that moment the third robber rattled the rear doorknob. The gunman who had been guarding the victims became excited. He stepped to a position commanding the open rear door and fired. The bullet struck his pal behind the left ear. The dead robber was identified by police as Frank Walla, alias Hall, 3035 Broad street, who had a police record as a robber and who had been a professional boxer.

Call Goes Out for Christmas Good Fellows

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

THE TRIBUNE announces this morning the opening of the 26th Christmas Good Fellow campaign. Again the call goes out for Good Fellows who, in every year since 1909, on Christmas eve or Christmas morning, have taken baskets of food, candy, and toys to the homes of the less fortunate.

The Good Fellow department will open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the Tribune Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street. In charge of John F. Gillespie, its staf, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., will provide the names and addresses of deserving families to whom Christmas cheer may be taken.

Social Agencies Provide Names.

Names of the needy families will be submitted to Good Fellows through the Christmas Clearing House of the Council of Social Agencies.

Among these organizations are the United Charities, Central Charity bureau [Catholic], Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and dispensary, Children's Memorial hospital, Infant Welfare society, County Bureau of Public Welfare, and the Juvenile court.

Miss Elizabeth Hughes, secretary of the Social Service exchange of the Council of Social Agencies, will be, as she has been for many years, the head of the Christmas clearing house.

Any one may be a Good Fellow. Every walk of life is represented among the Good Fellows. They come from gold coast and from boarding house.

Army Has Its Veterans.

Many of this army of Good Fellows were recruited in the first campaign in 1909. Were they of middle age then it is with a slower but not a faltering step that they now carry on.

The first Good Fellow was Edward C. Fitch, a lawyer and school superintendent of Vandalia, Ill. He wrote the original Good Fellow letter which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Dec. 10, 1909. The letter is reproduced on page six in this paper today. It was signed only "Good Fellow" and Mr. Fitch's name was suppressed, at his request, until after his death in 1928.

One sentence from this letter shows the spirit that animated its writer and that has animated other Good Fellows ever since: "Neither you nor I get anything out of this except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning."

Read the Rest of It.

This is one sentence, but the rest of the letter is well worth your reading. If you read it you can't help but be a Good Fellow.

Again there is to be created a Good Fellow fund and any one unable to supply a basket himself will accomplish the same purpose by contributing to the fund. Address your contribution to the Tribune Good Fellow department, 1 South Dearborn street.

This newspaper pays all the operating costs of the Good Fellow department, and the money received will be used to provide baskets for families at Christmas time. The baskets will be distributed through the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE.

It's so easy to be a Good Fellow. For your convenience a Good Fellow coupon is printed on page six. Fill it in and send it to the Good Fellow department. Or, still easier, pick up your telephone and call Superior 0100. Wonder who will be the first Good Fellow tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock?

H. B. HILL DEATH IS LINKED WITH BAIATA SCHEME

Former Risk Head Found Shot.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Harney B. Hill, 52 years old, former president of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, and later chairman of the board of the same company, was found shot to death early this evening in his automobile on the Beardstown road three miles west of here.

Sangamon county authorities, who are investigating the mysterious death of Hill, who was removed from his office as chairman a week ago after sensational disclosures had been made concerning a plot of a Chicago swindle gang to loot the company treasury, have thus far been unable to determine whether Hill killed himself or was the victim of murder.

Gun Found Near Hand.

Superficially at least, the circumstantial evidence was about equally balanced to indicate [1] suicide with an appearance of murder, or [2] murder with an appearance of suicide.

Hill had been shot through the head, a bullet entering his right temple and coursing downward diagonally to emerge below the left cheekbone. Near his right hand was a .32 caliber revolver, and there were powder marks on the temple. The car of the man who died was parked at the roadside, the engine running.

These factors supported the suicide theory. But there were five bullet holes in the car, one in the front windshield, three in the door beside the driver's seat, and one in the rear window.

Numbers Filed from Weapon.

Moreover, the revolver was loaded except for the one bullet that caused Hill's death. The weapon itself was one that had had all its identifying marks filed off, a trick characteristic of gangsters. It developed late tonight that Hill was to be a witness against the insurance plotters and that they probably knew this.

The Beardstown road is a main traveled highway, and the scene of the tragedy only a short distance from the Fisher inn and Spring creek. Nearby, though, are crossroads leading into the creek bottom and a little country coal mine.

Farmers who gathered about Hill's car reported that they had heard shots in the creek bottom some time before the discovery of the body, and pointed out that the vicinity of the coal mine was a likely spot for an ambush by enemies.

Sherif's officers announced they had learned that a second automobile was observed driving away from the vicinity of Hill's parked machine immediately before the body was found.

Study Slaying Theory.

To accept the suicide theory authorities must believe that Hill himself fired the extra bullets into the car. The holes were made by a weapon other than a 32, and therefore he must have had a second pistol which he threw away. Deputy sherifs were searching the creek bottom for such a weapon, if Hill had one.

The alternative theory is that the former insurance president was captured in the hollow and shot by enemies, and that his car then was driven to the more frequented highway and left there after the once-fired pistol had been placed near Hill's hand.

Other factors increased, rather than dispelled, the mystery. Hill was in his office until noon today and associates said he had been as self-possessed as usual.

Link Death to Swindle Plot.

In any event, it was held, the death of Hill was a result of the disclosures that Joseph Baiata, notorious ex-convict, and a group of assistants intended to take over the Abraham Lincoln company and a bank in Indianapolis, and, by manipulating the assets and flooding the portfolios of both institutions with stolen bonds, gain a fortune of millions of dollars.

Baiata and two alleged associates, Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul lawyer, and Hayden Sanders, who was treasurer of the insurance company from Oct. 15 to Nov. 23, are under arrest in Chicago on a charge of trying to defraud the company of $25,000.

Gustav Lindquist, former insurance commissioner of Minnesota who was president of the Abraham Lincoln during Sanders' incumbency as treasurer, is being sought on the same charge.

The vast, highly imaginative plot came to public notice after Otto Van Derck, 23 year old clerk in the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank of 111 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, confessed that Baiata and associates had persuaded him to steal $54,000 of the bank's money and were trying to get him to steal an additional $26,500.

Baiata and Karatz had arranged to purchase the controling stock in the Abraham Lincoln company from Hill and his associates. The total price was approximately $400,000 and they paid $25,000 down. This, according to Van Derck, came from the money that was stolen from the bank, and an additional payment of $25,000, due on Nov. 15, was to be made with funds taken irregularly from the insurance company's own treasury.

Bars Salary Collections.

State Insurance Director Ernest Palmer allowed Lindquist to take office, but refused to let him and Sanders pay out any money, even for their own salaries. He also rejected a contract that had been made under which Hill was to have been retained by the Lindquist administration on the pay roll for a number of years.

No charges ever were made that Hill was in collusion with the Baiata gang, but it was known that he worried greatly over the stigma of suspicion. He was known as a proud man of great business ability. That he had been bitter over being deposed from office at the same time Lindquist and Sanders were ousted was no secret. Neither was he pleased when the sale of the company to the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance company of Monmouth was announced.

He had maintained that when the sale of the controling stock was made he regarded Baiata and Karatz as brokers who had legitimate business men behind them; that he was unaware there were any shady aspects or implications behind the deal.

Hill an Important Witness.

It was learned that Hill was to have gone to Chicago next Tuesday to tell Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson of the deal for the insurance company.

Also, it was disclosed tonight, Hill was to have been used as a witness in an investigation of the alleged swindle plot which State's Attorney Alfred Greening of Sangamon county is preparing to push before the grand jury. Privately, Hill had assured friends of his intention to spare neither Lindquist nor any of the latter's associates.

If and when Baiata and his associates should go to trial, he would have been an important witness, and this fact might have furnished a motive for killing him. Baiata, although in jail, is allowed to have visitors and to tell them his troubles.

With both the possible motives and the physical evidence so balanced, the uncertainty as to how Hill came to his death persisted. Deputy Coroner H. P. Butler announced soon after the body was found that he believed murder had been committed. Others favored the suicide theory.

State Normal Graduate.

Hill was a graduate of the State Normal school and received his early business training in a bank at Green City, Mo., of which he became cashier. He entered the insurance field as a representative of the Bankers' Life association of Des Moines, Ia. Later he was general agent at Springfield of the Central Life Insurance company of Illinois.

In 1914, with several associates, he organized the Commercial Health and Accident company, and in 1916 its running mate, the Mutual Life of Illinois. In 1926 the two companies were merged as the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company, with Hill as president.

Hill is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maude Hill, and a son Glenn, who is in the navy.

11 BOMBS ROCK CUBAN CAPITAL; 7 PERSONS HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Dec. 1.—Eleven bombs rocked downtown Havana tonight, wounding five persons. Two others were hurt when petards exploded in street cars. One bomb destroyed a drug store. This is the sixth successive Saturday on which bombings occurred when shoppers were going home.

Six bombs also exploded today at Cienfuegos, causing business houses to close. Communists killed three soldiers there tonight.

It is reported that President Carlos Mendieta, acting upon the informal suggestion of American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, will grant an indefinite leave to Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staf, to "study military tactics abroad." Opposition parties announced this week that Col. Batista must be ousted before they will enter peace negotiations with the government.

'BABES IN WOOD' LAID TO REST IN DONATED GRAVES

Father's Body Unclaimed Where He Died.

Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—While their relatives on the Pacific coast, 3,000 miles away, were making preparations to come here, Pennsylvania's three "babes in the woods" were buried today not far from the desolate mountainside where their bodies were found a week ago.

The chestnut haired girls, Norma, Dewilla, and Cordelia Noakes, whose deaths have been officially termed suffocation, were borne through flurries of wind and rain to donated graves in Westminster cemetery after a semi-military funeral.

Other Bodies Held.

Meanwhile, the bodies of their father, Elmo Noakes, a Roseville, Cal., fruit packer, and their cousin, Winifred Pierce, 18, who presumably died by Noakes' hand after he had strangled his children, were held at Duncanville, where they were found shot to death. They were held pending the arrival of California relatives.

Brief services were held for the three young girls at a funeral parlor in a historic 100 year old home in Carlisle. A Presbyterian minister, an Episcopolian pastor, and a Catholic priest read the funeral services of their respective churches.

Boy and Girl Scouts were the pallbearers and members of the American Legion took part in the services. State police and highway patrolmen directed trafic as the funeral procession wound through Cumberland valley to the cemetery.

Hundreds Attend Rites.

Several hundred persons, many of them parents of children, stood bareheaded in a drizzling rain while the bodies of the young girls, unclaimed for the present, were lowered in little white coffins into the graves.

After the rites, authorities went back to the baffling task of piecing together the missing details of the mysterious tragedy.

Family dissension and gossip concerning Miss Pierce as the housekeeper for the widower, Noakes, rather than a love affair between them, was credited with prompting the Californian to buy an automobile and drive his family across the nation to keep a rendezvous with death.

FOUR ARE SLAIN AFTER THREE DAY DRINKING PARTY

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Four persons were slain in an apartment here tonight in what police described as a triple murder and suicide climaxing a three day drinking party.

The dead were Mrs. Minnie M. Frary, 60, in whose apartment the tragedy occurred; Charles T. Ritchie, 60, a private detective and said to have used the gun; and two unidentified men, each about 42.

The shooting occurred as two policemen stood outside the apartment door after having been summoned by neighbors who protested against the disturbance in the adjoining flat.

The bodies were found in various rooms, that of the woman wrapped in a piece of drapery. At a late hour tonight police still were unable to establish a possible motive for the killings.

Two Indicted Officials Asked to Resign Posts

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Charles E. Bailey, street commissioner, and Walter J. McSorley, safety board member, under indictment on charges of conspiracy to bribe a public official, were given 48 hours to resign by Mayor W. R. Hinkle today. The order was given shortly before the two officials were arrested on the indictments. They were released under $5,000 bonds each.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Matt Kimes, serving a life sentence for murder, returned alone to the Oklahoma state prison at the conclusion of a six day leave of absence today. Gov. W. H. Murray, who had released Kimes to his attorney, Sid White, to go quail hunting, refused to extend the leave for an additional six days. Inclement weather prevented the protected quail hunt.

Luisa Tetrazzini Is Found Sane and Not a Spendthrift

ROME, Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Luisa Tetrazzini, former opera star, is fully balanced mentally and has not squandered her fortune, as alleged by her husband, Pietro Vernati, the Civil court decided tonight. The verdict was returned despite Vernati's recent withdrawal of his petition, in which he sought to prevent his wife from administering her estate on the ground that she is deranged. The couple continue to live apart.

U. S. Asks Italy for Man Who Killed Chicago Sailor

MESSINA, Italy, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Alfred T. Nester, United States consul at Palermo, applied to the police today to have Chief Engineer M. J. Demott of the American S. S. Exchange, charged with shooting with attempt to kill, turned over to him to be sent to the United States for trial. First Officer Frederick Roberts of Chicago, another member of the Exchange's crew, was killed yesterday during a quarrel on shipboard between the two men.

TELESCOPE'S 200 INCH EYE READY FOR 2D POURING

Corning, N. Y., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The second pouring of the 200 inch "eye" for the world's largest telescope which will open to man's vision a distant universe 27 times larger than his greatest telescopes now see, is ready to begin here at daybreak tomorrow.

In the center of a huge building of the Corning Glass Works there is a roar which has been growing for three weeks until today it equals an express train doing 70 miles an hour. The noise comes from the oven where howling gas jets have heated the glass for the "eye" for three weeks.

Its temperature now is 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, close to a third the heat of the surface of the sun. The glass forms a small lake—its mass 65 tons, its intensity enough to burn a large city if it could be sprayed without cooling.

This roaring glass giant is the last word in weeks of preparations believed to assure a high degree of perfection for the great mirror to be cast tomorrow.

Tomorrow's eye will be a substitute for the mirror poured last month. That mirror was marred when some of its "ribs" broke loose and floated to the surface in the liquid glass. It is apparently perfect except for these ribs on its under surface, which experts say can be drilled out without risk.

Two Political Groups Plan to Merge Their Interests

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Communist league in America and the American Workers' party, neither of which is connected with the communist party, decided today to merge under the name of the Workers' Party of the United States.

SURVIVORS TELL STORY OF HEROIC RESCUE ON LAKE

BY LARRY KELLY.

Survivors of the wreck of the Henry W. Cort, told the thrilling story yesterday of their rescue by coast guardsmen who braved a 50 mile gale, sleet and snow to crawl a mile over the wave-lashed rocks of the north breakwater at Muskegon against which the lake freighter had been hurled by the storm.

All twenty-five members of the crew reached the shore in safety, although suffering from cold and exposure. The one life lost was that of Jack Dipert, 23 years old, of Frankfort, Mich., a surfman of the Muskegon coast guard crew.

He was washed overboard from a 36-foot power boat during one of the several vain efforts made during the night to reach the vessel which lay, pounded by furious waves, against the breakwater's end.

Hundreds Witness Dawn Rescue.

The rescue was finally made shortly after the gray daybreak and in full view of several hundred spectators who lined the beaches in the face of the storm. Capt. John A. Basch of the Muskegon coast guard station led the crew of eight men who finally reached the marooned sailors.

The Henry W. Cort left Holland, Mich., about 9 a. m. Friday, according to the story told by the skipper, Capt. Charles V. Cox, of Minder City, Mich. Its destination was South Chicago, where a cargo of pig iron was to be stowed. Encountering off Michigan City the storm which had been raging over all the Great Lakes, the freighter was blown from her course, and Capt. Cox turned back, seeking a safe harbor.

"There were two things we could do," Capt. Cox declared, "we could beach the ship or try for some port on the east shore. I was afraid there might be loss of life if we beached."

Helpless Ship Crashes in Gale.

It was finally decided to make for Muskegon and attempt to go through the narrow inlet formed by the ends of the north and south breakwater. Anthony Grenier was at the wheel as the attempt was made, but the freighter was helpless in the face of wind and waves, and crashed against the huge rocks which form the breakwater.

Gaping holes were torn in the bottom of the boat, which filled within five minutes, then suddenly listed over at an angle of about 45 degrees, but was kept from sinking completely by the very rocks which had brought her disaster.

"There was a terrific crash as she hit the breakwater," Capt. Cox said. "Every man was knocked off his feet, but there was no panic."

This was about 10 p. m. Almost immediately the Muskegon coast guards saw two flares sent up from the ship—the signal of distress.

Guards Speed to Rescue.

They answered with the red flares signifying:

"Help is coming as soon as we can reach you."

Capt. Basch and a crew of five made the first attempt in the sixty horse power lifeboat. They endeavored to run directly from the station, diagonally across the bay formed by the two breakwaters. Waves were dashing ten and fifteen feet high and before the boat had struggled half way across the stretch of storm tossed water it was capsized.

It was here that Dipert lost his life. Capt. Basch and the others lashed themselves to the boat and were finally able to make the shore in safety.

A call for additional help was sent out, and Capt. William A. Preston of the Grand Haven coast guards, with a crew of six men, came to the scene. Their efforts to reach the Henry W. Cort in the rain, wind, and darkness also proved futile.

Feared All Lost in Dark.

The coast guard cutter Escanaba also was rushed to the disaster scene and for many hours attempted to maneuver close enough to the disabled boat to shoot a line aboard. The heavy sea, described by both Capt. Basch and Capt. Preston as "the worst we have seen in years," prevented this.

For a time lights had been seen in the forward cabin of the freighter, a semi-whaleback type, but as the night wore on they disappeared. For hours it was feared that all on board had been lost.

However, realizing the futility of risking more lives in the darkness and storm, the coast guards began making preparations for work at dawn. District Commander W. W. Bennett, his assistant, A. J. Wessel, Capt. Basch and Capt. Preston, conferred in the Muskegon station.

It was decided that as soon as daylight appeared Capt. Basch would lead a crew out over the long breakwater, which is formed of huge, irregularly shaped rocks, and over which gigantic waves were sweeping constantly.

Capt. Preston at the same time was to attempt to reach the vessel in a power boat from the inside.

It was scarcely light when Capt. Basch's men assembled at the shore end of the breakwater. On board the ship the marooned men had been waiting for daylight, knowing that further rescue attempts would be made.

They had managed to survive through the night by repairing a stove in the cabin which had been wrecked by the force of the impact against the breakwater, and thus saved themselves from freezing.

Relates Scene Aboard Wreck.

"We moved forward for fear the boilers might explode," Capt. Cox related. "We spent the night very comfortably. We had plenty of hot coffee and turkey and mince pie left over from Thanksgiving dinner. We could have held out for a week.

"Some of the boys tried to sing, but the howl of the wind carried their voices away. A few younger members of the crew went to bed. We weren't in a very easy frame of mind. But we knew the ship was firmly lodged on the rocks and that unless the wind changed she was not likely to break up.

"We knew the coast guardsmen would get us off. We rounded up some candles and lanterns after the lights went out, so our quarters were right snug."

Battle Way Over Rocks.

Hundreds of men and women lined the beach and the north breakwater as Capt. Basch's men lashed themselves to each other with rope, after the manner of mountain climbers. For nearly an hour they battled their way along, drenched by waves, losing footing on the slippery rocks, and being blinded by the sleet and snow. But they did traverse the mile distance over the treacherous footing until they came abreast of the Henry W. Cort.

There was a gap of water of some thirty feet between the sides of the freighter and the breakwater.

In the meantime, eyes of the spectators had also been turned on Capt. Preston and his crew in the power boat. Tossed by the waves and driven by the wind, the boat fought its way across the inlet and toward the end of the breakwater.

For a time it seemed that it would reach the goal, but a sudden blast of wind and wave hurled it back a hundred feet. Again it fought forward and was again hurled back. For three hours, while Capt. Bash's men were making their way along the slippery rocks and endeavoring to cast a line to the stranded vessel, Capt. Preston's crew fought to reach the breakwater's end, but in vain.

Then contact was made with the vessel by the men on the breakwater.

The first man to leave the boat was Henry Sutton, 67 years old, of Detroit, the cook. He climbed hand over hand, followed by another member of the crew.

All Reach Rocks in Two Hours.

The men on the freighter then improvised a sort of breeches-buoy with a block and tackle and a short length of wood. It was two hours before the last man had joined the survivors huddled on the wave swept rocks.

Twenty-five survivors, lashed together by rope, or aided by coast guardsmen, began the fight back to shore. In another hour the company had reached the shore.

At the beach the men were met by a corps from the Civilian Conservation camp at Muskegon park, and furnished with blankets to cover their drenched clothing, and containers of hot coffee.

They were then led a laborious mile and a half to the highway, where trucks were waiting to take them to the CCC camp.

Late yesterday the body of Dipert had not been recovered from the lake. The Henry W. Cort, still battered by the waves, seemed on the point of breaking up.

Another ship lost in the storm over the lakes was the 25-ton steel tug Lakeside III., which sank three miles northeast of the Detroit river. The boat, owned by Worthy R. Brown of Lakeside, and captained by Jack Metzo, was bound from Middle Bass Island for Detroit with a cargo of 2,000 gallons of grape juice.

25 RESCUED FROM FREIGHTER WRECKED AT MUSKEGON

GENTLE WINDS TODAY, WITH SNOW TONIGHT, FORECAST FOR CITY

Moderate winds are expected for Chicago this morning as a welcome relief from the gale which has whipped through the city's streets in the last two days. There will be snow or rain tonight according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. No decided change in temperature is expected.

The fierce winds, which blew 57 miles an hour Friday and reached a peak of 29 m.p.h. yesterday morning, began diminishing in intensity at nightfall. A dropping temperature, which set in shortly after noon, continued last night with the mercury reaching several points below the freezing mark. Motorists who forgot to take precautions found their cars stalled late in the evening.

More snow was promised for Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri and some far western states today as they were digging their way out of a blizzard which in many instances left a fall of 15 inches. By one of nature's quirks, New York, Boston, Washington, and other cities along the eastern seaboard enjoyed weather comparable to Florida, Bermuda and California.

MOTHER, 62, TO DIE FOR KILLING AN IMBECILE SON

"I Did It in Mercy," She Tells Court.

LEEDS, England, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. May Brownhill—62 years old, gray haired and frail—today was sentenced to be hanged for the "mercy murder" of her imbecile son.

A jury which needed only five minutes to find her guilty recommended that she be shown mercy.

Justice Goddard, who under English law had no alternative but to sentence her to death, told the jury its recommendation would be referred to the proper authorities, meaning the home office.

The judge, in charging the jury commented that the time may come "when there will be a law in this country that an imbecile may be sent to a merciful death."

Hears Verdict Stoically.

When the verdict of guilty with its recommendation of mercy was returned, Mrs. Brownhill heard it stoically, head erect.

Asked if she wished to address the court, she said:

"I did it in mercy."

Many in the courtroom wept.

Donning his black robe to impose the sentence of death, the judge said:

"We have to take the law as it is, always remembering that in other, higher hands, mercy may be extended. No person in this country has the right to take the life of any other human being because he or she thinks it would be better for him to die."

The woman, after 30 years spent nursing her son Denis, gave him 100 sedative tablets and turned on the gas when she learned she faced an operation which might cost her life. She feared that Denis, left alone, would suffer what a physician called a "veritable living death," it was testified.

Argues She Showed Devotion.

She showed no hate, Birkett argued, only undying devotion, and therefore he asked the jury "to arrest the law a little, do a little wrong in order to do a greater good."

Witnesses testified that the woman had put her son to death "painlessly" after a physician had told her she only had six months to live unless she underwent an operation. The next day she told her family doctor:

"I've just put Denis to sleep."

That was the answer she gave, too, when police charged her with malicious and wilful murder.

STEAL CLOTHING WORTH $3,000.

Burglars Friday night cut through window bars, jimmied a window, and stole clothing valued at $3,000 from the tailoring establishment of John T. Denvir & Son, 67 West Jackson boulevard. The theft was discovered yesterday morning.

BUILDING FALLS; 250,000 GALS. OF LIQUOR IN DEBRIS

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A new warehouse at the James E. Pepper distillery here collapsed in a tangled mass of ruins tonight, burying in the wreckage barrels containing 250,000 gallons of new whisky.

The warehouse was completed in October on the site of a structure which burned with a loss of $5,000,000 worth of rare old whisky. A night watchman was fatally injured in the fire.

The new building went down in two sections, one end collapsing exactly an hour after the first fell. It was impossible to determine how many barrels withstood the shock, but many were crushed, the ground was soaked and whisky was running off in streams.

J. W. Griffin, the watchman, two minutes before the crash had been standing with his hand against the wall. When he had walked fifty yards from the warehouse, he said he heard a crackling sound and turned in time to see half the building fall.

"It fell toward me," he said. "There was a terrific crash, like a dynamite blast."

No estimate of the loss was available in the absence of Fred Pauly, the manager. Schenley Distillers, Inc., of New York are owners of the plant.

35,000 ATTEND STOCK SHOW ON OPENING DAY

Judging Begins; Heavy Entries Delay Awards.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Thirty-five thousand farmers and city people turned the new amphitheater into a massive human hive at the opening yesterday of the thirty-fifth annual International Live Stock exposition at the Union Stockyards. The show is viewed as the farmers' answer to the drouth, Chicago's answer to the stockyards fire last May, and the nation's way of challenging a depression that has shocked the world.

Exhibitors were in their "anxious corners" all day as they waited for the judges to start their preliminary work of selecting from 12,500 cattle, horses, sheep and hogs the individuals that are to take their places in the royal animal family. Throughout the day exhibitors were busy "shampooing," combing, waving and braiding the coats and fleeces, manes and tails of animals that are being paraded before the judges.

Arena Crowded All Day.

From morning until night the oval shaped arena in the amphitheater was filled with animals and the persons taking part in the live stock judging events. Only a few of the judges had completed their work and were ready to announce the awards when the arena, 225 feet long and 100 feet wide, was cleared late yesterday afternoon for the night program.

Out in the pens in Union Stockyards judges were scoring the carlot entries of cattle and sheep, but few of them were ready to announce their awards when night came because of the unusually large number of animals to be handled.

In the native heavy carlot lamb class the Michigan State college, East Lansing, Mich., won first with a carload of lambs averaging 93 pounds each. William E. Scripps, Lake Orion, Mich., was second with his lambs, averaging 97 pounds, and The Tribune Auxiliary farm, Wheaton, Ill., was awarded third prize on its carload of lambs, averaging 105 pounds.

Canadian Scores Victory.

The grand champion carlot award on native lambs went to William J. Brodie, Stouffville, Ont., Canada. He also won first prize in the native light lamb class. His lambs were Southdown wethers and averaged 84 pounds each. Mr. Brodie won over native heavy lambs and over range light and heavy lambs.

Yesterday afternoon the judges announced their decisions in the noncollegiate live stock judging contest. Eighteen state teams, each composed of three young men, competed. First prize was awarded to the Minnesota state team, made up of Clifton Gustafson of Gonvick, Glenn Long of Clearbrook, and Delbert Darst of Bagley. In competition with a total of fifty-four men, Gustafson made the greatest number of points, scoring 555 out of a possible 600. Thomas Bust of Charlotte, Mich., made the second highest individual score with a total of 542 points. The North Dakota team won second; Ohio, third; South Dakota, fourth; Illinois, fifth; Indiana, sixth, and Wisconsin, seventh.

Study Hay and Grain Samples.

Judges began their long and tedious task of working over the 5,000 samples of this year's crops competing in the International Hay and Grain show. The hay and grain specimens are on display in the Hall of Grain on the second floor, immediately back of the seats in the amphitheater.

Old timers are impressed with the way international officials have preserved in the new amphitheater the order of the exhibits and the animal quarters—they find most of the show divisions arranged as they were in the old building which was destroyed by fire.

High Honor to Kansas City Man.

Late in the afternoon the judges announced that A. A. Schmidt of Kansas City, Mo., had won the grand championship on his 15 head of grain fed Aberdeen-Anguses in the carlot fat steer class. He won this high honor in competition with other breeds after having received the championship prize for the best carload of the Aberdeen-Angus breed.

C. W. Hevener of Franklin, Neb., won the championship in the carlot fat steer Shorthorn class. The championship award in the Hereford fat steer carlot class went to Henry Harmsen of Teeds Grove, Ia.

(A report of the horse show, held in conjunction with the live stock show in the stock yards amphitheater, will be found on the sports pages.)

MRS. COW GETS WAVE AND HORN MANICURE AT A BARGAIN RATE

Want your hair shampooed, your "wave" set, your horns polished or your hoofs manicured, Mister or Mistress Cow?

If so, you can have it done at bargain rates this week at the stock yards, for at every turn of the stairways in the new yards pavilion is a businesslike beauty parlor for bovines.

Steam from rubber hose clouds the air and the mingled scent of disinfectant and yellow laundry soap daunts the nostrils, but the bluebloods, trained as they are to relish beauty, stand patiently by through it all while the beauticians, garbed in overalls and high rubber boots, set about their work of an hour and a half.

First, hot water for a dirty coat. Next a lather of soap. Then a rubber squeejee to scrape it off, a curry comb to straighten it out and finally a deft "finger" wave to fluff it up again.

Then an iron file for roughened horns, sandpaper for the edges and chamois for a fine polish. For the hoofs, the same.

Finally, for the tail, if it is tipped with white, a touch of blueing water, and a half hour of fluffing and brushing.

Jury Finds Junk Dealer Guilty of Being 'Fence'

Morris Zaransky, 42 years old, owner of a junk yard at 5825 South State street, was found guilty of receiving stolen property by a jury yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewe. He faces a sentence of one to 10 years in prison. Nathan Cohen, 23 years old, Joseph Winslow, 20, and Arthur Vanheulen, 21, said they turned over to Zaransky $150 worth of rags and $500 in metals which they had stolen. They face sentences, having pleading guilty to burglary.

Harvey Firestone Jr. Sails to Visit Liberia

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Harvey S. Firestone Jr., vice president of the Firestone Rubber company, sailed today on the Italian liner Rex, with Mrs. Firestone to inspect the company's rubber plantations in Liberia. The plantation comprises more than one million acres, 55,000 of which will be ready for the first tapping this year.

MICHAEL CROTTY, EX-POLICEMAN, IS FATALLY INJURED

Michael J. Crotty, 79 years old, a retired Chicago police lieutenant who lived at 7935 South Union avenue, died in St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond yesterday a short while after he had been struck by a Monon railroad passenger locomotive near Sibley street in Hammond.

MICHAEL J. CROTTY

A son, John, of 7236 South Michigan avenue, juvenile officer of Kensington police, said when notified of the accident, that his father had been visiting a daughter, Mrs. Mary Golden, in Hammond.

Lieut. Crotty was born in Detroit, Mich., moving here to become a member of the Chicago police force in August, 1889. He was made a sergeant March 24, 1904, and a lieutenant a year later. He retired from service March 4, 1924.

QUARRELS WITH WIFE AND SHOOTS TWO CHILDREN

Indiana, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Heber Westover, 28, today sent four rifle bullets into the bodies of his two children, Wendell, two year old cripple, and Charles, four months.

Bickering with his wife and knowledge that if he left her she would get the children, caused him to shoot, Westover told Police Chief William J. Kelley, to whom he surrendered.

The children are not expected to live.

Los Angeles Police Rout Striking Street Car Men

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tear gas bombs exploded again today in downtown Los Angeles as police broke up another demonstration by striking street car trainmen and sympathizers. Even as federal mediators reported "progress" in negotiations to end the walkout, police rushed to a street corner when fifty men congregated in a "booing" demonstration at street cars passing the busy intersection.

ILLINOIS GIRL'S BABY BEEF IS 4-H GRAND CHAMPION

Nation's Farm Youth Vies for Feeding Honors.

The farm boys and girls of America held the center of interest yesterday at the International Live Stock exposition as they opened their 13th national Boys and Girls 4-H Club congress with a junior live stock feeding contest in the new amphitheater at the stockyards.

From noon until night the young farmers-to-be, parading into, around, and out of the judging ring with the baby beeves, pigs, and lambs that they have raised within the last year, held the attention of the thousands of breeders gathered for the stock show.

An Illinois farm girl 11 years old, an Indiana schoolboy and a New York college girl were awarded prizes which made them grand champion exhibitors of the afternoon, with their respective Aberdeen-Angus steer, Duroc-Jersey barrow and pen of Southdown lambs.

Baby Beef Winner Named.

Twice during the last seven years the grand champions of the entire stock show have been those bred by 4-H members.

"Snookums," the sleek black coated 1,188 pound Aberdeen-Angus steer of Mary Kinsinger, 11 years old, of Chenoa, Ill., was adjudged grand champion of the baby beef class, and "Rastus," the equally black Aberdeen-Angus of Wendell Morgan of Aledo, Ill., was chosen reserve champion. The two will compete Tuesday with the steers of veteran breeders for the international championship.

For the second successive year, Eugene Moore, 12 years old, of Wolcott, Ind., has entered a Duroc-Jersey barrow, "New Deal" by name, which has been adjudged winner in the junior swine feeding contest.

Honor 2 for Achievements.

Of paramount interest to 4-H members was the announcement yesterday that William Kiesel Jr., 20 years old, of Pryor, Okla., and Mary E. Wien, 17 years old, of Lafayette, Ind., were the winners of the national 4-H achievement awards. The two will be awarded the President Roosevelt achievement cup.

Floyd S. Amsler, 19 years old, of Rensselaer, Ind., and Nellie L. Appling, 18 years old, of Atlanta, Ga., were named as national boy and girl leadership champions.

One change has been made in the week's program of 4-H entertainment and education, it was announced. Instead of holding a contest for the healthiest boy and girl in America, 4-H officials plan to distribute blue ribbons to the 12 healthiest 4-H members attending the congress. This change was necessitated, officials said, by the country-wide protests in regard to the former manner of selection.

Open Fantail Show

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Proud as peacocks, some 350 pigeons strutted before members of the Central Fantail Club of America yesterday as their eighth annual show opened in the Hotel Sherman. Known as "fantails" because of their luxuriant tail feathers, which spread in fan shape over their backs, these birds displayed wide variations of color in their carefully preened feathers. They will be viewed by judges today and prizes will be awarded for the finest birds and best types in 52 classes. More than 300 hundred years ago, the first fantails were brought from Calcutta, India, to England and Scotland, where they were carefully segregated to produce the finest strains.

MISSING TEACHER FOUND.

Maryville, Mo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Miss Marjorie Penisten, missing Maryville rural school teacher, was found working in a St. Joseph, Mo., restaurant, police announced today. They said the girl told them she left home because of trouble in the family. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Penisten here, and had been missing a week.

EGYPT SHAKES UP GOVERNMENT IN 'NEW DEAL' PLAN

Old Constitution Ended, Parliament Ousted.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Egypt, land of the Nile, entered today upon a new constitutional era following a royal decree abolishing the present constitution and dissolving parliament, and gave its attention to the formation of a "new deal."

The decree, recently prepared by Nesshim Pasha, the new premier, and the cabinet delegated all legislative, executive, and other powers previously vested in parliament to King Fuad until the new constitution, which will be more liberal in type, is drafted. The decree was promulgated yesterday.

Control of Ibrashi Cut.

A general clean up of the government, made on British advice, has greatly curtailed the control of Ibrashi Pasha, reputed power behind the throne of King Fuad, and paved the way for the new constitution.

Ahmed Ziwar Pasha, veteran statesman, was named chief of the royal cabinet, a post long unfilled. The political cabinet was completely overhauled, with Tewfik Nesshim Pasha replacing Yehia Pasha as prime minister.

Claims King Too Powerful.

Nesshim Pasha, assuming office immediately, demanded removal of the 1930 constitution because he said the king had too much power. He succeeded in his efforts after Ziwar Pasha had conferred with King Fuad.

Nesshim Pasha was prime minister in 1920 and 1921 and again in 1922-'23. Once he had a narrow escape when a bomb was thrown by radicals at his automobile. At that time he had earned the hatred of radical elements by his coöperation with the British.

FRANCE REFUSES TO JOIN JAPS TO VOID NAVAL PACT

Italy Ponders Plan; Fears Tokio Trade Threat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 1.—Ambassador Fernand Pila of France called on Foreign Minister Koki Hirota today and rejected the recent Japanese proposal for joint abrogation of the Washington naval pact of 1922. He explained that the French cabinet had studied the matter and had concluded that while France is not satisfied with the present ratio, it is not in a position to take joint action at present.

The ambassador asked Japan to give careful consideration to the French position in Europe and not to take the refusal harshly.

It is understood that Japan expects a refusal from Italy next week, after which it will submit its notification at Washington. Consequently, it is expected that the Washington pact will be abrogated within a fortnight.

Italy Studies Trade Threat.

ROME, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Japan's threatened expansion into African territories where Italy has extensive colonization, it was revealed tonight, is being carefully considered in connection with Japan's invitation to join it in denouncing the Washington naval treaty. A government spokesman said Italy was not yet ready to reply to the Japanese invitation. In its eventual reply, however, Italy is expected to reject the Japanese proposal.

"In the far east," he said, "the political situation tends to get worse. In the face of the complexity and importance of European interests in this region of the world Japan, for the first time in history, offers the example of a people of 80,000,000 inhabitants extraordinarily developed economically, industrially, and in a military way.

"The birth rate, energy and spirit of sacrifice of the Japanese, the imperious necessity for always seeking new markets, all these combine to make Japan a very great danger for Europe. Its pretensions and its force are the axle around which turns all oriental policy.

Cites Abyssinia As Example.

"The more one restrains the Japanese expansion in the east, the more it will try to expand in other sectors and in other continents, as is proved already by Japan's activity in Abyssinia.

"To draw the black continent into its own orbit would signify for Japan not so much an acquisition of power as a means of depriving Europe of the possibility of using it for the defense of its civilization."

Lessona's address was regarded as explaining why Italy has sent heavy military reinforcements in recent months to its colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland. Recurrent rumors that Premier Mussolini was planning an expedition into Abyssinia have been specifically denied by the Italian and Abyssinia governments in a joint communique.

U. S. and Britain Protest Again.

TOKIO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain today for the third time in five months had concertedly notified the Japanese government of their objection to the Manchukuo oil monopoly. Sir Robert Clive, the British ambassador, gave a note on the subject to Foreign Minister Hirota on Nov. 24. Ambassador Joseph C. Grew of the United States delivered a similar note to the foreign minister's residence this week-end.

The British note, which was vigorously worded, reasserted Great Britain's contention that the monopoly violates the nine power treaty guaranteeing the open door of China and insisted that Japan cannot escape responsibility for the actions of Manchukuo.

A high Japanese official said the latest diplomatic moves have not shaken Japan's refusal to admit responsibility for the actions in Manchukuo.

"We cannot admit any contention," he said, "which ignores the independence of Manchukuo."

Plans for three new Manchurian railways, two of them strategically important through carrying the Japanese controled rail system closer to the soviet frontiers, were announced today by the Manchukuo legation here. The new lines will run from Solun to Wenchuan, near the Mongolian border, 93 miles; from Lishoukuo to Mishan, north to Pogranitchnaya, 112 miles, and from Supingkia to Hsian, south to Hsinking, 50 miles.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BEIRUT, Syria, Dec. 1.—Thirteen persons were killed and eleven seriously injured here today by an explosion in a customs house explosives' shed. The roof collapsed, burying more than thirty persons including French and Syrian customs officials and laborers in the debris. The cause of the disaster is believed by some to have been due to the accidental explosion of a tank of chemicals. Others profess to see in it political reasons.

REPORTER FINDS QUINTUPLETS ARE TRULY FEMININE

They Hold Own Bottles and Crave Attention.

CALLANDAR, Ont., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets had a "press conference" today, but refused to take it seriously.

William Dunsday of the North Bay Nugget, first newspaper man to witness a day's routine at the Dionnes' hospital-home here, found instead that Yvonne, the heavyweight of the five, would rather play than eat and that her sisters already have invented a sweater pulling game.

And the babies are thoroughly feminine, he said.

"All five were quite capable of handling their own bottles," said Dunsday in describing meal time at Dr. A. R. Dafoe's hospital, "but like all the feminine sex, craved attention. So at times the nurses had to hold one bottle in each hand, with the doctor attending to the baby in the center row, Cecile.

Cecile Finishes First.

"It was Cecile who was first through with her bottle. Dr. Dafoe brought her over to the window where I stood. Her big brown eyes glistened with delight and she smiled and reached for the doctor's spectacles.

"All five babies seemed magnetically attracted to Dr. Dafoe, and although they all would take an odd glance through the window, they soon turned their becoming little faces back to him. He would shake his head or make a face and invariably they would follow suit—as cute an act as you could wish to see."

After luncheon the babies were bundled up for their siesta in the cool air of the hospital veranda, and tucked in peaked sleeping bags that "made the mites appear as little clowns as they were placed in their carriages," said Dunsday.

Yvonne Frisky.

It was during this process that a nurse "noticed how frisky Yvonne was and recalled that the heavyweight champion of the group had not taken her full measure of nourishment."

"So out came Miss Yvonne from her comfortable resting place," Dunsday related, "and Nurse Mullins offered her the remainder of the bottle. The little one seemed aware she was being watched and chose to play with the bottle instead of taking the milk.

"Nurse Mullins was not to be fooled and so over Yvonne's eyes went a covering. She didn't appear to like it, but soon she was taking the nourishment in great style.

"In the meantime Emilie and Cecile decided to have a sweater pulling match until finally Cecile became too tired to bother. Soon all five were asleep."

Dunsday noted also the precautions taken to prevent a mixup of quintuplets. Each baby's new perambulator bears her name as well as a ribbon which corresponds to the main blanket over the child, he reported.

The facial features of Marie and Emilie "are not quite as fully developed as their sisters," he added, but the lightest of the infants are "as sharp, bright, and pretty babies as ever were formed."

U. S. AND BRITAIN HOLD KEY TO WORLD PEACE, ENVOY BINGHAM SAYS

LONDON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—America and Great Britain working together could safeguard the peace of the world, United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham says in an interview to be published tomorrow in the Observer. The two nations, he asserts, could provide the answer for any outstanding international situation that might arise.

Ambassador Bingham, described by the newspaper as "an intimate friend of President Roosevelt who can speak with firm assurance on the present nature of the American diplomatic outlook," is to be quoted as saying:

"If the British empire and the United States were agreed on the solution of any problem in diplomacy, that problem would no longer exist, for there is no combination of influences that could challenge its decisiveness."

DUCE LOPS 6 MOS. OFF COMPULSORY SERVICE IN ARMY

ROME, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today lopped six months off the 18 months' compulsory military service for Italy's young men, but simultaneously warned them that henceforth there will be no exemptions.

Army officials said the reduction, which will begin in January for some branches of the service, could be carried out without endangering the effectiveness of the Italian army. This, they said, is due to the intensive military training now being given boys of pre-military age under Premier Mussolini's program to make Italy "a military nation."

U. S. Envoy to Russia Sails from Japan for Seattle

TOKIO, Dec. 1. — (AP) — William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to Russia, sailed from Yokohama today for Seattle on the liner President McKinley, en route home for the holidays. He has just concluded a five weeks' tour of Japan and China.

SWANSON URGES AMERICAN NAVY SECOND TO NONE

Declares U. S. Is Short of Officers and Men.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Special.]—Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy, says that although the United States may reduce its naval strength proportionately with other powers, it is imperative that a navy second to none be maintained, in his annual report to the President for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934. He warns also of the dangerous shortage of personnel in the navy, saying that "ships are valueless unless manned by adequate crews of trained and experienced officers and men."

Secretary Swanson's report cites the fine records made during the year by the various branches of the service, with high praise for the air service, of which he says: "I believe firmly that under our present system our naval aviation is second to none in the world in efficiency, and I am strongly of the opinion that any radical changes, such as a united air service, would be a serious mistake."

Definite Policy to Build.

"The year ended June 30, 1934," Secretary Swanson says, "has been made notable by the adoption of a definite policy to build up our navy to the strength permitted by the treaties of naval limitation to which this country is a party. Most important in this respect was the passage by the congress and the approval by the President of the Trammell-Vinson act, which established the strength of the navy and auhorized the construction of vessels and aircraft to bring the navy to the prescribed strength, and to replace overage ships now in use in those categories.

"It is to be hoped," he says, "that the congress will continue to appropriate the necessary funds from year to year for the replacement of these vessels. That action would be necessary to maintain the strength of the navy at the limit prescribed by the treaties, in the most economical and orderly way, as recommended in my previous annual report."

The total amount spent by the navy from its regular appropriation during the fiscal year 1934 was $279,720,366. In addition to this, $37,057,704.94 of NRA and emergency construction funds were spent on the navy. For the current fiscal year the amounts are estimated at $337,749,022 and $165,528,729.97, respectively.

92 Ships Under Treaty Categories.

Figures cited in the report show the United States to have had, on July 1, 92 ships of treaty categories built and under age on Dec. 31, 1933, while Great Britain had 139 and Japan 165. The respective total tonnages are 766,465,989,889 and 654,425.

The United States also had, as of that date, 68 ships building or appropriated for, totaling 234,000 tons. Great Britain had 62, amounting to 171,410 tons, and the Japanese had 45, amounting to 124,696 tons. The United States still had the right, under the treaties, to lay down 78 more ships, aggregating 136,975 tons, before Dec. 31, 1936. Great Britain was entitled to 44 ships, with an aggregate tonnage of 132,963, and Japan to one destroyer of 1,500 tons, to replace the Miyuki, lost at sea about July 1.

SEES NAVAL PARLEY FAIL

The London naval conference next year probably will "go up in smoke" largely through unwillingness of the United States to make further disastrous sacrifices in armament, Congressman Fred A. Britten [Rep.] of the Ninth district, declared yesterday. Conversations on arms limitation are now being held in London by representatives of this country, Great Britain, and Japan.

Congressman Britten formerly was chairman of the house naval affairs committee. He was defeated at the last election by James McAndrews of Chicago, a Democrat.

"On advice of Lord Balfour and others who promoted the Washington conference in 1922," Congressman Britten said, "we endeavored to curtail naval expense by scrapping our great fleet of first line ships. We showed the way, but no one followed. On the contrary, every first class power on earth did just the reverse. They hastily built big first line cruisers, of which we had few.

"The United States soon ranked third in modern sea power among the nations of the world. The London treaty forced us to six inch gun cruisers, while our best interests demanded larger guns. Now that it is apparent the London and Washington treaties are to be scrapped, I suggest that all our six inch gun cruisers under construction be altered immediately to mount eight inch guns and that all future warships be constructed along lines adapted to American use. The six inch gun is British, not American."

The Japanese government has a thirty year plan of conquest, Congressman Britten declared, to make that nation the complete mistress of the western Pacific and Indian oceans. The Philippines and the British, French, and Dutch East Indies are all included in the plan, he said.

FRENCH CHAMBER PASSES 3 BILLION BUDGET FOR 1935

Premier Flandin Wins Big Vote of Confidence.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies today as he pushed the 1935 budget of 47,573,000,000 francs [about $3,092,245,000] to passage.

The vote of confidence, 457 to 120, came after the premier had asked a secret appropriation of 3,700,000 francs "to ensure peace at home."

The secret fund, part of which will go to French newspapers, will be devoted to securing peace in the interior of France, the premier said. "Just as secret funds in national defense [used for espionage and counter-espionage] were voted to secure international peace."

$790,000,000 War Chest.

The vote of passage on the entire budget was by a show of hands.

The budget carries with it 12,000,000,000 francs [$790,000,000] for the French war chest.

A French bid for preservation of the status quo in the Saar was made, meanwhile, by Foreign Minister Pierre Laval when he tacitly promised the Saarlanders that France will not oppose the region's eventual return to Germany if the voters want to wait for the end of the Hitler régime.

Laval told the chamber of deputies that the government would not offer opposition if the league of nations council decided to give the Saar to Germany later on in event the region votes to remain under league of nations jurisdiction at the plebiscite Jan. 13.

Leon Blum, Socialist leader, bitterly assailed Hitlerism at today's session, asserting a "moral quarantine" should be established against the Nazis, but urged direct conversations with Germany in the ends of peace.

"We should reach out to clasp any hand stretched toward us, even hands of blood," Blum said.

Nazi Envoy Returns Home.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal emissary, who was in the galleries yesterday when Laval urged Germany to enter the proposed eastern Locarno security pact, left for home today.

Deputy Franklin-Bouillon last night accused Robert Monnier, municipal councilman, of being an informer and an accomplice of a notorious spy in connection with the announced disposition of French veterans to negotiate privately with German veterans. Today Monnier asked a veterans publication to name a "jury of honor" to consider the controversy. A duel seemed likely.

PHILIPPINES GET WARNING NEW TYPHOON IS NEAR

MANILA, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Another typhoon neared the Island of Samar tonight as the central Philippines counted sixty dead or missing in Thursday's tempest, sixth of a series of hurricanes which have caused more than 300 deaths in less than three months.

With hundreds of flimsy native shacks still flattened by winds that roared across the islands toward the China coast, belated dispatches reported ten dead fishermen were flung ashore on Antique island, which reported twenty-one others missing. From various central provinces came reports of twenty-four dead or missing.

Warnings went up on Samar, easternmost of the central islands of the archipelago, of another tempest forming in the Pacific, breeding place of tropical typhoons. The cycle of storms began Sept. 6. More than 200 persons were killed in four subsequent disturbances.

HOLD 2 LINKED TO GANG IN $85,600 ALLIANCE HOLDUP

Two men, identified as members of the gang which robbed the Polish National alliance, 1406 West Division street, of $84,000 in securities and $1,600 in cash on April 16, were held at the detective bureau last night. They will be viewed at the showup today by victims of other robberies, several of whom have already added their identifications.

The men are William Kleats, 24 years old, 4822 South Springfield avenue, and Peter Jakstavich, 34 years old, 4520 South Spaulding avenue. They were arrested Friday when Sergts. William Clancy and Edwin O'Malley led a squad to the attic of Kleats' home.

Miss Frances Meslowski, cashier of the alliance, identified both men. Kleats admitted his guilt, but Jakstavich denied any knowledege of the robbery. Three other men are serving prison sentences for their part in the robbery.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A terrific rain and wind storm out of the southern seas today had brought death to at least eight persons and caused property damage of more than $1,225,000. The storm was described as the worst ever to visit this part of the island continent. Latest estimates place more than 2,000 homeless.

To Chicago Good Fellows

Original Good Fellow Letter Printed in The Tribune Dec. 10, 1909—Campaign Again Open

My dear Friend —

Last Christmas and New Year's eve you and I went out for a good time and spent from $10 to $200. Last Christmas morning over five thousand children awoke to an empty stocking—the bitter pain of disappointment that Santa Claus had forgotten them. Perhaps it wa n't our fault. We had provided for our own; we had also reflected in a passing way on those less fortunate than our-own, but they seemed far away and we didn't know where to find them. Perhaps in the hundred and one things we had to do some of us didn't think of that heart sorrow of the child over an empty stocking.

Now, old man, here's a chance. I've tried it for the last five years and ask you to consider it. Just send your name and address to THE TRIBUNE—address Santa Claus—state how many children you are willing to provide against grief over an empty stocking, inclose a 2 cent stamp, and you will be furnished with the names, addresses, sex, and age of that many children. It is then up to you; you do the rest, select your own presents, spend 50 cents or $50, and send or take your gifts to those children on Christmas eve. You pay not one cent more than you want to pay—every cent just where you want it to go. You gain neither notoriety nor advertising; you deal with no organization. No record will be kept; your letter will be returned to you with its answer. The whole plan is just as anonymous as Santa Claus himself.

This is not a newspaper scheme. THE TRIBUNE was asked to aid in reaching the Good Fellows by publishing this suggestion, and to receive your communication, in order that you may be assured of good faith, and to preserve the anonymous character of this work. The identity of the writer of this appeal will not be disclosed. He assumes the responsibility of finding the children and sending you to their homes, and guarantees that whatever you bestow will be deserved.

Neither you nor I get anything out of this except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning. If that is not enough for you, then you have wasted your time in reading this—it is not intended for you, but for the Good Fellows of Chicago.

Perhaps a 25-cent doll or a 10-cent toy wouldn't mean much to the children you know, but to the poor child these in an otherwise empty stocking mean much—the difference between utter disappointment and the joy that Santa Claus did not forget. Here is where you and I get in. The charitable organizations attend to the bread and the meat, the clothes, the necessaries; you and the rest of the Good Fellows furnish the toys, the nuts, the candies—the children's real Christmas.

Sincerely

Good Fellow

Girl Dies of Burns in Blast That Killed Her Mother

An explosion in their home Nov. 14 which caused the death of Mrs. Antoinette Cozzi, 33 years old, 1119 South Mozart street, yesterday proved fatal to her 11 year old daughter, Elsie, who died at Mount Sinai hospital. A can of benzine placed on the kitchen stove exploded. Flames ignited the dress of Mrs. Cozzi and spread to her daughter's clothing when Elsie attempted to save her. Mrs. Cozzi's sons, Albert, 10 years old, and Orlan, 5 years old, were singed by the blast. Their father, Adama, was at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn.

Mr. Hough is president of the Drama league.

SHILOH STANDS AS MONUMENT TO WAR HEROES

Blood of 19,000 Hallows Quiet Meadow.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shiloh National Military Park, Tenn., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—There is a hushed rustle of dry leaves stirred by the unseen hands of a breeze. The soft peep of a song sparrow seems as if muffled.

These are woods and meadows hallowed by the blood of 19,000 casualties in the first such deadly engagement of the civil war. The south lost 1,728 killed and 8,012 wounded in two days of fighting here in 1862, and the north lost 1,754 killed and 8,408 wounded. There were 20,910 Illinois soldiers in the field and at the end of the second day 753 were dead and 3,189 were wounded.

Figures Are Humanized.

Read in school histories, these are just so many statistics. Contemplated on the field of action, the numerals become human beings, Americans, looking alike and talking the same language, hit by hot lead or cut by cold steel, dropped while fighting, fighting hard, fighting for a cause or fighting in disciplined response to command, but fighting.

THE TRIBUNE roadster arrived here today on its tour of historical places of the south en route to the winter resorts of Florida. This place is not frequented at this time of the year because Mississippi roads don't encourage travel. The main tourist route leaves Nashville, Tenn., over U. S. 41 for Chattanooga, Tenn. However, there is good pavement the 170 miles northeast from here to Nashville.

Awaits Buell's Arrival.

This tour yesterday left Gen. U. S. Grant of Galena, Ill., after his capture of Fort Donelson northwest of Nashville. After the fort fell, he entered the Tennessee capital and, for doing so, his jealous ranking officer back in St. Louis, Gen. W. H. Halleck, ordered Grant to remain at Fort Henry while the army advanced up the Tennessee river to Pittsburg Landing under Gen. C. F. Smith. The objective was Corinth, Miss., a railroad town about 18 miles farther south.

Grant rejoined his command March 17. He left the troops camped much as they were and made his headquarters in Savannah, Tenn., a village about ten miles north of Pittsburg Landing. There in a two story colonial mansion of the Cherry family, which still stands on a bluff overlooking the river, he waited for the arrival of Gen. Don Carlos Buell with another Union army.

Pavement Follows Route.

On the night of April 4, Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston marched north from Corinth with 43,968 confederates, about 4,000 more men than in the Union camp. A winding concrete pavement, Miss. 2 and Tenn. 22, follows the course of this old muddy road.

Plaques show where the grey army rested in the woods waiting for morning. They were so close to the Union outposts, less than half a mile, that northern generals often are criticized for being surprised by the enemy.

At 4:55 a. m., at the first traces of dawn, the attack opened. Cannon were captured, recaptured, and captured again with heavy losses on both sides. Infantry attacks were repulsed, renewed, repulsed, and renewed again, leaving dead and wounded in blue and in gray.

Grant, when he heard the firing, steamed up the river. On his arrival Union soldiers were lost from their commands. They had been beaten back from their camps on the hills.

Gen. Johnston was fatally wounded about 2:30 p. m. Some students say his death saved the Union army.

Darkness caused the firing to cease. The night brought reinforcements to the Union. Gen. Lewis Wallace made a belated arrival with a division of reserves. Gen. Buell moved 17,919 men into the field. James A. Garfield, later President, was in this number as a brigade commander.

With a total of 66,812 men the Union in the morning took the aggressive and there was another day of deadly combat, the confederates contesting every foot of the ground they were losing. As dusk approached the secessionists retired from the field and returned to Corinth. Both armies were badly beaten, although Grant won the field.

Monuments to their dead have been erected by states of the north and states of the south. Metal placques locate the position of individual regiments and divisions in various stages of the engagement.

Visitors from the north and from the south, about 80,000 a year, come here to pay their respects to valor, to sacrifice, in this 3,600 acre national park. The woods and small meadows on these gentle hills beside the Tennessee river are scenic, but one does not visit a cemetery to enjoy scenery. This is a cemetery of the great.

NETHERLANDS ENTER AIR LINE COMPETITION IN SOUTH ATLANTIC

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Entering the air field of the south Atlantic, where the French and the Germans are contending for South American trade, the Netherlands, through the Royal Dutch Air lines, K. L. M., will establish service by way of the Cape Verde islands and Paramaribo to Curacao in Dutch Guiana, it was disclosed here today. The first flight will leave Amsterdam on Dec. 15 or 16 in a Fokker XVIII. plane, carrying mail and a crew of four.

It was the intention of the air line to make the first flight to the Dutch West Indies last July in celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of its colony there. But heavy trafic on the lines in Europe and to the East Indies made it inadvisable to withdraw equipment then for the purpose. There was delay also in the delivery of several large aircraft.

The plane which will make the inaugural flight and will then be fitted for regular passenger service is called the Snipe and is expected to cruise at 144 miles an hour.

FEDERAL JUDGE SURRENDERS SON IN SLAYING CASE

Youth Admits Killing; Pleads Self-Defense.

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Surrendered by his father, who is a federal judge, Phillip Kennamer, 19, was held tonight under a formal charge of murder for the Thanksgiving day slaying of John Gorrell, 23, a dental student and son of a well known Tulsa physician.

Tears filled the eyes of United States District Judge Franklin E. Kennamer when he turned his son over to police. The jurist has been on the federal bench here since the district was created in 1925.

Study Extortion Report.

"I never dreamed that such a thing could happen," the judge said. "I always had tried to teach my boy never to touch the hair of any man's head unless it was a life and death struggle."

County Attorney Holly Anderson said young Kennamer confessed he shot Gorrell in self-defense because he "had to do it." Police were investigating a report that Gorrell was involved in an attempt to extort $20,000 from the father of Virginia Wilcox, 20, an intimate friend of Kennamer. In this connection they arrested Wade Thomas, operator of a sandwich shop, for questioning.

Gorrell's body, shot twice in the head, was found in his motor car here Thursday night. A police criminologist asserted it would have been impossible for the young man to have shot himself. A pistol with which he was apparently shot had been wiped clean of fingerprints and restored to a holster in the rear seat of the car.

Pilot Tells of Letter.

The extortion angle of the case was revealed by the story of Floyd J. Huff, Kansas City airplane pilot, who also told police in his home city that Kennamer confided to him he once intended to kill Gorrell by knocking him unconscious in a flying plane and then bailing out.

Huff said he understood from Kennamer's remarks that Gorrell had given the judge's son a letter to mail to Virginia Wilcox's father, H. F. Wilcox, wealthy oil man. Kennamer opened the letter, the pilot said, and discovered it contained an extortion demand and threats against Wilcox and his daughter.

Huff quoted Kennamer as saying the information revealed by the letter was one of his reasons for wanting to kill Gorrell. The pilot said the youth told him about the incident while they rode in an automobile from Kansas City to Tulsa on the night of Nov. 22.

Displays Dagger and Gloves.

During the trip Kennamer disclosed that he had come to Kansas City to kill Gorrell, the pilot said. In proof of his statement, Kennamer opened a suitcase and displayed a dagger and a pair of rubber gloves, Huff related.

It was said unofficially that Judge Kennamer has possession of the extortion letter, which never was delivered to Wilcox. The jurist declined to comment on that phase of the case. Neither did the police disclose the reason for seizing the sandwich shop owner.

Richard Oliver, 20, a roommate of Gorrell's at Kansas City where the latter was attending a dental college, was also questioned.

WOMAN, TWO MEN DIE IN TRAIN-AUTO CRASH

A woman and two men were killed last night when a train on the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railway crashed into an auto at 59th street and Harlem avenue. The picture, made after the wreckage had been removed from the tracks, shows how a side of the auto was torn out.

Three Killed When Train Hits Auto on Harlem Ave.

Two men and a young woman were killed late last night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a freight train on the Indiana Harbor Belt line at 59th street and Harlem avenue. Two girls and another youth in the automobile escaped with slight injuries.

One of the men killed was identified as Edward Marshall, 21 years old, 4106 South Albany avenue. The other man who lost his life is believed to have been Henry Dzwiecki, 21 years old, 4189 South Hoyne avenue. The body of the girl killed, still unidentified, was taken to the Sobiesk undertaking room in Summit.

Marshall's wife, only slightly hurt but so dazed she was unable to tell a coherent story, said that she did not know the man supposed to be Dzwiecki except as Heinie. The clew to his identity was furnished by relatives of Edwin Paholski, 24 years old, 4717 South Hoyne avenue. They reported that Paholski, who left the scene after the accident, had arrived home injured and named Dzwiecki as one of his companions on the ride. He did not know, it was added, the girl who was with Dzwiecki.

Club Woman's Inquest Delayed.

An inquest opened yesterday into the death of Mrs. Katherine Caldwell, 65 years old, Chicago clubwoman fatally injured Friday night at Bryn Mawr and Elston avenues when she was struck by an automobile, was continued to Dec. 12 for further investigation.

Mrs. Caldwell, the widow of Dr. Charles E. Caldwell, former Chicago physician, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital a few minutes after she was taken there. John Hallmark, 43 years old, 6138 Newburg avenue, driver of the automobile which struck her, was released pending resumption of the inquest. Mrs. Caldwell lived with a son at 5544 Linder avenue.

The three deaths in the train crash, that of Mrs. Caldwell and four others raised the 1934 Cook county trafic toll to 1,157. The other victims:

Toy Ying Kon, 75 years old, 212 West Cermak road, a Chinese. Died at the Peoples hospital. Struck by truck near home Nov. 18. Driver of truck, Harry Randall, 5129 University avenue, ordered to attend inquest tomorrow.

Porter Payne, 62 years old, 6428 North Nordica street. Died in the Evangelical Deaconness hospital. Injured Thursday in front of 1503 Roosevelt road by auto driven by Mrs. Anna Carter of 2722 Maypole avenue.

Thomas Forsythe, 65 years old, 8342 Dante avenue. Struck by a hit and run motorist last night while crossing Stony Island avenue at 84th street.

Thomas Thorson, 68 years old, 1416 East 55th street. Died at the Woodlawn hospital last night shortly after he was struck at Cottage Grove avenue and 87th street by a car driven by Andrew Conlon, 41 years old, 10203 South Peoria street.

Hit by Truck; Dies.

Victor Adamiski, 60 years old, a roomer at the Brooks house, Hammond, died early yesterday at St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond of injuries incurred Friday night when he was struck by a truck at Wentworth avenue and Bernice road, Lansing. Emil C. Frey, 18230 South West street, Lansing, the driver, was held for the inquest.

Carl C. Campbell, 36 years old, 1936 North Clark street, an examiner in the closed bank division of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was found dead of a crushed chest beside his overturned automobile near Logansport, Ind., early yesterday. Campbell had left Chicago Friday to visit his father, Claude, in Kokomo, Ind.

John Jacob Eckfeldt, 57 years old, superintendent of the Railway Steel Spring company of Chicago Heights, died in Massillon, O., Friday night of a broken neck incurred in an automobile accident near there Wednesday, according to word received here. Eckfeldt's daughter, who was riding with him, escaped injury. The body was taken to Ligonier, Pa., for burial.

NEW DEPRESSION ON WAY, WARNS HARVARD EXPERT

Collapse Is Due in 1940, Professors Told.

The United States may expect to "go over the precipice" in a crash similar to that of 1929, brought on by inflation, some time betwen 1940 and 1945, Prof. S. H. Slichter, Harvard economist, declared yesterday before the American Association of University Professors, meeting at the Stevens hotel.

Prof. Slichter's warning on inflation came in the course of his report on the economic status of his profession. While college professors, because of the slowness with which their salaries are adjusted to rising living costs, would be the class worst hit personally by inflation, he envisioned an even more dangerous state in the fact that inflation would force the universities to seek federal subventions, with consequent sacrifice of academic freedom.

"Danger Growing Swiftly."

"Although the danger of extreme inflation has probably been exaggerated by a few alarmists, it is undoubtedly greater than a year ago, partly because of political developments of the last year and partly because of the slow improvement of business," said Prof. Slichter.

"Consequently, it is merely conservative to state that a substantial improvement in business within the next 18 months is needed to avert serious consequences.

"Unfortunately it is doubtful whether the administration at Washington will be able or willing to develop policies which will assist improvement of business.

"We already have had a tremendous amount of concealed inflation in the United States in the last year, and only some of the ridiculous policies of the administration have prevented it from taking effect.

Danger to Colleges.

"In the event of extreme inflation the colleges would be compelled to apply to the federal government for grants and aid. The consequent danger to their independence and freedom from political dictation would be even more serious than the economic effect of inflation on the faculties."

College professors have been more fortuniate than almost any other class through the depression, Prof. Slichter found. He estimated roughly that their salaries have declined only an average of 15 per cent, and employment in their field but 10 per cent.

A resolution attacking Robert Fechtner, director of the Civilian Conservation corps, on the ground that he "shows a disposition to interfere with the freedom of teaching and to obstruct the program of the educational director of the corps," was introduced by Prof. F. K. Richtmyer of Cornell university and later passed.

The background of the resolution was the action of Mr. Fechtner in barring from CCC camps "You and Machines," prepared by Prof. William Fielding Ogburn of the University of Chicago as the first of a series of textbooks for the camp schools. Dr. C. H. Judd, professor of education at the University of Chicago, speaking in support of the resolution, said that it was barred on the ground that it would induce the "philosophy of despair," since it painted man as losing out in competition with machines.

Yale Students Hail Residential System as College Program Enters Second Year

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—In a spectacular and luxurious setting, Yale university has entered upon the second year of its new residential college plan.

Eight colleges of Gothic gray stone have been constructed with the 15 or more millions donated by Edward S. Harkness of New York City, Yale '97. In them are housed some 1,500 members of the three upper classes, not more than 200 to a college.

Plan 2 More Quadrangles.

After much hesitation and delay caused by a fear that the "revolutionary" college plan might destroy the values attributed to the old Yale system, the university officials in 1930 accepted the funds proffered by Mr. Harkness. Last year, with seven quadrangles constructed, the new system was put into effect. An eighth has been completed this year and two more ultimately will be built.

As explained by Charles Seymour, provost of the university and master of one of the colleges, the college system was adopted to meet the problems caused by an ever increasing and unwieldy undergraduate body.

Decide on College System.

"As the classes continued to grow in size, as the semi-monastic life of the student was invaded by the pleasant but disturbing influence of the automobile and the week-end party, the integrity of the class as a unit broke down," he declared. "Students in their large lecture courses were far removed from the faculty. They lacked the supervision of the tutors of the early Yale. The faculty itself was threatened with a loss of its sense of responsibility for the student."

A ten college system was decided upon, each unit possessing the values of a small college with the added advantage of membership in a great university, he pointed out.

Each college has its own dining hall in which all the students must eat at least ten meals a week. Each college has its own library and common room, the latter for social gatherings. The head of the college, called the master, resides in a house attached to the quadrangle. Other faculty members, termed Fellows of the College, have their living quarters there if they are unmarried and their studies if residing elsewhere with their families.

Fosters Personal Contact.

Personal contact between the faculty members and the undergraduates is thus fostered. The master and the Fellows frequently eat in the student dining room. The students are encouraged to consult these tutors. According to theory, the intimate life of the early small college is thus recaptured.

The interiors of the colleges are furnished in the manner of a "swanky" modern apartment hotel. Probably no humble seekers after education ever live in more comfortable quarters. The students eat in spacious, oak-panelled dining rooms, they lounge before Fifteenth century fireplaces, they read in lofty ceilinged libraries; they study and sleep in cozy suites.

This comfort is available at varying prices. Members of the colleges must pay $5.50 a week for the minimum ten meals which must be taken in the college dining room. Eight dollars a week is the charge for 21 meals a week. The dormitory rents range from $110 to $400.

Taking Calhoun college as typical of the other units, this reporter spent some time with faculty members and students, seeking to obtain an impartial view of the success of the college system. The master of Calhoun college is Prof. Arnold Whitridge. There are nine fellows in residence and approximately 170 students.

Calhoun college, named after the South Carolina statesman, John C. Calhoun [Yale, 1804] is built around a single great court. It is charming architecturally, as are all the colleges, and its interiors are magnificently appointed.

There was no doubt in Prof. Whitridge's mind that the college system has promoted a new intimacy between the students and the faculty members. He expressed optimism that the system also is inculcating in the undergraduate a more enthusiastic desire for knowledge, although he pointed out that the plan has been in effect too short a time to make a definite judgement possible on this score.

The students' interests are widened through the associations possible in a small college, he declared. Little groups gather in the common rooms and discuss politics, books, music, the drama. At more general gatherings, beer is consumed, songs are sung, general good feeling inspired. There is no excuse for a lonely student under the new system.

One interesting result of the plan is the quickening of interest in athletics. Where formerly only a comparatively few went out for varsity football, crew, track, baseball, and other sports, each college now has its own squad in more than a dozen sports. More than 1,600 undergraduates took part in intercollege sports last year, and rivalry between the various colleges is keen.

In the opinion of Prof. Whitridge and other masters the common dining room is one of the most important phases of the new plan in developing a new type of undergraduate. This reporter ate with the students at the evening meal in Calhoun college and noted that there seemed to be a revival of the art of conversing over a leisurely dinner.

Students Are Enthusiastic.

Sauntering through the Green quadrangle, a fellow is frequently stopped by students with questions to propound. Tutors and undergraduates use the libraries together.

The students themselves are enthusiastic about the system. Life could not be much more pleasant for them. There are practically no restrictions upon them. There is a porter at the gate of each college, but no check is kept upon the student's comings and goings. There are visiting hours for women and the undergraduate may entertain his feminine friends in style in his handsome suite, serving cocktails before a fire on the living room hearth. Or he may entertain his family in the panelled dining room.

Has the college student basically changed as a result of the new system? Again, it must be pointed out that the plan was installed little more than a year ago and the answer cannot yet be in the affirmative.

OPEN CARNIVAL CHARITY SALE FOR HOSPITAL

Lying-In Benefit to Last a Week at Sherman.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Gay ailes of gifts hung with bright Christmas decorations and a general carnival spirit took over the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sherman yesterday for a week's stay. When all the gifts are purchased and the fun is a pleasant memory, the money will be turned over to the Chicago Lying-In hospital for its charitable work. The event, called the "Merry-Go-Round," is being sponsored by the hospital's board and the Mother's Aid.

In the lobby of the hotel throngs gathered about a life size merry-go-round and tapped their feet to the calliope's "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." Women and children then hurried upstairs to the carnival and its multitude of tiny gift shops. For the children there were a story hour and a Punch and Judy show which will be features of every afternoon during the week.

Stars Contribute Talent.

After completing their shopping, the buyers found that their admission charge allowed them to attend free the theatrical night celebration in the Grand ballroom, where Buddy Rogers and his band, Olsen and Johnson, Dorothy Stone, and other famous stage and radio stars presented acts as their contribution to the charity. Other such events will be held every evening.

Tomorrow night John Winterbotham will perform as master of ceremonies at a revue showing the progress in fashions from 1925 to 1935. On Tuesday night Hal Totten will preside over jujutsu, ping-pong, and golf exhibitions. Representative sportsmen are to be introduced from the platform.

Children's Carnival Friday.

Wednesday will be revue night. Opera night will be Thursday with Harold F. McCormick as master of ceremonies. Opera stars will appear and there will be an auction of opera dolls.

Children's carnival night will be held on Friday with a grand march at 8 o'clock, prizes for best costumes, favors, and confetti.

POSTAL CLERK PROVES ALIBI IN SHOOTING OF 2

Frank Kilcoyne, 43 years old, 5704 Roscoe street, a postoffice clerk, proved yesterday to the satisfaction of Town Hall police that he had no connection with the shooting of two young men on Thursday evening near Irving Park boulevard and Clarendon avenue.

Kilcoyne was arrested on Friday night in a tavern at 837 Irving Park boulevard when Elmer Querth, 4010 Clarendon avenue, notified police that Kilcoyne looked like the man whom he saw wound Frank Denges, 21 years old, 4319 Wrightwood avenue, and John Logan, 21, of 3611 Palmer street.

Logan and Bruno Skworzec, 2414 North Tripp avenue, also identified Kilcoyne. Skworzec was with Logan and Denges at 11:28 p. m. Thursday when they were shot. Denges is in the Bridewell hospital in a serious condition.

Kilcoyne told police he worked in the postoffice at Van Buren and Canal streets until 11 p. m., then rode a street car to Pulaski road [Crawford avenue] and Belmont avenue, where he visited a tavern. Capt. Patrick O'Connell corroborated his story.

WED IN 1888, SEEKS DIVORCE.

Hoopeston, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Alice Ashmore of Oakland filed petition in Coles county asking a divorce from Sherman Ashmore. The couple were married in 1888 and separated in 1921.

MARTIN INSULL'S DELAYED TRIAL TO OPEN TOMORROW

Prosecutors and defense attorneys announced themselves as ready yesterday for the trial of Martin Insull, set for tomorrow morning before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court. Martin Insull's trial had been delayed because needed records were being used in the Federal trial of his brother, Samuel, and 16 others, but tomorrow morning selection of a jury is scheduled to begin.

Martin Insull is charged with embezzling $344,000 of the stock of the Middle West Utilities company to bolster his account with the Paul Davis brokerage house. He was president of the Middle West company which was an integral part of the Insull empire of electricity.

Martin was extradited from Canada and can only be tried on this one specific charge. Since his return he has been staying on the farm of his son-in-law, Major William Rafferty, at Morocco, Ind.

Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora and Earle C. Hurley will prosecute. Attorneys John C. Northup and E. M. Aaron will defend Insull.

GERMAN FIER TO TALK.

Miss Elli Beinhorn, noted German woman flyer, will speak to a gathering of German-Americans Wednesday night at Lincoln Turner hall, 1005 Diversey parkway. She will discuss her air travels in Africa, Asia and other remote regions.

NELSON SLAYING BALKS DESPERATE HOLDUP IN LOOP

Police Bare Plot to Seize $150,000 Yesterday.

If Lester M. Gillis, better known as George [Baby Face] Nelson, had not been shot to death last Tuesday in a battle with two federal operators, Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman Hollis, both of whom were slain, he and ten or twelve other criminals would have had the battle of their lives when they tried to stage a $150,000 holdup in a downtown Chicago department store.

After Nelson, an ally of the late John Dillinger was buried yesterday, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan revealed what might have happened had not Inspector Cowley and Agent Hollis given up their lives to end Nelson's criminal career. The body of Nelson was found on Wednesday in Niles Center.

Bares Loop Holdup Plan.

Chief Sullivan said yesterday he learned a week ago that Nelson was back in Cook county and planning the loop robbery which was to be carried out in wild west fashion, with lots of shooting to make it successful by the suddenness of the attack and the terrorism the bandit gang would create. It was to have been staged before Dec. 1—yesterday.

Chief Sullivan said he investigated the possibilities of the coup and learned that every noon a sum approximating $150,000 was taken to a bank from the store the gang intended to hold up. He immediately warned officials of the store.

His plan was intended to prevent the robbery from even being attempted, rather than to try to capture the gunmen in the act, because of the danger to loop crowds and other considerations. So, to head off the attempt, a picked crew of detectives armed with machine guns was assigned to accompany the bank messenger each day, notice thereby being served on Nelson and his gang that the police were on the job.

Desperate Gang Balked.

After Nelson's body was found and the proposed robbery supposedly abandoned, the department store changed its system and the money has since been moved in an armored car, Chief Sullivan declared. The men who were to assist Nelson in the robbery are men of the same stripe, Sullivan said, of the desperate criminal type who would kill without hesitation to avoid capture.

Instead of taking part in that daring holdup venture, however, Nelson was buried yesterday. His body was held overnight at the undertaking parlors of Philip Sadowski, 1845 North Hermitage avenue, across the street from St. Mary of the Angels Catholic church, but there were no churchmen in attendance to wish his soul well.

Small Group of Mourners.

His mother, sister and brother-in-law were there, and they had provided a few floral pieces. There was one labeled "loving husband and father," but the wife, who authorities are certain was the young woman who jumped into a ditch while her husband and his accomplice exchanged machine gun bullets and shotgun pellets with officers of the law in the Barrington battle was not among those present.

The mother shed a few tears. The undertaker read a few prayers. Six young men, described as friends of the family and who were determined not to give their names, acted as pallbearers. Into a herse and out to St. Joseph's cemetery in River Grove went the remains of the 25 year old man who had started a criminal career at the age of 15 and a few months ago became one of the Dillinger gang.

LONDON LAWYER SEEKS TO DIVORCE U.S. MOVIE STAR

Elissa Landi Accused of Misconduct.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—John Cecil Lawrence, 31 year old London lawyer, filed suit for divorce today against Elissa Landi, Hollywood movie star. He charges misconduct with Abram Chasins of the Curtis Institute of Music, Philadelphia.

Miss Landi, 30 years old, was born in Venice. She is of Austrian descent and lives in Hollywood with her mother, Countess Zanardi-Landi.

The actress married Lawrence in London Jan. 28, 1928. They separated Sept. 23, 1932. Miss Landi starred in "A Farewell to Arms" on the New York stage for two years, and then came to Hollywood.

Has Divorce Suit Pending.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 1.—Elissa Landi, film beauty who was sued for divorce in England today by her husband, John Cecil Lawrence, filed a suit for divorce here on May 16. She accused her husband of extreme cruelty.

Miss Landi, who withdrew from a leading rôle in a motion picture at the Paramount studio last week, will stand on her own divorce action and will oppose her husband's effort to obtain a decree in London, according to a statement made in her behalf.

In her divorce bill the actress charged Lawrence called her ugly names and acted surly. She said constant quarreling caused her to become ill.

Musician Her Companion.

Lawrence paid a brief visit to his wife in America after Miss Landi launched her film career here. She appeared publicly in Hollywood with Abram Chasins, a musician who wrote harmonies for several lyrics which the actress composed. Chasins also acted as her voice instructor.

Nazis Plan Big Christmas; First Trees Reach Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—The first of 3,000,000 Christmas trees arrived in Berlin today. "The government will stage a Christmas for the whole nation this year," Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, promised in a speech at Stettin.

GERMANY TO FREE U.S. WOMAN HELD IN BERLIN PRISON

Nazis Decide to Expel "Spy Suspect."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Miss Isabelle Lillian Steele, 24 year old American citizen, who has been held virtually incommunicado in grim Alt-Moabit prison since her arrest Aug. 10, will be expelled from Germany.

German authorities today informed Douglas Jenkins, American consul general, they have decided not to bring the Hollywood girl to trial.

The Prussian ministry of justice told Jenkins that the government's decision to expel her and not place her on trial was influenced by the prisoner's "youth and inexperience." An official said investigations disclosed that she is "not a professional spy," but had expressed her opinions too carelessly and promiscuously.

Claim She Was Spy Suspect.

This was the first positive information revealed as to the nature of charges against Miss Steele. Previously Nazi authorities announced she was held in connection with "a serious offense." German acquaintances of the prisoner insisted she was connected with the alleged extensive spy plot headed by Count Yurek [George] von Sosnowski, Polish army officer, who is in jail with several socially prominent Berlin associates.

Several weeks ago the state department at Washington, D. C., instructed the consul general to exert diplomatic pressure on the German foreign office to secure her release or immediate trial on specific charges.

Miss Steele came to Germany two years ago, accompanied by her mother and 16 year old sister, to study music. The sisters became enthusiastic Nazis. The younger girl fell in love with a Nazi. Her mother prevented the marriage by taking her back to Hollywood.

Isabelle Steele met Vera Lissen, a movie actress and close friend of Von Sosnowski. She informed friends that it was mere chance which prevented her from attending the dinner at which Von Sosnowski and his associates were arrested in a raid by the secret police.

Claims Baroness Trapped Her.

After Isabelle's arrest, dispatches from Hollywood quoted Mrs. Steele as saying that "a certain baroness led my emotional daughter into some trap."

In letters to friends Miss Steele said her life in the prison, which is located near the center of Berlin, had its compensations, and that she was well treated.

Meanwhile, the consulate general is pressing its investigation into the charge against Richard Roiderer, 40 years old, said to be a Chicagoan. He has been confined in a Munich prison since his arrest June 22. Officials termed his case more serious. They said he may be tried for espionage, since notes on military affairs were found in his possession.

Bulgaria Condemns 12 Macedonians to Death

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 1.—(AP)—In a determined drive to wipe out the Imro, the international Macedonian revolutionary organization, a military court today sentenced twelve Macedonian revolutionaries to death for numerous assassinations committed during recent years.

129 NORTH WABASH AVENUE

THREE WEDDINGS HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN SOCIAL WORLD

Afternoon and Evening Brightened by Events.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Three weddings held the social spotlight yesterday for society folk in town and on the north shore. At an evening ceremony Miss Barbara Graf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf, became the bride of Charles Stickney Connell, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. Gregory Connell of Oshkosh, Wis. In the late afternoon Miss Olga Beneke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beneke of Highland Park, was married to Jansen Wendell Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Taylor of Wilmington, Del., and Miss Marion McKinley, daughter of Mrs. Anthony and Judge Michael L. McKinley, became the bride of William J. Sennott Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sennott of Evanston.

The Graf-Connell service was read at 8 o'clock in the Fortnightly club ballroom by the Rev. Edward S. White, rector of the Church of the Redeemer. The bride was simply gowned in white moire fashioned with long sleeves and a medium train. A cap of heirloom lace held in place a billowy tulle veil. The bridal bouquet was of gardenias and white orchids.

Altar of Flowers.

Five attendants preceded the bride to the altar, which was improvised of smilax, white roses and chrysanthemums and lighted by candles. The maid of honor, Miss Jane Connell, the bridegroom's sister, wore an apple green taffeta period dress, full skirted, and a cap of green-bronze feathers and a green feather muff. She carried an armful of yellow roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Isabel Gordon, Miss Janet Ayer, Miss Eleanor McNally, and Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan (Jane Fortune) wore sunset taffeta period dresses with brown feather caps and muffs and carried talisman roses.

Edmond Sullivan served Mr. Connell as best man, and ushering were Robert J. Graf Jr., Robert E. Baker Jr., and Rufus Schreiber and Daniel Harmon of Oshkosh. The receiving line formed before the bay windows in the drawing room. Mrs. Graf wore coral velvet and orchids and the bridegroom's mother was gowned in blue crêpe and orchids. Mr. Connell and his bride will be at home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments after Christmas.

Beneke-Taylor Nuptials.

Dr. Christoph Keller of the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park read the 4 o'clock service that united in marriage Miss Beneke and Mr. Taylor. Lovely in the period ivory satin gown that her mother wore on her wedding day, the bride was given in marriage by her father at an improvised altar in the drawing room of the Beneke home. The dress was lavishly trimmed with rosepoint lace. Over the train fell a full tulle veil. The bridal bouquet was of camelias and valley lilies.

All the bride's attendants, including her sister, Miss Claire Beneke, as maid of honor; Miss Lois Brigham, Mrs. John Giles of La Grange, and Miss Dorothy Dahlberg as bridesmaids, were gowned in autumn shades of velvet. They carried mink muffs that were gifts to them from the bride.

Reeves Taylor came from Wilmington to serve his brother as best man. Ushering were Edward and Henry Beneke, brothers of the bride, and Dr. William Looby.

Only the immediate families witnessed the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock yesterday in the rectory of the Holy Name cathedral in which Miss McKinley became the bride of Mr. Sennott. After the service, read by the Rev. Patrick Hayes, there was a small reception at the Drake hotel.

The bride wore a long gown of burnt orange velvet and a matching hat which set off her dark coloring to advantage. She carried talisman roses. Miss Marjorie Hunter of Rockford, Ill., her only attendant, wore Marina blue with a black hat and gardenias, and the bride's mother was in raisin crêpe. John Harmon Sennott served his brother as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Sennott will be at home after Dec. 10 at 534 Aldine avenue.

Wedding in South.

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the First Methodist church of Birmingham, Ala., Miss Evelyn Reynolds Fulford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan Fulford, became the bride of Henry Cragg, son of Mrs. George Cragg of Chicago. Mrs. George Thomas Cragg, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. Rachel Broanax of Eutaw, Ala., and Miss Margaret Kidd attended the bride, while Mr. Cragg served his brother as best man and Will Cochran and Amasa Smith ushered.

Mr. Cragg and his bride will live in Chicago.

Announcement was made in Detroit yesterday of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Warner Cady, daughter of Mrs. Grace Cady, 621 Territorial road, and the late A. P. Cady, former Benton Harbor city attorney, to Hunter Michaels of Chicago. The wedding will take place Dec. 25. Miss Cady's elder sister, Mrs. H. A. Courtright, is widely known musically in Detroit and Chicago.

ANN HARDING, FILM STAR, ASKS COURT FOR HER SIX YEAR OLD GIRL

Reno, Nev., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Ann Harding, stage and screen star, appeared here tonight as a mother—central figure in another mother and daughter case.

She wants sole custody of her 6 year old child, Jane Bannister. Under the terms of her divorce decree she now can have the child only 10 months each year.

"I'm not here as an actress," she said. "I'm here as a mother who wants and has the right to bring up her child to the best of her judgment and ability."

The blonde screen star separated from her husband, Harry Bannister—an actor—and finally obtained a divorce.

"It seems strange," she said. "What have courts to do with it? I am the child's mother, and I am here to win the right to have my baby."

She refused to say whether this move meant there was no chance of reconciliation with Bannister as rumored.

William Woodburn, her attorney, will file a motion asking modification of the divorce decree, awarding her sole custody of little Jane.

Woodburn explained the motion will be based on Miss Harding's belief that divided custody "is not conducive to the child's well-being."

NAVAJO PATROL MAKES GOOD IN WESTERN DRIVE

Gallup, N. M., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A new Navajo Indian mounted police patrol, unique among Indian tribes, is riding a 15,000,000 acre domain. Some day, its leaders hope, the patrol may rival the Canadian Royal Northwest Mounties.

A fearless fighter, the Navajo mounted patrolman with his nondescript pony combines the abilities of a bloodhound with the tenacity of a bulldog.

His colorful figure, attired in ten gallon cowboy hat, purple and yellow neckerchief, soiled shirt, and bibless overalls which protrude over riding boots with heels askew, was not impressive to the white law enforcement officers.

The patrol of 30 Navajo braves has been in existence less than a year and the white officers are beginning to revise their first impressions.

More than 100 bootleggers of the white man's "fire water" have been snared in the Indian officers' traps.

The mounted patrol was created to "mop up" the huge reservation which extends from Grand Canyon of Arizona on the west to Mount Taylor in New Mexico on the east; from the Santa Fe railway on the south to the San Juan river in Utah and the Colorado border on the north.

WAUKEGAN SETS WEDDING MARK; 6,214 IN A YEAR

Waukegan, the Lake county Gretna Green, broke all its own previous records during the last year, according to a report made public yesterday by Lew A. Hendee, county clerk. During the fiscal year that ended Friday, 6,214 couples were married, an increase of 783 over the previous high year, 1933, when 5,431 couples were married. A Century of Progress Exposition was given credit for the high record of the two years by the county official. During the last year couples from forty states and from three foreign countries were married. June led the months with 636 marriages, and October took second with 623.

LAWYER'S BOND CUT HALF IN TAX CASE CONVICTION

Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., sitting in the district court in Chicago, yesterday reduced the appeal bond of Paysoff Tinkoff, attorney and accountant who was sentenced to serve 18 months in Leavenworth penitentiary, from $15,000 to $7,500 and gave him until Wednesday noon to post the security. Deputy marshals were in the courtroom ready to arrest the attorney when he appeared. The bond reduction was granted after Tinkoff had argued at great length on his own behalf. On Friday Judge Stone denied a motion for a new trial. Tinkoff was convicted on charges of aiding a client, William J. Newman, wealthy contractor, in evading taxes. Newman was fined $2,000 and settled government claims for $150,000.

Order $150,000 Reduction in Electric Light Rates

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday announced a slash of $150,000 in the electric light rates of the Illinois Power and Light company. This reduction makes a total of $600,000 decrease in the rates of the company and a cut of $10,000,000 a year for utility customers in the state since the present commission began its work in January of 1933. The order of yesterday will effect 300 towns and villages in central and southern Illinois, including Marseilles, Spring Valley, Galva, Monmouth, Carlinville, Gillespie, Greenville, Hillsboro, Litchfield, Vandalia, Chester, Duquoin, Eldorado, and Mound City.

JEWS HERE JOIN TODAY IN FEAST OF CHANUKAH

Jews of Chicago will join today in the world-wide celebration of the festival of chanukah. The special program here tonight in the Auditorium theater will portray the Jewish victory over paganism in the fourth century B. C. when Judas Maccabaeus triumphed over Greek adversaries.

Cantor Joseph Giblichman, assisted by the vocal ensemble under the direction of Harry Coopersmith, will light the traditional chanukah candles. Mischa Mishakoff, violin soloist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will play Mendelssohn's music.

The leading feature of the festival, according to announcements, will be the address of Rabbi Hillel Silver of Cleveland, a notable orator. Albert K. Epstein is chairman of the festival under appointment of the Chicago Zionist organization, the sponsor of the event.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Former Fire Commissioner Arthur Seyferlich, who died Friday, was a native born Chicagoan, and not born in Germany as was stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE.

American Held by Canada as Slayer of His Mother

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Harold W. Vermilyea, Ontario, Cal., citrus grower, today was committed for trial on a charge of murdering his aged mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Vermilyea, mother-in-law of J. A. Faulkner, Ontario minister of health. Mrs. Vermilyea died on Oct. 5 of wounds suffered the previous night. She apparently had been attacked with a hatchet. Vermilyea was arrested several days later at Ontario, Cal. Police maintained that after Mrs. Vermilyea was slain, Vermilyea fled to California by automobile, train, and airplane.

SEVEN YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT URGED BY BECK

Wants 200 to Draft Other Constitution Changes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—A plan for changing certain "mechanical details" of the constitution after the present economic unrest has passed was advanced tonight by James M. Beck, former congressman from Pennsylvania and eminent constitutional authority.

In an address sponsored by the American Bar association Representative Beck suggested that when the depression is over the President appoint an advisory committee of 200 "outstanding Americans" to consider changes in constitutional mechanism.

The study of this advisory council would then be presented to congress, which, in turn, would decide what changes were worthy of consideration under the plan advanced by Mr. Beck. To make these amendments effective congress would have to pass them and submit them to the people for ratification.

As examples of some mechanical changes which he thought might be recommended and approved through this procedure, Representative Beck cited proposals to make the President's term seven years instead of four and to make the President ineligible for reëlection. He also pointed with approval to suggested amendments lengthening the term in office of members of the house of representatives. Both these changes would remove undesirable political pressure on the President and congressmen, he said.

Although he suggested shifts in constitutional machinery, Representative Beck stanchly defended the political philosophy of the constitution, saying that it "is deep and accurate, and as true today as when the constitution was adopted." He criticized sharply the present tendency to run roughshod over constitutional barriers on the pretext of "general welfare," and warned that the result will be a socialistic state, "differing in degree but not in kind from Russia, Italy, and Germany."

Undergo Great Revolution.

"It would be strange, if not miraculous," Representative Beck said in advancing his proposal for mechanical revisions, "if the governmental machinery through which the three departments of our government function and which was constructed in an agricultural period of human society would be wholly adequate in a later age when human society has undergone the greatest revolution since the birth of Christ."

Mr. Beck then proposed a seven year term for the President and a lengthening of the representative's term. He said:

"For example, it may have been wise in that simpler age to provide that a representative should only have a tenure of two years. The governmental problems of that time were few and simple, and the sessions of congress generally short. Today, however, a member of congress is no sooner elected than he is obliged to consider, if he wishes to continue in office, the next primary and the next election and thus over his head the sword of Damocles continuously hangs.

Think for His Constituents.

"Nothing has had a more malign influence upon the integrity of the representative. If our theory of a representative government is sound, a representative should think for, and not necessarily with his constituents, but how can he do this if some special class, which holds the balance of power in his district, threatens him with defeat unless he accedes to their wishes, which are generally selfish and sometimes unjust. The six year term of the senator gives him a greater independence of judgment, because he has a sufficient period of service to appeal from Philip Drunk to Philip Sober.

"As originally drafted, the constitution provided that the President should serve for seven years, and be ineligible to succeed himself. At the last moment, the convention reduced the term to four years and made the President eligible to succeed himself. This has had through our whole history a malign influence upon the executive. Excepting only the first President, who neither sought nor desired to succeed himself, every President has necessarily considered in all his decisions the possible effect upon his reëlection.

"Let me give another illustration. Franklin wanted a one-chambered congress, as Senator Norris succeeded in having Nebraska approve. Undoubtedly this would make for greater speed and efficiency in legislation, but it would not promote security, for much improvident legislation which is passed by one house is modified or defeated in the other, and while this often results in unworthy compromises, yet at least the legislative process becomes more deliberate and trustworthy."

Basic Theories of Constitution.

Turning from the mechanical side of the constitution to its political philosophy, Representative Beck insisted that no tampering be done with the scheme of government which the founding fathers drafted and, quoting from George Washington, he warned that institutions which can not be overthrown sometimes are slowly undermined.

"When we turn to the basic theories of the constitution," he said, "a different question presents itself. Its political philosophy is deep and accurate and as true today as when the constitution was adopted. It declined to give unlimited power to the people. It reasoned that democratic institutions were only practicable when subjected to wise restraint, for it recognized the truth of Edmund Burke that the tyranny of the majority could be as cruel and unjust as that of an autocrat.

"Therefore, the constitution created a federated government of strictly limited powers and defended the rights of the individual by wise restraints upon the caprices or passions of a fleeting majority. The framers did not believe, even in their day when the Union was composed of only thirteen states along the Atlantic seaboard, that a centralized government with plenary authority to legislate for the undefined objective of the 'general welfare,' could possibly be permanent.

"It is as true today as it was when the constitution was formulated that the mighty destinies of the people can not be lastingly controled from the city of Washington. At the moment the American people do not seem to recognize this, and possibly they will not until the bitter lesson of experience brings the truth home to them. We must not, in respect to the fundamental philosophy of the constitution, abandon the ship. For if we do, it will not be the constitution alone that will perish. It will also be the Union, which all Americans so dearly love."

WOMAN MINT DIRECTOR SPEAKS

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint and former governor of Wyoming, as she inspected Million Dollar room of Union League club under guidance of W. Frank McClure, chairman of club's committee on speakers. The room is papered with securities which depreciated sharply in depression. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ROSS GIVES WOMAN'S SLANT ON NEW DEALERS

Mint Director Has a Word for Them.

Colorful impressions—some of them typically feminine—of the personalities in the New Deal were voiced yesterday by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint and herself an important feminine cog in the national administration machinery.

Mrs. Ross, who is a former governor of Wyoming, sturdily defended the principles of the New Deal throughout her talk. She spoke before members of the Union League club. Flashes of some of her characterizations follow:

Secretary of State Hull—Solemn, dignified; to be complimented for astute handling of delicate international problems.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace—Unknown two years ago; extremely diffident; nothing striking in manner or bearing, but possessed of great mental character; a deep student of economic problems; a vegetarian.

Secretary of Labor Perkins—Unknown prior to New Deal except in New York; fear at first expressed that woman could not cope with labor leaders; labor leaders now worried about coping with this woman; shows amazing physical fortitude.

Secretary of Interior Ickes—One of most forceful of New Dealers; prodigious capacity for hard work; made department of interior important; known for excessive caution.

Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau—Personally very attractive; tall and slender, dark eyes; a practical idealist imbued with a zeal to serve his country.

Relief Administrator Hopkins—Another personable young man; is not, contrary to popular opinion, handing out vast sums blithely; wants to get people off relief into jobs.

Minister Ruth Bryan Owen—Gracious, charming.

President Roosevelt—Colorful, arresting personality; love of sea, stamp collecting proves he's human like rest; most popular of all.

ANTI-CRUELTY CASES EXCEED 29,000 IN YEAR

The "most successful year in its history" was reported yesterday by executives of the Anti-Cruelty society at its annual meeting in the Stevens hotel. Upwards of 29,000 animals, 2,000 more than during the previous busiest year in 1928, were cared for at the society's animal refuge at 155 West Grand avenue.

Dr. H. J. Streibert, superintendent of the refuge, in giving his report, said that 20,373 calls were made for animals, including 15,587 dogs and 12,706 cats. Other beneficiaries included 495 white rats, 102 pigeons, 13 rabbits, 4 canaries, 2 squirrels, 2 turtles, 6 chickens, 1 hawk, 1 oriole, 6 sparrows, 2 robins, 4 guinea pigs, 2 parrots, 9 bears, and 1 goat. The organization placed 315 animals in homes. Cases handled at the clinic averaged 20 to 30 daily.

John J. Roberts was reëlected president, W. H. Webster, Mrs. William S. Faurot, and Mrs. G. M. Wisner, vice presidents; B. Botsford Young, treasurer, and Mrs. Duane T. McNabb, secretary.

Hurls Baby in Furnace; Mother Sent to Asylum

Pender, Neb., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. D. Caster, 25, of Rosalie was taken to the state hospital at Norfolk this afternoon after hurling her 8 months old baby, Dwyane, into the furnace at her home this morning. She locked the doors of her farm home before killing the child. Her father-in-law, John Caster, broke in the door and recovered the charred body. The husband and father was away from home at the time.

Cartoonist Weds New York Woman in Connecticut

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Edward Nolan, 26, of Brooklyn, who draws the "Betty Boop" cartoons, and Miss Mary Patrick, 23, daughter of George Patrick of New York City, were married here today. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Theodore Yudain.

1922 DENVER MINT ROBBERY SOLVED; LAID TO HARVEY BAILEY

Denver, Colo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Solution of the 1922 Denver mint robbery was announced tonight by police, who said Harvey Bailey, convicted kidnaper of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City millionaire, drove the motor car in which the robbers escaped with $200,000 currency snatched from guards.

Five men and two women—all of whom now are in prison or dead—were involved in the crime, Chief of Detectives Albert T. Clark said.

The bandit mob, Chief Clark said, included:

Robert Leon Knapp, known in Denver as Robert Burns, now dead.

Frank McFarland, alias "the Memphis Kid," also dead.

Nicholas Trainor, whose bullet-ridden body was found in a residential garage in Denver more than a month after the robbery.

Florence Sloan, the "queen" consort of Trainor. She, too, is dead.

Downstate Church Marks Its 105th Anniversary

Pana, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The Methodist Episcopal church of Irving, twenty miles west of Pana in Montgomery county, tomorrow will celebrate the 105th anniversary of its founding.

BORAH PROPOSES LIBERAL 'REVOLT' TO REMAKE G. O. P.

Dares Leaders to Conduct Vote on Change.

"child" the reorganization advocates hoped to bring into being might well turn out to be "triplets" and a "multiplicity of party factions" Borah replied:

"For myself I do not want a third party. I want a Republican party. Why should the millions of Republicans throughout the country give up the name, the traditions, the great record of the party simply because a few men holding positions of strategy refuse to recognize political realities?"

Mr. Borah mentioned the need of "meeting the great problems confronting us upon a broad and humanitarian basis."

"Quit Abstractions:" McNary.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Oregonian tonight quoted Senator Charles L. McNary, senate Republican floor leader, as saying the Republican party "should quit its abstractions and alarms and get down to the level of human sympathy and human understanding."

The Oregon senator said the Republican party must do its utmost to rescue the nation "in coöperation with the administration—or otherwise."

Senator McNary broke a comparative silence on political and legislative subjects on the eve of his departure for the national capital and another session of congress.

Comments on Campaign.

"I offer no criticism of the sincerity or political sagacity of my Republican colleagues," he was quoted as saying in connection with the campaign, "but it should now be plain that a party cannot gain the attention of a people distraught by business and employment worries by extoling the nobility of the forefathers, the sanctity of the constitution, and by spreading alarms over regimentation and burocracy.

"'Regimentation' is a fine, mouth filling word, but it fills no empty stomachs, and a man worried over where next month's rent is coming from cannot be aroused to an interest in the evils of burocracy.

"For that matter, the constitutionality of congressional law is not determinable in the political forum. The Supreme court lives and it has not failed us yet. Moreover, if laws do, indeed, violate personal and property rights they ought to be condemned whether or not they violated rights that are guaranteed by the constitution."

McNary said he believes the Bankhead amendment limiting the cotton crop and applying "an unbelievable tax burden upon cotton surplus," should be repealed.

He also said he believes "in the principle of old age pensions and unemployment insurance."

JERRY THE SPARROW, PEACE BIRD, IS FOUND DEAD IN LEAGUE HALL

GENEVA, Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Jerry the sparrow, bird of peace, was found dead in the assembly hall of the league of nations today.

Jerry established his home in the disarmament building last spring and attended all sessions of the disarmament conference.

He probably was the world's most pampered sparrow, subsisting regally on crums dropped for him by premiers and foreign ministers at the league refreshment bar.

ROOSEVELT AND AIDS CONFER AS THEY ENJOY DIP

Richberg, Tugwell and Hopkins on Hand.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The $50,000 "old swimming hole" on the Warm Springs foundation was the setting of a conference of far reaching national importance this morning. President Roosevelt, Donald Richberg, executive director of the national emergency council; Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, and Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief director, had the pool to themselves for more than an hour.

As they sloshed and splashed about, ideas were exchanged on administration plans for recovery and relief almost as rapidly as a water polo ball was hurled among them. Observers from the crest of a hill overlooking the pool saw the quartet pause now and then, to knot their heads together as though they were settling some particularly snarled problem.

Talk Continues at Luncheon.

At the conclusion of the plunge the stars of the administration's all-American team sat at the edge of the pool swinging their feet in the warm spring water as they continued conferring for more than a half hour.

Later they adjourned to the Little White House for lunch. The exchange of ideas continued after luncheon with all the buzzing of a sewing circle. A secretary sat in to jot down plans.

The three left end linesmen of the New Deal all-American team were reticent in interviews after the conference. They described its range as "ships and sealing wax, and cabbages and kings."

Relief Program Discussed.

They hinted considerable time was spent on contemplated NRA revision, a work relief program designed to cut the federal easy money dole, consolidation and coördination of alphabetical agencies, hope of curbing the leaping federal deficit, and less specifically other phases of the administration legislative program.

Administrator Hopkins was reported to have asked presidential sanction to create a permanent civil works program to virtually abolish the cash relief dole. He refused to discuss reports that he will seek an appropriation of between 8 and 10 billion dollars for this purpose.

According to the Hopkins plan all persons would be taken off the relief rolls except the unemployable. The plan further contemplates enlargement of socialistic aspects to the New Deal such as housing, slum clearance and the rest, to provide work.

Favors Permanent NRA.

Richberg said he presented no formal report on NRA revision, but said he reported the NRA has demonstrated the necessity of enactment of permanent legislation of its regimentation character. "Such a program should keep the NRA's trade practice regulation and labor provisions," he said. "We should not legislate morality in writing a permanent law. We should not strive to reach a point of ethics industry has not yet reached."

Richberg arrived by plane from Knoxville, Tenn.; Hopkins arrived by motor from Atlanta a few minutes later. When the President drove down in his manually operated car to pick them up they found Tugwell, No. 1 brain truster, seated smilingly beside the chief executive.

Tugwell's Return Surprises.

Richberg, who is said to enjoy newspaper references to himself as assistant "President," extended his hand rather slowly to Tugwell after exchanging greetings with the President. He, like the entire colony, was surprised to find that Tugwell has returned to Warm Springs after a four day visit ending last Tuesday.

Tugwell's return was seen as significant. The first visit was explained as a Presidential gesture to show that the dapper professor was not being eased out of the administration family as had been rumored when he was sent to a relatively unimportant agricultural conference in Italy last September. The conference came propitiously with the close of the congressional campaign as Democratic leaders moaned that Tugwell was a detriment in drives for farm votes.

Cover Wide Range.

The return visit is seen as placing Tugwell at the right hand of the President. In his own words regarding his conferences, "It would be hard to think of anything we haven't discussed." This is seen as indicating Tugwell will have no little part in the program that comes from Warm Springs to congress in January.

Mr. Richberg flew back to Knoxville in the afternoon. While he refused to comment on his visit to Knoxville, it is believed he conferred with David Lilienthal, TVA director, who now resides in that city.

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 1.—[U.P.]—President Roosevelt today signed the commission of Katherine F. Lenroot, daughter of the late Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, as chief of the national children's bureau.

Miss Lenroot succeeds Grace Abbott, resigned. She is 43 and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. She served on the industrial commission of her state for two years and in 1914 became a special agent of the children's bureau. She was made assistant chief of the bureau in 1922.

"I consider Miss Lenroot able and well equipped for the position," the President said in a statement announcing her appointment, which must be confirmed by the senate.

BIG TEN EDITORS LASH SEN. LONG'S PRESS MUZZLING

A reorganization of the former Big Ten News service into the Big Ten Editorial association was completed yesterday by eight editors of collegiate dailies of the Western conference after a two-day session at the Hotel Morrison. A resolution was adopted condemning Sen. Huey Long of Louisiana for closing "The Reveille" journal of the University of Louisiana. J. Ben Lieberman, editor of the Daily Illini at the University of Illinois, was elected president of the new organization, and Charles H. Bernard, editor of the University of Wisconsin Daily Cardinal was named secretary and treasurer.

ALSCHULER QUITS AS APPEAL COURT PRESIDING JUDGE

Samuel Alschuler, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, yesterday resigned as presiding judge of the circuit, but will remain on the bench as a judge. Evan A. Evans will assume the duties of presiding justice. Judge Alschuler was appointed in 1915 by President Wilson and for the last twelve years has been presiding judge. Last week he celebrated his 75th birthday. He gave his age as the reason for his resignation. The new presiding judge is 58 years old. The other two judges of the Seventh circuit are Will M. Sparks and Louis Fitzhenry.

SENATOR LEWIS ASSAILS WORLD COURT, DEBT CUT

Calls Hutchins Report a "Genteel Fraud."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis declared yesterday against war debt cancelation and against adherence of America to the world court of the league of nations, a question which may be renewed in the coming session of congress next month.

The senator, who is in Chicago for a few days, characterized as "pretentious altruism and a refined fraud," some of the recommendations as to debts and world court made in a recent report of the commission of inquiry into national policy in international economic relations, of which Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, is chairman.

Amazed by Findings.

In a statement, holding that at a time when opinion is concentrated upon national recovery, the administration deems it inappropriate to drag in the world court question, Senator Lewis said:

"I was surprised, I may say amazed, at a report published as from one of the attachés of the administration in the incidental commissions, President Hutchins of the University of Chicago, and his committee associates, recommending the United States to go into the world court at this time and saying, as I gathered, that the foreign debts due us were to be canceled down to some small lump sum to be accepted by our government in full payment.

Repudiates Intimations.

"It also volunteered to add that such steps would invite new trade between our country and Europe and new friendly relations, as though such expression were given out as an aid to the policy of the President to negotiate new trade treaties under the law we gave him just as the congress closed.

"For myself, I repudiate the pretense of any organization assuming that the President endorses the views expressed in that report. While I have no specific information or direction from the President, I do inform the public of my constituency that the President is not repudiating his pledge to the American public to collect the debt by some just method, and under no consideration now existing suggesting or consenting that the world court or any other international tribunal is to be given the jurisdiction of the debts due America to dispose of according to its own will despite the rights of the American public."

"It is plain that the effort being made to put us into the world court is a renewed device to put our debt before the court after inciting the court to decide that the war debt due us is a debt of our own to ourselves, on the thetory that the loan of money by America to the allies was a contribution to the cause for which the war was being fought and should not be charged to the nations to whom it was lent.

"This pretentious altruism is a refined fraud. America must be on guard against those agencies and associations which under the pretense of altruism and national generosity would cheat America of her financial protection and national defense."

As to politics and the senatorship two years hence Senator Lewis had no comment to make.

YULETIDE TEA IS DELIVERED TO J. P. MORGAN

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Two weeks ahead of its schedule in receipt years, J. P. Morgan's Christmas tea arrived today from China. The truck rolled up at midforenoon to the Morgan offices.

One hundred and twenty-two cases, each blazoned with a startling red dragon, were piled on the sidewalk. For a time the shipment rested at the curb, its wrappings glistening in the drizling rain. Then the cases were carried into the building and were swallowed up in the mystery that for a score of years has engulfed their predecessors.

Mr. Morgan, carrying on a custom started by his father, distributes the tea at Christmas among his friends. Some of it is reported also to be served in the private lunchroom of the Morgan partners. No details of the distribution ever are made known, however.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE MEANING OF BURCCRACY.

"The name 'self-government' would be a mockery," said the lord chief justice of England, addressing the American Bar association in 1927, "if it should come to mean government by a vast array of anonymous officials, hidden from view but placed above the law and administering a topsy-turvy system whereby the servants of the public had made themselves its masters."

A better concise description of what is happening to us under the New Deal cannot be found. Lord Hewart is an outstanding opponent of burocratic expansion in England and his revelation of the extent of this development in his country has been illuminating to the British people and has brought about measures which promise its restraint. In the United States likewise there has been a growing discussion of the phenomenon he protests, as it develops swiftly in our country, and recent reports upon it, notably that of the committee on administrative law of the American Bar association, are welcome evidence that it is not to go on without serious challenge. Its editorial discussion in the newspapers, because of limitations of space, is necessarily and unfortunately piecemeal, but it is increasingly supported and its generalities elucidated by specialists and organized citizen bodies.

The American people have lived so long free from intensive and widespread official regulation that the word burocracy, and, even more, the legal term administrative law, does not mean much to them. Yet both summarize a development in American government which in recent years, and especially since the arrival of the New Deal, is rapidly transforming American government and entangling all private enterprise to an extent rightly called by its advocates revolutionary. To realize what is going on and to weigh its consequences has become the chief duty of the American citizenry, as Lord Hewart's summary warns us.

For example, the committee on administrative law of the American Bar association roughly estimates that the trade practice codes of the NRA prohibit between 4,500 and 5,000 methods of business conduct. This enormous impromptu engine of government control reaches the small merchant as well as the large, and often with more disastrous results. Such a system in fact abolishes freedom in American enterprise, small and great. This development is recommended to us partly as an expedient of emergency, but also as a permanent system of planning alleged to be an improvement upon a free system and necessary to our salvation from anarchy or communist or Fascist despotism.

The American people owe it to themselves to consider the validity of these explanations and also the full meaning of the alternative offered them. If we are invited to escape one form of autocrat rule it is still worth while to consider whether we need or wish to adopt another. It is difficult for a people who have so long enjoyed what our forefathers called "the blessings of freedom" to realize they are in danger of losing them. An acquaintance with the facts would give them a startling enlightenment. We will quote one passage from a searching analysis made by Mr. Gilbert Montague of the New York bar: "Hundreds of business men"—he might truthfully have said thousands—"having complied with every provision of every code they thought applied to them, are now awakening to the unpleasant realization that they are today in peril of criminal penalties, injunction proceedings, damage suits, and heavy money forfeitures for failure to comply with unsuspected provisions of other codes to which they have never paid any attention because they never realized that these codes were in any way applicable to them. These conditions and the profusion with which functions and powers of the President under NRA have had to be delegated by the President to thousands of functionaries inside and outside the National Recovery administration are necessarily a standing invitation to the possibility of hole-in-the-corner, particularistic, overlapping, coercive, monopolistic, uneconomic, and unevenly enforced executive-made laws."

Despotic rule in modern times is compelled to wear a benign and smiling countenance. The worst despotism of the modern age, if not all ages, professes high humanitarianism, but the machinery of autocratic rule works its will upon men and there is hardly any tyranny more intolerable than that of the petty burocrat of whom we are now making not our thousands but our tens of thousands.

THE GOLDEN WEST.

Prof. Curran calls attention in the current number of the Illinois Law Review to a case arising in Kansas City. Kansas, he says, has a law which holds a municipality liable for damages from mob action, a mob being defined as an aggregation of at least five persons. Under this law, a gentleman in Kansas City is suing for damages suffered when he was mobbed by his eight children.

San Francisco is warming up to the idea of holding a world's fair in 1938 to celebrate the completion of the city's two new bridges, one crossing the Golden Gate and the other connecting San Francisco with Oakland. Most of the money has come from the federal treasury. When San Francisco sends a delegation to Washington to get a fat appropriation for the celebration of its civic enterprise in bridge building the gold cup will be transferred from the "Father of Eight" to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Once upon a time there was a man who was convicted of killing his mother and father. When asked if he had anything to say for himself before sentence was passed, he begged for mercy on the ground that he was an orphan. This man never held the gold cup. He is purely fictional.

DIRECT ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

When congress meets in January the lame duck amendment will be in effect. The newly elected representatives and senators will be in their seats. Before this they have become moldy on the side lines while the defeated members sported the robes of office and carried on under the sign SPQR. The change is one of several which this generation has seen made in the processes of the republic. Others were the direct election of senators and the inclusion of women in the electorate.

From here it is proposed to proceed to the abolition of the electoral college and the election of President by the direct popular vote. Presumably there have been more arguments in favor of the changes already made than arguments against them. At least they have won out. Their success will give impetus to the demand for the change in the method of electing the President, but some objections will require study.

The vote in the southern states has represented an inconsistency in the American suffrage system which has rested more quietly than might have been anticipated if the situation were to have been considered in the light of theoretical justice and of political interests. The absence of the colored voters' ballots in the election of presidential electors has been accepted by northern Republicans as merely incidental to the south's local control of its own political action. A potentially acute political issue has been dormant when it might have been expected to engage party interests and become violent.

It has been assumed that the Democratic southern states would elect Democratic electors and in nearly every election they have been counted in advance for the Democratic candidate. It is a question if the direct election of President would permit this issue to remain asleep. Northern Republicans, knowing that there were several million unvoted Republican votes in the south, might not complacently see their candidates lose by popular pluralities and majorities which might not have been on the winning side if Negro suffrage in the south were actual instead of merely legal.

CHICAGO NEIGHBORHOOD MOVIES.

Mr. McCutcheon's movie cartoon started considerable discussion and produced some explanations. To some extent in the pictures there is a reversal of what usually prevails in the relation of the great city to the smaller towns. For the most part the countryside comes to the metropolitan area for its diversions, and in the metropolitan area finds the largest satisfaction of its desire to see interesting objects, supply many of its needs, and have a good time.

Although the moving picture industry provides the most generally enjoyed entertainment, the countryside fares better than the city. This is particularly true of the great metropolitan neighborhoods, many of which are in themselves larger than the smaller outside cities. These great neighborhoods are overshadowed by the theatrical needs and policy of the loop and they must take their pictures long after they have been shown in the small towns, and some of the pictures may never reach the neighborhood theaters.

The theaters in the loop have longer runs than is customary in the theaters of the smaller towns and consequently the releases are not taken up in Chicago as rapidly as they may be in such towns as nearby Fond du Lac, Beloit, Rockford, Bloomington, etc. Furthermore, until the loop is through with the releases they are locked up in the cupboards as far as the neighborhoods are concerned. Upon whatever business basis the arrangements may be justified, the result is unsatisfactory to the neighborhoods, where going to the pictures, if the pictures are good, is a reasonable and attractive evening's entertainment for the family.

The people who prefer to take their pictures in their neighborhood theater because of the convenience and ease of it can and do complain that they are underprivileged as compared, say, with the residents of Richmond, Indiana, or Janesville, Wisconsin. The exhibitors in the neighborhoods generally provide their patrons with all the facilities of the moving picture industry except the pictures when they are new and when the patrons are most eager to see them. Many of the Chicago neighborhoods are in themselves cities of large populations and diversified activities. The policy which discriminates against these sections may be more satisfactory to the producers than one which did not so discriminate, and it may be supported by the box office returns, but it is not one of benefit to the families of Chicago.

Editorial of the Day

A GREAT TRAINER.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

Tom Bass, nationally known Negro horseman, died in Missouri the other day. Wherever horsemen gather his passing will be noted, and the triumphs in the show ring of mounts trained by him will be retold. He was a friend of many Presidents, beginning with Cleveland, and in his half century of showmanship demonstrated an unrivaled ability in the training of fine saddle horses.

Such noted horses as Miss Rex, Black Squirrel, Forest King, and Jack o' Diamonds were among his products, and there was a long list of others that owed their celebrity to Bass' teaching. So well was his ability known and so great was the confidence in his integrity that he was intrusted with thousands of dollars by horse fanciers to be expended on his own judgment in selection and in price to be paid for good prospects. He is credited with giving impetus to the movement to hold a horse show in Kansas City, an event that now annually draws thousands.

With the widespread ownership of motor cars the vogue of the many-gaited saddle horse largely passed—the fancy prices once paid for these equine kings and queens no longer prevail. But that the public still has keen interest in them is demonstrated by the crowds attracted at leading exhibitions, which in Bass' day were largely dominated by entries that had come under his masterly touch.

PLANNED ECONOMY

[Extracts from an address by the eminent Swedish economist, Dr. Gustav Cassel, delivered in London, May, 1934.]

The leader of a planned economy will in actual practice find himself confronted with an infinitely greater number of problems and complications than anybody could imagine when constructing that planned economy at his writing table or agitating for it by means of popular simplifications. This is why a planned economy cannot avoid committing a series of mistakes which require corrections, mostly involving new mistakes. In this respect recent experiments in planned economy, e. g., in restriction or encouragement of cultivation of land, have given so many lessons that the idea of planning ought by now to have lost most of its earlier attractiveness, at least in the eyes of unbiased observers.

I shall not worry you with examples of the many appalling mistakes and contradictions continually displayed by so-called planned economies. But I want to draw your attention to the almost complete lack in most of them of any rationally conceived plan for the management of one of the most central problems of social economy, namely, the division of income between saving and consumption. Under former conditions this division was determined by the aggregate of voluntary savings of free individuals. As a matter of fact this process of saving was one of the most stable elements in the economy of the individualistic society, and the consequence was a continual economic progress of a most remarkable steadiness, a rate of progress of about 3 per cent per annum characterizing western civilization, as a whole, through several generations. On the whole, production adapted itself fairly well to this disposition of income and, accordingly, was divided up between capital goods and consumers' goods in corresponding proportions. There were of course in this respect some temporary maladjustments causing depressions and crises, but the healing forces of economic freedom usually restored equilibrium in a comparatively short time.

Planned economy has to solve the same problem, but as the advocates of authoritative leadership have seldom given any serious thought to it there is no distinct plan for handling this most important task of social economy.

Soviet Russia began with a so-called five years' plan involving an increase of capital at a rate far above anything ever conceived by a so-called capitalistic society. Such an economy is of course possible only when consumers are starved, and in Russia, as we know, they were starved to an incredible degree in order that the planned economy should get means for the most gigantic constructions and an unparalleled development of the country's resources along capitalistic lines. Now the Russian authorities seem to have found that they have gone too far in this direction, and at present they are elaborating a new plan which is said to break radically with the former plan, the purpose being to give more attention to the consumers' needs. Such radical alterations in the guiding principles of the authoritative economy correspond to the common crises of the old capitalistic society, but surpass them immensely in severity.

It is one of the most noteworthy paradoxes of economic history that capitalistic America, when it turned to planned economy, should devote its interest mainly to the consumers, and that the Roosevelt administration should do everything in its power to raise the standard of consumption of the American people, whereas the growth of capital was neglected, not to say treated with hostility. In the long run such principles of economy are naturally incompatible with a stable rate of progress and therefore we shall probably see America, just as Russia, turn to a radical change in her economic policy—only in the opposite direction.

These observations prove the complete lack of a well considered plan as to a rational division of income between saving and consumption. But a planned economy without any definite plan for its annual increase of capital is in reality no planned economy at all. It is a pure illusion that the experiments hitherto made in planned economy have brought society a single step nearer to rationalization than it normally was in pre-war days. In essential points the results are absolutely in the opposite direction.

The leadership of the state in economic affairs which advocates of planned economy want to establish is, as we have seen, necessarily connected with a bewildering mass of governmental interferences of a steadily cumulative nature. The arbitrariness, the mistakes and the inevitable contradictions of such policy will, as daily experience shows, only strengthen the demand for a more rational coördination of the different measures and therefore for unified leadership. For this reason planned economy will always tend to develop into dictatorship. The risk of such a development is naturally greatest in those countries that have suffered most and whose people are traditionally accustomed to subordinate themselves to some form of dictatorship. Strong resistance can only be expected from countries where individual freedom has been looked upon through centuries as one of the most precious attainments of civilization and at the same time as a fundamental condition for its further development. But even in such countries the modern fancy for planned economy has driven people much further on the way to dictatorship than is generally recognized. Several measures nowadays taken in this country go so far in sacrificing individual freedom and private rights that they would have filled an old Gladstonian mind with horror. And still there seems to be rather little of strong instinctive reaction against this progressive destruction of the ideals of liberalism and of the principles on which the greatness of this country has been founded. The situation is the same in other countries.

The existence of some sort of parliament is no guarantee against planned economy being developed into dictatorship. On the contrary, experience has shown that representative bodies are unable to fulfill all the multitudinous functions connected with economic leadership without becoming more and more involved in the struggle between competing interests with the consequence of a moral decay ending in party—if not individual—corruption. Examples of such a degrading development are indeed in many countries accumulating at such a speed as must fill every honorable citizen with the gravest apprehensions as to the future of the representative system. But apart from that this system cannot possibly be preserved if parliaments are constantly overworked by having to consider an infinite mass of the most intricate questions relating to private economy. The parliamentary system can be saved only by wise and deliberate restriction of the functions of parliaments.

Economic dictatorship is much more dangerous than people believe. Once authoritative control has been established it will not always be possible to limit it to the economic domain. If we allow economic freedom and self-reliance to be destroyed the powers standing for liberty will have lost so much in strength that they will not be able to offer any effective resistance against a progressive extension of such destruction to constitutional and public life generally. And if this resistance is gradually given up—perhaps without people ever realizing what is actually going on—such fundamental values as personal liberty, freedom of thought and speech and independence of science are exposed to imminent danger. What stands to be lost is nothing less than the whole of that civilization that we have inherited from generations which once fought hard to lay its foundations and even gave their lives for it. What they have accomplished and handed down to us is a precious inheritance, placing upon the present generation the commanding responsibility of maintaining such treasures intact for the benefit of future generations. This historical responsibility falls with its heaviest weight on those nations that have done most for the development of freedom and for the life and prosperity of which individual liberty had played the most dominant part.

How to Keep Well

MUCOUS COLITIS.

The intestinal tube will stand a lot of abuse. There may come a time, however, when persistent and continuous irritation stimulates the glands to produce abnormally large quantities of stringy mucus. This is the chief symptom of so-called mucous colitis, and unless the condition is relieved there may be signs of toxin absorption with various nervous or psychic symptoms. In some cases there is a more or less persistent abdominal soreness, now and then amounting to acute pain.

In addition to abdominal pain and discomfort, fatigue attended with nervousness and apprehension is usually present. Patients feel tired even though they do not engage in the slightest exertion, and the fatigue is mental as well as physical. There seems to be a fairly close relationship between poor functioning of the intestinal tract and the development of nervous symptoms. Patients present a picture of physical and nervous exhaustion; they shirk business and social responsibilities; are inclined to worry, and are prone to exaggerate their symptoms, to make mountains out of molehills. Specialists in gastro-intestinal disorders recognize this group almost at sight.

The diagnosis is usually made by the patient himself, who will give a history of passing slimy stools or stools mixed with ropes of tenacious mucus or flecked with bits of scalelike membrane. Although diarrhea in this condition is the rule, constipation that is persistent and obstinate and that is alternated now and then with periods of diarrhea is quite common.

There seems to be no specific organism that is characteristic of all cases exhibiting the symptoms of mucous colitis. Within recent years J. A. Bargen has grown an organism from which vaccines have been made and in certain cases definite improvement has followed their use.

Treatment requires patience and perseverance. An individual with a well established case of mucous colitis is exceedingly fortunate if recovery is brought about within a year. First of all, everything possible must be done to build up the patient's resistance. Rest must be balanced against exercise. A diet is then prescribed that eliminates all substances, generally classed under the head of roughage, that may irritate the delicate mucous lining of the intestine, such as whole wheat bread, salads, and coarse vegetables.

Because of pain or previous bad experience many of these patients do not take enough food, and in prescribing a bland diet care must be taken to see that plenty of food is eaten. If milk is relished this substance should form a considerable portion of the diet. In fact a strict milk diet for two or three days is ofttimes helpful. Lean meat and eggs may be gradually added to thoroughly cooked, bran free breakfast foods, rice, and custards. For one or two days of each week meat and eggs should be omitted and the diet limited to milk, rice, and cooked cereals.

Mucous colitis cannot be relieved by laxatives, although it is occasionally necessary to use a laxative to empty the bowel of excessive quantities of mucus. If mineral oil will succeed there is no better form of laxative. Now and then castor oil will be needed. Irritating laxatives such as aloin, calomel, or salts should be avoided. Colon irrigations—so popular in some quarters—probably do more harm than good, although it is admitted that there are certain cases in which colon irrigations are of value. More can be accomplished by rest and proper diet than by any or all other procedures.

A special colitis diet list will be sent on request. Send a stamped and addressed envelope.

BASEDOW'S DISEASE.

E. O. N. writes:
1. What is Basedow's disease?
2. Is it of long duration?
3. Can it be cured?
4. What are the symptoms?
5. What is migraine?
6. What is the cure?

REPLY.

1. Graves' disease or exophthalmic goiter.
2. It may come on rapidly but, as a rule, it is slow in developing.
3. Yes, removal of the thyroid gland is the correct treatment.
4. Rapid heart, tremor, increased nervousness, usually some rise in blood pressure, protrusion of the eyeballs.
5. Migraine is characterized by periodic attacks of headache, usually accompanied by nausea and great prostration. It is probably a nerve fatigue phenomenon.
6. No specific cure has been discovered. Many cases, however, can be relieved. Chondroitin sulphuric acid has been found effective in a high percentage of cases.

ENLARGED KIDNEY.

Mrs. J. M. writes: 1. What causes an enlarged kidney?

2. Can infection in the tube leading from the kidney be successfully treated by antiseptics given by mouth?

3. Is there a diet that will aid in this condition?

REPLY.

1. The kidney enlarges in the presence of disease such as acute nephritis, or whenever there is an obstruction to the outflow of urine, or when cysts or tumors occur in the kidney substance.
2. No one should attempt home treatment of such a condition. A competent urologist should be consulted.
3. The ketogenic diet has been recommended and has been successful in many cases.

BUNIONS.

I. W. writes: I believe I am getting bunions. Can they be prevented?

REPLY.

Be sure that you have a properly fitting shoe. Sacrifice style if necessary. Perhaps there is a break in what is called the transverse arch. That can be remedied by means of a proper support. If the condition is not relieved by proper footgear you should consult an orthopedic surgeon.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—Already at a loss to dispose of the wheat surplus which is ruining peasants in the north and east of France by rendering their grain virtually unsalable, the French government is now confronted with a new problem which is fully as grave—the wine crisis.

For years wine growers in the south of France and in Algeria have been complaining of falling prices, due to overproduction, but in the last few weeks the collapse of prices on the wine markets has been so rapid that the wine growers are now in a worse state than the wheat farmers. Bumper vintages due to unusual weather conditions last summer are responsible.

Wine is a staple agricultural product in France and no more of a luxury than milk is in America. Not even the humblest French peasant or worker would think of sitting down to a meal without his bottle of wine on the table. Even little children are allowed to color their water with the national beverage. If you hire a cook or a maid, the law stipulates that in addition to her food you must supply her with at least one quart of wine a day.

This gives an idea of the place which wine occupies in French economy. France annually consumes some 18,000,000 gallons of wine. There are 3,250,000 acres of land planted with vines in this country and almost 1,000,000 acres in Algeria. Estimates place this year's production of wine at 22,000,000 gallons, with large surpluses already on hand.

The result is misery for the peasants who grow and press the grapes. Throughout the country vats and tanks are full to the brim and in many villages the peasants cannot find receptacles to hold the liquid, so thousands of gallons have to be poured out.

In some places where there was drouth peasants gave wine to their live stock to drink instead of water, it being cheaper, and intoxicated mules, horses and oxen could be seen staggering about the landscape.

The low price of wine combined with the scarcity of receptacles to hold it has given rise to a curious situation in many parts of the country which delighted city tourists are learning to exploit. If you take two empty casks to a country wine merchant or farmer who presses his own wine he will fill one of them for you, keeping the other as payment.

Land values have fallen tremendously. You can buy fifty acres of vineyard with a house and barn for less than it cost to buy the vines which are planted on it. Land values are further depressed by innumerable forced sales of property belonging to peasants who cannot pay taxes or meet the interest on mortgages.

In order to avert ruin the wine growers have to slash expenses, and since 65 per cent of their overhead is for labor, they are laying off their help.

The underlying cause of the present crisis is the development of wine growing in Algeria. Around 1875 France's wine production was cut in half by phyloxera, a plant disease, and to supply the deficit large scale planting was started in Algeria. Algeria has steadily boosted its production ever since, flooding France with a cheap wine against which the French wine growers cannot compete. In France likewise production has increased greatly.

Several years ago parliament tried to ward off the wine crisis by passing a law obliging the big producers to withhold a part of their crop from the wine market and sell it at a fixed price to a government alcohol monopoly for distillation. This complicated piece of economic planning has failed to keep up prices for two reasons. In the first place, it only applies to growers producing more than 100 gallons a year, and the bulk of France's wine is grown by peasants with a small patch of terraced hillside. In the second place, there is now a surplus of alcohol which is weighing on the potato market.

Many experts now advocate a return to an absolutely free market for wine. Others call for measures similar to recent American agricultural legislation subsidizing the peasants to root up their vines until the surplus acreage is reduced.

ESTATE DISTRIBUTION.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a will, settled in 1924 or 1925, be reopened? 2. What is done with the income from an estate between the time of death and settlement with heirs? 3. Can that be given to any select few where the will clearly states "share and share alike"? This is farm land and the sons had been tenants for a long time prior to the owner's death and we were notified they were to use the farms as tenants only. But they were allowed the entire income of the 480 acres of farm land and products. 4. Now they are trying to do us women on 80 which we own jointly. 5. Could we threaten [as a wedge] to open the will and collect what they took unfairly from us, with interest over a period of nine or ten years? A. M. W.

1. If you mean that the probate proceedings were completed in 1925, then ordinarily it would not be practicable to reopen the proceedings now.
2. The income from real estate should go to the heirs if the estate is solvent. The income from personal property should, in general, go to the personal representative and be accounted for by him.
3. No.
4. We do not understand this statement.
5. We advise you to discuss the entire situation in a personal interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GARNISHMENT PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am employed as a bookkeeper in a small retail store which accepts some sales on credit. What is the proper proceeding to attach wages or garnishment of debtors who are working but do not pay their accounts? E. L. A.

As a preliminary, it is necessary to secure a judgment against the debtor. After that, the garnishment against your debtor's employer resembles a new suit. Ordinarily, it is advisable to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What steps should be taken to put a will in probate? 2. Must one have a lawyer? 3. How long after will has been filed must one wait for clear title? 4. About what are the costs to put will through Probate court? L. C.

1. The first step would be to employ an attorney.
2. There is no such legal requirement, but see 1.
3. Creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims. Ordinarily, the estate should be closed shortly after the expiration of such year.
4. The fees of your executor and attorney would be the largest item and the statute says that they shall not exceed 6 per cent of the personal property in ordinary cases.

CREATIVE FREEDOM.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Your splendid editorial in Sunday's issue, "Creative Freedom," is one which should awaken every true American to the peril of political dictatorship.

In the Declaration of Independence, 1776, you may find the following clauses. They appear very much like the dangers of today. They refer to the acts of a tyrant who misruled these colonies:

"He has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws, giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation.

"For imposing taxes on us without our consent.

"For depriving us in many cases of the benefit of trial by jury.

"For taking away our charter, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our government."

Reading these lines one cannot but compare the morale of our citizens today with that of those sturdy patriots. They fought for a liberty which is our birthright, ours to defend. F. H. W.

OMNISCIENT WASHINGTON.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 27.—The Tribune seems to be worried lately about the federal government's steady gain of power at the expense of the states. In an article on the editorial page Sunday, Nov. 25, Harley L. Clarke asks why a lot of things are being done by the United States government when the federal constitution gives the states the right to do all these and seems to forbid them to the national government.

The answer to The Tribune and to Mr. Clarke is that Thomas Jefferson may have been mistaken in his opinion as to where most of the power should be. Jefferson was only theorizing about the matter. He could not point to any old government that had tried his theories out for a century or so. The American people have since had one hundred and fifty years of practical experience to prove where the best place for authority is if they want to get things done. Theoretically the state of Illinois should be able to rid itself of Al Capone and a dozen of his fellow roughnecks. But in practice it couldn't do it. The United States government had to be called in to do the job.

Each of the states ought to be able to take care of its own poor during this depression, but they are not doing it. The federal government has to shoulder a large part of the burden.

Thomas Jefferson was a great man, but he talked some nonsense, too, as when he says in the Declaration of Independence that "it is self-evident that all men are created equal." Jefferson had to back down on some of his own theories when, as President, he made the Louisiana purchase. He admitted as much.

Somebody has said that in human life our tail-lights are brighter than our headlights are. Jefferson was looking at the situation with his headlights, which were not so bright. The American public are looking back over the matter with their tail-lights, which are brighter and which show them that if they want things done efficiently the national government is the place for the responsibility and power.

The best of these great men are mistaken sometimes, as was Napoleon when he laughed at Robert Fulton's steamboat as a good joke. C. J. Butler.

THEY NEED BOOKS.

Hardy, Ark., Nov. 24.—This community is located in the heart of the Ozark hills. The people are of the purest Anglo-Saxon blood. They live in huts and hovels as bad or worse than the slums of the great city. We need books and other school materials for these people. They would be a great people if they knew how to live. There are a few that are alert and ready to be leaders if you will help them.

SUGGESTION TO THE BIG TEN.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—I wonder if some one would explain to me why it would not be a plausible thing for each Big Ten football team to play all the others during the season. With one or possibly two exceptions all of the teams now play an eight game schedule. The only noticeable change would be the necessity of extending the season one more week or not quite a week, say to Thanksgiving day, and play nine games.

It has been proven that no loss of spectator interest is evinced by early season games between big schools, but that these games really help evoke interest earlier. The football season is relatively short in comparison to baseball and other sports, so that by the time interest is awakened in the general public outside of the regular fan the season is practically over. With the extension of the season, this extra game and the playing of games between conference opponents right from the start, interest would be enlivened early and held longer.

The eastern schools, such as Yale, Harvard, and Princeton, do not care to participate in Rose Bowl games, but if the Big Ten should, from time to time, after a year of competition between themselves, want to compare their strength with other conferences, they would not have a difficult time getting invited to the New Year's day classic on the coast. For that matter, charity would be glad to arrange a post-season game with some other sectional winner.

The extra physical exertion necessary to the playing of the extra conference games on the part of the players I do not believe would be injurious or detrimental. There are other conference and nonconference teams that play as many as ten games during the season without dire results.

Laurence F. Nugent.

THE GOVERNMENT AS COMPETITOR.

River Forest, Ill., Nov. 27.—Your editorial on the lag in railway freight is anything but a fair and impartial presentation of the facts.

Railroads in Illinois, like the Illinois Central, pay 7 per cent of their gross [not net] receipts as taxes, and are taxed to build the highways for their competitors, who pay no taxes not paid by any other motor car owner, although they use the highways for their own enrichment and decline to handle anything but high revenue paying freight. I pay special assessments of $10 to $16 per front foot for paving the street which the heavy trucks use for their profit and destroy.

The government develops the waterways, takes care of the dams, locks, barges, etc., without charging one cent of interest or overhead; obliges the towns along the waterway to build docks, pays no taxes, and at the end of the year proudly announces that the federal barge is operating in the black, i. e., has met its pay roll, but nothing else.

The government builds the Panama canal, collects tolls that do not pay the interest on the outstanding bonds, and declines to permit the railroads to meet the Panama canal competition, but compels them instead to haul from 41 to 62 per cent of the cars empty, westbound, to take care of the loads eastbound instead of allowing them to publish rates that would fill these empty cars and pay their way west.

What if the government printed a newspaper in Chicago, furnished the newsprint paper free, made no charge for the presses and distribution, cut the price of advertising in half or better, and charged only ink and wages against its cost? How long would The Tribune consider it fair competition or be able to exist? C. E. Christopher.

FOOTBALL TOTEMS.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Your editorial today on "Football Totems and Taboos" hits the nail on the head. Why don't some of these meddling profs stay in their classrooms where they belong? If they were smart they would arrange post-season games, and the receipts would be used for the purpose of building a home for taboo-minded professors.

CHICAGO'S SCOTS FOREGATHER AT FEAST OF HAGGIS

Speakers Bishop Stewart and Floyd Thompson.

The ancient Scottish feast of the haggis was celebrated last night at the 89th anniversary dinner of the St. Andrew Society of Illinois in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer house. More than 1,200 Chicagoans of Scottish descent attended the banquet, which is held each year on the birthday anniversary of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland.

Proceeds of the dinner will be turned over to the Scottish Old People's home in Riversode. William Cameron, president of the Cameron Can Machinery company and chairman of the board of governors of the old people's home, reported that the banquet nets each year more than $2,000.

Bishop and Attorney Speak.

"The total expenses of operating the home amount to about $25,000 each year," he said. "With money donated by members of the society, endowment funds, and contributions from other sources, plus what we obtain from our annual dinner, we are able to maintain the home in the manner that it should be."

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, spoke on "The Land We Left," and Floyd E. Thompson, former Supreme court justice, spoke on "The Land We Live In." William Lister, corporation counsel of Evanston, acted as toastmaster.

Among the others who attended the banquet were James B. Forgan Jr., James B. McDougal, James Simpson, Robert Black, R. Douglas Stuart, Arthur W. Fulton, John T. Cunningham, the Rev. Allison A. McCracken, James Sutherland, William F. G. Ross, James R. Glass, Gilbert Alexander, Alexander Ferguson, and Robert W. Hall.

The Haggis Is Borne In.

Greetings were exchanged by telegram with St. Andrew societies in Halifax, N. S.; Savannah, Ga.; Philadelphia, Pa., and other cities.

The rite honoring the haggis was the principal ceremony of the banquet. The doors of the banquet hall were opened and a trumpeter announced the entrance of a dozen Highlanders playing the bagpipes followed by two "braw" Scots carrying the food memorialized by Robert Burns in his "Ode to the Haggis."

"We're fa' yer honest saucy face
"Great Chieftain of the puddin' race."

Ritual of Ancient Origin.

The dish is a mixture of sheep's hearts and livers with onions, barley, oatmeal and spices, all cooked in the stomach of a lamb. Bishop Stewart explained that the feast goes back to the earliest history of Scotland and was probably a continuance of the pagan ritual of sacrificing a ram to the gods.

Soviet Brain Trust Plans 'TVA' to Modernize Siberia

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—[By courier and mail].—Soviet plans for transforming the howling Siberian wildernesses into a modernized territory continue to unfold—at least on paper. With double-tracking of the Trans-Siberian railway actually under way, soviet leaders are fond of declaring their ability under what they term "socialist construction methods" to perform in four or five years a job which occupied the Americans and Canadians for three-quarters of a century in the development of their west.

I. G. Alexandrov, described as an academician, has just returned to Moscow with a group of scientists, including geologists and power specialists, from an inspection of the Siberian Lake Baikal region. They recommend the construction of a whole series of power plants and other industrial establishments along the Angara river, which flows out of the southern end of Lake Baikal.

Claims Great Water Power.

Prof. Alexandrov's commission declares that the water power avilable far exceeds that of the Dneiper hydro-electrical development which recently was completed under the direction of the American engineer Cooper, who built the Keokuk dam across the Mississippi. It asserts that the development of this new project will make possible the industrialization in short order of a territory which today is covered with taiga, or dense forests of pine, spruce, and birch.

It is a rugged district of short mountain ranges, deep, swift rivers and is reported to contain gold, copper, tungsten, molybdenum, and extensive deposits of coal.

The present day Russians profess a profound contempt for the so-called "noble metals," gold, platinum, and silver, but admit that as the soviet union is surrounded by capitalism, "we must also pay attention to those things." They declare that later, in a pure communist society, these precious minerals will forfeit their importance as "sacred idols and will serve the more prosaic needs of mankind." In the meantime, however, they are digging the gold out of these hills and valleys by all possible primitive and modern methods.

Admit Iron Scarcity.

Prof. Alexandrov claimed in his report that the development of the power resources of the Angara river will facilitate the exploitation of the iron deposits in the Tungus basin to the north. Coal apparently exists in abundance in the Irkutsk territory, but practically all Russian engineers admit the scarcity of iron throughout the soviet far east, excepting in the far north, and even here they admit the lack of adequate scientific data regarding the extent of deposits. As the situation is now, all steel rails, bridge iron, and bars for concrete reinforcing must be shipped for thousands of miles over the Trans-Siberian from the Kuznetsk coal and iron basin.

The soviets admit that the location of iron and coal in widely separated areas provides a complex problem. This they hope to solve through the development of electrical energy from the mountain streams of the Baikal plateau. But there is a further complexity in the fact that these streams are frozen through the long winters.

A recent report by V. V. Kuibyshev, president of the state planning body, points out other weaknesses in the industrialization program, such as the inadequacy of railway communication.

Equality Not Envisaged.

Realization that the soviets are running into grave difficulties in seeking to transform an agricultural and pastoral country so quickly into an industrial nation was evidenced, too, in Dictator Stalin's declaration to the last party congress.

"The communist system does not envisage equality," he said. "Every Leninist knows, if he is a real Leninist, that equality in the sphere of requirements and personal life is a piece of reactionary petty bourgeois stupidity worthy of a primitive sect of ascetics, but not of a Socialist society organized on Marxian lines, because we cannot demand that all people should have the same requirements and tastes, that all people shall live their individual lives in the same way."

In other words, to make these new gigantic factories operate efficiently it has been necessary to adopt the piecework system of payment for laborers, and in none of these new plants is so-called "equalitarian socialism" practiced from the standpoint of wages. The adoption of the passport and registration system for all workers has made it extremely difficult for those dissatissfied at one place to move to another without the consent of the authorities. Forced mass migration of workers from one point of the country to another is of course another feature of the "socialist system."

Soviet officials claim, however, that "socialist methods" have made possible a gold mining development which far exceeds anything that the British Lena Goldfields, Ltd., was able to accomplish in the old days.

The Lena river, which with its own tributaries drains most of the extensive area to the northeast of Lake Baikal, has always been a gold producing district, exceeding, according to soviet statements, the Klondike and other districts of Alaska, which it greatly resembles.

COURT DEFENDS LABOR SECTION OF NRA IN EAST

Gives Union and Company Week to Agree.

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—In a decision defending section 7a of the NRA as "the Rubicon of industrial relations" Supreme Court Justice William Harman Black today gave the Doll and Toy Workers' union and Ralph A. Freundlich, Inc., doll manufacturers of 200 5th avenue, one week in which to adjust their differences. In case of failure, Justice Black said, the court will see to it that the provisions of section 7a are strictly enforced. This section provides for collective bargaining by employés.

"If 7A is sustained better relations between employer and employé may go forward. If it is nullified that progress may be temporarily halted," said Justice Black.

May Become Detriment.

"If it is to be used as a fort, behind which either side may retire every time a situation arises not entirely to its liking, its passage, instead of being a benefit, will be a detriment to the rights of everybody. In interpreting this, therefore, great care must be taken to consider the evils at the time it was intended to remedy and whether the remedy is constitutional.

"If employers, after all the laborious investigation by an impartial arbitrator, can violate their agreements and his findings on the ground that the agreement is in violation of 7a of the NRA, then the unions could likewise break their solemn contract."

There has been disagreement between the union and the manufacturer for more than a year.

Warns of Dictatorship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Government dictatorship over wages and working hours may spring up if the NRA is junked, the retail code authority warned today.

The code authority's warning was contained in its publication, "Code Notes," which appealed to the merchants of the country, as the largest class of employers, to give serious consideration to the future of the recovery program.

"The only alternative to a code," the code authority said, "would be straight federal regulation of the labor provisions with no opportunity for self-government."

Calls It Disastrous.

Such an eventuality, the code authority pointed out, would be disastrous to workers as well as their employers because both groups might find themselves regimented under officials "who might very well be less representative of the best interests of the merchants or their employés."

The code authority called on merchants to decide on how they would like to see the recovery program changed or continued.

NRA WOULD FIX PRICE ON USED FIRE ENGINES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—If you have a second hand fire engine or street sweeper lying around your back yard you better get rid of it before the NRA goes into action.

Still endeavoring to regulate minute details of business despite declarations to the contrary, the NRA is now considering price fixing on second hand fire engines and street sweepers. The regulations would follow the general lines of those governing the trade-in value of second hand automobiles.

Suggestions that the government set prices on this comparatively unimportant type of business were placed before the NRA by the code authority for the motor fire apparatus industry. The suggestions probably will be adopted unless objections from the industry itself block them. They would require all manufacturers to set the trade-in value which they will allow cities and other bodies on second hand fire engines and street sweepers.

Despite frequent declarations to the contrary, the NRA continues to accept and act favorably on price and production control measures such as this one.

Russell Hanson, Famed Illinois Prosecutor, Dies

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Russell O. Hanson, 42, former state's attorney of La Salle county, died at his home here today following a stroke of apoplexy. Hanson gained nationwide notice for his work in the trial of Harry Hill, prosecuted as the slayer of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, wealthy Streator widow, who was buried in the basement of her home. He also prosecuted the case against Hiram Reed, who was convicted of bombing a Dana schoolhouse in an effort to kill his sweetheart, Miss Ione Bradford, the teacher.

NEW WILLS FILED

The following wills were admitted to probate yesterday and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

JOHN B. MATHONY, died Nov. 22. Estate $6,500 to four daughters. Marie Louise Spitzer, daughter, executrix.

ANNA M. CROWE, died Sept. 24. Estate $2,100 to three brothers and two sisters. James F. Crowe, brother, executor.

SHE'S 101 TODAY

MRS. CAROLINE F. WILLETS.

Mrs. Caroline Frisby Willets, a resident of Chicago for the last 82 years, will celebrate her 101st birthday today in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harriet W. Grace, 7027 Yale avenue.

With her for the day will be her daughter; her two grandsons, Arthur Grace of St. Louis and Willets Grace of Buffalo, N. Y., and two great-grandchildren. In addition, the family will hold open house all afternoon.

It was as a girl 19 years old that Mrs. Willets, then Caroline Frisby, came to Chicago from Oswego, N. Y., to make her home on Monroe street near La Salle street. Later she lived at 15th street and Wabash avenue, and only two days before the Chicago fire moved to 35th street and Michigan avenue to a building which was destroyed in the flames.

Although not so active now as she was a year ago, Mrs. Willets is still alert of eye and quick of mind. She reads the newspapers every day and has decided political views. Throughout her 101 years she has enjoyed excellent health. She cooked a complete Christmas dinner for 12 when she was 93.

She has no recipe for growing old, but attributes her own long life largely to regular habits—going to bed and going to church.

I. L. BEAUBIEN, OF OLD CHICAGO FAMILY, DEAD

Funeral services for Isadore L. Beaubien, 78 years old, a son of Gen. Jean Baptiste Beaubien, member of one of the earliest Chicago families, will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. from the chapel at 3905 Lincoln avenue. Burial will be at Forest Home cemetery.

Mr. Beaubien died Friday morning in his home at 1714 Sunnyside avenue, after a long illness. He was born in Chicago in 1856, the son of Gen. Beaubien by his third wife, Catherine Louise Penny, who died in 1910. Mr. Beaubien was a half-brother of Alexander Beaubien, who was credited with being the first white child born in Chicago, and he was a nephew of Mark Beaubien, who operated Chicago's first hotel, the Sauganash.

Until his retirement three years ago, Mr. Beaubien was a salesman with Armour & Co. He is survived by his widow, Gertrude; a son, J. Leslie; a daughter, Mrs. Leah G. Healy, two sisters and a brother.

$2,500,000 GIFT BY MISS FRICK TO KIN REVEALED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP)—A gift of nearly $2,500,000 by Miss Helen Frick of New York to her brother, Childs Frick, is disclosed in the audit of the estate of their mother, Mrs. Henry Clay Frick, widow of the coke and steel king. Both Miss Frick and her brother are independently wealthy.

The document, filed in Orphans' court, cites the transfer of Miss Frick's half in a $5,000,000 trust fund which she was to share with her brother under the terms of the will of Mrs. Frick, who died in 1931. Both were bequeathed fortunes in 1919 upon the death of their father, who left approximately $94,000,000.

Miss Frick made the transfer four days after her mother's death, retaining only the family mansion in Pittsburgh, her father's private railroad car, and property in Massachusetts.

After bequests to charities, the audit revealed the fund now amounts to $4,564,949, out of which inheritance taxes remain to be paid.

COMMUNITY FUND PLEDGES PUSHED PAST $2,625,000

Third Trade Group in 3 Days Reaches Quota.

The retail clothing unit in the Community Fund campaign became the third trade group in three days to reach its quota when A. E. Bastien, its chairman, yesterday turned in pledges for $263.25, bringing the total to $48.05 more than the $5,000 quota.

Other trade units which have gone over the top in the last few days are the electrical group, headed by C. J. Maloney, and the architects and building materials group, of which John A. Holabird is chairman. Eleven trade groups in all have obtained pledges in excess of their allotted amounts thus far in the campaign, according to announcement from the campaign headquarters at 111 West Washington street. Four more are past the 90 per cent mark.

Bank's Staf Pledges $18,746.

With total pledges in the $3,000,000 campaign totaling more than $2,625,000, Community fund leaders are urging a concerted drive to complete the drive within the next ten days.

A pledge of $18,746 from employés of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was the largest obtained by the campaigners during the last week. Employés of the Northern Trust company made the second largest contribution, $6,175. Two $5,000 pledges were turned in from the Utilities Power and Light company and employés of Swift & Co. The latter pledge was in addition to $25,000 previously pledged by the Swift employés. Federal Reserve bank employés pledged $4,700, the Wander company furnished $4,000, and employés of the Palmer House company pledged $3,500.

Other Large Pledges Listed.

Other large pledges of the week and their signers were:

$2,500—Kroger-Consumers Sanitary stores, The Borg-Warner corporation, and Corn Products Refining company.
$2,379.90—Pullman company, Pullman, Inc., and the Pullman Car Manufacturing company.
$2,315.64—Employés of the Morton Salt company.
$2,000—N. P. Severin company, Chicago Times company and employés, New York Life Insurance company employés, and employés of the Cochran and McCluer company.
$1,900—Employés of the Sinclair Refining company.
$1,600—Goodman Manufacturing company employés.
$1,500—Employés of the Sears-Roebuck & Co. mail order division [additional pledge] and Kraft-Phenix Cheese company.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Florence Deutschle of Lombard and Miss Katherine Gaul and a brother, Charles H. Gaul of Pasadena, Cal. Services will be held in the chapel at 929 Belmont avenue at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

HORNER HERE TO MAKE PLAN FOR RAISING 36 MILLION RELIEF FUND

Gov. Horner came to Chicago from Springfield yesterday for a week-end of conferences on relief legislation which must be considered by the legislature when it convenes next month. The federal government has announced that it will help Illinois in its relief financing until Jan. 15, and a bill incorporating some new plan of raising $36,000,000 annually for the state's share will be introduced as one of the first matters to be given consideration in the new assembly session.

Today the governor will consult with Mayor Kelly on the problem. Several suggestions have been made, the one apparently receiving most attention having to do with the sales tax. Talk of increasing the tax rate from 2 to 3 per cent, of enlarging its base to include the services of professional men, and of diverting this new revenue to relief has been general. There is also the matter of new taxes—on tobacco, for example—or of increasing the 3 cent gasoline tax.

Neither the governor nor the mayor are committed to any of these suggestions, it is understood, but Mayor Kelly does not favor increasing the sales tax. Although a formal announcement may not be made after today's meeting, the mayor and the governor probably will review all the proposals.

SUBURBS TO JOIN IN LAST TRIBUTES TO SEYFERLICH

Representatives of Chicago and suburban fire departments, police departments, and fire equipment covered with flowers will be in the line of march when the funeral cortège carries the body of Arthur B. Seyferlich, fire commissioner who died Friday, to Rosehill cemetery Tuesday. All Chicago firehouses have been black draped since the death of the fire chief, and Tuesday all city offices will be closed at noon.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. in St. Paul's Lutheran church, 2835 Orchard street. The firemen and fire equipment will congregate at engine house 98 at Chicago and Michigan avenues and from there will join the balance of the cortège at the Oriental consistory, Walton place and Dearborn street, where the commissioner's body has been lying. Consistory services will be held Tuesday at 11 a. m.

From the consistory the line of march will extend in Dearborn, Stockton drive, and Fullerton avenue to St. Paul's Lutheran church. During the services the fire department will stand at rest outside. The funeral procession will then proceed to Rosehill cemetery through Orchard, Wrightwood, Racine, Addison, and Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Irene Lynch Dies; Printing Executive's Wife

Mrs. Irene Mackay Lynch, wife of V. Regis Lynch, who is president of the Manz corporation, a printing firm, and secretary of the Racquet club, died yesterday afternoon in their summer home at Pine lake, Wis. Mrs. Lynch had been in ill health for more than a year. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Mackay and Thomas, and a daughter Ann, all living at the Lynch home, 1320 North State street. The body will arrive in Chicago today, but funeral arrangements have not been completed.

PROPOSES RELIEF JOB RESURFACING CHICAGO STREETS

Would Employ 20,000 Men, Hewitt Says.

A comprehensive program for resurfacing 200 miles of streets in Chicago—to be financed by relief funds and providing direct employment for 20,000 men—was disclosed yesterday by Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt. The plan was worked out at the suggestion of Mayor Kelly.

The details have been laid before the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. The commission has not reached a decision.

Aside from putting men to work Mr. Hewitt pointed out that 52,800 families who have title to the property along the streets in question would be benefited because they would not be required to pay assessments for the improvements.

Labor Chief Item.

The streets are of macadam and are located in the poorer districts of the city. They would be covered with an asphalt dressing to an average depth of three inches. The total cost of the project would be $10,125,795. Cost items are estimated as follows:

Relief labor	$6,566,560
Materials	2,727,270
Rented equipment	778,050
Fuel	53,915

The entire cost would be borne by the relief commission, while the city, under the plan, would supply supervision and clerical services, organize the gangs, and lay out the work. Hewitt said that the city would be ready within twenty days after approval is given.

Sees Prosperity Widespread.

"This project," declared his application to the commission, "is of sound economic value. It will provide useful and necessary work for approximately 20,000 relief men for 91 working days, and for many other workers in stone quarries, sand pits, asphalt plants, oil refineries, and for truck drivers, steam roller engineers, and various other trades.

Others Get Work Free.

Hewitt said that he had been informed that in certain communities the Civil Works administration had paid the entire cost of sundry projects. Chicago paid half the cost of materials, supplies, trucking and services under the CWA, he declared, but lacks cash to carry out the street paving program.

If the commission desired to take the entire responsibility for the paving plan, Hewitt asserted, the city would issue a permit and waive its own supervision over the project.

Memorial Service Today for Slain Jugo-Slav King

A public memorial service in respect to the recently slain King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia will be held by the American-Jugo-Slav legion at 7 p. m. today in the Sokol hall, 2617 South Lawndale avenue. Speakers will include Congressman A. J. Sabath, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Consul General George Kolombatovich of Jugo-Slavia and other consular representatives in Chicago. Also on the program will be the drum and bugle corps of Harold Taylor post No. 18 of the American Legion, and Sergt. Jake Alex Manduschich, bearer of the Congressional Medal of Honor, who will head a greeters' committee.

GLIDER IS KILLED WHEN HE PLUNGES FROM SHIP TO BAY

Miami, Fla., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Warren E. Eaton, 45, of Norwich, N. Y., a brother of Melvin C. Eaton, Republican state chairman of New York, was instantly killed here today when he fell from his glider at a height of 1,200 feet over Biscayne Bay.

The victim held several international glider records and was president of the Soaring Society of America.

The accident occurred while Eaton and Pilot Harold Bowen, also of Norwich, were being towed in two gliders over Miami by a plane. Eaton fell out of his glider shortly after cutting the craft loose from the airplane.

Though he carried a parachute he apparently made no attempt to pull the rip cord. His body plunged into 4 feet of water near the Pan-American Airways international airport. It was recovered a few minutes later.

C. M. GREENWAY, PUBLISHER, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Chandlerville, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Moore Greenway, 64, Michigan newspaper publisher and president of the Booth Newspapers, Inc., died today of a heart attack while on a duck hunting trip near here.

The publisher died before he could be given medical aid. With him at the time were Harvey Kelly, chairman of the special standing committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, and Charles Steketee, Grand Rapids manufacturer.

Greenway made yearly hunting trips to this country. His party had been staying at the William Finch farm, an exclusive duck club.

Greenway was the active publisher of the Press at Grand Rapids, where he made his home, but also assumed control of the other newspapers in the Booth chain.

These papers include the Flint Journal, the Saginaw Daily News, the Bay City Daily Times, the Jackson Citizen Patriot, the Muskegon Chronicle, the Ann Arbor Daily News, and the Kalamazoo Gazette.

Greenway came to this country with his parents from London when he was two years old. He became cashier of the Grand Rapids Press in 1893 and was made general manager in 1910.

How foolish pride almost robbed me of my greatest happiness

"I LOVE you, dear. I want you to be my wife," Joe whispered to me.

I hesitated, stammered. Why didn't I have the courage to be honest with him?

Joe's nice eyes were hurt, puzzled. "Don't you love me?" he begged.

"I do love you, Joe," I cried. "But there is something—something that is hard to explain to you—which would always be a barrier between us."

"If you love me, you'll be honest with me, dear. Tell me—what is on your mind," Joe pleaded.

And so, in desperation, I told Joe the truth . . .

When I was through he stared at me in amazement and said, "I have 'B.O.'? I offend? I've read about body odor, of course, in the Lifebuoy advertisements—but I always laughed it off. I thought I was safe. I'm glad you told me the truth. From now on I'll play safe and use Lifebuoy regularly."

Today Joe and I are happily married—and I'm glad I had the courage to be honest with the man I love.

Unfortunately "B.O." is a fault which people hesitate to talk about. But we can be honest with ourselves. And we can't ignore the fact that every normal person perspires at least a quart a day.

Play safe—stop "B.O." (body odor)

Why take chances with "B.O."? Do what millions do—play safe and bathe often with refreshing Lifebuoy. It deodorizes pores—stops "B.O." You'll love the gentle mildness of its bland, soothing lather. Your skin will look fresher, clearer, more "alive." Lifebuoy's clean, fresh, quickly-vanishing scent tells you Lifebuoy protects!

CALL FOR BIDS ON 3 BASINS IN CALUMET-SAG

Time for Land Easements Extended by U. S.

A call for bids for the construction of three passing places for barges in the Sag channel and the Little Calumet river was issued yesterday by Lieut. Col. Donald H. Connolly, army district engineer for the Chicago area. A Public Works administration grant of $825,000 has been allocated for the project, and construction is scheduled to be under way shortly after the bids are opened on Dec. 29.

The Sag channel improvement is a part of a $20,000,000 program which contemplates the completion of the final link of the lakes to gulf waterway by the way of the Grand Calumet and Little Calumet rivers, the Sag channel, and the Sanitary and Ship canal from Lake Calumet to Lockport.

Work to Take Six Months.

The passing places are to be situated immediately east of 104th avenue, east of Ridgeland avenue, and near Crawford avenue, just west of Blue Island. The contracts are to be awarded early in January. They will cover the necessary excavation work, which, it is estimated, will require six months.

The start of construction on the passing places originally was conditioned by the Public Works administration and the war department on a granting of easements to the necessary lands by the sanitary district and the city of Chicago. Yesterday Col. Connolly's offer announced that the date on which easements were to be provided had been extended from Nov. 30 to Jan. 30, 1935.

Report on Easements.

At the same time attorneys for the sanitary district disclosed that easements to lands under its control had been turned over to the war department, and Oscar Hewitt, Chicago commissioner of public works, reported that he had 60 per cent of the easements to be obtained by the city either granted or definitely promised.

The general Sag channel development program, of which the passing places project is a part, will link the industrial area at the southern end of Lake Michigan with the great lakes to the gulf waterway, and will eliminate the need for boats to follow the Chicago river to the lake through a congested metropolitan area.

Col. Connolly is expected to submit to the war department soon his recommendations on the entire project, based on an engineering survey and the findings of a public hearing on the Sag channel development held last month.

Congressman Is Fined on Sunday Market Charge

Scottsbluff, Neb., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Congressman Terry Carpenter [D.] today was convicted in Police court on a charge of keeping his meat market open on Sunday in violation of a city ordinance. He was fined $25 and costs by Police Judge W. W. Dingman. The congressman, who retires from the house of representatives at the end of the year, said he would appeal to the District court.

$292,572 REDUCTION EXPECTED IN BUDGET OF SANITARY DISTRICT

A probable reduction of $292,572 in the 1935 budget for the sanitary district, as compared with the 1934 budget of $7,222,572, was indicated yesterday as departmental heads submitted to the district's finance committee an estimate of the corporate fund expenditures for the coming year.

The saving will come from the general and fixed charge account under the corporate fund, which is estimated at $2,950,000 for 1935, an amount $351,753 under the 1934 figure. The reduction is made possible through legislation which lowers interest rates charged against the district on defaulted bonds after the default date, said William Warren, controler. A portion of the saving is lost in the $87,942 increase in the maintenance and operation cost estimate.

Engineering	$ 188,988	$ 195,710
Electrical	1,472,535	1,521,465

The week's collection of real estate taxes including those for 1933 was $2,151,525, making a total of $232,866,916 collected by the treasurer's office since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda receivership act began on April 28, 1933. Current 1933 real estate taxes collected during the week amounted to $86,027.

BEAUTY SUPPLY HOUSE LOSES ITS BLUE EAGLE

The National Mineral company, 3631 South Racine avenue, beauty parlor supply concern, received orders to surrender its Blue Eagle yesterday from the compliance council of the National Recovery administration in Washington. The company was accused of violating provisions of the code governing the beauty and barber shop mechanical equipment manufacturing industry. The charges affected hours and wages, and the filing of prices and statistics.

Gerald Gidwitz, vice president of the concern, said yesterday that Louis P. Stein, president, had departed for Washington immediately upon receiving the telegram to appear at a hearing Tuesday.

"I believe it is a misunderstanding," Gidwitz said. "We have been working the 40-hour week and paying the regular wage scale. Our business comes under three different codes, the beauty supply, cosmetics, and electrical supply. Each code has different provisions for wages, but we were complying with all."

BOARD CANCELS VOTE TO CUT NEW ASSESSOR'S PAY

The county board in a special session late yesterday afternoon reconsidered its action of the previous day in applying the 15 per cent cut given other county officials to the salary of John S. Clark, former alderman, who will take office tomorrow as county assessor. The commissioners voted to give the new assessor his full salary of $14,999 a year, as set by the law.

The board's action was taken after Emmett Whealan, retiring president of the board, had approved other salary cuts accorded to county commissioners, members of the board of tax appeals and minor county employés, but had vetoed the resolution of the board in setting the salary of the new assessor at $13,000 for 1935 and 1936 and at $14,500 for the last two years of his term.

"I believe it is only fair," President Whealan told the board members, "that we extend the same courtesy to Mr. Clark as we did to other officials and give him the chance to accept a cut voluntarily."

Bandits Torture Aurora Farmer with Hot Poker

Two armed men who invaded the farm home of Charles Edwards, 65 years old, 10 miles west of Aurora early yesterday, burned his face with a red hot poker in trying to force him to reveal a non-existant $5,000 cache. When Edwards insisted that the money was in a bank. They threatened then to put his right eye out with the heated poker, and eventually seared his face just under the eye. After an hour of threats and torture, the two fled, taking about $70 which they found in Edwards' trunk.

FIND COMMUNITY FARM PROFITS ALL CONCERNED

Thompson Lake Has Long Tenant Waiting List.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Ten years of farming under a centralized system of management has proved to be profitable for land owner and tenants on the 6,000 acre Thompson Lake farm in the forks of the Illinois and Spoon rivers near Lewistown, Ill. The late Joy Morton, who built his house on salt, established this mutual community plan of growing crops in Fulton county, leaving a great monument in the black earth at the bottom of Thompson Lake, 197 miles southwest of Chicago.

The project has been so successful and popular among Illinois farmers that today there is a long waiting list of men ready to step in the shoes of the twenty tenants who are tilling the land. With plows and planters these farmers and their sons annually write in black soil homely epitaphs, telling the story of one of Joy Morton's most worthwhile business ventures.

For weeks on Thompson Lake farm golden ears of corn have been rattling against the bump boards at the rate of 30 bushels to the acre. This crop has been produced in one of Illinois' driest years which left thousands of farmers in the corn belt without a single ear to pick. The estimated average has been produced on 2,486 acres of corn land planted after the government-rented land had been set aside.

Lake Is Pumped Dry.

The lake was at one time owned by Mr. Morton and thirteen other members of the Thompson Gun and Rod club, established in 1872. In 1918 the project of building levees and draining Thompson lake was started. Mr. Morton took over the lake in 1920. Since his death last May the farm has been operated by his estate. When the pumps were started in 1922 the water in the lake averaged 9 feet in depth. It took eighteen months to pump the lake dry with two pumps running night and day. In 1923 the first crops were planted. Today there are 5,400 acres available for cultivation, leaving 600 acres covered by leeves, roads, drainage ditches, and waste corners. The levee is 14 miles long, 20 feet high, and 180 feet wide at the base. The drainage district surrounded by this levee includes other farming land in addition to the Thompson Lake farm.

Drouths may come and rains may pour on the bottom of old Thompson lake, but plowmen there keep hoeing away because they are reasonably certain, after ten years of experience, that they will be able to grow at least a fair crop, usually much better than on the upland. The system of drainage ditches all lead to the pump house, where water can be forced over the levee and into the Illinois river at the rate of 27,000 gallons a minute.

Crop Rotation Plan.

The land is operated on a share basis, the tenants receiving one-half of all the corn and small grains they produce. Ira Ashby, superintendent of the farm, follows a crop rotation system of corn 2 years, hay 2 years, and small grains—oats, wheat, or rye—1 year. Under this plan about one-half the farm, or 3,000 acres, are planted to corn each year, excepting this year when about one-half the tenants signed the government corn-hog contract reduced the acreage below normal.

Most of the tenants are farmers who own farms on the slopes leading down to the Thompson Lake farm. Several of them have been growing grain on the land since the first crops were planted in 1923. They welcome the opportunity of raising corn and other grains on this rich soil because it gives them a chance to rest their own land. Many have accepted it as an opportunity to rejuvenate their own soil. They grow grain on the Morton land and haul their half to their own farms where it is fed to live stock or sold for cash. None of the tenants' grain is fed on the Thompson Lake farm.

Over a period of years the tenants find that they can produce an average of about 50 bushels of corn to the acre on the old lake bottom soil, while on their own upland farms they average only about 35 or 40 bushels to the acre. The twenty tenants operate from 60 to 325 acres of the Morton land. They are given a lease for only one year. Some of the men, however, have been leasing the land ever since the tenant system was started by Mr. Morton.

Get 50 Bushels to Acre.

Wirt Morton, nephew of Joy Morton and part owner of the Thompson Lake farm, says that the plan of limiting the lease to one year is followed to make sure the land is efficiently operated every year. If a tenant is unsatisfactory he is not allowed to renew his lease. Occasionally a tenant, for some good reason, may be unable properly to take care of his crops. In this case the farm's emergency force steps in, plows, plants, cultivates, or harvests the crop and the cost is charged to the tenant.

During the last year and a half beef cattle from Thompson Lake farm have sold at the highest price paid on the day they were marketed. The farm produces all of its feeders; the manager has discontinued the practice of buying feeders because he has found that feeders are produced at this farm for 5 to 5½ cents a pound, which is less than feeder cattle can be bought and transported to the farm, according to Wirt Morton.

"When we first began offering this land to tenants Fulton county farmers came in droves to rent it," added Mr. Morton. "We have shown that it is feasible to successfully operate land in large bodies with tenants. Both the owner and the tenant profit under the plan we follow at the Thompson Lake farm. We also have learned that the owner of a drainage project, whether a corporation, company, or individual, must have adequate money to take care of emergencies."

Calves Get a Lesson

Louis Thurow and Eddie Johnson blossomed out as expert "calf trainers" this last week. The way they made the thirty good looking little Hereford calves step around has given the rest of the boys a good many laughs. Louis and Eddie go across the river every morning and evening to feed the Herefords.

Until this week the boys have had to tramp through the pasture, round up the animals, then drive them back to the barn where the evening meal is spread out.

Early in the week Eddie and Louis decided there was no reason why they should tramp around in the twilight to round up the calves. It was time for the animals to learn that sundown means food and so they ought to come in from the field of their own accord. So one night they went across the river and left the food in the barn, but didn't go into the field for the Herefords. They did this same thing the second night. It was noticed that the calves had come into the barn and eaten the feed because it was gone by morning, but when the animals had done this they didn't know.

The third evening of this routine brought success to the calf trainers. When Eddie and Louis went across the river the calves were just a short distance from the gate, waiting for the boys to show up. Just as soon as the white faces caught sight of the boys they laid back their ears and came up on the gallop. Now you can see the calves waiting near the gate every night. They have learned their lesson. Incidentally, Louis and Eddie are feeling pretty good about their knowledge of calf training methods.

There is a snug winter atmosphere about the farm these days. Everybody has a good supply of coal on hand. Guenther and Shadoan have husked the last ear of corn in the fields. The forty-two Hereford steers have been brought in from the pasture and now are in a dry feed lot where they can get plenty of food and also find shelter. Guenther has been stacking up wood next to his house for the cold winter days ahead. He is busy Sunday afternoons going through the woodlands to gather timber and old stumps for his winter fires.

Guenther has notified Charley Sleezer that he can come over any time with his homemade buzz saw to saw up some of this wood. Charley's outfit is made out of the old chassis and engine of a light six cylinder automobile, but the big buzz saw attached to it certainly can rip up the firewood.

When Guenther and Shadoan husked the last corn in the fields last week they were given a farewell salute by a wild animal that will not soon be forgotten. They had gone up and down the rows tossing the ears against the throw board of the wagon without any excitement for several hours. At last they came to the final two rows right in the middle of the field. Guenther remarked: "Well, here's where we catch the rabbit," because sometimes a dumb cottontail disturbed by the men and wagon in the rest of the field will park himself in the last two untouched rows of corn.

But there was no rabbit in these last two rows. Instead the boys were given an awful shock when they kicked out a skunk and Buster, the little fox terrier, rushed to the attack. In spite of all of Buster's sad experiences with skunks he apparently hasn't learned that you should never attack a skunk from the rear. He tried a flank attack on this one and the boys rushed out of the battle zone in a hurry. After several minutes of great excitement and terrific fighting between Buster and Mr. Skunk, the former took the count and the victorious skunk left the cornhusking party with nobody bothering him.

DRUNKENNESS IS A DISEASE

This FREE BOOKLET EXPLAINS FACTS THAT EVERY PERSON SHOULD KNOW

HERE is a treatise written on the disease of inebriety and its cure, written especially for the Keeley Institute. It is based on fifty years' experience, embracing the treatment of more than 400,000 patients, including men and women from all walks of life.

It tells you "why" the medical profession recognizes drunkenness as a disease; what famous medical authorities say about the disease of drunkenness . . . and "how" drunkenness can be cured. The booklet is free, and mailed in a plain envelope. Write at once for your copy. NOW!

CHICAGO AREA FARMER TREATS SOIL, CASHES IN

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Four years ago, when some other investments were shaky, Carl Bormet, a Cook county farmer, invested in limestone and rock phosphate, just as hundreds of other farmers have done who have followed the teachings of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois on the testing of soils, the spreading of limestone and phosphate, and the growing of more legumes.

This year, despite the severe drouth, his 120 acre farm produced plenty of home grown feed for his 40 head of dairy cows. Twenty-five acres, limed four years ago, produced about two and a half loads of alfalfa hay to the acre for two cuttings this year, which will be enough to carry his cows through the winter.

Like hundreds of other farmers who have applied limestone to acid soil in order to grow alfalfa and sweet clover, Bormet is reaping the advantages of a practical kind of drouth insurance, it is pointed out by C. M. Linsley, soils extension specialist of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Less fortunate farmers in the state were compelled to buy feed even during the late spring and summer because they had no alfalfa or sweet clover pasture, and many will have to continue to buy hay during the winter. The limestone and rock phosphate program carried on in Cook county in past years, however, has meant the difference between having hay to sell and having to buy hay in the case of many farmers, reports Farm Adviser O. G. Barrett.

MARSHALL PIONEER DIES.

Marshall, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Mrs Celia Neal, 87, lifelong resident of Marshall, is dead here. Her death was due to heart failure following pneumonia.

SPENDS 41 YEARS AS EMPLOYE OF STATE; OUSTED

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Walter S. Rundle, who has spent 41 of his 71 years as an employé of the state of Illinois, lost his job today as guard and messenger in the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

The veteran state employé received notice that he would be dropped from the pay roll as of Dec. 15, but that he would not be required to report for work in the meantime.

Rundle, who entered the state service from Macomb in 1889, has lost his job twice before. He is a Republican. When the Democrats came into power in 1893 he was dropped. He returned to his job during the succeeding Republican administration. Again, in 1913, after the Bull Moose split resulted in the election of a Democratic state administration, he lost out, but returned to his post in the following Republican administration.

INTIMATE FACTS!

Send for free copy of "Things People Won't Talk About," a new 32-page illustrated book telling what venereal diseases are, what they do, how they are contracted, how to avoid them, and how they can be cured. Mailed in plain sealed envelope.

Why ruin your holidays

by worry about an infection proper treatment can cure?

For the sake of your health and peace of mind, don't trifle with a venereal disease but go at once to a good doctor or clinic!

Will the coming holiday season be a happy and care-free one for you? Or will you be made mentally and physically miserable by a venereal infection that you are neglecting or are attempting unsuccessfully to treat yourself?

To consult a reliable physician or clinic is to gain immediate peace of mind. You will find that many of your worst fears are groundless—that venereal diseases can be cured without undue discomfort, and also that their more painful symptoms can usually be relieved in short order. Thus it is extremely foolish to neglect such an infection, or to attempt to clear it up yourself with "quack" remedies.

In fact, neglect or self treatment, if long continued, is likely to lead to disastrous consequences. Neglected or mistreated gonorrhea, for instance, may eventually result in crippling rheumatism, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles.

Neglected or mistreated syphilis is even worse, for this infection may disable its victim in a variety of ways. It may strike as a nervous disorder that will finally end in insanity unless properly treated. Or it may appear as heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis, ulcers of the skin or bone destruction!

Hence every venereal disease sufferer should immediately consult his family doctor or a good medical clinic such as the Public Health Institute. For the earlier treatment for a venereal infection is started, the better are the chances for a cure.

Especially is this true of syphilis, for unless put under treatment in its earlier stages, it is sometimes impossible to do any more than stop further progress of the disease. Yet, on the other hand, not even the most advanced syphilitic infections should be considered hopeless, for modern methods of treatment are benefiting many supposedly incurable cases of paresis and locomotor ataxia.

So don't permit a venereal disease to undermine your health and make you sick with worry. Go—today—to a competent physician or clinic, and by the time the holidays come you will probably have begun to experience a noticeable improvement in your physical and mental well-being.

Founded by public-spirited citizens NOT FOR PROFIT, the Public Health Institute specializes in the treatment of venereal diseases at remarkably low fees. An examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood and other tests, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even persons pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

History again repeats! As in every other period following a depression, farming takes the lead in national recovery. That's because we get our living from the soil and always have.

Right now, farm incomes, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates will total a billion dollars more in 1934 than in 1933. Prices of farm land have been steadily rising. Even Wall Street itself favors land as the soundest security which money can buy today. Just recently this view was strikingly expressed in an article by George T. Hughes, Wall Street editor, the North American Newspaper Alliance, in which he said:

"One of the most significant signs of the times is the growing interest in real estate as an investment. In the first place, it furnishes the ideal hedge against inflation and in that respect is superior to holdings of equities.

"The opportunities in this field, in the judgment of many economists, are better than those to be found in any other."

For a limited time, we are offering to home seekers and investors a few carefully selected stock and grain farms in the most desirable and productive farm districts of this country. These are "acres of opportunity" . . . every farm is a real "buy." The terms of purchase are easy; with a reasonable down payment and the balance in convenient payments (over a long period of years, if you desire).

TOMAN APPOINTS FRANK SAIN AS WARDEN OF JAIL

Collins Kept as Chief of Highway Police.

Appointment of Frank Sain, brother of Ald. Harry L. Sain of the 27th ward, as warden of the county jail to replace David Moneypenny was announced yesterday by Sherif Elect John Toman. The new warden will assume his duties tomorrow when Toman takes office.

Naming of the warden was one of several appointments announced yesterday. The reappointment of William F. Collins as chief of the highway police came as a surprise. For several weeks the name of William Freeman, chief of Evanston police, has been prominently mentioned.

After reappointing Collins, Toman declared he will drive commercialized vice out of Cook county. He particularly objected to the practice of permitting young girls to act as hostesses in road houses.

"This business has got to be stamped out. Serve notice that immediate action will be taken against violators regardless of political connections," he ordered.

Formerly of Bridewell.

Sain, the new warden, for the last 15 years has been receiving and discharging clerk at the Bridewell, a civil service job. He is married and the father of two children. He lives at 5334 Eddy street. Moneypenny was appointed warden in 1929 after Warden Edward J. Fogarty killed himself. He has been an official of the jail for 15 years, and several times has been commended by civic associations for efficiency.

George Gibson, assistant warden under Moneypenny, was reappointed. More appointments will be made tomorrow, when he is inducted into office, Toman said.

Others on yesterday's list of appointments were Joseph Lelivelt, now an assistant state's attorney, as chief bailif of the sherif's office, to replace Joseph Merrion; William Milota, personal bailif to Superior Judge Rudolph Desort, as chief bailif of the Criminal court, to replace James Z. Gabriel; Rudolph Sabath, a brother of Congressman A. J. Sabath, to replace Henning E. Johnston as custodian of the County building, and James Todd, to replace William Flaherty as attorny for the sherif's office.

New Police Lieutenants.

Three new lieutenants of highway police were named. They were Lester J. Laird, now a government agent but a former highway lieutenant; Angelo Borella, a highway sergeant, and Fred Mulhausen, a deputy patrolman and a winner of THE TRIBUNE bravery award.

The oath of office was administered yesterday to Clayton F. Smith, new president of the county board, by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer. Assistant State's Attorney A. L. Jornick yesterday resigned to take over the duties tomorrow of assistant to Mr. Smith.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Springfield brought news of the appointment of Frank Kaspar, retiring Cook county commissioner, to succeed L. G. Berman in charge of the Chicago motor fuel tax enforcement division of the state department of finance.

PICK CHICAGOAN AS HEAD OF 33D DIVISION VETS

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Phil T. Duff of Chicago, a Distinguished Service Cross winner, today was elected president of the 33d Division War Veterans' association, succeeding Capt. Charles B. Dickerson of Aurora.

Chicago was chosen as the 1935 reunion city. A resolution was adopted also giving Chicago the association's convention every odd numbered year, the others to be held downstate.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, John Morgan, Chicago; second vice president, William Degaris, Peoria; third vice president, Ray Notter, Chicago. William Keith, Chicago, was reappointed secretary.

The convention adopted a resolution calling for immediate full cash payment of the bonus and recision of interest due on outstanding adjusted compensation loans.

AIR LINE ORDERS 4 NEW FLYING CLIPPER SHIPS

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Four new flying boats, to cost something over $1,000,000, have been ordered by Pan American Airways from the Sikorsky Aviation corporation of Bridgeport, it was disclosed tonight.

These four-engined "clipper ships" of transocean capabilities will exceed in range and load the S-42 Brazilian clipper which holds ten world's records for seaplane performance. They will bring the airline's fleet of these giant watergoing craft to ten, comprised of seven Sikorsky and three of the still larger Martin boats, the first of which had its first public showing at Baltimore last Friday. They will bring the total of the system's planes to about 125.

HALF DIVORCES WON BY FRAUD, SABATH FINDS

Judge Advises Requiring Notice Before Marriage.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Legal fraud is practiced by a large percentage, probably a majority, of those who obtain divorces in Cook county, Judge Joseph Sabath declared yesterday. His statement was based on thirteen years' experience on the divorce bench of the Superior court, during which time he has granted more than 40,000 divorces.

JUDGE SABATH.

In spite of this, Judge Sabath believes it would be socially unwise for judges to apply the statutes strictly, denying divorce decrees in the thousands of cases where fraud is practiced upon the court. Most of these cases he terms fraudulent, either because of collusion or because the plaintif has not complied with the provisions of equity that he or she come into court with clean hands. It would be equally unwise as a public policy, according to Judge Sabath, for the legislature to legalize present collusive practices by a statute providing for divorce on no other grounds than the consent of the couple involved.

Sound Approach to Problem.

The divorce problem can best be attacked from the other end, he believes, through prevention of hasty and unwise marriages and, above all, of the "gin marriages" which have brought such towns as Crown Point and Waukegan into disrepute.

"There is a very direct relation between the ease with which marriage is accomplished and the prevalence of divorce," said Judge Sabath. "When I was traveling in Belgium I once saw a huge national flag hung before a house. I inquired why and was told that there was to be a marriage in the house.

"The flag hung there for five days, not only as a notice to any one who knew of a reason why the wedding should not take place to make his reasons known, but as a sign that the marriage was a matter of concern to the nation. I followed that young couple to the town hall. They signed documents which had been days in preparation before the mayor pronounced the civil ceremony in the most beautiful room in the hall. Only then could they go to the church to take their vows before the priest.

Alternative in Orient.

"Such care to assure a real life union explains why Belgium can have such strict divorce laws, and why its divorce rate is infinitesimal compared with that in the United States. On the other hand, in those Mohammedan countries where the bridegroom does not see his bride until after the wedding, divorce is simple and easily accomplished. If it were not, how many Mohammedans would have the courage to marry."

Divorce, particularly the dissolution of an unhappy marriage where the situation is not complicated by children, is often socially desirable, Judge Sabath holds. He quoted with approval the conclusion of Edward Westermarck, the British sociologist, who on the close of his monumental work on marriage, said:

"It is a widespread idea that divorce is the enemy of marriage and if made too easy might prove destructive to the very institution of the family. This view I cannot share. I look upon divorce as the necessary remedy for a misfortune and as a means of preserving the dignity of marriage by putting an end to unions which are a disgrace to its name."

Gin and Matrimony.

Thus, while Judge Sabath regards the legal surgery of divorce as socially justifiable in the case of the "gin marriage," he sees this as merely a temporary measure until the infection is stamped out. His face grew red with anger as he recounted his experiences with some of these marriages.

"Why, I even had a brother and sister come before me for an annulment," he exploded. "Reared by different families, they met on a gin party and were married at Crown Point before they discovered their relationship. I had one of those marrying justices on the witness stand. He told me that business never starts before 10 p. m. and that sometimes they have as many as twenty couples in a night.

"Girls of 16 come before me for annulment of those 'gin marriages.' They swear that their marriage was purely formal, not actual. That is a matter for their conscience. At least an annulment has the legal significance of establishing that the marriage vows were never taken, and thus withdraws society's approval of any indiscretions of which they may have been guilty."

Racket Has a Prototype.

Such marriage rackets had their counterparts two centuries ago, Judge Sabath pointed out. One such instance was in the neighborhood of Fleet prison in London in which 18th century debtors were confined. The prison was so crowded that imprisoned debtors who gave proper guarantees were permitted to move into the surrounding neighborhood.

Among them were numerous parsons, some of whom had lost their benefices for misconduct. They frequently advertised that they would perform marriages cheaply, without the customary banns and witnesses. In a book of legal curiosities, Judge Sabath found a reference in the True Whig, a London newspaper of 1737, to "Parson Gaynham, near 80 years of age, very remarkable for having coupled 36,000 couples within the Liberty of the Fleet," who had married his own housekeeper.

Effect of Due Notice.

Many of these "marrying parsons" were frauds, the conviction of one having invalidated 1,400 marriages, and in 1753 the abuse led parliament to forbid marriages except in a church before witnesses and after publication of banns, or marriage announcements.

The divorce rate could be decreased substantially, Judge Sabath believes, by the enactment of statutes requiring five days' notice before a marriage license could be issued. Wisconsin and Michigan have such statutes. Their enactment in Illinois and Indiana, he pointed out, would not only stamp out the "gin marriage" in Chicago, but would require other couples to give more careful consideration to their wedding plans.

Judge Sabath believes that incurable insanity should be made a ground for divorce in Illinois, with such safeguards as proof of its duration and the testimony of competent alienists. These safeguards would prevent abuse through fake insanity charges.

Limit on Separate Maintenance.

The law as to separate maintenance actions, which Judge Sabath agreed are at present often a method of gold-digging, should also be amended, he holds, to permit either party to such an action to have a final divorce two years after such an action is filed. In modern society, he said, the two year separation period would permit the wife, especially if she were comparatively young, and childless, to reëstablish her economic independence.

"In 99 out of a 100 divorce cases," said Judge Sabath, "even in nine out of ten contested cases, there is no balking by either party as to the divorce itself. They are fighting usually over money, or occasionally over the custody of children. With these questions settled, they agree on the divorce.

"The statute forbids a divorce where there is collusion between the two parties. But as a judge I need not recognize the collusion which my common sense as a man leads me to suspect. Also, the rules of equity require that the plantif have clean hands, yet because human nature is so rarely all black or all white, this is rarely true. It is always possible for the judge to balance the facts and find that one party, at least, is less guilty than the other.

Against Legalizing Collusion.

"English courts have refused to grant a divorce when both parties have been guilty of adultery. Certainly such a couple, above all others, should not be forced to remain together, and I do not hesitate to divorce them, both for their own sakes and that of society."

While permission to obtain a divorce by mere mutual consent would make such legal frauds as Judge Sabath has described unnecessary, it would open, he believes, a new field of coercion in presenting such consent cases.

"Furthermore," he asserted, "it would inevitably lead to unions of the 'gin marriage' type. Couples would undertake trial marriages, dissolved at their pleasure in a few months, or even weeks. We would have more cases like the one of which I was told recently in which a young girl married a man of means to avail herself of his protection while she sought a career as an actress, admitting that the relationship was not intended to be permanent.

"I believe that we can solve the divorce problem easier by permitting the judges their present discretion in liberal interpretation of the laws as they stand. It is impossible to lay down a set rule as to when a divorce is socially desirable.

Historical View of Matter.

"I am reluctant to break up a home in which there are children. Yet the constant contact and magnification of petty disputes can lead a man and wife to hate each other as no other two persons can. In such a case separation is to the child's and society's advantage."

As Judge Sabath pointed out, the modern regard of divorce as a cure for a social evil is at variance with the historical theory of the institution in many civilizations, in which divorce was the punishment of the individual for crime against the marital partner.

Thus the Protestant reformers of the 16th century so defined "malicious desertion" that the failure of the wife to follow her husband to any domicile which he chose amounted to a crime against him in that it tempted him to the greater crime of adultery and thus entitled him to a divorce.

Adultery itself is one of the oldest causes permitted for divorce, and ranking it in age is the so-called double standard. In Babylon a husband could have an unfaithful wife drowned. She had no such recourse, but if he accused her of infidelity and was unable to prove his charge, she could obtain a divorce, not as her own right, but as a punishment of the husband.

FIGHTS FOR CHILD

Superior Judge Joseph B. David uttered a scathing denunciation of child marriages yesterday when a mother, 19 years old, who was married when she was 12, appeared before him for a writ of habeas corpus to regain her daughter, 6 years old. The mother, Mrs. Agnes Trumbla, 2152 Monroe street, testified she was given a license when a man named Steve Hoopengarner represented himself as her father and testified that she was 18 years old. Called before the bench by the judge, Peter Dalton, marriage license clerk, explained that he had no way of knowing the statements by the alleged father were false. Mrs. Trumbla's daughter is now at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sbarbaro, 5542 North Artesian avenue.

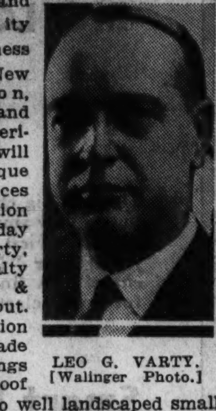
Realtor Suggests Three Upper Level Parks for Downtown District

UNIQUE PLAN ADVANCED BY LEO C. VARTY

Says It Would Aid All Loop Properties.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago's downtown district, now entirely lacking in small parks and squares which give charm and individuality to the business areas of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and other large American cities, will have three unique breathing spaces if a suggestion made yesterday by Leo. G. Varty, head of the realty firm of Varty & Co., is carried out.



LEO G. VARTY.
[Walinger Photo.]

Combination one story arcade business buildings with their roof space made into well landscaped small parks or plazas are urged by Mr. Varty for the block bounded by State, Jackson, Dearborn, and Quincy; for the south half of the block bounded by Washington, Clark, Randolph, and Dearborn, and for the entire block bounded by Wells, Adams, Franklin, and Quincy.

Called Self-Liquidating.

These proposed breathing spaces in three distinct sections of the downtown district appropriately could be called "Jackson square," "Washington square," and "Franklin square," respectively, Mr. Varty suggests.

Not only would Mr. Varty's plan give Chicago three much needed small downtown parks, but it would clear three areas now improved with old structures all erected prior to 1900 and thus long past the middle age of usefulness. At the same time it would give the city three modern one story arcade shop buildings which he figures eventually would make the three projects self-liquidating.

The three parks, he points out, not only would materially improve the renting conditions in buildings overlooking the proposed squares by giving them more light and air, but would materially raise nearby property values.

Suggests "Jackson Square" First.

An important advantage in having the three parks on an upper level, Mr. Varty pointed out, would be the uninterrupted development of retail shops in place of the break in the continuity of commercial trade if these sites were simply open parks on street level.

Mr. Varty suggested the establishment of "Jackson square" as an initial step in carrying out the entire program. The land and buildings in the block bounded by State, Jackson, Dearborn, and Quincy are valued by the board of assessors at approximately $5,800,000. The erection of a one story arcade building, topped with a park on its roof, would cost $1,000,000. It has been estimated that the income from the street level space and basement should be in the neighborhood of $450,000 annually.

The half block on the north side of Washington street, between Dearborn and Clark, with the suggested name of "Washington square," is valued at $4,000,000, and a million dollar building should bring an annual rental of $260,000, according to Mr. Varty.

Total Cost $14,160,000.

"Franklin square," the area formerly occupied by Marshall Field & Co.'s wholesale building, is valued at $1,360,000. A one story building, which together with its basement could be used for garage purposes, would bring $90,000 annual rental, Mr. Varty estimates.

This would make a total value of $11,160,000 for the three areas. Adding $1,000,000 for each of the three buildings and second story roof parks would bring the total cost to $14,160,000. The total rentals at present day levels would be $800,000.

Mr. Varty suggests that the Chicago park board could finance the trio with a 4 per cent bond issue, aided perhaps by federal cash, which would require about $566,000 annual interest and leave the remainder of the $800,000 rental money to be used to amortize the bond issue in annual principal payments. With improved rental conditions, of course, the $800,000 total would increase materially and shorten the length of time required to amortize the project.

Plan Twenty Foot Arcade.

"Jackson square" would front 165 feet on State and Dearborn and 350 feet on Jackson and Quincy. Down the center would be an east and west arcade, twenty feet wide, connecting State and Dearborn. Most of the shops would have both street and arcade entrances and window display space.

Two ten foot stairways would lead from State and Dearborn to the upper level park, which would have attractive lawns, shrubbery, and a large fountain. Skylights would give daylight illumination to the arcade.

"Washington square" would have different problems to solve. As it has an alley on the north, it was suggested by Mr. Varty that forty feet be taken off the property and added to the eighteen foot alley, making a new fifty-eight feet east and west thoroughfare connecting Clark and Dearborn streets. This development also would have an east and west arcade between Clark and Dearborn.

Upper Level Sidewalks.

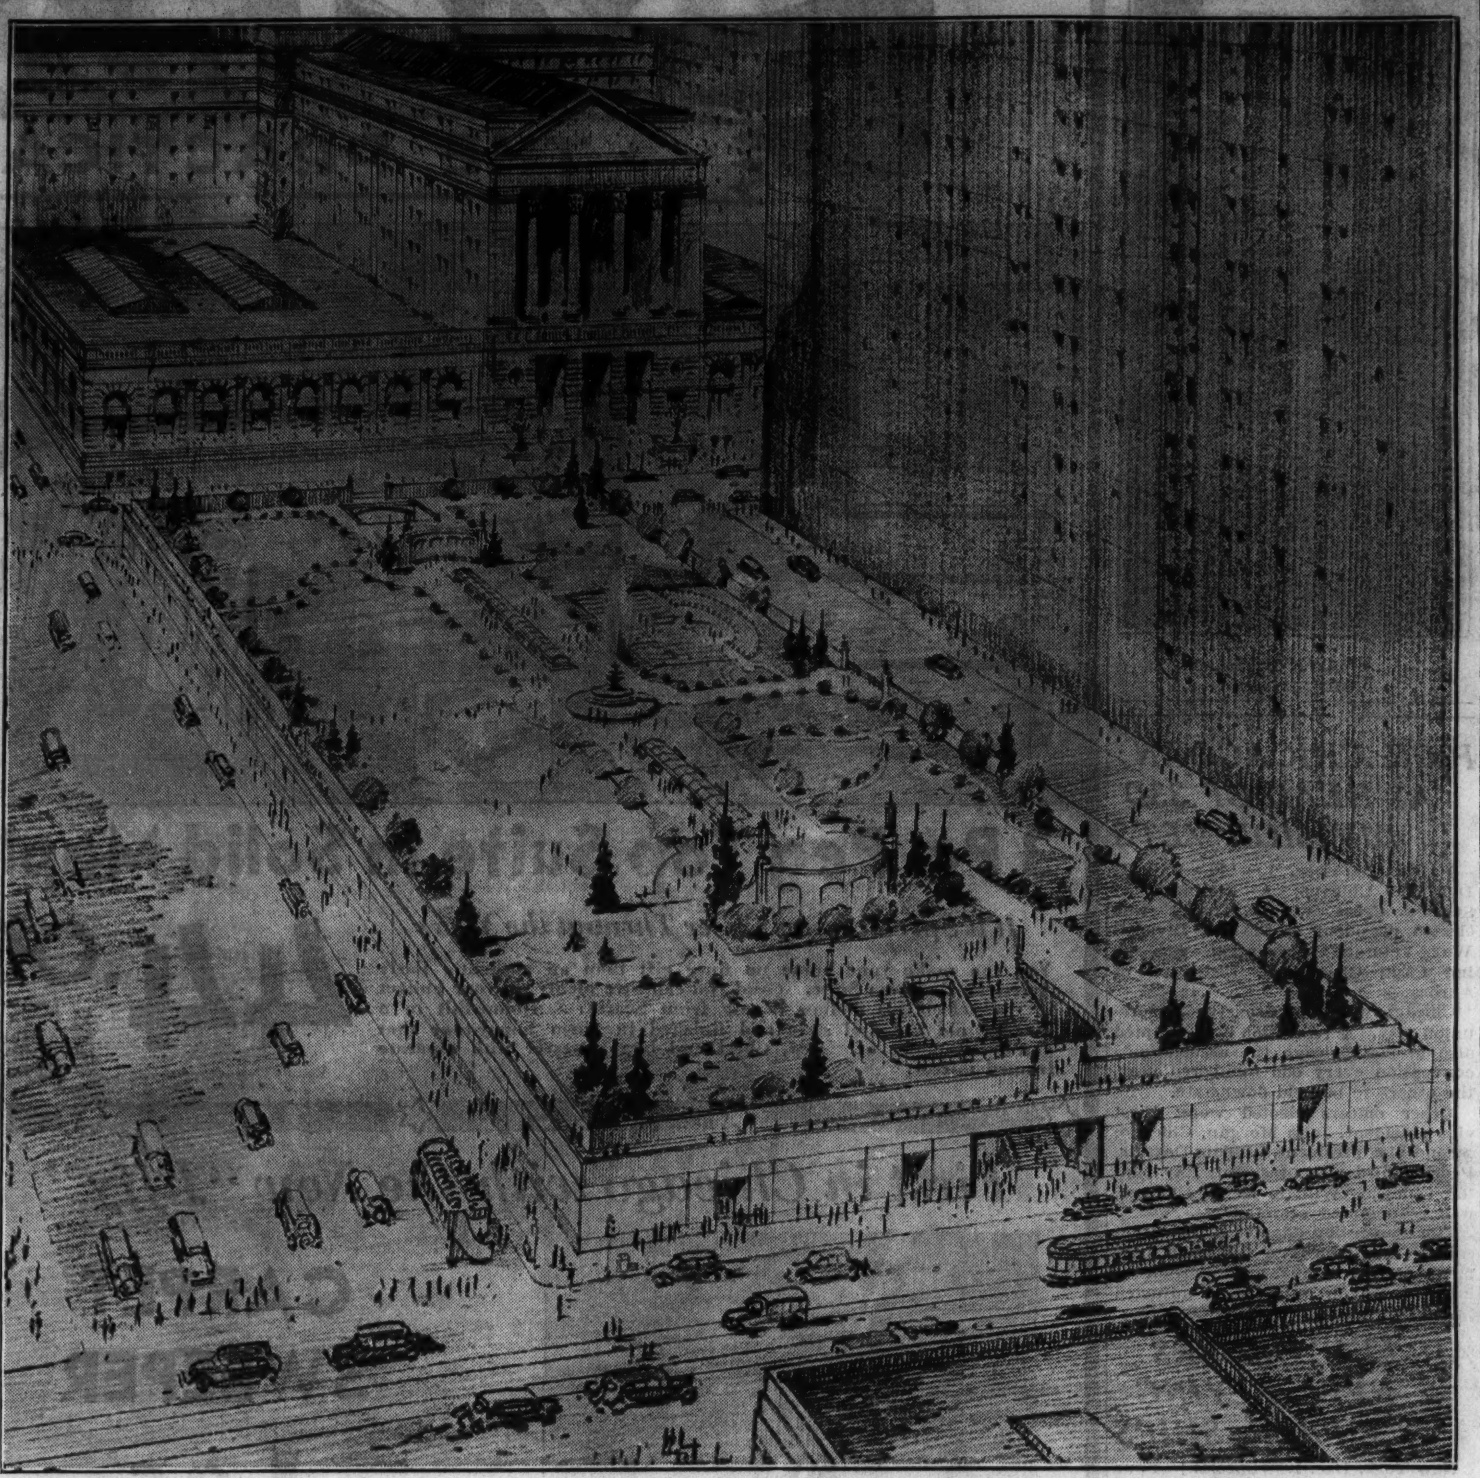
"There has been considerable agitation from time to time on the subject of upper level sidewalks in order to relieve congestion in the downtown district," said Mr. Varty. "In the event such an improvement were made, these three small parks would be approximately on the level of the upper level sidewalks. An encircling walk or promenade is suggested for the three parks, which would fit into the scheme of an upper level sidewalk system.

"The erection of the proposed three parks would relieve the rental situation by removing many thousands of square feet of office space from the market and would not increase the shopping floor area. It also would give employment to many thousands of working men in both wrecking and erecting jobs."

Mr. Varty pointed out that the entire project is merely a suggested one and has not been submitted to any property owners for approval. He advocates the use of condemnation to secure the sites for the park board.

He adds that he is not directly interested in any of the properties covered by his plan, but believes that it would materially benefit all properties in the downtown area.

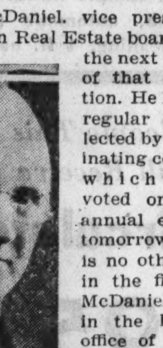
TELLS HOW CHICAGO CAN HAVE ELEVATED PLAZAS



Leo G. Varty, head of the real estate firm of Varty & Co., who has been successful with loop two story "taxpayers," suggests a novel combination city park and one story "taxpayer" for three downtown sites. The above is for the block bounded by State, Jackson, Dearborn, and Quincy, on which all of the improvements are of considerable age. This photograph of the plan shows the United States courthouse in the background with State street in the foreground. If carried out Chicago would have three much needed downtown small parks or squares—something which all other big American cities already have. The other suggested sites are the half block on the north side of Washington street and between Clark and Dearborn streets, and the half block formerly occupied by the Marshall Field & Co. wholesale building on Adams, between Wells and Franklin. Details of these suggested improvements are given in an adjoining column. S. Chester Danforth made this perspective. Architect Floyd E. Dougherty made floor plans for the above development.

EXPECT M'DANIEL TO HEAD EVANSTON REAL ESTATE BOARD

H. L. McDaniel, vice president of the Evanston Real Estate board, will be the next president of that organization. He heads the regular slate selected by the nominating committee which will be voted on at the annual election tomorrow. There is no other ticket in the field. Mr. McDaniel, who is in the Evanston office of Wirtz-Haynie-Ehrat, Inc., will succeed George J. Cyrus as head of the suburban realty organization.



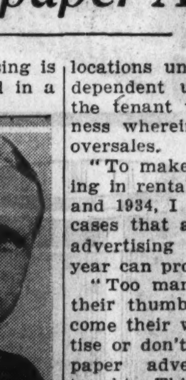
H. L. McDANIEL.
[E. L. Ray Photo.]

William A. Sadler of Smart & Golee will be vice president. O. H. Armstrong of Quinlan & Tyson has been nominated for secretary, and E. J. Smith for treasurer. V. J. McDonnell of Whitaker & Co. will be elected a director.

H. L. Lucas and A. L. Scheidenhelm, with the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, will be on the property owners' division, and R. L. Dowdall and Charles Conner on the division of insurance. The Evanston board reports having had an unusually prosperous year. Twenty new members have been enrolled.

Loop Lease Compels Tenant to Use Newspaper Advertising

Obligatory newspaper advertising is the unusual provision contained in a lease just negotiated between the Palmer House company, lessor, and the Ardsley Apparel Shops, Inc., of New York, lessee, for first floor and basement space at 105 South State street, in the Palmer house, adjoining the Monroe street corner. According to Robert B. Witwer, real estate agent for the Palmer house, the lease provides that the lessee must spend annually a certain percentage of gross profits in newspaper advertising. The advertising must be concentrated solely on this chain store unit.



ROBT. B. WITWER.
[Koehne Photo.]

Mr. Witwer said this advertising provision is to be included in all leases hereafter made for space in the Palmer house. He predicted the clause would have general acceptance by property owners throughout the loop.

Called Mutually Beneficial.

"Our tenants in the Palmer house are recognizing the advantages derived through well directed newspaper advertising," he said. "We believe the plan is mutually beneficial and intend to incorporate a provision requiring advertising expenditures by the lessee in all of our new merchandise leases.

"In coping with high taxes and operating expenses under reduced rentals, property owners of volume locations under percentage leases are dependent upon the management of the tenant to develop sufficient business wherein they can participate in oversales.

"To make up the differential existing in rental guarantees between 1929 and 1934, I believe in the majority of cases that a well directed newspaper advertising campaign throughout the year can produce results.

"Too many lessees sit and twiddle their thumbs and hope business will come their way. If they won't advertise or don't know the value of newspaper advertising, they must be taught. This clause, I believe, will be extremely educational."

Will Be Air Conditioned.

Yesterday's lease is for ten years, beginning Feb. 1, 1935, and calls for a total minimum guaranteed rental of $350,000, plus a participation in the lessee's annual gross sales.

The 17 by 100 store and basement will be occupied by a subsidiary of the Ardsley concern, known as "Carter's," dealers in women's apparel. This will be the first of a chain of similar units throughout the country, it was announced. It will be completely air conditioned.

The basement, containing 5,000 square feet, will be connected with the main floor by a new ornamental stairway to displace the present elevator. A new store front is to be installed. The total expenditure will be approximately $35,000, according to Wr. Witwer.

Among other leases reported by Mr Witwer is the renting of broadcasting studio premises to station WAAF. The Colonial Art company has rented third floor space and Florence M. Barnes, theater ticket operator, has taken lobby floor quarters.

BRITIGAN REALTY ASSOCIATION MOVES TO OTIS BUILDING

In anticipation of a general upturn in the real estate market resulting in increased values and a broader activity, the William H. Britigan Realty association has moved its offices from the First National Bank building, where it has been for twenty-one years, to spacious quarters in the Otis building, at the southwest corner of La Salle and Madison streets. The new offices will occupy the major portion of the La Salle street frontage on the eighth floor.

WM. H. BRITIGAN.

"Since its inception the Britigan association has confined itself to the development of high grade properties," said Mr. Britigan yesterday. "Among the more than one hundred properties marketed in Chicago, there are now two outstanding projects in the process of development.

"Its city property, Budlong Woods, in the Lincoln, Lawrence, Western, and Foster avenue district, recently has been influenced by the widening and repaving of Foster avenue, which connects with the north end of the out drive.

"Its Elmhurst Terrace property, in Elmhurst, is a residential development, fully improved, ready for building and should be influenced by title 2 of the national housing act. This property was very carefully selected, zoned, restricted and improved."

OUTLINES WORK OF LEIGHT & CO. BOND COMMITTEE

Seven Properties Pay Dividends.

Bondholders should consider the benefits they have received from their reorganized buildings instead of criticizing too much the expense of reorganization, according to Fred W. Heide, secretary of the Leight Bondholders' committee, who yesterday made public the accomplishment of his group. He stated that of fourteen buildings it had reorganized seven have paid substantial dividends to former bondholders and four others should be able to pay shortly.

The remaining three are above ninety per cent occupied, he said, and are paying taxes and carrying charges. As soon as rents can be increased he predicted that they also will be able to make a distribution.

Paid Eight Dividends.

"The Upper La Salle building, 1512-18 North La Salle street, reorganized in 1931, has paid eight dividends, totaling approximately $32,000, or about 9 per cent on the old bonds," said Mr. Heide. "The Hazel Crest has distributed about $19,000 since reorganization or about 5¼ per cent on the old bonds.

"Eighteen East Elm has just paid its third dividend, which completes a distribution of about $21,000 or 3 per cent of the old bonds. The 14 West Elm building, since reorganization in 1932, has paid two dividends aggregating 5 per cent on the original $875,000 of old bonds. Hinman Manor, in Evanston, has declared three dividends. The total of all dividends on the reorganized properties exceeds $125,000.

"In addition all of these properties have cash on hand to pay 1933 and 1934 taxes as well as a cash working fund, and have substantially reduced, one of them as much as 40 per cent, the original reorganization loan. If the bondholders coöperate ten other buildings can be promptly reorganized and will produce substantially the same results."

Calls Delays Costly.

Mr. Heide declared that while every reorganization plan should be fair and expenses reasonable, the main thing is to get the refinancing completed and the building out of the courts and on its feet.

"Every delay haggling over fees, payments to equity owners, and other expenses costs the bondholders in the long run more money than the difference is worth in most cases," he said.

"Contrast the present position of these former bondholders with how they stood before reorganization—their bonds in default, the property in receivership, some of the buildings 50 per cent vacant, fees and expenses mounting, and taxes delinquent for three to four years.

"The experience demonstrates that the objective of every bondholder above every other consideration should be to get his property reorganized as promptly as possible. In most cases a well considered plan of a reliable committee affords the quickest way."

BETTER RENTAL CONDITIONS SEEN BY BYRON CAIN

An occupancy of 98 per cent was predicted for his firm's apartments yesterday by Byron A. Cain, vice president of O. P. Curran Jr., Inc., a real estate firm established twenty-five years ago on the north side. Mr. Cain made public some figures obtained from an analysis of the properties his firm manages for the period from Sept. 1 to Nov. 15.

According to Mr. Cain the greatest percentage of occupancy is usually and normally just before the greatest number of leases expire, which in this instance would be Oct. 1, followed by a lower percentage figure after peak activity had been passed.

"In this case, however, we found that on Sept. 1 the percentage of occupancy of apartments we managed was 93.4," said Mr. Cain. "On Nov. 15 this figure had increased to 95.7 per cent.

"There is obviously a much heavier demand for apartments, particularly for smaller units. This demand has increased at a faster rate than during previous peak periods. With new building at a standstill, available apartments of this type demanded by the public today are at a premium. Renting conditions in general are considerably improved. Income per building is proportionately more satisfactory."

Physician Leases Space in Hyde Park for Baths

Dr. A. C. Westcott and his wife, Anna C. Westcott, have leased from George F. Fisher, the first floor at 5115-19 Lake Park avenue, for five years from Dec. 15, at a term rental reported to be $10,800. The lessees will spend approximately $10,000 in fitting up the premises for medical baths, according to G. R. Hanlon of Charles E. Fox & Co., who negotiated the lease.

NORTH AVENUE LEASE.

Joseph and Josephine Bettner have leased for three years the entire building at 3946 West North avenue, containing two flats and one store, the latter to be used as a bakery. Mark Levy & Brother were brokers.

Schoenlank & Kirschner Enlarge Their Quarters

As a result of increased business and a larger personnel, Schoenlank and Kirschner, Inc., long established Rogers Park real estate concern, are now enlarging their offices at 1505 Morse avenue. Extensive interior alterations and a complete change in office arrangement will result in considerable additional space. During the last year, in addition to the expansion of property management, rental and sales divisions, the firm established an insurance department.

OHIO FIRM TO ENTER CHICAGO.

The Schiff company, of Columbus, O., has leased the store and second floor at 1341 Milwaukee avenue, for five years from May 1, 1935, through Joseph G Sackheim & Co.

BROKERS' NOTE

Milton Moses has moved his offices from 29 South La Salle street to 110 South Dearborn street. He will specialize in commercial leasing.

Plan Two Story Building at Chicago-Rush Corner

The old building at the northwest corner of Chicago avenue and Rush street has been torn down and a modern two story shop and restaurant building of stone or terra cotta, with metal trim, is to be erected from plans by Hall and Stromquist, architects. The renting is being handled by Richard M. Walrath of McMenemy, Inc.

Lease North State Street Space for New Night Club

A reported $25,000 will be spent on remodeling space on the second floor at 1023 North State street for use as a night club to be known as the International Casino. About 5,000 square feet have been leased for five years from the Edith Rockefeller McCormick estate, owner of the property, by Juan Ramirez, who will manage the enterprise. The new café was designed by Melzer & Liebrich.

Walgreen Renews Jackson-Clark Lease; Will Remodel

The Walgreen company has renewed its lease at the southeast corner of Clark street and Jackson boulevard for another five year term commencing May 1, 1935. It will spend $10,000 in remodeling the premises, according to W. H. Ames of L. M. Willis & Co., who represented all parties.

Again one of those colossal money-saving events that will mob our basement. Look at the quality of these shirts—the high sheen, clear, preshrunk broadcloths—the full cut—the neat well-shaped collars with their perfect points—the seven fine pearl buttons—the close stitching. Look at these well-tailored color-fast roomy pajamas. Everything about them is far, far superior to this price. It's doubly remarkable in face of the definite rise in cotton goods prices—and it's certainly a most timely offer just as you're about to tackle your Christmas gift problems. LINDBLOM DEFEATS LEO, 6 TO 0; TAKES PREP TITLE

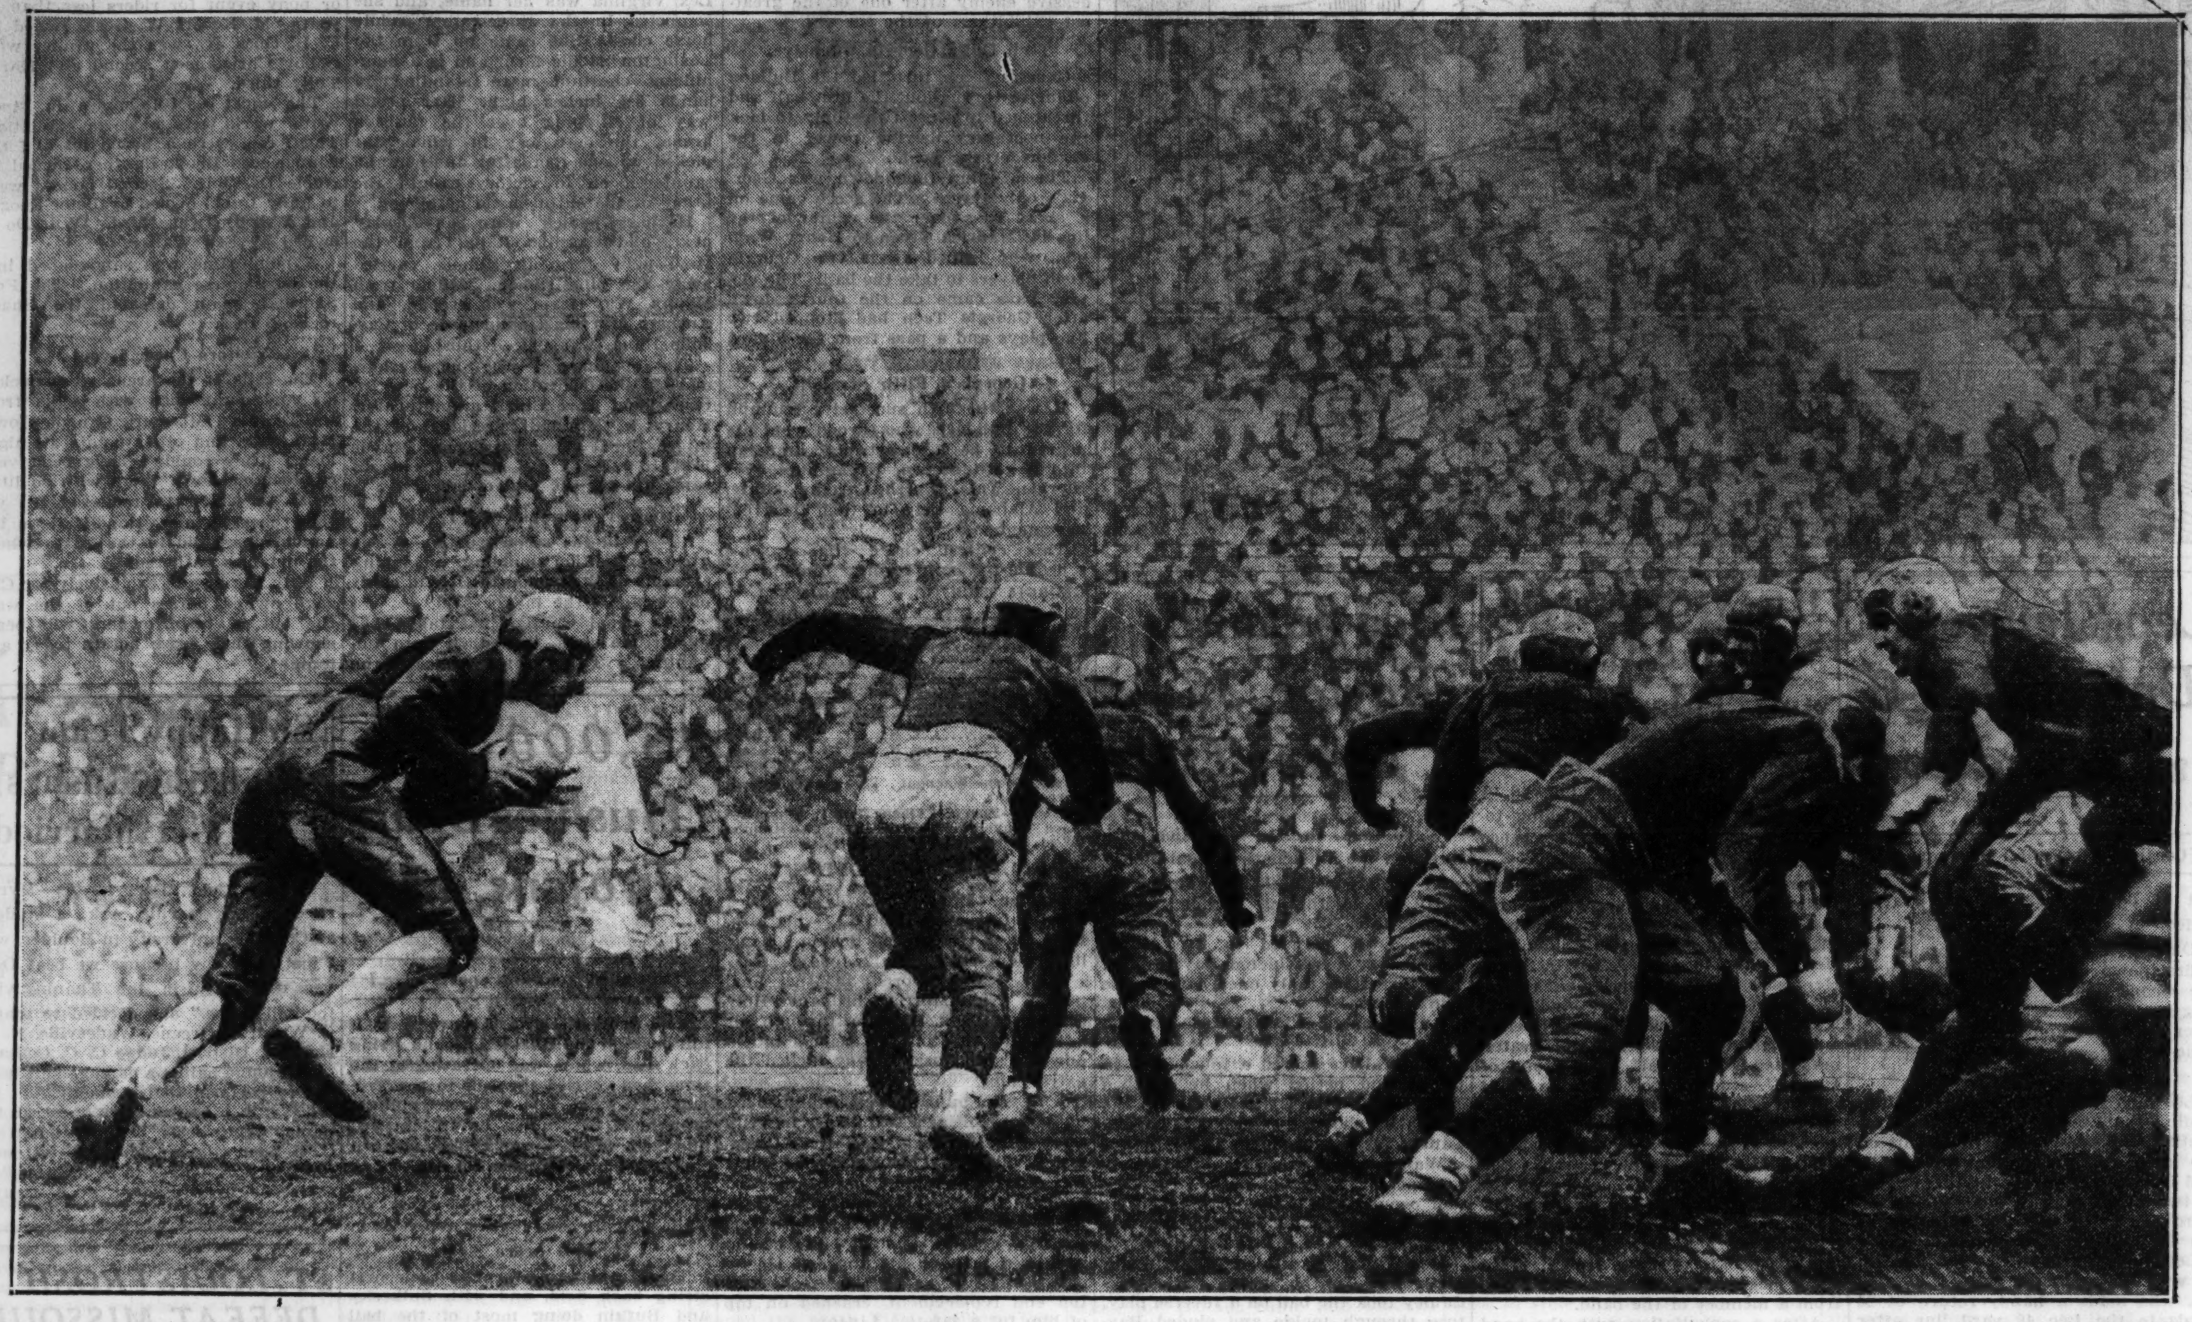
PLAYING TO PREP FOOTBALL'S BIGGEST CROWD



Larry Prosek, full back of the Leo football team, making an end run during the second quarter of yesterday's game with Lindblom at Soldiers' field. Prosek and his fellow back field men did some skilful ball carrying in the course of the afternoon, but they were not able to cross the goal line. Meanwhile Lindblom went ahead and scored the touchdown which was good for a 6 to 0 victory. Fifty thousand, the largest crowd in the history of prep football, watched the champions of the City's Public High School league beat the Catholic league title holders.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Joe Dubsky and Tony Juska, a couple of young men who would put you in mind of Beattie Feathers and Bronko Nagurski, yesterday collaborated in bringing Lindblom, champions of the City league, a 6 to 0 decision over Leo, Catholic league title holders, and with it the high school football championship of all Chicago. A crowd of 50,000 braved the lake blasts sweeping Soldiers' field to witness the battle, proceeds of which will go toward providing shoes and warm clothing for thousands of the city's needy children.

Joe and Tony, either of whom promises to be a right smart asset to any college team in the country, were all over the field yesterday afternoon, but they would be the last to claim that there were not others just as handy. Chief of these was Ted Hennis, the heady quarter back, who put the ball in scoring position for the one touchdown of the afternoon.

Hennis Makes Long Run.

Ted deceived the Leo eleven on a play which saw the Catholic leaguers shift to the west side of the field, only to find Hennis romping along the east sideline all by himself. He ran 49 yards, skidding across with one Leo tackler clutching his limbs, but the ball was recalled to the six yard line, where officials said the Lindblom quarter back had stepped out of bounds.

A line plunge by Juska was interrupted, but the eager Leo forwards were chastised five yards for offside and, with a yard to go, Juska plunged over for the touchdown. Hennis failed to make the kick for the extra point, and the scoring thereupon ended for the day.

But the action did not pause at that point by any means. Young Mr. Dubsky, who was doing all you could ask of a football player on a Saturday afternoon, did just that, and there was always the threat that each time he was given the ball, like Feathers, he was going to set out for far places, with the 175 pound Juska paving the way in regular Nagurski style.

Juska Intercepts Passes.

Twice during the game Juska personally frustrated well meant Leo advances by intercepting passes, and when he wasn't detaining the ball, Capt. Harry Bird, the Lindblom right guard, was detaining such potent Leo backs as Bill Hinckley, Hal Bowen, and Larry Prosek. The latter three played a great game for the Catholic leaguers, but whenever they were on the verge of breaking loose, Bird, Juska, and Dubsky would rush up and make them hold still.

The victory put the City league one up on its Catholic league rivals, the other four interleague games having been shared with two victories each.

Mayor Kelly Attends.

Among the crowd, largest ever to see a prep game, were such celebrities as Mayor Kelly, who sponsored the game; Gov. Horner, and James McCahey, president of the board of education. Before the game ten high school bands, preceded by the Police post troupe of the American Legion, paraded, and during the half time intermission, Jack Manders, Carl Brumbaugh, Bull Doehring, and Ed Kawal of the Bears obliged with a kicking and passing exhibition.

Leo won the toss and Matthis of Lindblom kicked off to Mulcahy, the Leo quarter back, who returned the ball to own 45 yard line. On the first play, Bowen scurried around his right end for eighteen yards, and was nearly in the clear, only to have Capt. Bird haul him down. In three plays, Hinckley and Bowen had made it first down on the City leaguers' 26 yard line. Bird tossed Bowen for a five yard loss on an alleged pass and then Mulcahy's pass was intercepted by Juska.

After Juska had picked up a couple through center, Dubsky ran through the Leo line for 13 yards, but the play was recalled and Lindblom penalized 15 yards for holding. They then exchanged punts, with Bowen having a slight edge on Dubsky, one of his punts going out of bounds on Lindblom's 15 yard line, and another on the 21 yard mark. Following the reception of this latter, Dubsky went around his right end and ran to the Leo 44 yard line before he was forced

HUSKIES DEFEAT TROJANS, 14-7, BEFORE 45,000

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—University of Washington today concluded the most successful football season it has experienced in years by defeating Southern California, 14 to 7, before 45,000 at Olympic stadium. It was the first time Washington had whipped the Trojans since Jimmy Phelan took charge of the team in 1930 after winning a Big Ten championship at Purdue the previous season.

Washington concentrated its offensive punch in the second quarter when it scored both of its touchdowns. It almost added a third before the period closed, but Southern California braced under its goal and held for downs on its 4 yard line.

Huskies Make Strong Finish.

The Trojans came back strong in the third period, and until the middle of the last quarter more than held their own. They were wilting fast, however, in the fading moments of the game and Washington was heading for a touchdown when the final gun ended the contest.

Washington was far superior along the line and had a more versatile set of backs. Its ball carriers were forever twisting their way through the Trojan line and darting through the secondary for long gains. Not the least of the Huskies' offensive weapons was the toe of Elmer Logg, quarter back, who punted repeatedly 70 yards on the fly.

Coach Howard Jones of Southern California has a job cut out for himself to rally his squad for its final stand of the season against Notre Dame next Saturday. His ace ball carrier, Cotton Warburton, had to leave today's battle in the second quarter with a twisted ankle, and Jules Bescos, captain and end, has a badly injured nose. The team comes up to its homecoming game with Notre Dame with a record of four victories, one tie, and five defeats, by far the poorest showing the school has made since Jones became head coach.

Defeats Are Numerous.

Southern California has been defeated by Pittsburgh, Stanford, California, Washington State, and Washington. It held Oregon State to a scoreless tie and won from Oregon, College of the Pacific, Whittier, and Occidental.

Among today's spectators was Bob Zuppke of Illinois who came to the coast to gather information on the Trojans in preparation for the two year series Illinois will begin with the California boys next fall.

Washington made its first touchdown shortly after the start of the

EVAR SWANSON TO QUIT GAME IF SENT TO MINORS

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Evar Swanson, whose release to Louisville by the Chicago White Sox was announced last week, is going to quit baseball if he has to go to the minor league, he said today. As yet he has received no contract from Louisville, but if he does, he will not sign it, he declared.

"Unless there is a change so that I can get back into the major league, I am through with baseball," Swanson said. For the last six weeks he has been working as a special agent in a local insurance company and intends to go on with this business.

Swanson, former star athlete at Lombard college here, has been in organized baseball since 1924. He was a White Sox right fielder during the 1933 and 1934 seasons.

CARNERA WINS FROM CAMPOLO AT BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Primo Carnera of Italy, former heavyweight champion, won a 12 round decision tonight over Vittorio Campolo of Argentina.

The bout was a slow affair, with the fans bellowing for action.

Carnera seemed to have too much respect for his opponent, and a clinch inevitably followed every blow that was struck.

Of the three rounds credited to Campolo, his best was the seventh, in which he provided the offensive throughout and forced Carnera to the ropes. Carnera struck a blow while breaking from a clinch and Referee Rodriguez Jurado reproved the big man, forcing him to extend a mumbled apology.

The eighth round saw a bit of action, with both fighters trading body blows, while Campolo alternated with right crosses to Primo's chin.

In the tenth round Carnera rushed across the ring, sending Vittorio against the ropes, where both fighters clinched and fell to the canvas.

The ex-champion was credited with six of the 12 rounds, three were about even, and the remaining three went to Campolo.

Max Baer Signs to Box Levinsky on Stadium Card

Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, signed yesterday to meet King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, in a four round exhibition at the Stadium on Dec. 28, Promoter Jim Mullen announced last night.

Mullen, who is associated with Nate Lewis, veteran Stadium promoter, said the terms of agreement called for eight ounce gloves, the weight used in title bouts. Buddy Baer, brother of the champion, will appear in a supporting bout.

Levinsky has fought thirty rounds with the champion, losing the decision in a ten round bout in New York and again in 20 rounds in Reno, Nev.

Matches on the supporting card will be announced later.

Jose Girones Loses to Freddie Miller on Foul

BARCELONA, Spain, Dec. 1.—[U.P.] Freddie Miller, 126½, Cincinnati, recognized featherweight champion, was given a decision tonight over José Girones, 127½, when the latter was disqualified in the fifth round for striking a low blow. Practically out on his feet in the fifth, Miller turned to the referee and claimed a foul. The judges upheld his claim and awarded him the fight.

TULANE RALLIES TO BEAT L. S. U. ELEVEN, 13 TO 12

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Louisiana State university was defeated by Tulane, 13 to 12, today before a crowd of 30,000 in one of the most thrilling games ever played in Louisiana.

The two teams were evenly matched. The great L. S. U. half back, Abe Mickal, was pitted against the great Tulane half back, Monk Simons, in a duel of punts, passes, and broken field runs. Tulane had an advantage in that Mickal had a bad knee, which probably accounted for his missing two kicks for the extra point that lost the game.

Mickal was taken off the field on a stretcher as his teammates were battling to stop Tulane on L. S. U.'s five yard line. A few minutes after he had gone, Simons charged over for the deciding touchdown.

Huey Is Glum.

Huey Long, who had boasted that L. S. U. could lick anything in a football uniform, took the defeat with a grin.

"They just beat us, that's all," he said as he walked across the field, keenly disappointed.

Tulane broke through in the first quarter, working the ball to L. S. U.'s 27 yard line on an exchange of punts between Yates and Simons. Here Simons threw a pass to Hardy, Tulane's end, who raced over for a touchdown. Barney Mintz kicked the extra point.

Mickal, who had remained on the bench in the first quarter, went in at the start of the second quarter, and his mates rallied around him to drive back Tulane.

Blocked Kick Costly.

With the ball on the 23 yard line, Simons stepped back to kick. Tinsley, L. S. U.'s star end, blocked the kick, spinning the ball into a group of players. Seago, L. S. U. full back, wheeled out of the heap and raced over for L. S. U.'s first touchdown. Mickal missed the extra point from a place kick, making the score 7 to 6.

During the third quarter, each team committed several fumbles, but L. S. U. came through with a decided advantage. Nearly the whole quarter was played in Tulane territory. With the ball in midfield, Mickal hurled a pass to his end, Barrett, who was thrown on the five yard line by Loftin. Mickal scored a moment later, but again missed the try for the extra point. Lineups:

Cutter Plays Flute, Boxes, Beats Army

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP)—It took a heavyweight flute player, who also goes in for boxing and field goal kicking, to end Navy's losing streak in football against the Army and cause the seagoing forces of Uncle Sam to celebrate, wherever they gathered tonight, the first Annapolis triumph in 13 years.

Slade D. Cutter, burly 196 pound tackle who place kicked the three points that beat West Point in a mud battle on Franklin field today, won a national interscholastic flute playing championship at Chicago, but the Oswego, Ill., youth never played football until he became a plebe at Annapolis.

Since then he has become more famous for left hooks and field goals. He is the heavyweight fistic champion of the academy and he has booted four field goals in Navy's most successful gridiron season since 1926.

A big, carefree blond, Cutter is one of the comedians of the team, the type many coaches like to have around, for his cheerfulness is infectious. He and Fred [Buzz] Borries, Navy's star half back and another great competitor today, are pals, but Slade kids Buzz continually about the "writeups" he gets in the papers.

The Navy's comeback, reaching a climax today, began with the return of Lieut. Thomas J. Hamilton as head coach and Commander J. H. [Babe] Brown as director of football. Brown was an all-American guard in 1912, while Hamilton's great kicking enabled Navy to tie Army in the memorable 21-21 deadlock at Chicago in 1926.

Today's triumph completed a clean sweep for the sailors for, including the 1933-'34 year, teams from Annapolis have now beaten Army in every major sports competition.

The Navy dressing room was the scene of hilarious joy. It was the first time in more than a decade that the sailors had brought anything but sorrow and tears back to their quarters, and the Middies' delight knew no bounds. They slapped each other on the back and danced around Cutter and Borries.

"The boys played a good game and deserved to win," said Hamilton. "I was greatly pleased. I thought it was time that we were due to come through. All the boys played well. I thought Stancook was the best all-around man for the Army."

The Army players took their defeat with courage. There was little talk in the dressing quarters as the Cadets donned their gray uniforms. "Navy played a great game and deserved to win," said Lieut. Davidson. "I think we might have done better had Buckler been able to play longer. We enjoyed the game and congratulate the midshipmen."

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The bobbing white caps of 2,000 overjoyed midshipmen gleamed in the dusk against the bleak background of muck that was Franklin field today as Navy riotously celebrated its first football victory over Army since 1921. The score was 3 to 0.

In the last minute of the first quarter of this desperately waged mud battle, Slade Cutter, Navy's giant right tackle from Oswego, Ill., stood poised on Army's 20 yard line while Full Back Bill Clark knelt in the mire and pelting rain prepared for a place kick.

Up in the towering double decked stands, 79,000 rain drenched spectators, as enthusiastic and good natured a throng as has sat in on a football game, held their collective breath. The mud caked ball, carefully wiped off with towels brought out from the side line, came back swift and true from the firm hands of Robertshaw at center.

There Goes the Ball Game!

Instantly Clark placed it down slightly to the left for the goal posts, Cutter's powerful right leg snapped forward and the air was rent with shrieks and cheers as the ball sailed squarely over the crossbar.

So did Navy beat Army today to end a famine marked by eight defeats and two ties in the last ten meetings with the Cadets. That field goal and its attendant three points started and ended the scoring of a game played under conditions as disappointing as have been known since the beginning of the series in 1890.

It was a game played between slipping, sliding mud caked stalwarts whose efforts to advance the ball were thwarted at every turn and whose identification marks were wiped out almost with the first scrimmage on a barren field that had been turned into a quagmire by a drenching downpour before the kickoff.

It was a game in which, with the running and passing attacks put out of commission, kicking played a predominant rôle. It was kicking which won the game for Navy and eventually saved it was a magnificent 75 yard punt by Clark put a quietus upon Army's lone threat of the day in the final quarter.

Buckler Forced Out.

Such dangerous running backs as Fred Borries of Navy, who shone with such lustre even in his garb of mud, and Jack Buckler of Army, who was forced to retire midway in the second period with the aggravation of an old injury, were utterly shackled in the slime. One lone run of 21 yards by Borries was the highlight of the day. The next longest gain along the ground was a dash of eight yards by Buckler's substitute, Ozzie Simons, in the last quarter.

Navy could gain only 74 yards along the ground all afternoon and Army a mere 41. The Cadets did not pick up a single yard through the air, completing just one pass out of five for no gain, while three others were intercepted. Navy was limited to 11 yards acquired on a shovel pass completed behind the line.

Just five first downs were made. Thus, with both teams stymied, not only by the treacherous mud but also by the ferocity with which the two lines smeared plays in their inception, the issue resolved itself into a matter of superior kicking.

Clark's Kicking Helps.

Navy had that superiority in the toe of Slade Cutter and also in the powerful foot and leg of Bill Clark. Not only did the Navy full back break the Cadets' hearts with his amazing 75 yard spiral in the last period but with another of his punts, which rolled out of bounds on Army's one yard line and put the Middies in position to make their field goal after Borries had thrown his shovel pass for 11 yards to Pratt.

Despite the fact that conditions made it impossible for the two teams to put on any kind of offense, the game was tremendously exciting and kept the huge throng roaring all afternoon. The crowd itself was almost as interesting as the game. It was a crowd that numbered a host of distinguished notables from Washington and the two branches of the military and it came with umbrellas, raincoats, and rubbers long before game time to see the parade of the Midshipmen and the Cadets.

An hour and a half before the opening kickoff the mammoth University of Pennsylvania stadium was filled almost to the last seat, while thousands struggled in vain against mounted police on the outside to gain admittance.

At that time ominous black clouds were hanging low over west Philadelphia, filled with the threat of a renewal of the morning's showers. Out on South street the regiment of Midshipmen was drawn up, waiting for the Cadets to precede them into the enclosure.

The gray ulstered stalwarts from West Point had no sooner began their march into Franklin field than the storm broke and they quickly took their seats without any maneuvers on the gridiron, which was covered with pools of water. There was nothing for the Midshipmen to do but stand and take it while waiting their turn to enter, and the cheeriness with which they stood singing in the rain lent its contagion to the disappointed multitudes outside.

Middies Rush In.

The Midshipmen, too, abjured marching on the field, swinging along immediately to their section in the stands in platoon front, and so most of the pageantry that constitutes much of the appeal of these service classics was denied the crowd.

The field was cleared and the two teams dashed out, obviously not in the least bit intimidated by the conditions. Fighting was their business and they were keen to get at it.

On the second scrimmage of the game, Borries went around Army's left end for 21 yards and the midshipmen cheered deliriously. Navy's great back was fulfilling expectations despite the mud and water.

But the next play Schuler, who had been blocked out on the end run, redeemed himself by throwing Pratt for a loss, and half the Army line smeared King for another loss on the following play. Then and there was the offense squelched for the day and the battle resolved itself into a contest of kicking, with both teams chary of taking chances.

No Sustained Attack.

There was no sustained attack by either side. Only twice did Army get within striking distance of a score, holding the ball on Navy's 25 yard line in the second period and again on the 21 yard line in the fourth. The Navy was on the Cadets' 26 yard line and on their 10 yard line in the fourth quarter. On all four of these occasions it was a break that provided the opportunity to score, but neither team had the punch to take advantage of it.

Late in the first period an exchange of punts ended with Clark's 39 yard kick out of bounds on Army's one yard line. Buckler came through splendidly, sending the ball out to his 37 yard line. Borries, always dangerous when he got his hands on the ball, returned the punt four yards.

After hitting Army's left tackle twice for six yards, Borries tossed a shovel pass to Pratt and Navy had a first down on the 16 yard line. Two running plays carried the ball to the 7 yard line, but then Edwards and Clifford stopped Borries for a 5 yard loss.

Boy, a Towel!

On fourth down, after Navy had taken time out to have towels brought in to wipe off the ball, Cutter dropped back to the 20 yard line and got off his field goal, a minute before the period ended.

Although Army would not admit it, the game was over when the ball split the uprights on that kick.

Irish End Drill at Home for Trojan Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Notre Dame wound up a week of practice today for the Southern California game next Saturday in Los Angeles with a scrimmage in Notre Dame stadium.

The team leaves Monday for the coast. Coach Elmer Layden will have an opportunity to give his charges a light workout in Tucson, Ariz., where the party makes a two day stopover, and in Yuma, Ariz., where a half an hour warmup session will be held.

It is not known whether Melinkovich, Robinson, and Michuta will be able to make the trip, and it is doubtful Layden will be able to use them even if he does take them.

Dan Hanley was ordered to bed today to nurse a severe cold in his head and chest. He is expected to take Melinkovich's place at right half back against the Trojans. If Hanley's illness becomes more serious, Tony Mazziotti will get the call.

BORRIES' BUDDHA WORKS ITS CHARM FOR NAVY AGAIN

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Fred [Buzz] Borries, Navy's star half back, had his good luck token with him today, despite complications, and so all went well with the midshipmen.

Borries on a cruise with his class last summer, bought a small ebony Buddha statue in Gibraltar, and has carried it with him ever since. He started wearing it on a string around his neck at the start of the football season. It worked against everybody but Pitt.

In the excitement of getting away from Annapolis, Borries forgot his Buddha. He was so worried, a midshipman was dispatched back to the academy to retrieve it. It arrived in time, Buzz wore it around his neck, and Navy beat Army for the first time in thirteen years.

WARM SPRINGS CELEBRATES AS NAVY TEAM WINS

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Unrestrained enthusiasm of the folks of President Roosevelt's "other home" over the Navy victory against Army in football today was believed to reflect the feeling of the sea minded President, but he maintained a discreet public neutrality.

The assistant secretary of the navy during the war, Mr. Roosevelt is distinctly a friend of the sea side of the military services, but as commander in chief of all armed forces he was compelled today to take no sides.

The folks here suspected, however, where his feelings were and when the the children patients and families let game's end was sounded over the air go with a whoop for the Navy victory.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

Leo Eleven Is Defeated, 6-0, by Lindblom

out of bounds, just as the quarter ended.

Dubsky and Juska collaborated on a first down on Leo's 31 yard line as the second quarter started. The City leaguers lost the ball finally on downs after a forward and a lateral pass had gone awry.

Teams Exchange Punts.

Leo took the ball on its own 28, but finding the Lindblom line a trifle too obstinate, Bowen kicked to Hennis on the latter's 40 yard line. After Mills and Dubsky had picked up three yards in two plays Dubsky quick-kicked on third down, the ball just rolling over the Catholic Leaguers' goal line.

Leo put the ball in play on its own 20, with Bowen finally punting to Hennis, who made a handy return of 23 yards to the Leo 40 yard line after escaping three would be tacklers. All of this work went for naught, however, when the play was recalled, Lindblom penalized for holding and Leo given possession on its 40 yard line. The Lindblom forwards were still obdurate and Bowen kicked once more to Hennis on the Lindblom 40 yard line.

Juska Goes Over.

Dubsky just missed a first down at midfield by a yard on the opening play and Juska made up the difference on a plunge over center. On the next play Hennis deceived the entire Leo team and ran along the east side lines 43 yards to the Leo six yard line. He had skidded over the goal line with a last desperate Leo tackler clinging to his legs, but officials ruled that he had stepped out of bounds at the six yard mark.

A plunge by Juska was stopped, but Leo was penalized for holding and it was third down and one yard to go for a touchdown. Juska went over this time to give the City Leaguers a 6 to 0 lead, Hennis missing the kick from placement for the extra point.

The ensuing kickoff struck Prosek, and then bounded into the end zone. He retrieved it and managed to get back to his own eight yard line before he was thrown. Prosek then carried the ball on three consecutive plays, topping them off with a dash around his right end to the Leo 28 yard line. Three lineplays got eight yards, after which Bowen passed to Mulcahy, who was dropped on the Catholic leaguers' 47 yard line. Another pass was incomplete as the half ended.

Hinckley Returns Kickoff.

Hinckley took Lindblom's kickoff at the opening of the third quarter and returned it to his 29 yard line. Two plays netted seven yards, and after Bowen had dashed up to his 45 yard line and Hinckley accounted for four yards, a pass was incomplete. Then Bowen kicked out of bounds on Lindblom's 22 yard line.

Dubsky immediately quick kicked to Mulcahy on Leo's 38 yard line. Prosek smashed left tackle of Lindblom's line for seven yards and Bowen made it first down in midfield. Prosek and Bowen were stopped and Bowen's third down pass was incomplete. He then punted to Hennis who was run out of bounds on the City leaguers' 14 yard line.

Dubsky promptly quick kicked to Leo's 47 yard line on first down. Bowen and Prosek were halted, but a reverse, Bowen to Hinckley, got six yards. Bowen then punted to Lindblom's 25 yard line, where Brennan of Leo downed it. Dubsky, after running into his interference, punted to Mulcahy on Leo's 35 yard line. Bowen cut into right tackle for a first down on Leo's 47 yard line just as the third quarter ended.

Bowen Thrown for Loss.

Prosek, with two smashes at the line, and Bowen, on an end sweep, made it another first down on Lindblom's 43 yard line. Bowen then attempted to pass but Bejeck broke through and tossed him for a 15 yard loss. Leo lined up in punt formation and Bowen assayed a pass to Prosek but it was incomplete and Leo punted, Lindblom taking the ball on its own 28 yard line. Dubsky and Juska made it first down on their own 40 yard line but three plays produced only 7 yards and Dubsky kicked out of bounds on the Leo 34 yard line.

Byrne, Leo captain, got four yards on a pass from Bowen, and after a couple of line plays, Bowen kicked to Hennis, who came back to midfield. Dubsky's seven yards around end was nullified by a fifteen yard holding penalty. Dubsky and Juska answered this by hammering the Leo line and with the aid of a holding penalty on Leo, made it first down on the Catholic Leaguers' 37 yard line.

Leo regained possession on downs on its own 32 yard line. A pass, Mulcahy to Bowen, placed the ball on Leo's 45 yard line. Another pass was incomplete, but Mulcahy fielded Bowen's toss and was dropped on Lindblom's 30 yard line. Juska intercepted the following attempt by Bowen and Lindblom took over the ball on its 27 yard line. Dubsky and Juska then took charge of the ball until the final gun.

Huey Shows Off While L. S. U. Loses and Tulane Boos

He bowed to the cheers from his L. S. U. rooting section and ignored the roaring boos from the Tulane side. He led the 140 piece L. S. U. band. He posed for the cameramen at frequent intervals: ran back and forth from his box to the players' bench and accepted with a grin a gold watch presented at the half by a group of L. S. U. students to whom he doled out money for his celebrated Nashville, Tenn., junket three weeks ago.

The Kingfish arrived early, and placed himself in the center of the L. S. U. student body. He was nattily attired in a suit of blue, with an oxford gray hat. His shirt was blue and his necktie purple. He carried a small megaphone, which was borrowed from a member of the band.

After a consultation with the band leader, Long clamped the megaphone to his lips and crooned a number, waving his left arm in time to the tune.

A cheer from the L. S. U. side greeted his efforts. The Tulane crowd roared its displeasure and continued booing.

Joe Messina, the inevitable bodyguard, trotted at Long's heels. When the L. S. U. team ran onto the field, the Kingfish was in its wake, waving his arms wildly. He leaped into wild gesticulations at every break in the game for his adopted team.

Once he called a group of his state police about him and gave them some orders. The police charged into the stands and began warning spectators who were waving bottles. Signs all over the stadium warned: "Drinking will not be tolerated." The first hapless spectator to be ejected was a Tulane rooter.

MILLERS OBTAIN HOLLAND IN DEAL WITH INDIANS

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—M. J. Kelley, president and owner of the Minneapolis American Association baseball club, today announced he had obtained Outfielder Bob [Dutch] Holland, and a left handed pitcher from the Cleveland club of the American league in the deal in which Outfielder Abby Wright went to the Indians.

The identity of the southpaw pitcher has not been announced. Kelly is getting cash with Holland and the pitcher.

Holland played with the Millers in 1933 after coming from the Boston Braves.

Joe Hauser, champion home run hitter of the American Association in 1932 and 1933, will confer Monday with Kelley regarding his chances of playing in 1935. Hauser suffered a fractured right knee last August, and there is doubt if he could stand the rigors of a season's play.

RUNYAN, DIEGEL DIVIDE $1,000 IN AUSTRALIAN GOLF

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Paul Runyan and Leo Diegel today divided first and second prizes totaling $1,000 in the Peninsular Golf club's open, each scoring 134 for 34 holes of play.

Craig Wood tied Ron Harris of Victoria for second place with 136. Joe Ezar shot a 137; Harry Cooper and Denny Shute shot 138; Ky Laffoon and Jimmy Thomson, 139.

Wood won $125; Ezar, $100; Cooper and Shute divided $125; Thomson and Laffoon divided $75.

Rice Swamps Baylor, 32-0; Takes Title

Waco, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Rice institute won the nineteenth annual Southwest conference football championship today by smothering Baylor university, 32 to 0.

The Owls paraded to five touchdowns over a bewildered Baylor team that threatened only once, late in the fourth period.

An estimated crowd of 8,000 saw the game.

Bill Wallace scored a touchdown in the second period when he grabbed John McCauley's 22 yard pass. In the fourth he shot a 10 yard pass to McCauley for a touchdown.

Wallace also tore through the Baylor line for numerous gains. His best run occurred in the fourth when he took the ball behind his goal line and drove through to his 25 yard line.

But Wallace had to share glory with McCauley. In the second period McCauley took the ball on a reverse play, tore through tackle and eluded Baylor's secondary to run 50 yards for a touchdown. He scored the first touchdown early in the game when he plunged 2 yards across the goal line, after Wallace had put the ball in scoring position with a 9 yard off tackle gain. Lineup:

S. M. U., 19; CHRISTIAN, 0.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Southern Methodist scored an unexpected 19 to 0 victory over Texas Christian today.

The Methodists stepped out in the first four minutes of play to rush across two touchdowns and then waited for the wind advantage to score the touchdown in the final period. The victory gave the Mustangs third position in the Southwest conference.

Whitey Baccus, senior half back, led the charge that made 9,000 spectators forget icy winds. He passed the ball to the 15 yard line in the first two minutes of play and knifed his way around left end for the first touchdown.

Two minutes later Jackrabbit Smith, half back, contributed the second touchdown with a weaving 43 yard sprint. Shuford plunged across from the one yard line for the final score.

Twenty-six times the Christians, using their bullet passer, Sammie Baugh, attempted to march down the field through the air, but only six heaves found receivers for a total gain of 74 yards. The Methodist backs gathered in a total of 276 yards from scrimmage plays, while Horned Frog backs registered only 89. Lineup:

REPORT BIERMAN OFFERED POST AT U. OF TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—To the list of assertedly possible successors to Maj. Robert R. Neyland as head football coach at the University of Tennessee, the Tennesseean today added the name of Bernie Bierman, now coach of the Minnesota Gophers, Big Ten champions.

The newspaper said it had been reported that Tennessee is offering Bierman a $10,000 a year salary to take over the job which Neyland leaves with the close of this season to go to Panama on an army assignment. It said that Bierman's present salary is $7,500.

The Tennesseean said that "Bierman is almost certain to be the next coach at Knoxville," citing the reported $2,500 increase offer as a major consideration.

GEORGIA WHIPS GEORGIA TECH IN FINAL DRIVE, 7-0

Short Pass Over Line Brings Touchdown.

Athens, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—In the waning minutes of a bitterly fought game, Georgia drove fifty yards for a touchdown today to conquer Georgia Tech, 7 to 0, in the 29th renewal of their annual football classic.

More than 14,000 witnessed the struggle, which saw the Yellow Jackets succumb to their ninth successive enemy after one of the greatest exhibitions of the season.

Tech Halts Georgia Offensive.

Georgia Tech throttled the Bulldog offensive throughout the first half and threatened to score twice only to lack the necessary driving power in the shadow of the goal.

The winning touchdown was Georgia's only threat. The score came on a short pass over the center of the line by Maurice Green to Henry Wagnon, who leaped above two Georgia Tech players to take the ball. The victory pass came on the fourth down after Georgia Tech had stopped two line plays and a pass from the 5 yard line.

Georgia's Fifth Straight.

It was the fifth successive triumph for the Bulldogs, who turned what appeared to be a disastrous campaign into a good season, triumphing over Florida, Yale, North Carolina State, and Alabama Poly in their last engagements.

This contest ended the season's schedule for both teams. Lineup:

HOLY CROSS, 7; BOSTON, 2.

Newton, Mass., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Playing in the mud and a driving rain, Holy Cross vanquished Boston college, its ancient rival, 7 to 2, today.

Both teams scored in the final period, Nick Morris, brilliant Holy Cross half back, crashing through his left guard to score his team's touchdown. Capt. Buzz Harvey kicked the extra point.

A 70 yard punt by Tom Brennan led to Boston college's two points immediately after his team took Holy Cross' kickoff following its score. His punt was downed on Holy Cross' three yard line. On the first play Dougherty went far back into his end zone to punt, but the pass was low and the ball wet and it slipped through his fingers. He recovered it just as Ed Anderson, Boston end replacement, crashed on top of him for a safety. Lineup:

ARMY AND NAVY BOSSES HAD TO SEE THAT GAME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Conley was in charge of the Army today and Rear Admiral Harold Stark headed the Navy. Neither was very happy about classic at Philadelphia was to blame, of course.

Secretary of War George Dern delegated authority to Assistant Secretary Harry Woodring, who passed the buck to Chief of Staff Douglas MacArthur. MacArthur lost no time in passing it on to Maj. Gen. Hugh Drum. Drum gave the honor to Conley and made it stick by ordering him to stay in Washington.

The same thing happened in the navy department. Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson, Assistant Secretary Henry Roosevelt, and Rear Admirals William Leahy and S. M. Robinson all ducked, leaving Stark in charge.

DUKE DEFEATS NORTH CAROLINA STATE, 32 TO 0

Durham, N. C., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—An alert Duke football team closed its season today by giving its ancient rival, North Carolina State, a 32 to 0 thrashing before 9,000 fans.

From the time Duke regulars entered the game half way in the first quarter there was no doubt as to the outcome. The Devils scored five touchdowns, one in the opener, one in the second quarter, one in the third and two in the final.

State never gave up and in the closing minutes advanced the ball to Duke's four yard line only to lose the ball on downs.

12,000 at Stock Show Hail Victories of Thoroughbreds

BY FRENCH LANE.

A horse show—the greatest of its kind conducted in America, entirely separated from the high hat, frock coat type—opened in the new amphitheater of the International live stock show out at the Union Stockyards last night.

A cosmopolitan gathering of 12,000—all that could jam into the huge auditorium—paid homage to thoroughbreds, standard breds, saddle horses, harness ponies, and every other breed of horse we know in this country.

For the moment the great crowd forgot the prize winning steers, the roly-poly porkers, the blue blooded sheep and lambs, to cheer for the proud, high stepping horses.

Kentucky Mare Wins.

The first victory in the show was scored by a horse from Kentucky. Lex Virginia was her name, and she competed in the three-gaited saddle horse class. She came up from the Lexington Saddle farm and is a magnificent chestnut mare standing 15 hands 3½ inches high. Her proud way of skipping over the tanbark arena, the deft way in which she picked up one foot after another and sauntered on to victory caught the fancy of the enthusiastic gathering.

Harness ponies were on display next, and Cassillis Rana, from the Heyl pony farm in Illinois, carried away the blue ribbon. Mitzie from Happy Way farm was second, and Antham Marvel, a stablemate of Cassillis Rana, was placed third.

The opening of the horse show marked the dedication of the new International Live Stock amphitheater. Henry W. Marshall, president of the international show, introduced Mayor Edward J. Kelly just before the horses came out for the first event.

Another Example of "I Will."

"I see in the reconstruction of the great exposition building a shining example of the wonderful I Will spirit of Chicago," the mayor said.

"As usual Chicago has taken her misfortune and turned it into advantage. Tonight we dedicate the new and greater amphitheater which demonstrates the will and the enterprise of Chicago and especially of that great body of citizens who make up the stock yards industry. I am proud of all of you and I am proud of this marvelous structure which will bring fame and credit to our city. The International Live Stock exposition has done much to bring the urban and farm people onto a common ground."

The new building is the largest structure of the kind in the world. It has 252,210 square feet of exhibit space. Two floors extend on either side of the huge arena which seats 12,000. In these wings are housed the live stock entries.

Chicago Horses Prominent.

Nearly all of the events staged last night were fashioned for horses owned by Chicagoans. In the saddle horse or pony event for riders less than 17 years old, Robert W. Goes, owned by C. B. Goes Jr., was the winner with Bobby Christensen second and Harry Tully third.

The most useful horses in stock yards work were next on exhibition. They, too, were a proud lot and the winner was Black Panther, owned by Noble D. Wolf. Second honors went to Lady Luck, owned by Peter Spogis, and Will Do was third. Will Do is owned by Ben Walter.

A polo game was sandwiched into the busy horse exhibition. The Fort Sheridan team defeated the Shamrocks, 8 to 3.

Visitors Cheer Events.

The rails of the arena were packed six and eight deep with folks from the Dakotas, Missouri, Canada, Iowa, Minnesota, and other points all night long. They couldn't have been very comfortable down there with so little room in which to move about, yet they cheered more loudly than the handclappers did in the boxes where the notables gathered.

With the events exclusively for Chicago owned horses out of the way, the out of town owners will begin showing their prize horses today and tonight.

45,000 See Huskies Beat Trojans, 14-7

second quarter. Edward Nowogrowski, full back on the Huskies' second string back field, which was operating at the time, had carried the ball to the Trojans' 11 yard line. Three plunges brought a first down on the 1 yard line from where Byron Haines crashed through his left guard for the score. Logg kicked goal on the try for point. Washington marched 58 yards on eight plays to earn its first touchdown.

Huskies Score Again.

The Huskies then sent in their first string back field, and with Sulkesky and Bufkin doing most of the ball carrying, lost no time in hustling the ball down the field for another touchdown. Bufkin went around end for the score as the culmination of a 51 yard parade that required only seven plays. Bond kicked the goal.

The Southern California touchdown came on the second play of the third quarter. After Washington had lost ten yards on an attempted plunge, Hueston Harper, Southern California's right tackle, blocked Matthew Muczynski's punt on the 5 yard line and recovered it back of the goal line. Clemens' kick from placement was good and it appeared as if the Trojans were back in the ball game.

Neither team thereafter came close to a touchdown until the final seconds of the game when Washington advanced deep into Southern California's territory.

COCHRANE HOME AFTER VOYAGE TO AUSTRALIA

San Pedro, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tanned and "itching for things to start again," Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, American league baseball champions, arrived today from a vacation in Australia aboard the liner Mariposa.

Asked what he thought of a rumored deal several weeks ago that would send Charley Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, to another club, Cochrane said he had heard nothing of it.

"But if it's true, that's the worst news I've heard since they told me Dizzy Dean was going to pitch the seventh game of the world series," he stated.

So Happy Team Won She Rushes to Get Married

Denver, Colo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Myrtle Niccum, Fayetteville, Ark., a student at Colorado university in Boulder, was "just so happy because we beat Denver university in the Thanksgiving football game," she decided to marry C. Woodrow Greene, Wadesville, N. C., she told District Judge C. C. Coffin.

The judge halted a damage suit hearing to perform the ceremony.

"We just happened to meet at the game," the bride said, "and when C. U. won we were so happy we could not wait any longer to be married."

Greene is a student at a Denver business college.

ST. LOUIS FROSH DEFEAT MISSOURI CONVICTS, 14 TO 0

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Missouri state prison football eleven ended its first season today by losing to the St. Louis university freshmen, 14-0. It was the convicts' fifth defeat of the season.

Chief Marshall, life termer from Jackson county, made the only convict score—and it went to the other team. Stellar center of the prison team, he fell on his own blocked punt behind the goal line to score a safety for the youthful Billikins.

Leroy Munyon, coach, said he was not discouraged by the defeat. His squad of 32 men have an average expectancy of 32⅞ years in prison and he hopes to develop some really good players.

KOSTKA DOES NOT CHOOSE TO RUN EXCEPT ON FIELD

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Stanislaus Clarence Kostka, University of Minnesota full back, has decided to confine his running to the gridiron.

Recently he announced himself as a candidate for mayor of Inver Grove, his home village, but on second thought decided his school work takes too much time to permit him to do justice to a mayoralty.

DETROIT BEATS WASH. STATE, 6-0, IN FIRST PERIOD

Nott Leads Way to Only Touchdown

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Closing his collegiate football career in brilliant style, Doug Nott led the University of Detroit to a 6 to 0 intersectional victory over the Cougars of Washington State today. About 6,000 shivered in the near-gale which whipped intermittent snow flurries across the field.

Fear of Nott's accurate passing arm led to Washington State's downfall. The Titan back, one of the greatest players ever to represent Detroit, directed a first period drive which produced the game's only touchdown, and from that point on the Detroit eleven presented a stubborn defense which the western invaders could not crack consistently.

Nott Goes to Work.

Taking possession of a punt in the opening minute, Detroit put Nott to work. On a formation which spread the Titan line almost the width of the field, Nott faked three passes and ran each time to advance the ball from the Titan 45 to the State 38 yard line. Then Nott shot a pass to Boglarsky, and the Detroit end got to the 20 yard line before being hauled down.

An off side penalty put the ball on the 15 yard line and Jones, Titan quarter back, swept around end to the 7 yard mark. Nott smashed to the 5, from where John Wieczorek needed four tries to plunge over for the touchdown which was to mean victory. Jones' attempted pass for the extra point was grounded.

Washington State Makes Bid.

State made its best bid in the fourth, after Magnus returned Nott's punt from Washington State's 32 to the Detroit 33 on a beautiful run in which he twice reversed his field. Ollie Arbelbide, Washington State half back who started along with Magnus and Goddard for the Cougars, shot a quick pass to Grahek, which was good for first down on the Titan 14 yard line. Two passes were grounded, however. On a third aerial attempt Nott went high to intercept Arbelbide's toss for an automatic touchback, and Nott then kicked 70 yards out of danger from his own 20 yard line.

State made nine first downs, largely on a running game, but most of them were in the vicinity of midfield, and when the invaders did have a chance to move into scoring position the Detroit line smothered the Cougar backs at the line of scrimmage repeatedly or, as happened twice, the Titan secondary made pass interceptions which ended State hopes.

GEORGETOWN IS BEATEN, 13-0, BY WEST. MARYLAND

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Pushing over thouchdowns in the first and second quarters, Western Maryland defeated Georgetown, 13 to 0, on a muddy field today to end the 1934 season without a defeat.

Bill Shepherd, Western Maryland back, scored all the points to boost his year's total to 133 and take the undisputed leadership for national scoring honors.

Florida Gets Battle, but Wins Over Stetson, 14-0

Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Florida found unexpected opposition in Stetson today, but scored two touchdowns to end the season with a 14 to 0 victory. Stetson resorted to a batch of trick plays, none of which worked. One, in which three backs handled the ball before Gannerelli let go a forward pass, resulted in the Alligators' second touchdown as Alton Brown grabbed the ball and ran 35 yards to the goal line.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Chicago Bears are the champions of the western division of the professional football league and have a date with the Giants in New York next Sunday. However, this afternoon at Wrigley field Detroit's Lions, who lost to the Bears Thanksgiving day 19 to 16, are hoping to convince 30,000 Chicagoans that the Lions are the best team in the league.

Because of Detroit's avowed determination today's battle is as important as if the result determined the Giants' opponent in the playoff at the Polo grounds.

Ought to Be Grudge Game.

Since 1932, when the Bears defeated the Lions, then known as the Portsmouth, O., Spartans, in the post-season contest to break the tie for the title, the Bears have been the one reason why Detroit has been unable to reach the final professional game. Thursday's victory was the fourth consecutive victory for the Bears. It is no wonder then that the Lions today are seeking consolation for themselves and satisfaction for their followers, who scarcely could believe a Chicago victory possible Thursday at the University of Detroit stadium when the Lions led, 16 to 7, at the end of the first half.

The Detroit attitude toward the title game last Thursday has affected the Bears who confidently expect to win a second time and more convincingly. Equally important to the Bears is their record of 32 games in which they have not been defeated, although tied several times, and the present list of 12 consecutive triumphs this fall.

Plenty of Close Battles.

The all time record of the Bears-Detroit rivalry from the time the Lions entered the league as the Portsmouth eleven follows:

1930—Portsmouth, 7; Bears, 6.
Bears, 14; Portsmouth, 6.
1931—Bears, 9; Portsmouth, 6.
Portsmouth, 3; Bears, 0.
1932—Bears, 13; Porthmouth, 13.
Bears, 7; Portsmouth, 7.
Bears, 9; Portsmouth, 0 [ch'mp'n'ship].
1933—Bears, 17; Portsmouth, 14.
Bears, 17; Portsmouth, 7.
1934—Bears, 19; Detroit, 16.

This closely fought rivalry and the thrilling play last Thursday are responsible for Chicago's continued interest in today's game despite the fact that the western championship has been decided. It is quite likely that the attendance will establish a new record in Chicago, barring, of course, the Thanksgiving day game in 1925, when Red Grange made his professional debut.

Corbett Out of Game.

The Bears came out of Thursday's game in good condition with the exception of George Corbett. Corbett received a crack in the ribs which will keep him out of today's game, although he should be ready to help out in New York. The work of Keith Molesworth, who took over the left half back assignment after the injury to Beattie Feathers a week ago, was particularly pleasing to the coaches. His passes and kicks were accurate and he handled Detroit's punts in splendid shape. However, Molesworth may not be able to play any great length of time today.

The heavy duty man of all trades, Bronko Nagurski, drilled as left half back yesterday and the day before, which would give the Bears the biggest, heaviest left half in the history of pro football if he takes over that job this afternoon.

Kopcha Is Through.

Feathers, who worked out yesterday with his shoulder strapped up, will not play today. The Bears hope he can be of service in New York. Dr. Joe Kopcha, who broke his left hand in the Cardinal game, is through for the season. That game was Kopcha's last, for he will become an interne shortly after the season is over and later begin the practice of medicine.

The Detroit lineup is expected to be the same as that which started Thursday. In Dutch Clark and Glen Presnell the Lions have two runners who are constant threats. Presnell's return of Molesworth's kick in the third period for forty-four yards was the longest run of the first game barring Zeller's fifty-five yard jaunt with an intercepted pass, and was more difficult because he came down the center of the field. Clark's drop kicking and Presnell's place kicking also may prove to be important factors this afternoon.

Ace Gutowsky, at full back, ripped through the Bear forwards, and Father Lumpkin's blocking fitted into the attack perfectly. Detroit's problem is one of endurance. The Bears' fourth period drives, by which they have won many games, are based on condition. Invariably the Bears finish strongly, and Detroit's line men couldn't stand up under the pounding of Bronko Nagurski and the slashing drives of the half backs.

Nagurski will be banging away this afternoon, and Jack Manders, who kicked two field goals and one point after touchdown at Detroit, will be ready for service. The Bears' great record may end, but Detroit will have to prove it to Chicago's confident football champions.

Lloyd Eleven to Oppose Our Lady of Grace Today

The Lloyd A. C., defending champion, will meet Our Lady of Grace in a Midwest Football league semi-final game this afternoon at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues.

A. A. U. May Alter Rule on Professionals

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Miami will become the hub of American amateur athletics next week for a three day period during which sport leaders in this country and its possessions will gather there for the national convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. The meeting will open Friday.

Awarding of championship sites, consideration of 54 proposed amendments to the constitution, bylaws, general and athletic rules of the A. A. U., and 158 record applications will engage the delegates during the 72 hour session.

Consider Reinstating Pros.

Important among the new proposals are those which would permit a professional coach in one sport to compete as an amateur in another and provide for the reinstatement of all professionals after having "abstained from professional conduct" for a period of five years.

On Friday the sport governing committees will pass on applications which have been filed for the privilege of holding one or more of the national championships. The general convention will be held on Saturday and Sunday.

Los Angeles Seeks Tourneys.

Los Angeles wants the outdoor track and field championship tournaments and the men's and women's outdoor titular swimming meet. If the applications are accepted Los Angeles will hold the tournaments about the same time, inviting some foreign talent, and giving the competition an Olympic games flavor.

Denver, however, has bid for the track and field games, and the aquatic championships also are being sought by Miami, New York, Detroit, Chicago, and Indianapolis. New York apparently has no opposition to continue staging the indoor and field championships in Madison Square Garden, which has been the site for the last few years.

LEVINE WIDENS ALL EVENTS LEAD IN CITY TOURNEY

Louis Levine, star member of the Budweiser team, took a firmer grasp on the lead for the all events title in the city bowling tournament last night when he scored 2,004 in the affair which is being staged at the 131 South Wabash Recreation.

He obtained a running start in the team event last week with a 759 series, shot 600 in the doubles and then came on with a 645 in the singles.

Bill Wernicke and Lou Gawron took the lead in the doubles with a 1,286 score, Gawron getting 678.

Steve Owen took an early hold on first place in the singles with a 664 total.

Iowa Basketball Team Defeats Hamline, 38-26

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Trailing Hamline college of St. Paul, 14 to 19, at half time, the University of Iowa's basketball team staged a brilliant 19 point rally in the second half and turned in a 38 to 26 victory tonight to open its 19 game schedule.

Ivan Blackmer, veteran center, dropped in five field goals and four from the foul line to take individual scoring honors, while Grim, senior guard, scored three field goals and a free throw. Barko, a forward, the only other veteran in the Hawkeye lineup was held to two field goals.

Hamline caught the Hawkeyes napping and ran up a 7 point lead before Grim opened the Iowa scoring. After Iowa had tied the score at 12 all, the Pipers pulled away and lead 19-14 at half time.

The Hawkeyes opened up with a fast breaking offense in the second half, spotted their opponents a basket and then poured in 19 points as Grim, Blackmer, and Schwartz counted from the field and the foul line.

ALL-STARS MEET STRONG TEAM IN GLOBE TROTTERS

The Harlem Globe Trotters, colored traveling basketball team, will present a highly polished offensive when it meets a picked team of former college stars at Loyola university gymnasium Friday night.

All former college stars, the Globe Trotters have perfected a passing and floor game that is the nearest approach to that of the old New York Celtics. Last year, playing college teams and athletic clubs through the west and northwest, the Globe Trotters performed before 226,000 in fifteen states and four provinces of Canada. In one stretch, the five-man squad played 98 games on 94 consecutive days.

Hearing on Suit Against Baer Is Set for Feb. 19

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Superior Court Judge Malcom Glen today set Feb. 19 as the date for further hearing on the suit of J. Hamilton Lorimer of Oakland against Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion. Lorimer, former manager of Baer, alleges $40,000 is due him from Baer's earnings while Baer and his present manager, Ancil Hoffman, are contesting the suit.

Artillery Polo Team Defeats North Shore

Holding the lead from the first gong, the 124th Field Artillery trio defeated North Shore Polo and Hunt club, 9½ to 5½, last night before 6,000 in the senior division feature of the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league inaugural at the Artillery armory.

The 124th Field Artillery Cardinals won the evening's opener from the Lincolnshire Country club, 14½ to 6, in the junior division.

Along with pretty teamwork that had North Shore baffled at times, the playing of Lieut. Rice was the high spot of the game. He made four goals, most of them at times when the visitors were in the midst of a threatening rally, and two of these points came as a result of carrying the ball from one end of the field to the other.

Favored by a three goal handicap award, Lincolnshire Country club played the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals on even terms during the first half, the score being knotted at 5 goals apiece.

However, from the time that Capt. Romeo Mura knocked in a goal at the outset of the second half, the Cardinals pulled steadily away, rolling up a total of 10 goals while holding their opponents to one.

Lineups and summary:

ARTILLERY TEAM WINS.

The campaign for the Baby Ruth trophy, emblematic of the Chicago Black Horse Troop Indoor Polo league championship, started last night with the 122d Field Artillery defeating the Troopers, 15 to 14, at the Chicago Riding club. Tied in the last minute of play, the 122d trio came through with the winning goal just as the bell sounded.

Lieut. William F. Kirby, making his first appearance in the Troopers' lineup since being injured two weeks ago, made six of the tallies.

In the preliminary contest the Riding Club Juniors beat the 106th Cavalry, 6½ to 6. Robert Anderson accounted for five of the Juniors' tallies, while Jack Jackowski cracked through the 106th's lines for two more. Tommy Anderson and Dick Strauss earned three goals apiece.

CASPER OIMEN RANKED FIRST ON U. S. SKI TEAM

Casper Oimen of Minot, N. D., was ranked first on the official 1934 All-American ski team yesterday by Harold A. Griden, secretary of the National Ski association. The Norwegian has been the outstanding rider of the snows since he came to America in 1925.

Twelve riders, representing scattered sections of the nation, were named on the All-American team. In addition to Oimen, they and their respective rankings follow:

2, Harold Sorensen, Norfolk, Conn.; 3, Syerre Fredheim, Minneapolis; 4, Ottar Satre, Salisbury, Conn.; 5, Roy Mikkelsen, Auburn, Cal.; 6, Gunnar Oman, Chicago; 7, Pedar Falstad, Minot, N. D.; 8, Carl Helmstrom, Bear Mountain, N. Y.; 9, I. Arneson, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; 10, Rolf Wigaard, Auburn, Cal.; 11, W. Bietila, Ishpeming, Mich.; 12, Glenn Armstrong, Estes Park, Col.

Secretary Griden said selections for the All-American team are based strictly on actual results by riders in tournament competition throughout the nation. The ratings have no bearing on Olympic team selections, he explained, as members of the Olympic team must be citizens of the nation they represent.

MISSOURI AWAITS BOARD'S ACTION ON NEW COACH

Columbia, Mo., Dec. 1.—[U. P.]—No further action toward changing football coaches at the University of Missouri will be taken until the board of curators meets sometime in the next few weeks, it was understood today.

The board, it is expected, will accept the resignation of Frank Carideo, head coach, which was offered yesterday. Carideo said he had several coaching propositions in view. He refused to discuss them, however, or talk about the situation here. It was rumored he might go to St. Louis university.

Damen, Hennepin to Start K. of C. Schedules Today

Hennepin-Shields and Damen, each of which has three league championships to its credit, will make their first starts of the season in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league this afternoon at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 Madison street.

Only the west division will be in action, the south section opener being scheduled for Dec. 9.

Damen will meet Barry in what should be one of the features of the afternoon, while Hennepin-Shields will clash with Lafayette. Barry won its opening game last Sunday with a great rally in the closing minutes. Lafayette was defeated by St. Cyr, the league champion.

Carroll vs. Tonti and Hughes vs. Cardinal are the other games on the schedule. Tonti finished third in the league final last season and its lineup is reinforced by the presence of Gene Godina.

DIZZY'S PAY NOT DISCUSSED AS HE MEETS BREADON

Bradenton, Fla., Dec. 1.—[U.P.]—Dizzy Dean, pitching star, and Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, have met here but they refrained from approaching the delicate subject of Dean's salary for next year, the hurler said today.

Dean said he had not "talked salary" at all with the Cardinals' management. He plans to spend the rest of the winter at his home in a suburb of Bradenton, fishing and hunting.

Breadon will return to St. Louis Monday. He arrived here Tuesday to complete arrangements for the Cards' spring training period.

Trapshoot Season Opens at Glen View Club Today

The trapshooting season will open today for the 1934-'35 season at the Glen View club with the S. M. Roberts trophy shoot. The double events is an added feature. The inter-club shoots, one of the competitive events among the country clubs in this district, will start shortly after the first of the year. Glen View last season won the Thompson Ross trophy, awarded to the club winning it three times.

Leafs Defeat Eagles, 4-3, in Final Seconds

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 1.—(AP)—With only thirteen seconds to play, a perfect shot from Charlie Conacher's stick won the Toronto Leafs a National Hocky league game, 4 to 3, from the St. Louis Eagles tonight.

With the score tied, 3 to 3, and the crowd sitting back for overtime, Conacher, parked inside the blue line, took a pass out from Harold Cotton from a ganging play and blazed a knee high shot past Billy Beveridge.

The victory was the Leafs' eighth this season without a loss and further consolidated their position as section leaders.

Toronto had gone into a 2 to 1 lead in the first period through goals by Conacher and Busher Jackson, while Syd Howe scored for the Eagles. Howe got another in the second to balance Red Horner's, and Earl Roche tied it up seven minutes after the third started when George Hainsworth was out of his net. Lineups:

BRUINS, 2; CANADIENS, 0.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins kept up their fast National Hocky league pace by defeating the Montreal Canadiens, 2 to 0, tonight on Marty Barry's two goals. It was the Canadiens' fourth loss in five starts.

Barry scored his first goal in the second period, beating Wilf Cude cleanly with a low shot that buzzed between the Canadien goalie's feet. Then, in the last minute of play, Barry took a pass from Red Beattie and fired a hard shot into the top of the cage. Lineups:

MAROONS, 5; RANGERS, 2.

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons made their hold on second place in the National Hocky league's international division more secure tonight as they defeated the Rangers, 5 to 2, for their second victory in as many appearances here this season. The defeat left the Rangers at the bottom of the American group.

The Maroons rolled up a 3 to 0 lead before New York managed to score late in the second period. The first Montreal goal came as a gift from Alex Levinsky, who knocked the puck into his own net.

AMERICANS PLAY HAWKS; SEEK 4TH IN ROW TONIGHT

Romnes to Get Chance in Stadium Game.

The rejuvenated New York Americans, with three straight victories to their credit, meet the Blackhawks tonight at the Stadium in the teams' second consecutive encounter.

The New Yorkers, who have been the doormats of the National Hocky league for nine seasons of the ten in which they have been members of the major organization, and looked upon again this season as having only the slightest chance to qualify for the finals, have recently shown surprising strength.

Not blessed with the necessary cash or the hocky material to buy or trade, Manager Joe Simpson was forced to start the season with a string of veterans who have seen their best years in the skating pastime.

Most managers agree that the prime of a hocky player is between the ages of 24 and 30, yet six Americans admit to more than 30 years.

Schriner Is Baby.

Red Dutton is 34, Roy Worters 32, Bill Brydge 33, Normie Himes 32, Harry Oliver 34, and Rabbit McVeigh 34. The youngest player and the only newcomer from the miners on this year's Americans roster is the flashy Sweeney Schriner, left winger of last season's Syracuse Stars of the International league. He is 23. Schriner was the only scorer for the New York team when they blanked the Hawks Thursday at New York. The youngster slipped the puck into the net twice in the third period.

This season Manager Simpson obtained Alex Smith by purchase from the Boston Bruins, thereby strengthening his defense, already considered the best in the league. With Roy Worters in the nets and Dutton, Brydge, Smith, and Murray alternating at defense, opposing teams are finding it difficult to score.

Rely on Himes.

The New York team's main scoring reliance this season, as in the past ten, is center player Normie Himes, who is teaming on the first line with Bob Gracie and Harry Oliver. Aside from having a lot of scoring power, this trio excels at back checking.

Eddie Burke, Dede Klein, and Red Conn make up a second line. Burke developed into such an accurate marksman last season that he topped the scorers of the Americans and both Klein and Conn came along in a scoring way so rapidly toward the close of the 1933-'34 season that Simpson looks to the line to be his main scoring threat before the season is much older.

Doc Romnes, who remained at home throughout the Hawks' last eastern jaunt to get his skating legs in trim, is likely to see action in tonight's game.

Scoring Shows Increase.

Despite the fact that the two main front lines of the Blackhawks, consisting of Thompson, Morenz, and March and Gottselig, McFadyen, and Couture, have not started to click, the team scoring for the number of games played to date as against the same number last season in competition with the same teams shows a 33 per cent increase. The attacking play of the Trudel, Cook, and Kendall trio has been mostly responsible for the Hawks high position in the race.

The lineups:

CHICAGO.		NEW YORK.
Chabot	Goal	Worters
Coulter	Defense	Dutton
Burke	Defense	Murray
Morenz	Center	Chapman
March	R. Wing	Carr
Thompson	L. Wing	Schriner

OLYMPICS FACE CANADIAN SIX ON STADIUM ICE

Western university of London, Ont., Canada, will face the Chicago Olympics in the final of their two game hocky series today at the Stadium. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Olympics won the first game, 6 to 2. Coach William Marsden of the collegians wired for additional strength for today's game and will start three newcomers, Alex McInnes, Bud Steadman, and Dave Mills. With this reenforcement the Canadians are confident of squaring the series.

Jock Riddell, formerly of the Eastern league, again will be goalie for the Olympics. Franklin Miles, a new defense man, may get into the game. He arrived yesterday.

C. Y. O. BOXERS MEET WEDNESDAY IN TITLE FIGHTS

Expect 21,000 for Finals at Stadium.

Thirty-two boys—16 championship and 16 A class finalists—will battle for the Catholic Youth organization boxing titles at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. Sixteen Bishop Sheil scholarships which will be awarded to the winners. A capacity crowd of 21,000 is expected.

"I have yet to see as equal a combination of finalists as we have this year," Paddy Kane, C. Y. O. boxing instructor said yesterday. "Bouts like those between Johnny Brown and Larry Strong, Frank McHugh and Eddie Mileske, Tom Kenneally and Al Camber, or Bill Fitzgerald and Charley Wozniak are enough to cause anyone who tried to pick a winner plenty of headaches."

New Boys Coming Fast.

Kane also had words of praise for the 16 finalists in the A class. "There are three or four boys in the A class who'll be heard from a great deal in next year's tourney," Paddy said. "They are good enough to give the championship class finalists a tough fight."

For the last two days the 32 boys who qualified for the finals have shared training equipment with Max Baer and his younger brother, Buddy. The heavyweight champion of the world, after paying the C. Y. O. gym a visit Friday, decided to do his training there, and intends to make the C. Y. O. gym his sparring grounds until tomorrow, when he is scheduled to leave town.

Tickets on Sale.

Tickets for the C. Y. O. finals are on sale at the Boston Store, State and Madison, main floor; the C. Y. O. headquarters, 31 E. Congress street, Room 518, Bond's, 25 W. Madison, and the Stadium box officie. Reservations may be made by phoning Wabash 1114.

Championship class pairings follow:

112 pounds—Johnny Noto vs. John Sittipa e.
118 pounds—Johnny Brown vs. Larry Strong.
126 pounds—Andy Scrivani vs. Tony Carlucci.
135 pounds—Savior Canadeo vs. Lorenzo Lovings.
147 pounds—Frank McHugh vs. Eddie Mileski.
160 pounds—Charles Wozniak vs. Bill Fitzgerald.
175 pounds—Ray Wozniak vs. Ray McNally.
Heavyweight—Tom Kenneally vs. Al Camber.

Hunters Split on Automatic Shotgun Use

BY BOB BECKER.

When we hear about a gun club that bars the use of an automatic or auto-loading shotgun we wonder what the sentiment of American sportsmen is regarding this hunting weapon. The question is: are certain shooters justified in taking a stand against the use of automatics in the hunting of American wild game? Or, do the rank and file of some 6,000,000 hunters never think about this gun and whether there is a question of ethics in its use?

This whole question of the automatic versus the double gun was brought to mind a few weeks ago when we were invited to shoot on the grounds of a duck club in the upper Illinois river. When the invitation was given us we were told casually that we couldn't shoot anything but a double barrel shotgun down there. The club [and this group is not the only one] believes that a double barrel gun is a sportier shooting weapon than the automatic. It bars the use of the latter on its grounds.

Uses Automatic Once a Year.

We had heard about clubs taking this stand, but this was the first time that we had actually run into such a ruling. Not that it caused us any embarrassment or inconvenience. It didn't. We do not shoot an automatic shotgun in duck, quail, pheasant, or rabbit hunting. About once a year we drag out the old automatic and use it for a goose shoot. We have owned this automatic [12 gauge] for seven or eight years, and if it gets an airing once a year it can consider itself lucky.

This feeling toward the automatic isn't any "holier than thou" attitude. Although we are inclined to believe that there would be fewer crippled ducks if everybody used double guns because the fast trigger boys wouldn't keep on shooting as long as the duck is in sight, the point is that we like a double gun better than any other type and we never have been able to get used to the big automatics.

Gets the Habit.

This habit of using a double was started many years ago and thoroughly instilled in us by South American collecting trips. On these trips we shot many thousands of rounds of ammunition in double guns, and since then we have used practically nothing else. Naturally we think the double barrel shotgun has the nicest balance, the finest feel, and is the best all around gun to be had. That is what habit does to you. However, if anybody wants to use an automatic or even a slingshot, that is a matter of personal preference and it's none of our business.

We have never seen a poll of sentiment on this question of types of shotguns. Such a poll ought to be mighty interesting, too. We have heard groups of sportsmen express themselves many times both "pro and con" on this question of automatics, but it takes more than these few groups to give one a good idea of public sentiment.

A Negative Vote.

Probably the worst panning that we ever received about our American repeating guns was handed to us when we shot ducks in Canada one fall. Our host was an Irishman. It is superfluous to say that he was shooting a double gun with two sets of barrels. However, after the arguments ended, the fact remained that without doubt one of the sturdiest, hardest shooting and popular type of shotgun in America today is the common, "trombone action," repeating shotgun, which our Irish friend didn't like.

AND EVERY ONE LOOKING FOR A FIGHT

The Poles also will have a strong team in the C. Y. O. finals. Left to right, they are Joe Gora, Ray Wozniak, Charles Wozniak, Larry Strong and Eddie Mileski.

Cavalcade and Twenty Grand in Coast Stake

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Two Kentucky Derby winners, Cavalcade and Twenty Grand, were added to the impressive list of nominations for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap here Feb. 23.

With the exception of Discovery, which went bad in training, almost every big stake winner of the last season was included in the ever growing field, including Equipoise, Mate, Mr. Khayyam and Gallant Sir.

Besides Cavalcade, 1934 champion, Mrs. Dodge Sloane entered Good Goods, 3 year old colt of the Brookmeade stables. Twenty Grand, active rival of Equipoise for several seasons, was brought out of retirement several months ago and has been pointed for this race. Twenty Grand won the Derby in 1931.

Equipoise, along with Mate, will be shooting at the title of world's leading money winner now held by Sun Beau, as their earnings to date, plus the $100,000 added money for this event, would put them well over the $376,744 amassed by the big thoroughbred now in retirement.

Mate is expected to leave England Monday. His earnings are $297,660, compared with $338,450 for Equipoise.

Sixteen nominations were made today, bringing the total to 48. Beside Twenty Grand and Cavalcade there were Mr. Khayyam, Good Goods, Gillie, Thomasville, Teralice, Indiantown, Polydorus, Mad Frump, Spicson, Larranaga, San Cloud, Ted Clark, Tick On, and Azucar.

Among those previously named were Statesman, Ladysman, Faireno, Gay World, Sir Thomas, Head Play, Gallant Sir, Riskulus, Chance Line, Royal Blunder, Pomposity, Semaphore, Boardwalker, and Trombone.

It was the opinion of Webb A. Everett, secretary of the racing club, that approximately twenty of those nominated would start.

Halsted Meets O'Connell in Indoor Tennis Tonight

Thane Halsted, Illinois state singles champion, will make his first appearance on the indoor tennis court at the Broadway armory tonight, meeting Frank O'Connell in an exhibition match. O'Connell and Halsted will oppose Karl Kamrath, former inter-collegiate champion, and Dave Krieger, in a doubles exhibition. In another singles match, Roland Bloomstrand, Swedish professional, meets Paul Myllenberg, Lincoln Park amateur.

RAIN POSTPONES CHARLES TOWN TRACK OPENING

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The opening of the Charles Town race meeting scheduled for today has been rained out and postponed until next Thursday, jocky club officials announced.

A. J. Boyle, president of the Charles Town Jocky club, made the announcement after recent heavy rains had left the track soggy. He quoted J. B. McLaughlin, West Virginia commissioner of agriculture, as directing the postponement on the grounds that the downpour left the track in an unsafe condition.

"The track condition and the weather combined," said Boyle, "made it necessary to postpone the opening until Thursday. We will open then instead of today as scheduled."

The jocky club president said several places on the track where there were fills had been badly washed in a cloudburst and that as "soon as repairs are made we'll be ready to go."

The program offered for the opening day was termed a "splendid one" for a winter race meeting. Horsemen were liberal in making entries.

A new set of entries will be necessary for the opening next Thursday.

RIGHTMIRE BOXES PAUL TOMORROW IN MIDWAY ARENA

Phagan Takes On Charvez at Marigold.

Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N. Y., former featherweight champion, will meet Everett [Young] Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia., in a 10 round contest tomorroom at Midway arena in the feature of this week's Chicago boxing schedule. The schedule includes a ten round bout between Johnny Phagan, 1932 international Golden Gloves welterweight title holder, and Jack Charvez of Kansas City, Mo., at Marigold Gardens, also booked for tomorrow.

The encounter with Rightmire will be Paul's first since his stirring combat against Leo Rodak at White City Oct. 15, which he lost. The match revealed that Tommy still can prove embarrassing to the best boxers at his weight despite inability to obtain a return title conflict with Champion Freddy Miller. Miller dethroned Tommy in a 10 round battle at the Stadium May 13, 1933.

He followed Miller to California in quest of another chance at the crown which he had won from Fidel La Barba. Freddy refused to consider a bid until after Paul knocked out Little Dempsey twice and Abie Israel, whipped Joe Ponce and George Hansford, and fought a draw with Kid Chocolate. These accomplishments earned Paul the scrap, but Miller refused to put the crown at stake. Tommy won on a foul in the second round and when they fought for the third time at Hollywood, Aug. 3, Miller was given the 10 round decision.

The defeat discouraged Paul and he was beaten in a return tussle with Hansford and then he lost a verdict to Frank Covelli at Washington, D. C., Oct. 1. He was in good form again against Rodak in his latest, which bodes ill for Rightmire, who has lost only two decisions in 88 appearances.

Conquests of Alabama Kid and Jack Purvis in recent weeks have made a chesty boxer of Jack Charvez. They have helped put the Navajo middleweight in condition for the impending fight with Phagan. The latter earned recognition as one of the world's best amateur welterweights when he knocked out his German opponent in an international fight at Soldiers' field. Phagan turned professional shortly thereafter. At times he has displayed fine form against some of the best in the pro field.

Phagan has performed creditably in his last four encounters against Billy Hood, George Black, Tony Bruno, and Teddy Yarosz, division champion. He conquered all but Yarosz, but the champion encountered strong competition from Johnny.

Bouts on this week's schedule include:

MONDAY.

At Marigold Gardens—Johnny Phagan vs. Jack Charvez [8], middleweights.

TUESDAY.

At Los Angeles, Cal.—Young Tommy vs. Speedy Dado [10], bantamweights.

WEDNESDAY.

THURSDAY.

At Des Moines, Ia.—Max Baer, heavyweight champion vs. Johnny Miler [4].

FRIDAY.

At Dallas, Tex.—Harry Dublinsky vs. Tracy Box [10], welterweights.

Can Chicago Bears Hit Those Pins? Monarchs Will Find Out

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Every one knows the Chicago Bears can play football, but whether they can bowl is another question. The Monarch Beers of the Classic league will see for themselves Tuesday evening at the Schueneman Lakeview allays, 3239 North Clark street, where they will pit their all-star lineup against the professional football champions at 8:15 o'clock. Proceeds from the match will be turned over to THE TRIBUNE Goodfellow fund.

The Bears have several capable bowlers, but nevertheless the Monarchs have consented to use five men against any the six Bears name. George Halas, owner of the Bears, has picked Jack Manders, Bill Hewitt, Carl Brumgaugh, Keith Molesworth, and himself, along with Beattie Feathers, if the star half back's injured sholder will permit.

Halas promises to have most of the Bear players present and a majority of them will be available to fill in if needed.

North End League.

Jerry Jouron, one of Chicago's leading youngesters, was the feature performer in the North End Traveling league when he put together games of 213, 266, and 277 for a 756 total, a new season record for the league. As a result, Jerry's team, the Butterfingers, piled up a 3,146 series and remained in a tie for second place by taking two games from the Miller High Lifes. The only game the Butterfingers lost was their best game, 1,094, the Millers registering 1,107. The Milfords jumped backed into a tie for the lead by winning three games, while the Idle Hours and Fox's had to be content with two. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Michelobs vs. Birk Bros. at Lincoln Square, 7 p. m.; Idle Hours vs. Superbs at Willow, 7 p. m.; Westers at Milford, 9 p. m.; Millers vs. Fox's at Kaadland, 9 p. m.; Samuelsons vs. Butterfingers at Gold Coast, 9 p. m.

Classic League.

The Pabst Blue Ribbons, who sneaked into first place during the week's action in the Classic league, will have to defend their lead tonight against the Monarch Beers in one of the four matches at the Garden Recreation, 4074 Milwaukee avenue. The Monarchs, who have set the pace for several weeks, trail by one game. The Pabsts have the only two hundred bowlers in the league, Herb Freitag and Ad Carlson. Tonight's schedule:

Vrba Motors vs. Edelweiss, Pabsts vs. Monarchs, Cardinals vs. Budweiser, La Salle-Windsor vs. Baby Ruths.

Windy City League.

The K. M. Kralovecs have high game in the Windy City Major league as a result of Krizek getting 276, Camphouse 222, Wehrmeister 222, Ryan 161, and Stefani 228 for a total of 1,109. The Mineralites shot 3,094, but they lost one of three to Blazek Tailors by four pins, 1,014 to 1,018. The leading O'Keefe Coals totaled 3,079 and they, too, failed to sweep their series with the Lauterbachs, who took the middle game, 1,042 to 1,033. High individuals were Lenzen of the O'Keefes, 689; Rissky of Blazek Tailors, 656, and Wright of the Mineralites, 652. Tomorrow's schedule:

McKesson's Old Crow vs. Vrba Motors; Lauterbach Coals vs. Blazek Tailors; J. M. Kralovecs vs. Vogel Brothers; Bender-Blitemke Dairy vs. Arcade Tavern; Mayor Cerny vs. Soper Brothers; Mineralites vs. O'Keefe Coals; Pilsen Olympia vs. Curtiss Buy Jiminy; Charles Denby Cigars vs. Bettinis Boosters.

By winning two games from Reichman Jewelers, General Food rolled into a tie for first place in the Windy City Junior league. Those who had high series were F. Katis, 633; Wally Skora, 631; Paul Clinton, 656; Mike Verona, 618; Paul Wayne, 622, and Jim Svoboda, 606. Svoboda tops the averages with an even 200.

Randolph League.

Following a Thanksgiving layoff, the Randolph leaguers will get back into action Thursday with another round of matches. The schedule will be:

7 o'clock squad, Anheuser-Busch vs. Burlington Route; Sunkist Pies vs. Greyhound Lines; Live Stock Press vs. Mason Mints; Birk Brothers vs. Rebholz Gardens.

On South Side Alleys.

Stengel Florists and Dutch Masters remain tied for the lead in the Bruck Major league with 25 won and 11 lost. Frank Spencer's 209 tops the individuals and Bill Cooksey and Bobby Hayes second with 207. Valleyfield knocked off a 678 series for the week's high. . . . The Brucks totaled 3,076, winding up with a 1,154 game, yet they lost one of three games with Our Club in the Woodlawn Major league. High individual countr were Plunge, 657; Rowley, 654; Thompson, 647; Carlson, 642; Kluge, 638; Kobza, 628; Garvey, 625; Pavesich, 621; Rys and Bernhardt, 615; Stack, 608. Tomorrow's schedule:

Brucks vs. James Whalens; Our Club vs. Bloom Florists; American Brakebloks vs. Crest Recreation; Everett Coal vs. Woodlawn Recreation.

On North Side Alleys.

A. J. Williams Jewelry knocked Anheiser-Busch out of second place in the Gold Coast Major league by taking them for three games. Two victories over the Luxor Cigars increased the Curtiss Butterfingers' lead to three games. Steffin had a 258 game and a series of 684 to be high for the week. . . . Lippe and E. Holcher are fighting it out for the individual leadership of the Polish Traveling league, which rolls tonight. Each has 202. . . . Dizer of Pete's Grill collected games of 240, 198, and 203 for 641 to top the turkey shoot of the Northwest Tavern league. High game of 253 went to Manthie. . . . M. Kass tied the Chicago Junior Traveling league record by dusting off the pins for 703. He now has the individual lead with an average of 198. At the end of the first round the Court alley team is leading with 15 won and 3 lost. . . . J. Sublosky and G. Leonard of North Center were the big guns in the Northwest Traveling league with respective totals of 643 and 630. J. Mult of Monte Cristo gathered 627.

About the Women.

In the Lorel Rug-Monte Cristo Major league, M. Bendick was high with 570, followed by F. Hauselein, 552, and E. Berlinger, 520. The Quaker Girls still are in first place with a two game margin over the Bigelows and Gulistans. . . . Emily Stylo piled up a 259 game in the Pioneer Major league. High series were shot by Marie Matkin, 558; Ann Wanegar, 553; Domschke, 533; Stylo, 535, and Svestka, 520. . . . Turkey winners in the Pioneer Senior league were: Nell Krause, 565; Emily Goldammer, 507; Margaret Krause, 495; B. Rocklin, 489; Jeanette Fisher, 484, and Minnie Jorgenson, 484. Miss Jorgenson had to pick up the 6-7-10 split to get her turkey. . . . In the Pioneer Junior league, Hazel Terreberry, 522; Lucille Young, 466; Mae Bansbach, 448, and Ethel Miller, 421, were turkey winners. . . . Bessie Kelly had a 231 game and Minna Copins a 216 in the Railway Business Association women's league.

Here and There.

The North End Traveling league will hold its fourth team sweepstakes next Saturday and Sunday at the Lincoln Square Recreation. The Milfords, winners of the first three sweepstakes, will try to make it four in a row Saturday night. . . . Louie Levine's 759 series was the biggest factor in the 3,148 total that gave the Budweisers the five man championship in the city tournament. . . . Led by Al Tabor the Pelicans shot 1,043 to hang up high game in the Adams-Wabash league.

Cup Games Head Today's Soccer Card

Busy Mr. Londos Stops Off for a Bout with Smitty

Jim Londos, the roaming Greek heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, who successfully defended his title against Ed [Strangler] Lewis at Wrigley field last September, arrived in Chicago yesterday and will remain long enough to defend his crown against Jack Smith, hope of the Chicago Smiths, at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

Londos has had a heavy schedule since triumphing over Lewis. He has engaged in more than 40 bouts in the last two months and wrestled 12 times in the last 16 days. He went to the Libertyville home of his manager, Ed White, immediately upon his arrival, and will rest until tomorrow afternoon.

"Jim is 20 pounds underweight and suffering from loss of physical energy as a result of his hard campaign," said White. He will get as much rest as possible at my place in Libertyville and I have instructed him to remain there until tomorrow afternoon, when he must appear before the Illinois athletic commission."

Smith has been training for the bout for several weeks and plans to outspeed and outstay the champion from the opening bell. Hans Bauer, German wrestler, has aided Smith, giving him the best methods as to the defense against Londons' various holds.

Because of being much lighter Londos has abandoned his airplane spins and body slams. But he has perfected several other holds and looks for another victory.

Other matches on the card will bring together Dr. Pat Mulligan, who will defend his light heavyweight title against Gus Clem of Chicago; Everett Marshall and Hans Kampfer; Olaf Oleson and Ernie Dusek, and Abie Coleman and Hans Bauer.

BENTON HARBOR, FIELD ARTILLERY TO CLASH TODAY

Benton Harbor, semipro champion of Michigan, will meet the 124th Field Artillery eleven this afternoon in an indoor football game at the armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. A preliminary will start at 2 o'clock.

Victorious in the last 21 starts, the artillery team will be out to extend its string. Outstanding among the visitors are Bob Frakes, quarter back; Phil Panaleo, ex-Tilden star; the three Westfall brothers, and Summerfeld.

CUBS DECIDE TO FORSAKE SANTA ROLE IN TRADES

They'll Still Pay, but Want Something for It.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs still have money and plenty of it to spend for ball players when they have no good trades to offer and think the players are worth the dough asked for them. But clubs like the athletically aimless Brooklyn Dodgers, who tune up on the popular ditty, "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" every time the Cubs suggest a deal, can keep on fiddling for their own amusement in so far as the Cubs are concerned.

The Chicago Nationals, in completing the largest player deal made at a minor league convention, closed with the Pittsburgh Pirates in a transaction involving $250,000 without the passing of one cent in cash.

John O. Seys, vice president of the Cubs and a Cub official during the years of the flush Wrigley connection with the Chicago team, said after Larry French and Freddy Lindstrom had been acquired for Guy Bush, Jim Weaver and Babe Herman, that he could not recall another deal of importance involving the Cubs in which the dealers on the other side did not demand a substantial sum of cash regardless of the equitable character of the swap on the basis of player chattels alone.

Remember Juicy Prices.

The hard up clubs in the league have had some reason to shoot at the Cub bank roll instead of trying to effect trades that might do their outfits some good in a baseball way.

Memories naturally retain details of the $200,000 and five players deal that the Cubs gave for Rogers Hornsby [a bargain at that in view of the fact that it enabled the Cubs to win the pennant in 1929], the $65,000 that the Cubs gave for Lester Bell, which was no bargain; the $75,000 and four players the Cubs gave for Babe Herman, and the $125,000 the Cubs gave for Chuck Klein, which may turn out to be a good deal, though a bust to date.

The Cubs say that the Brooklyn club, which asks them to give $200,000 and two regulars for Van Mungo, a .500 pitcher, also wants a fortune for First Baseman Sam Leslie, who will have trouble making even the Dodgers next year if Casey Stengel's hopes for young Johnny McCarthy are realized. It is said that several teams have had a chance to deal for Sam for about half the quotation to the Cubs.

Braves Won't Yield.

The Boston Braves, probably thinking more than any other club about those juicy Hornsby and Bell deals, can't make up their minds to do any important trading with the Chicagos, although they have shown many signs of having a team gone stale through staying in Boston too long.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis have not always been willing to deal as equitably with the Cubs as they did in the case of French, Lindstrom, et al., and in the swap that gave the Cubs Tex Carleton, which amounted to a trade for Pat Malone, Cub cash, and miscellany on both sides.

Those close to the two teams say that neither Pittsburgh nor St. Louis looks upon the Chicago team as a pennant contender like the Pirates and Cardinals once did. Prior to 1933 all outfits which thought they had contenders themselves were afraid to make a move for fear any help given the Cubs would be positive insurance of a Chicago pennant.

Now, it is said, they believe the Cubs will stand a lot of help without being a cinch to win a pennant. Despite the fold-up of the Giants in 1934 they are still considered, with the Cardinals, the class of the league.

The luxurious habits of the Cubs, which caused them to be lazy last year, has caused them to be rated below pennant power by smart baseball men in their league, who believe that laziness is a contagious disease which will discount talents of all players sent to the Wrigley club.

The Cubs, of course, take issue with this view privately, though quite content to have able players sent to them with expectation that they will become lazy, as did the former Philadelphia hustler, Klein.

French a Hustler.

Those who know Larry French, for instance, doubt that he will be bit by the Cub ennui bug.

As a matter of fact one of the reasons that French was coveted next in importance to the fact that he is a good lefty was because he is one of the real hustlers of the National league.

It is figured that Larry will shame such of the leisure boys who are on the roster when the 1935 season begins.

In this regard it may be that the Pirate management figured that Lindstrom will prove an antidote for French in the matter of hustle and bustle.

Freddy isn't lazy, but he long has had the reputation of being temperamental and willing to leave the lineup on occasion when not invited to do so. He also was known on the Giants as a "clubhouse lawyer," something of a trouble maker and a trifle too ambitious in managerial aspirations.

The Cubs do not expect Freddy to show any of these reputed mannerisms as a Cub, however. The young man long has made it known that he would like to play in Chicago, city of his birth and residence.

WIDE REFORMS IN U. S. BUDGET SYSTEM URGED

Trade Leaders Seek Stronger Control.

Sweeping reforms in the federal budget system will be advocated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as the result of a referendum vote just completed among its members, the association announced yesterday.

Of 14 points submitted for balloting only one was rejected because it lacked the necessary two-thirds' majority approval. This proposed that federal taxpayers be given the right to enjoin expenditures which would create deficiencies.

The referendum dealt only with methods of preparing estimates, appropriation procedure, administrative control of expenditures and timely information for the public. It ignored actual amounts of federal spending.

Urges Later Submission.

Recommendations included one holding the federal budget be submitted to congress March 1 instead of early in January, in the belief estimates would be more accurate if prepared nearer to the start of the fiscal year. The chamber had advocated that the budget, approved by congress, be published at the beginning of the fiscal year.

The vote favored proposals that the President should designate in his budget estimates existing activities which he thinks should be discontinued; that the statement of capital items should include all outlays with a clear distinction between reimbursible and nonreimbursible items; that contingent liabilities be recognized; and that revenue estimates should be so expanded to present a complete revenue program.

Favors Central Control.

More active centralized administrative control of expenditures was also advocated. This would be accomplished by broadening the executive allotment system of funds to include all expenditures, ordinary and emergency; strengthening it to avoid the necessity of deficiency appropriations and, when feasible, a reduction of spending below appropriations.

Another proposition provides for a sharper distinction between auditing and accounting, under a general accounting office controled by the chief executive.

A proposal to set up a budget committee in congress received favorable action. Another proposal provides for joint hearings of the appropriation committees of the two houses, simplification and standardization of the phraseology of appropriation bills and active centralized executive control of all security issues as well as expenses.

CHANGE IN POLICY HELPS RECOVERY, BANKERS ASSERT

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—In the last six weeks more has been accomplished in laying a foundation for business recovery through coöperation by the government, the banks and the nation's principal business interests than in any six months in the last five years, the current issue of Banking, the publication of the American Bankers' association, asserts. This is the first time since the world war, the magazine says, that such a combination of government, banking and business has been formed.

"Although apparently sudden, this change in business outlook has been developing for several months," Banking declares. "It has been brought about by increasing conservatism on the part of the government and by increasing realization on the part of business that something must be done. The changed government attitude is evident in the abandonment or modification of many policies to which business men have objected.

"It is upon the problem of reviving industry, especially heavy industry, that the minds of government and banks and business have met."

45 Favorable Dividend Changes Voted in Week

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Favorable dividend changes in the current week numbered 45, compared with 33 in the previous week, according to the Standard Statistics company. Unfavorable changes numbered 5, against 10 in the preceding week.

DOLLAR STRENGTHENS, GOLD FLOWS TO U. S. DURING NOVEMBER

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Unsettled financial and political conditions abroad in November caused a demand for dollars, which resulted in severe weakness in foreign exchanges and a subsequent movement of gold here, not equaled since March. Imports totaled $112,912,700, with no exports, compared with imports of $6,850,900 and exports of $1,004,800 in October. A year ago $1,689,299 in gold were exported here, with none received.

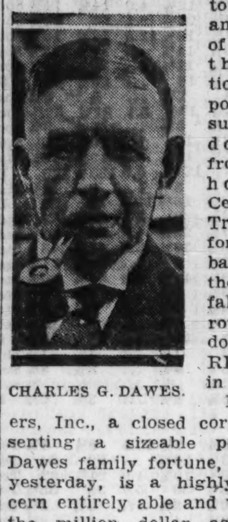
Of the shipments received $66,636,700 gold came from France, $12,759,600 from Belgium, and $10,423,000 from India. Earmarked gold was increased slightly, gaining $337,500 in the month, following a reduction of $307,900 the month before.

Gold receipts at San Francisco totaled $605,000 in November, all of it coming from China, contrasted with $49,000 in October and none a year ago.

The net gain in the monetary gold stock, which touched a new high record of $8,076,000,000 on Nov. 21, was $113,580,200 for the month, compared with $6,203,000 in October and a loss of $673,383 in November, 1933.

Dawes Family Faces Big Loss in RFC Suit

BY HOWARD WOOD.



CHARLES G. DAWES.

The Dawes family, through their interest in Dawes Brothers, Inc., stand to lose more than any other group of stockholders if the Reconstruction Finance corporation wins its suit to collect double liability from the stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company, former "Dawes" bank which in the summer and fall of 1932 borrowed 90 million dollars from the RFC and is now in receivership.

Dawes Brothers, Inc., a closed corporation representing a sizeable portion of the Dawes family fortune, it was learned yesterday, is a highly solvent concern entirely able and willing to meet the million dollar assessment that may be levied against it if the RFC wins its suit.

Dawes Brothers, Inc., on July 11, 1933, held 11,516 shares of Central Republic stock out of a total of 140,000 shares that the bank had outstanding. Par value of this stock is $100 per share.

Holdings of Stock Changed.

Holdings of Central Republic stock by Dawes Brothers, Inc., however, were increased nearly 2,000 shares during the nine months preceding July 11, 1933. In July, 1932, when the Central Republic got the loan from the RFC and as late as Oct. 6, 1932, when the bank ceased to do a deposit business, Dawes Brothers, Inc., held only 9,786 shares of Central Republic stock.

Under the Illinois law, according to legal experts, stockholders of a closed bank may be held liable only for debts incurred at the time they held the stock. This would mean that the RFC could collect not more than $978,600 from Dawes Brothers, Inc.

The reason for the purchase of nearly 2,000 additional shares of Central Republic stock by Dawes Brothers, Inc., after the institution borrowed from the RFC and ceased to function as a bank of deposit has never been explained. During the period from Oct. 6, 1932, to July 11, 1933, while Dawes Brothers, Inc., was acquiring nearly 2,000 more shares, the individual holdings of Henry M. Dawes dropped from 238 shares to 10 shares, and the individual holdings of Rufus C. Dawes declined from 252 shares to 24 shares. The personal holdings of Gen. Charles G. Dawes remained constant at 52 shares and those of William R. Dawes stayed at 110 shares.

Gen. Dawes' Interest Largest.

Gen. Dawes, as the largest stockholder of Dawes Brothers, Inc., would be the heaviest loser should the RFC succeed in collecting a million dollars from the family company.

Financial statistics of Dawes Brothers, Inc., have never been published because the corporation is almost entirely a family concern, although a scattered few shares in it are held by outsiders. Unlisted security dealers along La Salle street have recently been quoting the preferred stock in this company at from $4 to $7 a share, but these prices may not be a fair reflection of the value of the stock because the brokers admit that they have no data on the company.

It was learned yesterday, however, that Dawes Brothers, Inc., is solvent and able to pay the million dollar assessment if it should be levied. Net worth of the company is about $3,000,000 at present, and its total assets are valued at more than $5,000,000. The company has no debts.

Family Holdings Concentrated.

Dawes Brothers, Inc., was not formed primarily to invest in stock of the Central Republic. It was organized many years ago by the Dawes family to concentrate that family's public utility and oil holdings, as well as bank stock and other securities. It maintains an office on the twelfth floor of the 208 South La Salle Street building. Outstanding capital consists of $125,000 of common stock [$100 par], and $8,465,000 of 5 per cent cumulative preferred [$100 par].

The four Dawes brothers are Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former Vice President of the United States and former ambassador to Great Britain; Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company and former controler of the currency of the United States; Rufus C. Dawes, who was president of A Century of Progress; and Beman Dawes of Columbus, O., chairman of the board of the Pure Oil company.

Whether all four of the brothers have interests in Dawes Brothers, Inc., and what proportion of the company is held by each, has never been disclosed. William R. Dawes is a cousin.

Dawes Gives up Active Control.

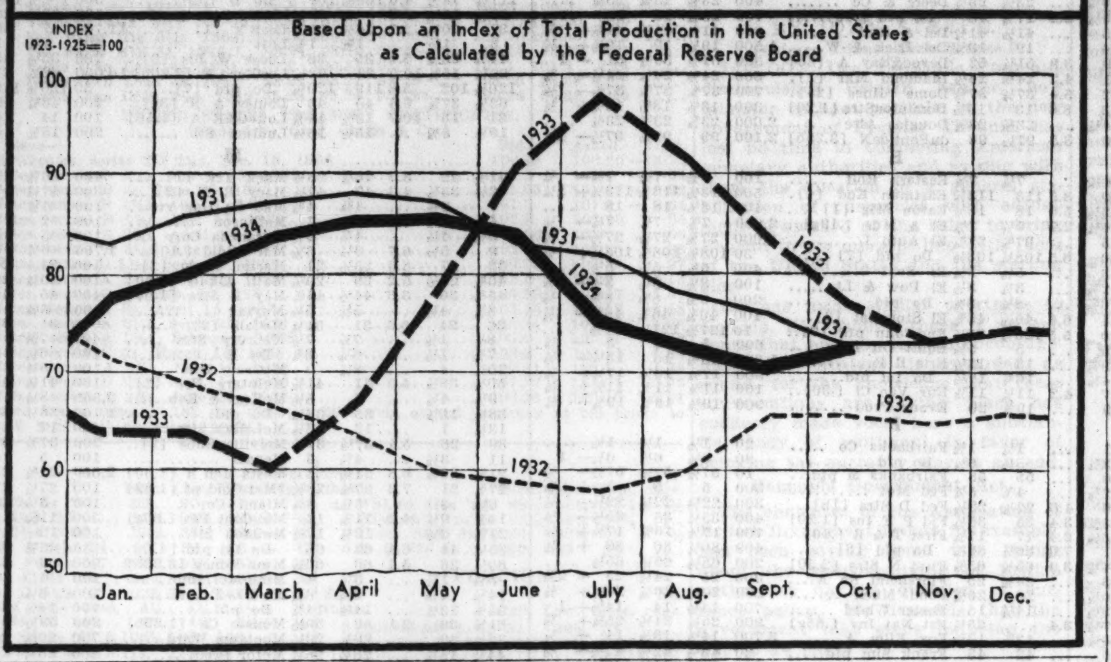
During his period of service in public life, beginning shortly after the war and extending to June, 1932, when he resigned the chairmanship of the RFC to hurry to Chicago and take charge of the Central Republic bank, Gen. Dawes was not in active touch with the operations of the bank, although through his interest in Dawes Brothers, Inc., he remained a big stockholder of the Central Republic and its predecessor, the Central Trust company. Joseph E. Otis Sr. was chairman of the bank prior to Gen. Dawes' return to Chicago.

Gen. Dawes returned in time to arrange the 90 million dollar loan from the RFC, a move which many bankers contend prevented the occurrence of the nation-wide bank moratorium at that time but which now exposes him to the possible loss of a large part of the million dollars which the RFC is now trying to collect from Dawes Brothers, Inc., and which the latter concern will probably pay if the RFC suit is upheld by the federal court.

Bell Savings to Disburse $156,000 to Members

Directors of Bell Savings Building & Loan association yesterday declared the maturity of the eleventh series of instalment stock. Checks totaling $156,000 will be distributed to 121 members who started saving in 1927.

Volume of Production in the United States for Four Years Compared



Motor Sales Top Year Ago Despite Sag

Automobile sales in Cook county during November fell sharply from the preceding month, a normal seasonal October-November trend, but maintained a fair margin of gain over the same 1933 period. R. L. Polk & Co. announced yesterday that 2,917 cars were registered, against 4,114 in October and 2,677 in November last year.

Chevrolet, Ford, and Plymouth continued to lead the field, but last month Chevrolet displaced Ford for high honors with a total of 547 against Ford's 538. Plymouth, in third place, had a total of 380 registrations.

Only four makes included in the tabulation managed to score increases over October. These were Buick, which moved up to fourth place, Chrysler, Packard, and Hupmobile.

Sales Above Year Ago.

Eleven makes — Ford, Plymouth, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Nash, Auburn, Cadillac, Hudson, Hupmobile, and Lincoln—attained increases over November, 1933, while two—Packard and La Salle—showed no year to year change. Comparative figures follow:

	November, '34.	October, '34.	November, '33.
Chevrolet	547	806	596
Ford	538	983	465
Plymouth	380	600	373
Buick	255	243	89

United Staes Figures Exceed 1933.

The Polk company also reported new passenger car registrations for the country as a whole at 140,880 units during October, or 4.1 per cent under September sales of 146,931, but 3.5 per cent above October, 1933, when the total was 136,075. Passenger car sales in the first ten months amounted to 1,705,570 units, against 1,341,025 for the corresponding 1933 period, the agency reports.

October truck and commercial car registrations aggregated 40,878 units, or 9.8 per cent above the September total of 37,225 and 45.7 per cent over October, 1933. Commercial car sales for the first ten months numbered 351,127 units, against 211,598 for the same 1933 period.

Rubber Clothing Strikers Vote on Peace Tomorrow

Racine, Wis., Dec. 1.—(AP)—An agreement to end the eight-week strike of 160 employés of the Chicago Rubber Clothing company was announced tonight. The strikers, members of the International Garment Workers' union, will meet at 10 a. m. Monday to vote on ratification of the agreement. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

ROOSEVELT'S ORDER CUTTING WORK WEEK BECOMES EFFECTIVE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's order reducing the work week in the cotton garment industry from 40 to 36 hours became effective in 5,000 plants today. The recovery administration hope 10,000 more would be employed.

It was the first slash in working hours by executive order. With the shorter work week went a 10 per cent pay increase to insure the industry's 165,000 workers the same weekly wage.

Temporarily exempted from the new working hours were 31 companies which obtained a restraining order from the District of Columbia Supreme court. The stay is effective until Dec. 7, when a hearing will be held.

Observance of the executive order at other plants was closely watched by organized labor. The biggest units in the field—the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Ladies International Garment Workers' unions—decreed last summer to strike at any plant failing to observe Roosevelt's command.

COMMODITIES RISE 1.25 PCT. IN NOVEMBER

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The first of the monthly index numbers of commodity prices, compiled by Dun's Review, shows an advance of 1¼ per cent for November in the average, following an average decline of 1⅛ per cent in October. The Dun average now stands at the highest of the year.

Compared with May 1, this year's lowest monthly average, the advance has been 5½ per cent. As compared with Dec. 1, 1933, the rise is 6¾ per cent. Since July 1, 1932, when the period's lowest average was touched the advance has been 35⅞ per cent. The average is still 12⅜ per cent below that of March 1, 1929, the highest of that year, but 41 per cent above the average of Aug. 1, 1914.

In the separate groups of commodities for which separate index numbers are compiled, the average for metals decreased slightly in November. All the others rose but the advance was slight except in the breadstuffs group, which gained 8 per cent.

BUSINESS RISES STEADILY, SAYS HENRY G. HART

A big increase in volume of trade yesterday caused Henry G. Hart, vice president and general manager of the Boston store, to express his conviction that the depression is definitly on the wane and the present business upturn is growing steadily. Mr. Hart made his pronouncement on the approach of the opening of the store's annual selling event, "Netcher day."

"In anticipation of this sale, the Boston store has increased its pay roll by more than 2,000 employés," Mr. Hart said. "People are not only buying, but buying wisely.

"I believe that the evidence of increasing volume of business as we have seen in the last half year, with its accompanying better attitude of mind among the buyers, demonstrates that 1935 will bring greater progress toward normal times than any of the last three years."

Eastman Asks Rail Program to Aid Revival

A return to normal spending by the nation's railroads would go far to end the depression, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, declares in the current issue of Railway Age.

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN. [H. & E. Photo.]

Railroads furnish an unusual opportunity for the useful expenditure of large sums of money, which would greatly benefit the durable goods industry and the entire country, Eastman asserts. He says no spending should be done which does not justify itself, but that the carriers need considerable property of normal and well established types, such as rails, ties, ballast, and locomotives. Deferred maintenance has been and is accumulating rapidly, he believes.

Roads Need to Modernize.

The coördinator said his recent instituted survey will not show the railroads are an obsolete form of transportation, but will indicate they must meet the same radical changes that science and invention have brought about in other industries.

"More progress has been made in the last few years in the improvement of rail passenger and freight service than was made in many years before," he says. "The country is on the verge of many notable improvements in both branches."

Eastman said his survey has or will show that it is possible to reduce costs of operation, still improve service and add to trafic by utilizing motor trucks and buses to supplement or substitute for rail operation. He believes employment of new equipment now available or in the process of development will be a leading factor in cutting costs and bolstering service.

Cites New Equipment Needs.

These improvements include air conditioned, light weight passenger cars; Diesel electric engines, gas or Diesel motors with other means of transmission, applied to smaller units; other types of improved motive power—steam, gas, and electric; light weight freight cars of new design, and interchangeable containers, sectional car bodies or demountable truck bodies which can be transported by rail on flat cars and given store-door delivery at origin or destination by motor trucks.

"In addition to these there are large and immediate opportunities in the elimination of grade crossings which I hope will be utilized, for such a use of public money can be justified on many grounds," he concludes. "The greatest problem is to make the necessary funds available for railroad expenditures. It is a very difficult problem, but I do not believe it is insoluble. In any legislative program for transportation improvement at the next session of congress it must and will be kept in the forefront as one of the main objectives."

Insurance Firm Holdings of U. S. Issues Much Larger

Holdings of United States government securities by 900 insurance companies in this country now total $1,153,500,000, an estimated increase of 100 per cent in the last two years, according to Poor's Insurance Company Holdings Volume. Approximately 40,000 issues are included in the companies' portfolios of which 28,000 are government, state and municipal issues and 12,000 are corporate issues.

Aurora Concern Awarded Refund on Income Tax

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—An income tax refund of $57,894 was awarded to the Western Austin company of Aurora, Ill., today by the bureau of internal revenue. The refund ended a long legal battle. The case involved the 1920 income tax payment of the Western Wheeled Scraper company, to which the Western Austin company is the successor.

N. Y. Stock Volume Passes 300 Million Share Mark

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Turnover on the New York Stock exchange for the year has crossed the 300,000,000 share mark. Volume for eleven months is the smallest for a comparable period since 1924. It contrasts with a volume of more than a billion shares traded up to the end of November, 1929.

U. S. Will Restrict Concerns in Mortgage Insurance Plan

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—To be eligible to participate in the government's plan of lending money for lifting the burden of home mortgages an institution must be unusually worthy and undergo a most rigid examination. Whether a private institution is to be accepted by the government as a holder of loans insured by the federal act depends upon the capital rating, and relationship with the United States treasury.

James A. Moffett, administrator of the National Housing act, detailed the requirements shortly after conferring with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs just prior to the expected visit of Secretary of Interior Ickes over the week-end.

Must Prove Responsibility.

Moffett said thousands of institutions now holding mortgages on homes would be relieved of those mortgages unless the company, or holding concern, could provide sufficient proof to the government that its financial backing and business reputation were of the highest type.

"The scheme will eliminate the business of second mortgages," he added, explaining that this one thing alone would mean a great saving to the home owner. He said that banking institutions, members of the federal reserve system, with $100,000 capital and participating in the deposit insurance program would be the first to be designated.

Borrower to Pay Like Rent.

"These institutions will map out the loan best suited for the home owner, or the prospective home owner," Moffett said. "The applicant for the loan [which will be insured by the government] will, if his application is accepted, pay to the institution a certain sum each month.

"This monthly payment will include interest, insurance and taxes, and the payments will be strung out over such a long period that he will make them just as he would pay rent. He knows just what amount falls due each time and once again he can be back on a worthwhile budget system.

"As soon as the machinery gets to working well there will be an enormous demand for material and labor. That is one of the big objects in this program."

SILVER STOCKS BILLION OUNCES; U. S. NEEDS MORE

Devaluation Would Halt Buying.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The treasury's visible silver stocks total close to a billion ounces, but if present conditions continue, the government will need another three years to complete its silver purchase program, official figures revealed today.

Devaluation of the silver dollar, a step advocated in congress and supported by some brain trusters, is the only action which would bring the silver program to a swift close, official reports showed. Devaluation of the silver dollar equal to the gold dollar devaluation would skyrocket silver prices from their present level of 55 cents an ounce to $2.18.

Must Increase Reserves.

Under the silver purchase act of 1934, the treasury is committed to acquiring silver until its silver reserves are one-third as large as its gold reserves. With the present monetary value of silver fixed at $1.29 an ounce, 2 billion 96 million ounces of silver are needed to reach this goal. If silver should be revalued at $2.18, however, only 1 billion, 240 million ounces would be required.

Already the treasury's visible silver stocks aggregate about a billion ounces, and its hidden holdings of silver are reported to be large enough to bring the total well over the billion ounce mark. If the silver dollar should suddenly be devalued, the treasury would have to acquire less than 300 million ounces to complete the silver reserve required by law.

As long as silver remains at its present value of $1.29 per ounce, the treasury must acquire an additional 1 billion 154 million ounces before the silver reserve will be one-third as large as the gold reserve. Net imports of silver, the only important source for the metal, have averaged only 34 million ounces a month recently.

273 Million Ounces Bought.

Since the silver program was launched last June, the treasury has acquired 273 million ounces of silver at a cost of 140 million dollars. This silver has a fictitious monetary value of $1.29 an ounce or 352 million dollars, giving the treasury a tidy paper profit of 212 million dollars thus far.

Silver acquired has come from the following sources:

	Ounces.
Net imports	145,068,000
Newly mined silver	18,468,000
Nationalized silver	109,490,000
Total	273,026,000

Since completion of the nationalization program in this country, foreign buying of silver is the treasury's only important source for the white metal. Imports, which are the sole gauge of the government's foreign purchases, have been as follows since the silver program started:

	Ounces.
June	7,568,000
July	1,454,000
August	40,370,000
September	38,814,000
October	22,717,000
November	34,145,000
Total	145,068,000

Visible Stocks Near Billion Mark.

In addition to this newly purchased silver, the treasury owns 647 million ounces of silver which has been minted into silver coins and 22,000,000 ounces of silver taken as payment on war debts. This brings its total visible stocks to 942 million ounces, or close to the billion ounce mark.

Because the treasury has been actively buying silver abroad, it is believed to own also certain "invisible" stocks. Silver not yet shipped to this country is not shown in the official figures, nor is silver which the treasury has purchased for future delivery. These two unreported items should bring the total holdings well over a billion ounces.

SEC SETS UP BRANCH OFFICE AT NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—The securities and exchange commission opened an office today in the Equitable office building, 120 Broadway, in the charge of Frank J. Meehan, assistant chief of the trading division of the SEC. The permanent head of the local branch of the seven zone offices to be established throughout the nation, is expected to be David Saperstein, chief of the trading division.

The New York office is regarded as the most important outpost of the SEC, as it will supervise to some extent the New York Stock and Curb exchanges. Other offices will be opened in Boston, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Fort Worth, and Atlanta.

Meehan, a resident of Brooklyn, was formerly chief statistician under Ferdinand Pecora during the congressional inquiry into stock market practices.

Corn Prices Rise Again on Heavy Buying

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Speculative buying fever in the corn market reached a high pitch yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and all futures of the grain moved up 2 cents a bushel or more to sell at the best prices this season. The day's trade climaxed a week of steadily rising corn prices which had for its background the near famine feed situation which exists throughout the area normally producing a big corn surplus.

Wheat and other grains were carried along by the buying in corn. Wheat and oats advanced more than a cent a bushel and the gains in the rye market extended up to 3⅜ cents. Yesterday was the first day for delivery of grain under the December future contracts, but no deliveries were made because of the premiums which the actual grain is commanding over the future quotations. Deliveries may be made any time during the month.

Factors in Advance.

Strength in the foreign markets and the failure of deliveries to materialize contributed to the advancing prices, but it was the reports from over the corn belt that provided most of the fuel for the bullish enthusiasm.

Closing prices on May grain futures were:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Wk.ago.
Wheat	99¾c	98⅝c	98¾c
Corn	91⅛c	88⅞c	86⅞c
Oats	53c	51⅝c	50¾c
Rye	76c	74½c	75⅜c

The rise in corn prices, extensive feeding of domestic wheat, importations of cheap foreign feed wheat, and the killing off of live stock are the natural adjustments growing out of the 2 billion bushel grain deficit which the country faces. The soaring price of corn will force economy in feeding. These adjustments are taking place early in the season and are tending to correct the feed famine which might otherwise develop.

Corn Cost Is Highest.

The normal price relationship between the various grains are all awry. When wheat is selling at $1 a bushel it is normally considered that corn should sell at 65 cents a bushel and oats at 45 cents. Today corn is actually selling at a premium over a large part of the country, and in the Chicago futures market the discount of corn to wheat is less than 9 cents a bushel as compared with 44 cents earlier this year.

In the Chicago cash grain market corn costs more than a comparable grade of wheat when it is considered that corn has 60 pounds in a bushel and wheat has only 56 pounds.

Corn has run away from rye in its advance. Yesterday, however, the December rye future broke away for a gain about 3½ cents a bushel. The sharp rise was said in part to represent covering by a trader who had been caught short in the market.

AUSTRIA PLANS BOND REFUNDING LOAN IN LONDON

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—American holders of the Austrian government 7 per cent bonds, due in 1943, which have been called for redemption on June 1, 1935, at par, will probably have an opportunity to exchange their holdings, if they desire, for refunding bonds in Austrian and British currency, according to word received in banking circles here today.

London expects to market a 4½ per cent Austrian refunding loan of about £9,000,000, which is more than the total of the called sterling bonds of Austria.

Italy Shares in Loan.

ROME, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A new loan for Austria, with Italy participating to the extent of $11,177,500, was announced today by Finance Minister Guido Jung.

The loan, in which it was understood other nations are participating, is for conversion of an existing loan.

STOCKS OF OIL LOWER; WEEK'S OUTPUT IS CUT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Stocks of domestic and foreign crude oil dropped 1,353,000 barrels in the week ended Nov. 24 to a total of 326,323,000 on the basis of calculations by the oil administration. Crude stocks fell off 1,189,000 barrels and foreign 164,000.

The week brought a decline in the crude oil output, accompanied by higher consumption. Reports from the industry placed the daily average crude production near 2,400,000 barrels, or 45,000 barrels under the daily average in the preceding week. Crude runs to stills at 2,580,000 barrels daily were up 10,000 barrels.

WORLD WHEAT CONTROL MEET GOES ON ROCKS

Argentina Is Barrier to New Pacts.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The international wheat conference drew to a dramatic close today with a clear cut refusal by Argentina to be bound further by any provisions of the 1933 wheat pact.

The ending of the conference came during a secret meeting tonight, it was learned, when Rodolfo Garcia-Arias of Argentina, gave what amounted to an ultimatum. After being put under pressure by the others of the "big four"—the United States, Canada, and Australia—as well as by Danubian nations who were summoned to the meeting Garcia-Arias told the conference his nation would not be bound by the pact because acreage reduction, which was the basis of allotments, failed during 1934.

Rejects Acreage Plan.

Earlier in the week Garcia-Arias declined to accept the draft of an acreage limitation proposal under consideration here on the ground it was unfair to his country.

Not only are quotas for the current year out of the question now, but later information revealed a new program to base future quotas on demand instead of production has not been definitly formulated.

The members of the big four are not expected to get together again until January in London, when six months of the crop year will have been history.

The matter of future quota bases was discussed when Argentina refused to accept the draft of the agreement to maintain the acreage reduction of last year. Only a general statement regarding these discussions is being submitted to the "big four" governments with the request that they decide whether this plan will be acceptable as a subject for discussion during the London sessions.

Other Delegates Leave.

Most of the delegates from smaller countries had left for their homes earlier in the week. Lloyd Steere, the American agricultural attaché in Berlin, will leave tonight or tomorrow for the United States by way of Le Havre to report to Washington.

John Van Antwerp MacMurray, United States minister to the Baltic states and chairman of the present conference, tentatively plans to leave Monday for his post in Riga.

A prediction was made by one delegate last night and confirmed by others that the 1933 wheat pact is virtually a scrap of paper now as its main principles have been definitly abandoned.

OHIO SEEKS PWA AID ON CANAL TO COST 140 MILLION

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—A petition signed by 150,000 persons in the Mahoning valley steel district urging approval by the PWA of a canal project which would help that and the Pittsburgh steel areas is expected to be presented to President Roosevelt early this month by Senator Robert Bulkley and Senator Elect Victor Donahey of Ohio.

The immediate project is the canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers from the Ohio river to the Youngstown district in the Mahoning valley, a distance of thirty-five miles. This improvement, which would cost $35,000,000, would be the first segment of a longer canal which would link the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts with Lake Erie. The entire project would cost $140,000,000.

"It is our firm belief," the petition adds, "that this improvement is necessary to restore the Youngstown steel producing district to its competitive position in the industry, and to preserve and conserve the $1,000,000,000 invested by citizens of the United States in the steel and allied industries in the district."

STOCKS REMAIN ON FIRM GROUND IN QUIET TRADE

Radio and Some Amusement Issues Advance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—Stocks idled through today's abbreviated market session without getting anywhere in particular. Many traders were away over the week-end, and the few on hand could find little in the news to get excited about. Such items as appeared on the tape, however, tended to favor the constructive side, with the result that the list was able to maintain a firm tone in spite of the customary run of week-end profit taking. The turnover was around 469,000 shares, compared with 671,000 a week ago.

Among spots to attract attention were the Radio issues, the preferred and "B" shares both reaching new highs for the year, and some of the amusements, notably Loews, which broke through its 1934 and 1933 highs in anticipation of favorable dividend action at next week's meeting of the board.

Pivotal Issues Are Firmer.

Most of the pivotals managed to score small advances at one time or another, but the close found the division as a whole just about where it had started. United States Steel, American Can, Bethlehem, and other old timers whose spurt in yesterday's late trading tended to pep up things, showed little disposition to make a move on either side of the line.

Railroad shares held steady in spite of the discouragement meted out to them in the week's trafic figures. Atchison and New York Central were up nearly a point at their best, but the last named issue found the going too tough and finished only fractionally higher, as did Pennsylvania. Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, and Northern Pacific appeared on the tape at frequent intervals, but none of them contributed anything startling to the general picture.

Flurry in Liquor Issues.

The arrival of December turned speculative attention to liquor and other groups which usually benefit from Christmas spending. But nothing more than flurries of buying developed in those groups. Small gains and losses were about evenly divided among the more active issues at the close.

Among the liquor stocks, National Distillers, Schenley and American Commercial Alcohol closed with gains ranging up to about a point. Motors held their ground, Chrysler and General Motors finishing unchanged. Farm implement stocks were mixed.

Among a dozen or so preferreds to make their mark those of Barker Bros., Remington Rand, Warner Bros., Universal Pictures, Florsheim Shoe, Newberry and Outlet company, in which the gains were from 3 to 6 points.

LARD REACHES NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR THE SEASON

Commission house buying induced by the pronounced strength in corn rushed lard futures up to a new high for the season yesterday. Offerings were light on the way up, with the finish at the top with net gains of 32½ points. Current prices are now the highest since August, 1930. Bellies were unchanged to 30 points higher. Cash lard closed at 11.12 cents; loose, 10.65 cents, and leaf, 10.62 cents, while bellies were 14.17 cents per pound.

Much to the surprise of the trade local lard stocks decreased 11,500,000 pounds in November and aggregate 66,000,000 pounds compared with 81,600,000 pounds last year. The light weight of the hogs received during the month was regarded as responsible for the unexpected showing. Meat stocks are 94,000,000 pounds, a gain of 12,000,000 pounds during the month and compare with 103,000,000 pounds last year. Prices follow:

COTTON TRADE LESS ACTIVE; NET LOSS OF 1 TO 5 POINTS

Trade in cotton futures yesterday was less active than earlier in the week, and scattered selling caused a recession in New York and New Orleans with net losses of 1 to 5 points. Chicago, which closed one hour later than other markets, was 3 points lower to 3 points higher at the last, the late strength in grains having some effect. Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points lower with New Orleans 12.80 cents and New York, Galveston, and Houston 12.75 cents per pound. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 1.—Bond prices were steady today in quiet trading. Transactions totaled $6,560,000, about the same as on last Saturday. United States government obligations were mixed, although changes either way were small. Sales in this section totaled $1,870,000.

Uncertainty respecting additional treasury financing as of Dec. 15, the announcement of which is expected soon, was considered a factor in the prices of both federal and domestic corporation issues.

Treasury Plan Factor.

Recently high grade bonds, except those selling above their callable price and likely to be retired, have been showing improvement, but it is regarded likely that investors will not be so eager to buy these bonds pending the announcement by the treasury of its plans for the Dec. 15 financing.

Gains in United States government bonds were 1-32 to 2-32 point and declines amounted to 1-32 to 3-32 point. The most activity again was centered in the Home Owners' Loan and Federal Farm Mortgage obligations. The treasury 3¼ of 1944-'46 also were heavily traded.

Corporation List Firm.

The domestic corporation issues were generally firm, with price movements narrow. The combined average of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, however, declined slightly. The utility average was higher, but both the rails and industrials were moderately lower.

The foreign group was mostly lower. South American issues were the most active and generally higher, especially the Argentine obligations. The Dawes and Young plan bonds also were higher.

PRODUCE MART SUFFERS DEFICIT FOR LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Total income of the New York Produce exchange for the year ended April 30, 1934, was $802,417 and expenditures $897,226, leaving an operating deficit of $94,808, according to the balance sheet filed with the securities exchange commission. Assets on April 30 were put at $4,979,571, and current assets, including $73,782 in cash, amounted to $150,847. Current liabilities were $145,221, with membership dues in arrears carried at $4,087. Surplus was $343,497 and capital $2,463,607, making a total equity of $2,807,104.

The corporation reorganization amendment to the federal bankruptcy laws, usually called "section 77B," is essentially an act permitting a reorganization to be effected without seriously disturbing the business of the company being reorganized.

In the past reorganizations have been long, expensive and, often, disastrous proceedings. Usually it involved receivership of the company and sale of its assets, which would be repurchased by the reorganization committee, in order to eliminate the troublesome nonassenter. Often the credit standing of the new corporation formed to acquire the assets would be impaired by the facts connected with its birth.

"77B," however, leaves the debtor corporation in possession of its assets and does not interrupt its regular course of business.

* *

The act provides that where a corporation is unable to meet its debts as they mature, it may petition a federal court for permission to readjust its capital structure to a sound basis, and may ask the court's protection against suits during the period of such reorganization. Creditors of the corporation, likewise, may file such a petition. If the court is convinced of the good faith of the petitioner, it grants the petition.

The corporation is then under section 77B, and is under the jurisdiction of the federal court in which it filed the petition.

* *

Reorganization plans may be submitted by the corporation, by creditors and, under certain conditions, by stockholders. Any creditors' plan, to be recognized by the court, must represent at least 25 per cent of the claims of one class against the company.

Interested persons are notified when a plan is filed. Before any one plan can be declared effective it must have the signed approval of at least two-thirds of each class of creditors and approval of 51 per cent of each class of stockholders. Then, if the court approves the plan as fair and equitable, it is binding on all parties, even though some might have opposed it.

The act provides, however, that any person who does not assent to the plan shall have an opportunity to voice his objections to it in court before final approval by the court is given.

When the final approval by the court is given the corporation should once again be in a sound financial condition, with its organization, personnel and clientele but little disturbed by the proceedings.

BELGIUM MOVES FOR STABILIZED MONEY MARKET

British Press for Ending of Currency War.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Emile Francqui, distinguished Belgian banker, now minister without portfolio in the new government of Premier Theunis, has lost no time in contacting American monetary authorities and raising with them the question of a general stabilization of currencies with adjustment downward of the belga to bring Belgian prices more in line with those of the United States and the sterling bloc.

He has made similar overtures to London, and though there is no evidence that he has received encouragement his strategy is regarded as sound, for the knowledge that these conversations are taking place has suddenly made vocal here a substantial body of sentiment in favor of bringing the currency war to an end.

Demands Government Act.

The chairman of the Association of British Investment Trusts, for example, has been saying some tart things about the shilly-shallying of British authorities on the question of currency policy. He demands that the government take steps to bring the war to an end.

It is well over a year since any influential stock exchange firm reminded its clients of the beauties of the depreciated pound as reflected in foreign trade, because, with the possible exception of the motor industry, those advantages are rapidly disappearing. Before this country can export it must, broadly speaking, import its raw materials, and Britain has learned it is no fun paying for imports with a pound which has depreciated to less than 60 per cent of its gold value.

Power Problem Rises.

The British genius for adjusting relations of big business to the state is being severely taxed these days by a curious problem which has arisen among the four big railroad systems—all centering in London. They want to electrify their suburban lines and some of them even toy with the idea of electrifying a main line or two. They have applied to parliament for permission to buy their current from the famous "grid," the central electricity board.

This board is a semi-governmental institution and members of the Labor party are naturally delighted with the idea that a state socialized institution like the "grid" should get at one stroke four such substantial big business customers. But other companies in territories through which these lines would run are disturbed at the suggestion that they should lose this lucrative business and they have their spokesmen with the Conservative party, who are making things embarrassing for the government.

HEAVIER HOGS CLIMB TO PEAK FOR 7 WEEKS

Medium and weighty hogs yesterday advanced slightly to the highest price levels in seven weeks on reduced receipts and favorable reports from the wholesale pork trade. Arrivals at Chicago yesterday at only 6,000 were smallest since Oct. 6.

Lights were sold at about steady prices, but medium and weighty kinds were stronger and in places showed 5 to 10 cents advance, considering quality and weights. The top at $8.40 tax included, equaled the highest mark since Oct. 10. The average for the day at $8.00 showed 5 cents advance.

A healthier undertone existed in cattle during the week. Selling of "distress" stock abated and buying by the government in the drouth regions practically stopped. Price gains in the various classes ranged from 10 to as much as 50 cents and some sales were up more.

A highlight of the live stock trade was the sensational recovery in the lamb trade. Quotations soared to the highest levels since August after having held for several weeks at the lowest prices of the year. The week's average advanced 75 cents to the $6.55 line. At the high time tops reached $7.40.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was strong and at new high levels for the season on active buying of March, May and July, by southern and western interests, promoted by the continued strength of crude oid, and the advance in corn. Final prices were 15 points to 23 points net higher. Crude oil was quoted at 9c at southern points. Sales were 52 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; December closed 9.90c per lb; January, 9.98c; March, 10.10c; May, 10.19c; July, 10.25c.

French Premier Advocates Cut in Wine, Wheat Crops

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's plans for wheat and wine crop regulation along the lines of President Roosevelt's scheme is providing the chief subject of conversation in business circles this week. Plans were announced in the course of a broadcast of his speech outlining his economic ideas for the country.

Roughly the gist of Flandin's wheat plan is to buy up the surpluses and reduce the areas under cultivation. Money for buying the surpluses would be provided by a loan floated under government auspices but not directly furnished by the government.

Urges End to Price Fixing.

Flandin's statement does not go so much into detail as that but he is generally credited with this plan. Furthermore, he definitly declares for the abolition of price fixing of wheat, saying:

"We shall first of all settle our agricultural problems, as they lie at the base of all others. We shall terminate the price fixing of wheat under which the producer does not receive a fixed price, but which is rather imposed on the consumer through high bread prices. If this proposal becomes law bread will cost ½ to 4-5 of a cent less per pound, which will be the government's Christmas gift to poor children."

May Export Surplus Wheat.

It is presumed excess wheat will be exported at a price low enough to make it salable, and the fund floated by the government will be used to compensate the farmers.

Regarding wine, areas cultivated will be reduced with emphasis on those producing the poorest qualities. Until such a reduction can be arranged, the excess production of wine will be taken care of by turning it into industrial alcohol.

Flandin's agricultural scheme is being greeted with mingled criticism and approval. Everybody agrees that wheat price fixing is a nuisance to be ended, but many fight shy of reduction of crop areas.

DOLLAR UP, GOLD FLOWS TO U. S. IN NOVEMBER

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Further strong recoveries were made today by the gold bloc currencies. France advanced ⅛ point to 6.59⅜ cents and Swiss francs 1 point to 32.46 cents, prices which lifted both those exchanges farther above their gold import points. Guilders moved up 2 points to 67.62 cents, while belgas were unchanged at 23.36 cents. Both these exchanges continued below their gold import points, but by a smaller margin than has been recorded in more than a week.

At the closing quotation of the franc the dollar was valued at 59.38 cents, based on the old par of the franc, compared with 59.43 cents yesterday. Calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was worth $1.0060, against $1.0063.

The sterling group eased against the dollar, in contrast to the recovery of the gold bloc. The pound was off 1¼ cents to $4.96¾ and the Scandinavian exchanges were 3 to 4 points lower. Japanese yen gained 8 points to 29.18 cents, while Canadian dollars were down ⅛ cent to $1.02⅜. Lire were unchanged at 8.53 cents and marks at 40.19 cents.

No further shipments of gold from Europe reached here today, but the daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed that $350,000 gold previously earmarked for foreign account had been released and that $228,000 of gold from China had been received at San Francisco.

Bullion brokers in London raised the price of gold 1 penny to 139 shillings 9½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.80, based on the opening of sterling at $4.97⅞. Bars valued at $363,449 were purchased.

BUSINESS TREND IN NORTHWEST CONTINUES GAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—The trend of business in the northwest has continued above the level of a year ago for the fifth consecutive month, the ninth federal reserve bank set forth in its report for October. Bank debits increased seven per cent over those of the corresponding month last year, the report said, while country check clearings were 26 per cent larger.

"Increases also were recorded," the report continues, "in both number and valuation of building permits, in electric power consumption, except Montana, and grain, live stock, forest products, and miscellaneous merchandise shipments, flour production and shipments from Minneapolis, country lumber sales, life insurance sales, security sales, and wholesale trade."

Ninth Month Paper Exports Show Increase Over 1933

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—An increase in exports of paper and paper products from the United States during the first nine months of this year over the corresponding period of 1933 was reported today by the department of commerce. Shipments for this year totaled $13,990,039, as against $10,200,612 last year. The bulk of the increase was in news print and wrapping paper exports.

GENERAL CAPITAL PLANS TO ADJUST VALUE OF SHARES

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—A special meeting of stockholders of General Capital corporation, a general management investment trust, will be held Dec. 18, at which action will be taken on a plan to bring the market price of the company's shares in line with the asset value. This would be accomplished by amending the certificate of incorporation to include an obligation on the part of the company to buy back its shares, if any stockholder so requests, the price to be the net asset value less estimated expenses and commissions.

Carl P. Dennett, president, said that the market price of the stock has been less than the value of shares, at times by more than 35 per cent. The liquidating value on Nov. 26 was $28.71 a share, and the market price on that day was $24.75 on the Boston Stock exchange.

Name Midwest Delegates to Engineers' Convention

Edward L. McDonald of the Kansas City Power and Light company, Kansas City, Mo., and F. H. Dorner, Milwaukee, Wis., have been named delegates to the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to be held in New York City Dec. 3 to 7. McDonald and Dorner will represent the ten midwest local sections of the society. They will participate in sessions to be attended by more than 2,000 engineers from all over the country.

Home Modernization Loans of FHA $19,998,125

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Home modernization loans were reported today by the Federal Housing administration to have risen for fifteen weeks to a total of $19,998,125 on Nov. 28. The first week the modernization section of the housing act became operative, loans were $57,000. At the end of the fourteenth week FHA said the average was about $500,000 a day. A slight drop was recorded last week because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

New York Banks' Demand Deposits Gain in Week

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the New York clearing house shows total net demand deposits [average] increased $63,783,000, while time deposits [average] declined $5,234,000. Clearings for five days this week totaled $2,604,211,311, against $2,624,046,984 for last week.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES MOVE ½ TO ⅝ CENT HIGHER

Buying induced by better news reports carried butter and egg futures up ½ to ⅝ cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the gains equaling $120 and $75 per car respectively.

Continued cold and stormy weather over the production states prompted the new buying and started the markets on a higher plane. The movement was aided later by statistical reports which showed 700,000 pounds more butter and 2,400 cases more eggs moved out of storage than last year.

NORTHERN RAILS LOSE FIGHT FOR FRUIT REVENUES

Court Upholds I.C.C. Order Aiding Southern Lines.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The application of northern railroads for a greater percentage of the citrus fruit revenues divided between northern and southern carriers was denied in a three judge decision handed down today in federal District court for the eastern district of Virginia. The decision means about $1,200,000 in back revenues and $300,000 annually to the southern carriers.

Principal Roads Affected.

The principal lines affected are the Seaboard Air Line railway, Atlantic Coast Line railroad, Southern Railway and Florida East Coast railway.

The decision sustains an Interstate Commerce commission order dated Jan. 8, 1934, and effective June 1 of this year, which gave the southern lines a higher percentage of the revenues derived from hauling citrus fruits from Florida to northern destinations and was made retroactive from Nov. 22, 1930. It was on this date that the southern roads applied for a higher percentage of the revenue.

Passes Over Several Lines.

In the hauling of citrus fruits and other commodities from Florida to the north, the trafic passes over tracks of several railroads. Most of the southern lines have their northern destinations at Richmond or Norfolk, and from these points onward, notably from Richmond, the trafic moves over the tracks of northern railroads.

The principal complainants against the I. C. C. decision were the Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroads, although a number of other lines filed intervening petitions asking for the same relief.

CHARGE FRAUD IN MANAGEMENT OF LOAN FIRM

Suit charging fraud in the management of the Aetna Acceptance company was filed in Circuit court here yesterday by two Iowa stockholders, T. Frank Jaques of Des Moines and Joe Wheeler of Fort Dodge.

The defendants named are Robert K. Wilson, president and treasurer; four directors and the Money corporation, National Money corporation, Aetna Finance company, and the Aetna Loan company. The bill says Aetna Acceptance has been inactive since it transferred its assets to Money corporation in return for stock of National Money corporation.

The petition seeks to have this transfer declared illegal "because most stockholders thought they were securing stock in the Money corporation, an operating concern for the last 15 years at 100 North La Salle street, when in reality the stock was in National Money corporation, a holding company formed in 1931, paying no dividends." Mismanagement of the Acceptance company for the personal profit of Wilson and other directors is also charged. The bill asks a receiver to sequester assets pending an accounting of amounts due stockholders of Aetna Acceptance.

MOODY'S INDEX INDICATES MIXED BUSINESS TREND

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated a mixed trend in business activity, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

NOVEMBER'S NEW FINANCING IS FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Total of $109,648,000 Includes 53 Issues.

New York, Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Securities offered publicly in November, although smaller in amount than in October, showed a marked increase over a year ago. Included was the first foreign issue, other than Canadian, since 1931. The offerings totaled $109,648,000, consisting of $106,798,000 for fifty-one bond issues and $2,850,000 for two stock issues, compared with $131,102,000 in October, when $130,712,000 represented forty-one bond issues and $390,000 one stock issue. In November, 1933, offerings aggregated $14,464,000, of which $8,953,000 was for six bond issues and $5,511,000 for seven stock issues.

Municipals Led List.

State and municipal offerings led the new bond floatation, with the largest total since July. The foreign group, although the total was about one-fifth the amount of the leading class, came next among bonds. Offerings not embraced in the two leading classifications included two $10,000,000 issues, one for a public utility corporation and the other for the federal intermediary credit banks.

In the eleven months ended with November, new offerings of bonds totaled $1,338,509,000 for 397 issues, against $536,106,000 for 227 issues in the same time in 1933. Railroad financing, which totaled $121,239,000 for eight loans, compared with $12,000,000 for one issue in 1933, showed the largest gain this year. In number the state and municipal classification flotations led, totaling 365, with a face value of $651,888,000, against 207 valued at $305,883,000 in 1933.

Stock Offerings Few.

Stock offerings were fewer this year up to the end of November, numbering thirteen. They were marketed at $9,504,000, in contrast with fifty-five placed at $42,710,000 in 1933.

Despite the holiday this week, new offerings of bonds showed considerable diversification. The total for the week was $22,110,000. Although far short of the previous week's total of $56,603,000, it compared favorably with the volume of recent weeks. A year ago no new issues were offered.

State or municipal financing this week aggregated $11,510,000, consisting of fourteen issues, some of which were purchased from the RFC and thus placed with investors for the first time. The foreign financing consisted of an issue of $10,000,000 Republic of Finland 4 per cent notes, marketed in connection with the retirement of higher interest bearing long term dollar bonds. The industrial financing, the first done publicly since August, comprised an issue of $600,000 Philadelphia Brewing company 6 per cent bonds.

State and municipal financing scheduled for next week aggregates $20,878,000, according to the Daily Bond Buyer.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS QUIET, PRICES UNEVEN

Mixed trends ruled quiet trading in Chicago downtown bank stocks on the unlisted market last week. Continental fell from a top of 34½ to 32, subsequently recovering a point to close at 33 bid. First National continued firm, ending the week at 80 to 81.

Northern Trust rose 2 points to 377 bid, 382 asked, while Harris Trust remained steady at 175 to 185. Terminal National eased fractionally to 5 bid, 7 asked.

In the miscellaneous division Chicago Title and Trust was unchanged at 68 to 69.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today. While local refiners continued to show interest, they preferred to buy for use in January, below the price asked for sugars for use this month. Cuban holders offered at 3.08½c for December processing and 2.65c for processing in January. Sales of 70,000 bags of Cubas for January at 2.65c were confirmed. The only other business reported was a sale of 4,000 bags of Cuban from store by an operator to a refiner at 2.80c. Aside from the December position, which was inclined to lag, futures held generally steady on further covering and trade buying. The market closed 1 point lower on December and unchanged to 2 points higher on later deliveries. Sales were 7,500 tons.

Prices in cents per pound:

NEW SEC RULE DELAYS REPORT ON HOLDINGS

Affects Most of Stocks on Exchanges.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Securities that obtained temporary registration of national securities exchanges up to Oct. 1 have been extempted by the Securities and Exchange commission until Jan. 1 from the provisions of section 16 of the Securities Exchange act which requires periodic reports of the holdings of directors, officers and principal stockholders of companies.

The effect of the ruling will be to delay until Jan. 10 the time when the first of such reports must be filed, instead of requiring them by Dec. 10, but the reports must also cover the status at the end of the months November and December. Under the law the reports must be made ten days after the due date.

Who Must Make Reports.

Such reports must be made by every person who is directly or indirectly the "beneficial owner" of more than 10 per cent of any class of equity security, other than exempted security, to which registration has been granted, as well as by all directors and officers of the issuing company. The delay has been granted so that the commission may make a further study and interpretation of the phrase "beneficial owner."

Section 16 [A] of the Securities Exchange act was adopted in an effort to prevent officers and large stockholders of companies who had "inside" information, from profiting by dealings on the exchanges in the securities. It was felt that publicity of holdings would militate against such practices, and other paragraphs of the same section, which are now in force and are not affected by today's ruling, place certain restrictions about the buying and selling of securities of a company by its officers, directors and heavy stockholders.

Later Listings Excepted.

The new rule delaying until Jan. 10 the date for reporting does not include securities listed on national securities exchanges after Oct. 1, these remaining subject to the operations of section 16 [A].

The reason for treating the two classes of securities separately is that the original data as to the holdings must be obtained not later than the date of permanent registration of a security and after that only changes of status are reported.

Securities listed on stock exchanges prior to Oct. 1 received temporary registration by the commission on application by the issuer or the exchange, pending the promulgation of permanent regulations for registration, and these have not yet been issued. For securities listed after Oct. 1, however, regulations for permanent registration were prescribed.

The delay will effect, however, the vast majority of securities listed on stock exchanges as relatively few issues have obtained registration since Oct. 1. Where dispute over the interpretation of "beneficial ownership" in connection with the latter arises, the commission will be prepared to rule on each problem separately.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Cloudy, Warmer in south Sunday; rain in south, rain or snow in north Sunday night or Monday; colder Monday in south.

Lower Michigan—Cloudy, snow flurries in west and north Sunday; Monday snow in north, rain or snow in south; no decided change in temperature.

TRIBUNE AUTO FINDS DATA ON ROADS AT FAULT

BY HAL FOUST.

Corinth, Miss., Dec. 1.—[Special.]—Experience this week on a tour in THE TRIBUNE roadster indicates that the best sources of road information are none too good.

On leaving Chicago, the Chicago Motor club recommended Cicero avenue to the Governor's highway. Cicero avenue south of 147th street was closed for construction of a railroad grade separation. This involved a detour to Crawford avenue which might have been avoided.

In Cairo, Ill., in the hotel where the American Automobile association is quartered, the clerk was asked about the road from Bardwell, Ky., fourteen miles to the south, to Columbus, Ky., where the confederacy was strongly fortified in the first year of the civil war.

"It's impassable," he replied. "You know how those Kentucky dirt roads are after a rain like we had last night."

Notwithstanding this advice, the trip was attempted. The eleven miles from Bardwell to Columbus was driven over a well graded and rained secondary road at fifty and sixty miles an hour.

In Mayfield, Ky., inquiries were made about any road leading to the site of Fort Henry, on the Tennessee river five miles north of Tennessee 76. Maps do not show any road to the site.

After finding admitted ignorance at the usual sources of highway information, a traveling salesman was located who said he knew there was a good country road to Fort Henry because he used to call on a general store formerly there.

At the toll bridge of Tenn. 76, over the Tennessee river, the reporter received the same good news. This was within a thousand feet of the turn off from the highway. For the five miles off the highway, it was a primitive trail. Freshets were forded. At a couple of places the car dragged on high center. There was much driving in second gear and some in first, sometimes due to mud and sometimes due to ruts. Rear wheel spun in wet clay.

About a mile from Fort Donelson on the Cumberland river I was driving on a muddy side road in the approximate vicinity of a farm house where Gen. Grant slept on a floor during the Union invasion of this confederate fortification. I wanted to see the building, if it still stands.

"Pardon me, sir," said I to an overalled farmer with a beard like pictures of the civil war, "can you tell me where the farm is where U. S. Grant had his headquarters in the civil war?"

"I don't know, sir," he replied, without a trace of conscious humor, "I'm not very old. There's some old folks lives on the next farm who might know."

The woods and fields through Tennessee are full of hunters these days. Every rural male, black or white, seems to be carrying a shotgun if he's walking and not just sitting.

These folks enjoy their leisure. Why shouldn't they? The cotton growers of the state have received $2,166,322 federal easy money for the cotton they didn't grow. A $3,350,000 tobacco crop is in the sheds curing, waiting for the market to open in a couple of weeks.

On a highway bridge near Nashville a rustic was found with a shotgun, just sitting. He looked too comfortable, dozing in the sunshine, to pass without disturbing him.

"Many pheasants around here?" he was asked.

"No, sir," he replied sleepily, "but there's plentiful quail."

From up the valley came the bang of shotguns. "Are you waiting for them to chase the birds down here for you to shoot?" I inquired.

"No, I'm just waiting for those other folks to get the birds good and wild before I start hunting."

VOICE OF TRAFIC

TO BREAK A BOTTLE NECK.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The new system of progressive lights on Michigan avenue has already shown itself a great help to motor trafic. The point of most annoying congestion on the north side has been moved to the stretch of Sheridan road near Belmont avenue. Here during the evening rush three roads pour their trafic onto the four lanes of that drive.

Diagram it. Sketch in the path of the buses. From the westerly drives the buses cross all northbound trafic to the east lane. There they discharge passengers, who cross all the lanes of trafic to get to their destinations west of the drive.

Approaching Addison street some of the buses weave west to the left hand lane to make a turn. Often three lanes of trafic are held up by buses in the 3500 block. A few blocks farther north the rest of the buses weave to the left to turn with Sheridan road. In the meantime southbound trafic at this hour is very light.

Suppose we route all buses, and those cars which are going to turn west before 3800, in the east half of that space now given to occasional southbound autos. The buses could use the present center parkway to land their passengers, who would need to cross only half the boulevard to reach their homes. Adjust the trafic lights on the east half of the drive and surely the trafic would flow quickly and safely.

In the morning the buses could travel as they now do. It should prove helpful to make a similar division of the east half of Sheridan road and create two lanes of through trafic to the outer drive, interrupted only by the occasional left turns of the light northbound trafic to ease the jam of the morning rush.

These suggested changes should give added use of our present facilities with very little additional cost.

GEORGE S. GORDON.

AT BERWYN AND SHERIDAN.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The new synchronized trafic lights on Michigan avenue and other heavy trafic centers have helped speed up trafic to a remarkable degree. All of which brings to mind a location where a properly synchronized stop and go light will mean greater speed, convenience, and safety to both motorists and pedestrians.

At Berwyn avenue and Sheridan road there is much trafic coming into and crossing Sheridan road. Because there is no light there considerable danger and tangling up of trafic is apparent. The coroner's records will show, I am sure, that there have been at least two fatal tragedies there.

During the summer the foot of Berwyn avenue is a public bathing beach and there is much pedestrian trafic. Because it is also the south entrance of the large Edgewater Beach hotel, both to its garage and pedestrian doors, the combination of the public beach and the hotel create unusually heavy trafic. This, I sincerely believe, will be prevented by a light which could be properly synchronized with Foster avenue or Balmoral.

I am sure an investigation will bear out the practicability of this suggestion and result in greater safety and convenience for all. I am the widow of the late Police Captain James V. Larkin, and will appreciate your bringing this matter to the attention of proper authorities.

MRS. JAMES V. LARKIN.

REALLY NOT SO FUNNY.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Why doesn't THE TRIBUNE eliminate the comic section of its Sunday edition and give this space to the Voice of Trafic, as certainly this column contains more good entertaining humor than the comic section? The comedy comes from the fact that a great many subscribers to this column seem to take the trafic regulations and the police force of Chicago seriously. What a stupid idea!

Every purchaser of a vehicle tax in the city of Chicago is given a pamphlet containing the trafic regulations; that is, every one but the police. Apparently the police have very little knowledge of what constitutes a trafic violation, as 99 per cent of the trafic violators are given no attention.

Trafic regulations provide a maximum speed limit which no motorist in Chicago observes. They also provide for parking regulations, for which no motorist has any respect.

The entire loop district is placarded with signs prohibiting parking, but parked cars are so thick that it practically is impossible to reach the curb to discharge a passenger. Trafic regulations provide for parallel parking, but every street on which vast sums have been spent for widening in order to speed up trafic has been turned over to diagonal parkers, and with the result that the purpose of widening the street has been entirely defeated.

A. C.

NO VEHICLE LICENSE.

Cicero, Ill., Nov. 27.—It would be interesting to know the method employed by the owner of a certain Chevrolet coach in dodging arrest slips for not having obtained a city vehicle license to date. When not in use the car is parked near the southeast corner of Arthington street and Mason avenue, Chicago. Last year this car had an Ohio license and the year before it had Indiana plates. During all this time the owner lived near the above address and used the car regularly on Chicago streets.

INTERESTED.

RIGHT TURN ON RED.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—I read the article of O. K. Jelinek urging the big shots to allow turn right on the red lights. It's about time the brains would give in, whoever they are. I see all the big cities have done so long ago. In Canada they have had that system years ago. How much and how long does it take our brain men to be convinced?

MARTIN H. GROSSMAN.

MANY FACTORS GOVERN 'SAFE DRIVING' SPEEDS

Prof. Ralph A. Moyer of Iowa State college's engineering experiment station at Ames, Ia., has just completed a series of brake performance tests to determine maximum safe speeds under various driving conditions. This maximum, he found, ranged from seven to eighty miles an hour depending upon the visibility and the traction.

The eighty mile an hour limit, of course, is for the best of the primary roads, in dry weather, free from trafic and in a good automobile. At this speed, the car can be stopped in 500 feet. The safe maximum for stopping within 250 feet is 55 miles an hour.

Good Brakes Necessary.

All of the professor's calculations are based on the assumption that automobiles have good brakes. THE TRIBUNE'S free car testing station this summer found that about 40 per cent of the brakes were in a dangerous condition.

Prof. Moyer recommends that clear sight distances of 1,000 feet be established as standard on main trunk highways where speeds as high as eighty miles per hour are permissible. For secondary highways, where maximum permissible speeds of sixty miles an hour are anticipated, a stopping distance of 300 feet, or a clear sight distance of 600 feet is necessary for ordinary driving conditions, he says.

At city street intersections, in business districts, the clear sight distance may be as low as 20 feet. And with average conditions of roughness of dry pavement surface and brakes the average speed at which an automobile may be brought to a dead stop in that distance is not more than thirteen miles per hour, Prof. Moyer found. Clear sight distances are at times as great as 50 feet in business districts and 100 feet in residence districts, requiring safe stopping speeds of not more than twenty-two and thirty-four miles per hour, respectively.

On Icy Pavements.

When the streets are icy he advises reducing the maximum speed at intersections to seven, eleven and sixteen miles per hour when the sight distances are 20, 50 and 100 feet respectively. While these speeds seem low, an icy surface provides only enough traction to meet ordinary driving demands and gives a driver a false sense of security which quickly fades when the brakes are applied.

"Although a speed of twenty-six miles per hour is permissible on an icy surface for a stopping distance of 250 feet, safe operation at this speed hardly can be assured, because of the skill required in applying the brakes for so great a distance without locking the rear wheels and causing a dangerous skid," Prof. Moyer states. "Operation on ice can be reasonably safe and free from skidding if the speed is maintained so that the engine resistance and not the brakes is depended upon to stop the car.

"The maximum speed on ice for reasonable safety should not exceed fifteen miles per hour."

NEWS AND VIEWS

The recent changes in the sales organization of Chrysler-De Soto and Plymouth cars places S. D. Briggs in charge as regional sales manager and Harry Mahaffey as assistant regional sales manager, with offices in the Wrigley building, Chicago.

O. L. Waller, whose promotion to assistant general sales manager of the Buick Motor company was recently announced by Vice President and Sales Manager W. F. Hufstader, was given a testimonial banquet at the French Casino recently by local Buick dealers.

Mr. Waller has long been a favorite with the local dealer organization, having served as Chicago zone manager for Buick for the last year, and his promotion was ample reason for a celebration.

Definite orders, accompanied by shipping instructions, for over thirty million dollars' worth of passenger cars and trucks, were placed with Dodge factory officials in twenty-five cities in which new model previews have been held, according to A. vanDerZee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers corporation.

In a widely published interview previous to the Dodge dealer meetings, Mr. vanDerZee, whose past automobile business prognostications have been noted for conservatism and correctness, voiced the opinion that the year 1935 would bring a sales volume increase of approximately 25 per cent, but with the flood of new orders he has withdrawn his earlier estimate and set up a higher figure as the probable gain to be expected.

In anticipation of the biggest year in Oldsmobile history the production capacity of the plant at Lansing is being doubled. Almost $2,500,000 is being spent to make possible the production of 1,000 cars a day during 1935, according to announcement today by C. L. McCuen, president and general manager. Almost 2,000 men have been kept constantly at work for the last month on the expansion program alone.

A. F. Fenner, vice president of Mack-International Motor Truck corporation, was the principal speaker at a meeting last Tuesday at the Mack building here. Mr. Fenner outlined their plans for handling Reo trucks, speed wagons, and buses as distributors in the Chicago area. R. D. Hilty, long associated with Reo, is in charge of Reo activities as sales manager.

A coast to coast trip in which he will meet with distributor and dealer groups throughout the country for the purpose of discussing the 1935 sales campaign is being made by J. C. Chick, general sales manager of Cadillac.

At a meeting in Chicago on Dec. 14 Mr. Chick will go over the 1935 sales campaign with distributors and dealers from this territory who will come to Chicago for the special meeting.

A. E. Schreiber, manager of retail sales of Nash Sales, Inc., announces the opening of two used car stores, one at 7633 South Ashland avenue with Joseph Koskey as store manager, and one at 6041 Cottage Grove avenue, with W. J. McCormack as store manager, carrying a representative stock of used cars.

PUBLIC BLAMED BY MRS. M'CLURE FOR BAD FILMS

National Chairman Absolves Producer.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

"The public, not the producers, is responsible for poor pictures." That is Mrs. Richard M. McClure's verdict, after two and a half years' experience as motion picture chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

MRS. R. M. McCLURE.
[Russell Photo.]

As a corollary, Mrs. McClure added a statement that scotches certain widely circulated reports of women's clubs hot on the trail of offending movie moguls.

"It is the movie goers, not the producers, whom we clubwomen are working on to raise the general level of the movies," she said. "Producers are like all other business men—in order to survive they must supply what the public demands."

"It's Your Own Fault.

When you, the public, carelessly spend your money on a poor picture, you help to make it a box office success, Mrs. McClure pointed out. That means others like it will be produced, and so the responsibility for a succession of inferior pictures rests squarely on your shoulders.

"Be better motion picture buyers" is Mrs. McClure's solution for the problem of poor pictures. She has made that the slogan for her motion picture chairmen all over the country.

"Statistics show that women make up four-fifths of motion picture audiences. We are asking them to use the same discrimination in spending their money for movies that they do in buying food, clothing, or books," Mrs. McClure explained.

Guides to Better Films.

But it is difficult to be a good shopper without reliable information on what is to be bought. Here Mrs. McClure described the second half of the federation's motion picture program.

For a decade guides on pictures about to be released have been issued by previewing committees on the east and west coasts, drawn from the ranks of the D. A. R., the National Council of Jewish Women, the parent-teacher associations, and other groups, in addition to the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

A more recent development, bringing the information on pictures closer to home, is the better films council. Mrs. McClure herself founded the Chicago council when she was state motion picture chairman several years ago. Ultimately it is planned to have a council in every community.

Sanction or Refusal.

The council previews forthcoming attractions and issues monthly reports to members, who pay a nominal annual fee. In the interval between the picture's loop run and its showing at neighborhood theaters, the local councils have time to point out the unde-

TWO SUBURBS WITHOUT BANKS OPEN FHA DRIVE

Palatine, Arlington Heights Map Survey

Although handicapped by the lack of banking facilities in Palatine and Arlington Heights, home modernization and improvement campaigns in those suburbs are fast gaining momentum, reports of the better housing committees show.

With the opening of a special office next to the Palatine postoffice last week the Palatine housing committee, of which William H. DePue is chairman, is looking for an even greater response to the program on the part of Palatine residents.

Plan Mass Meeting.

A house to house canvass to determine local needs and to educate home owners in the purpose of the better housing movement will begin tomorrow, Mr. DePue announced. A massmeeting will be held next Wednesday evening at which Carl C. Griswold, field representative of the Federal Housing administration, will be the principal speaker.

Most of the Palatine housing loans are being made through the First National bank of Des Plaines and the Mt. Prospect State bank, Mr. DePue said. Many loans also are being made through large building material corporations.

Many Houses Need Repairs.

"We have observed," Mr. DePue said, "that as a result of five years' stagnation in the building industry, many Palatine residences are greatly in need of repair. Prompt restoration will arrest the process of rapid deterioration.

"Therefore the Palatine better housing program presents a very practical aspect. It is prompted by nothing short of necessity. It will do much to rehabilitate real estate values in Palatine and should be effective in giving employment and putting more money into circulation."

Select Committees.

The Palatine better housing executive committee headed by Mr. DePue also includes Wesley Comfort, A. E. Schmidt, and Frank Wente. Other committees recently appointed are:

Loans—Melvin Greener, chairman; William Kehe, and Henry Harz.

Publicity—Art Wildhagen, chairman; Ernest Iler, and Noble Puffer.

Go Slow at First.

An intensive survey to determine in detail the condition of buildings in Arlington Heights and make recommendations for their repair will precede the main better housing campaign in that suburb, John Allen, newly appointed housing committee chairman, announced.

"We feel it is better to go slow at first, and extend the building over the winter and spring," he said, "rather than to start with a rush."

An organization comittee has been named to aid Mr. Allen in selecting subcommittees. It includes Mayor J. D. Flentie, Alfred Jasper, Gene Heller, and Orval Baldwin.

CHAIRMAN OF CARD PARTY

Miss Minnetta Przydzial, 2318 West Thomas street, is chairman of the entertainment committee of the Defense of Poland Young Folks' club for a card party to be held this afternoon by the parent body, Defense of Poland society, Group 712 of the Polish National alliance. The party will be held at the Sons of Liberty hall, 1042 North Damen avenue.

MERCHANTS SEE 5 YEAR RECORD YULETIDE SALE

Retail Trade Shows Strong Revival.

Cheered by signs they consider significant, business men on the northwest side are preparing for the best Christmas season in four or five years, a survey last week revealed.

In the first place, they have noted a marked pickup in business in the last few weeks. They agree some of this improvement may be attributed to the usual Christmas spurt, but point out that Christmas itself is still too far away to account for it all. They believe the difference may be traced to improvement in general business conditions.

Conditions More Stable.

They notice also a revived buying spirit, reflected in a growing tendency to purchase merchandise of a better quality.

Last year, according to the view of one business man, a degree of uncertainty prevailed, indicative of a feeling that to buy anything was something of a gamble. This "fictitious" atmosphere, as the business man described it, has been displaced by a sense of stability and security which the merchants believe they perceive in the buying of higher priced goods and in improved business.

A third factor that is causing business men to replenish their stocks and to plan larger displays in anticipation of a Christmas volume of "prosperity" proportions is the optimism they have detected in the outlook of business men in their own communities.

Fewer Vacant Stores.

Many of these men are remodeling and redecorating their stores and shops and are placing orders for larger supplies of Christmas goods than they have for several years. Still another cheerful factor is that store vacancies are fewer than they have been for some time.

Reflecting the new era of streamlining, toys this Christmas will be more attractive than ever, one department store executive said. Trains, automobiles, airplanes, wagons, and bicycles, the latter with streamlined mudguards, will be sleek and ultramodern in appearance and will represent more radical changes in design and construction than have been made in the toy line in many years.

As for prices, opinion is divided. Some of the business men believe they will be slightly lower this Christmas, and others express doubt that there will be little appreciable change.

Business is about 25 per cent better in the Belmont Park district than a year ago, and merchants and business men are anticipating an exceptionally good Christmas volume, L. P. Bronsing, president of the Belmont Park Chamber of Commerce, said.

Outlook Cheering.

"Our business men are in a more cheerful frame of mind over the outlook for Christmas business than they have been for a long time," said Mr. Fuog. "We believe an indication that this is going to be a good holiday season is the fact there are greater crowds on the streets and people seem to be in a buying mood."

Business is considerably better than a year ago, is the assertion of Jacob W. Molay, president of the Jefferson Park Business Men's association.

"Shopping has started much earlier

Clubs Prevent Class Work Interfering with Education

BY BERNICE CRANSTON.

There once was a boy, so the story goes, who was so busy with his class work that he did not get an education. To prevent a recurrence of this catastrophe, academy students at North Park college leave their regular classes at scheduled times and meet in small groups with their teachers to engage in extra curricular activities.

EVAR H. NELSON.

The activities of each group or club are built around some interest related to class work for which there is not sufficient time in regular class periods. At these meetings the students arrange the programs and conduct the meetings, the teacher acting only as an adviser. After school socials and celebrations for special holidays are also a part of the clubs' activities.

Committee Directs Activity.

The clubs are directed by a committees on extra curricular activities. Evar Nelson is chairman and his assistants are Miss Ethel Matson, Miss Lyravine Votaw, and Eldon Strandine.

As its name implies, the Ciceronian literary society, one of the oldest clubs on the campus, emphasizes the study of literature. Miss Ruth E. Sundin is sponsor, and the club officers are Miss Ethel Eagle, president; Miss Elizabeth Weissbrenner, vice president, and Miss Charlotte Anderson, secretary and treasurer.

The Nopaco Short Story club, sponsored by Miss Votaw, features its short story hour. Miss Mina Klayman is president; Robert Newgard, vice president; Miss Elizabeth McInnes, secretary, and Richard Kullerstrand, treasurer.

For the debaters there is the Speakers Forum. Paul Elmen is sponsor; Howard Lindquist, president; Harry Peterson, vice president; Miss Dorothy Carlson, secretary, and David Peltz, treasurer.

Visit The Tribune Yearly.

Economics, politics, society, and religion are discussed by the Current Eventers. Mr. Nelson is adviser to this group. David Peltz is president; Miss Violet Ziegler, vice president; Miss Natalie Wermuth, secretary, and Robert Edgren, treasurer.

E. Gustav Johnson sponsors the Junior Journalistic club of which Gordon Rosberg is president. Annual activities of the group include its trip to THE TRIBUNE plant and the publication of one issue of the North Park College News.

Painting Christmas cards is the activity that is now engaging the attention of the members of the Arts club. Miss Marie Hildemann is the group sponsor. The Home Economics club, supervised by Mrs. Ragna Toren, is made up of girls interested in the problems of the home and household. The officers are Miss Doris Harper, president; Miss Lorraine Snyder, vice president; Miss Audine Gavert, secretary, and Miss Lillian Carlson, treasurer.

Prepare for Business.

For the girls who are looking forward to business careers, the Commercial club is sponsored by Miss Eleanor Peterson. The officers of this group are Miss Louise Bowman, president; Miss Alice Ohlson, vice president, and Miss Ethel Eagle, secretary and treasurer.

The Career and Vocational club endeavors to help its members find their places in the world. Milton P. Nelson acts as adviser to the group. The officers are Miss June Brackern, president; Roger Harper, vice president; Miss Beverly Johnson, secretary, and Miss Dorothy von Thenen, treasurer.

Russell Hultman is sponsor to the Sports club, the group of boys that makes the life histories of famous sportsmen and the study of sportmanship its chief activities. Donald Chisholm is president; Robert Hoffman, vice president, and Edgar Samuelson, secretary and treasurer.

Boys interested in stamp collecting, photography, autograph collecting, and the like congregate in their own organization. Leland Carlson lends advice to their activities. Norman Frosberg is president; Owen Fess, vice president; Donald Chisholm, secretary, and Edward Greinke, treasurer.

Budding scientists are advised by Mr. Strandine. The student officers are Robert Anderson, president; Robert Edgren, vice president, and Miss Katherine Edgren, secretary and treasurer.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

LITTLE Jean Marie Begue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Begue, 4937 Montana street, has received her blue ribbon which she won in the recent national baby contest at the World's Fair. Our little townslady was voted Illinois' second most beautiful baby in ages up to two years. Two of her cousins, Bobby and Loyola Gallagher [children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gallagher, 4925 Montana street] were awarded gold medals in the contest.

MARIA JERITZA will be the guest artist at Mrs. Ernest R. Graham's fifth Intimate Opera morning, to be held Thursday at the Drake hotel, when opera fans will study "Der Rosenkavalier" by Johann Strauss. Mrs. Graham, who lives at 25 East Banks street, is secretary of the Chicago Grand Opera company, and selected the opera at the request of Mme. Jeritza, who will sing in it during the opera season. Mme. Jeritza offered to appear and explain her interpretation of the leading feminine rôle. Miss Anna Fitzu, soprano with the opera company, will give a dramatic reading of the opera.

Dr. Louis Becker, dentist of Our Town whose offices are at 1133 Bryn Mawr avenue, is always up to the latest. Now he has motion pictures, projected on the wall, to hold the attention of his wee patients.

BOGAN REQUESTS 2 SCHOOLS FOR NORTHWEST SIDE

Urges Board Complete Galileo Building.

Construction of a northwest side high school on which work scarcely had been started three years ago when the board of education's building funds were exhausted, and the completion of an elementary school which was left unfinished, are recommended in a report on 1935 building needs submitted to the board Wednesday by Supt. William J. Bogan.

The report also recommends the building of an addition to another grade school. The proposed building program was prepared by Don C. Rogers, director of the bureau of building survey, and was referred to a general committee of the board.

Only Excavation Done.

The high school is the Galileo, originally planned as a junior high at Central and Fullerton avenues. Only the preliminary excavation work had been done when the board's building program was stopped. Meanwhile, junior high schools were eliminated by the board as part of its economy program.

The junior high plans, however, with a few changes can be used in building the senior high school, Mr. Rogers said.

High School for 1,827.

Supt. Bogan said in his report the new buildings and the proposed addition are needed to relieve school housing congestion. The new high school will provide 1,827 more seats, the elementary building 684, and the grade school addition 350 seats, which will help in eliminating throughout the city 38 portables, 11 inadequate rooms, and 110 half-day or double divisions.

The unfinished elementary school is the Minnine Mars Jamieson, Hollywood avenue and Mozart street. The addition was recommended for the Lyon school, 2941 North McVicker avenue.

The cost of the Galileo as a junior high school was estimated at $1,500,000. The estimated cost of the Minnine Mars Jamieson grade school is $475,000.

BARRINGTON WILL LIQUIDATE PART OF FROZEN CASH

Clearing House to Foster 10% Dividend.

The clearing house plan for closed banks which has worked so successfully in Des Plaines will be initiated in connection with the First State bank of Barrington within the next week or ten days, it was announced by Col. R. L. Mundhenk, chairman of the Lions' club committee which has recommended adoption of the plan.

More than 40 Barrington merchants are expected to sign agreements to accept assignments of accounts in the bank, closed now for three years. Assignments will be in anticipation of the first ten per cent dividend to be paid by the receiver.

Receiver Backs Plan.

The receiver already has indicated his willingness to foster the clearing house plan, which, as shown by the experience of the Des Plaines bank, facilitates and speeds up liquidation of bank assets.

The recommendation of the Lions club committee followed a careful survey of the assignment plan as developed in Des Plaines and a poll of the sentiment of business men there who are operating under the new system.

The Barrington plan will be substantially the same as that in Des Plaines, Col. Mundhenk said. Under it depositors assign a maximum of 10 per cent of their bank balance to merchants in the community in return for merchandise or in payment of accounts owed.

Use Credit Receipts.

No scrip is used. Instead, a merchant who accepts assignments of deposits is given a receipt to show that the correct sum has been credited to his account in the Clearing House association. This receipt may be retained until it is redeemed as the bank pays its dividend, or it may be used to pay a bill owed another merchant by means of the clearing house.

For this latter service a 3 per cent charge is made which goes to a pool to defray expenses of clearing house operation.

No definite information is available as to when the first dividend payment will be forthcoming, it was learned.

Anticipate Two Dividends.

The local committee's recommendation of the assignment plan stipulated certain modifications of the Des Plaines system. Each business man in Barrington is to indicate the maximum amount of assignment he will take from customers so that credit extension will not be too heavy a burden on him.

It was decided that only two sets of assignments will be made, anticipating two ten per cent dividend payments.

NORTHWEST SIDE BOARDS TO HOLD SCOUT REVIEWS

Three boards and courts of review will be held tomorrow for Boy Scouts of the Northwest district. Troops in the Kelvyn Park community will be reviewed at the Fullerton-Cicero club, 2502 North Cicero avenue. In Logan Square the review will be held in Kosciuszko park, Diversey avenue and Avers street. Scouts in the West Town neighborhood will meet at the Deborah Boys' club, 2441 West Division street.

MASSMEETING TO DEMAND MORE POLICE

The police protection committee of the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce has called a mass meeting for tomorrow night at 4839 Irving Park boulevard to consolidate public opinion. More than 65 improvement clubs, 15 parent-teacher associations, and many athletic and social clubs will be represented. Seated, left to right, are: L. K. Fuog, president of the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. C. E. Urbanski, Art Thompson, and Arnold L. Coleman, chairman of the committee. Standing, left to right: B. J. Corr, L. G. Burroughs, J. R. White, H. C. Alvord, G. S. Severance, and Charles S. Nation.

HIGGINS FEEDER SYSTEM PLEAS FINALLY CLOSED

Coach Counsel Alleges Service Adequate.

The final hearing of the long-continued Northwest highway and Higgins road feeder bus case before the Illinois Commerce commission was held last week and all evidence marked heard and taken. The decision of the commission on the extension is expected soon.

The hearing consisted of an oral argument before the commission by counsel for the two respondents, the United Motor Coach company, and the Chicago Surface lines, and the counsel for the commission which is prosecuting the case.

Counsel for the Motor Coach company denied that service now is inadequate. He also declared it unlawful for the commission to destroy an already existing utility by revoking its certificate of convenience and necessity and ordering another type of service.

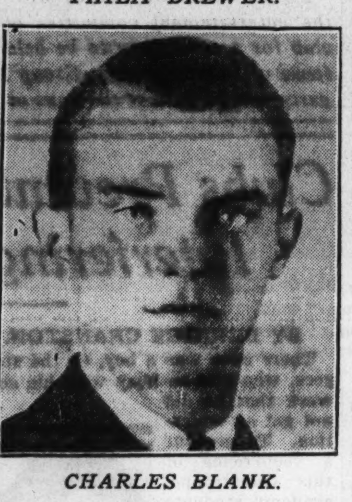
Such an order would ruin the bus company, he said, which has established its service over a period of more than ten years and has built up the district in which it operates. He was willing to work on a split fare basis with the surface lines, he said, providing the citywide fare was increased to 10 cents.

A plea of inadequate funds for any feeder bus extension was made by the attorney for the surface lines. Under ordinary conditions, he said, they would be only too glad to extend their service.

Approximately 20,000 persons would be served by both feeder bus extensions, records show. A large percentage now are required to pay a double fare in transfering to downtown surface line cars.

Plan Schurz Dance

PHILIP BREWER.



CHARLES BLANK.

WALLACE SCHWASS.

Members of the 1934 graduating class of Schurz High school are formulating plans for an alumni dance in the grand ballroom of the Drake. It will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 26, during the Christmas holidays, and the aim is to reunite all former Schurzites and their friends. Phillip Brewer, Charles Blank and Wallace Schwass comprise the committee in charge of arrangements.

QUILT CONTEST WILL AID BAZAR IN FOREST PARK

A quilt contest will be the feature of the bazar on Wednesday by the Provisio chapter, No. 245, Women of the Moose, at the Forest Park Legion home, Circle and Adams street. Mrs. Charles Moltros is accepting entries for the competition.

The bazar, which will be opened at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, also will offer fancy goods and homemade bakery items.

SCOUT TRAINING SCHOOL COURSES TO BE CONTINUED

"U" Plan Popular with Youth Leaders.

So popular has the University of Scouting conducted by the Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts proved that three of the six courses offered will be continued during December, although all were to have officially ended at last week's session. This was disclosed by C. O. Nimtz, chief scout executive.

The courses to be continued are the archery course instructed by H. J. Vanderwald and under the supervision of the Handicraft and Hobby club; the American Red Cross and first aid course under A. J. Beckman, and the principles of scoutmastership course under the leadership of E. J. Anderson. All will meet in Maine Township High school.

Council Ladies' Night.

It also is expected, Mr. Nimtz said, that many of the men who have completed their work in elements of scoutmastership, in cubbing, and in troop committee specialization work, will join one of the other sessions and take advantage of the opportunity for further training in boy leadership.

National training certificates will be awarded to all men completing courses at the annual council meeting in January. The leadership training committee, under whose direction the university is operating, agreed to cancel the ladies' night program planned for December, in favor of the annual meeting in January.

The training committee consists of the following men: R. T. Sundelius and Guy Stephens of Park Ridge; W. J. Imig and E. J. Anderson of Des Plaines; A. R. Crawford of Niles, J. C. Pfingsten of Arlington Heights, and C. J. Gallagher of Mt. Prospect.

Park Ridge in Lead.

A survey of scout density in the Northwest suburban area, reported on at a recent meeting of the commissioner's staf, showed Park Ridge in the lead with Des Plaines second. The figures were based on the total enrollment in relation to the number of 12 year old boys in each community, which made possible an acceptable comparison of scouting development.

On this basis the analysis showed the following enrollment per hundred 12 year olds: Park Ridge, 184; Des Plaines, 120; Barrington, 112; Niles Township, 110, and Arlington district 75. The council average is 112.5.

Finances Improving.

The second weekly report on the end of the year campaign for new scouts and completion of district finance quotas shows considerable progress, Mr. Nimtz reported. Niles Center and Niles took precedence for the week by reducing their quota balance by $157 and showing gains in membership.

Park Ridge also showed encouraging progress financially. Des Plaines already has exceeded its quota for the year and is endeavoring to raise funds to cover the early months of 1935. The present membership of the Northwest Suburban Council is 663 scouts; the objective has been set at 750.

Alphions Will Attend Theater Party Friday

The Alphions, northwest young peoples' club, will hold a theater party Friday evening. They will visit the Showboat Dixiana and will dine at the Terrace Gardens.

sirable pictures to their theater managers and to arrange suitable family bills for the week-ends. Then the council rallies its membership to the support of these good programs.

Mrs. McClure was emphatic as to the type of information given out on pictures, for it is on this point that she takes issue with the Legion of Decency.

"The federation's long experience in this work has tended to show that best results are obtained by stressing the good pictures and more or less ignoring the bad, merely pointing out their shoddiness," she stated.

Defeats Own Purpose.

"Forbidden fruit still has its old appeal for many people, and it is enough for a picture to be pronounced morally offensive for a large audience to be attracted to it. Why, the day of the Legion of Decency parade the sidewalk in front of the Chicago theater was crowded with paraders in uniform waiting in line to see Mae West.

"We have found that several of the 'C' pictures condemned by the legion have played to standing room only, and were held over for a week when managers originally had intended to exhibit them for a day only or not at all. 'Born to Be Bad' was repeated by general request in several communities."

Censorship is another method of criticism which Mrs. McClure rejects at least as it is provided in Chicago today.

"Any one who has baked a cake knows that if even one egg of the five is bad it doesn't help much to have the rest fresh. It is the same way with a picture—if there are objectionable features, the whole product is colored. Chopping out a line here or a scene there won't make it a good picture."

Censorship can be handled effectively only at the source, Mrs. McClure believes. It is not so much a theme as the method of treatment which causes offense. The method of treatment is determined by the producer, who in turn are governed by the public taste; which leads back to her original thesis that it is up to the public to check the making of shoddy pictures by refusing to patronize them.

Against Police Critics.

If there must be local censorship, Mrs. McClure feels that it should not be a function of the police, as is now the case in Chicago. A board representing a variety of opinions, drawn from the churches, schools, universities, civic, and business groups, women's clubs and parent-teachers organizations should be best qualified to pass judgment on the community's entertainment, she believes.

Mrs. McClure first became interested in motion pictures when she was president of the Morgan Park Woman's club. There were no movie theaters in the community, and it was decided to open a community center where suitable pictures would be provided. Each civic group woman's club and parent-teacher association was to sponsor a picture and use the proceeds for its work.

Box Office vs. Virtue.

"As I sat in conferences over what pictures should be shown, it came as a shock to me that most of the organizations weren't so much interested in getting the best pictures obtainable for the young people as they were in getting the ones that would net the largest sums for their treasuries," she said.

"If civic groups felt this way about it, what could you expect of a theater manager? I suddenly realized whose fault it was that we weren't getting better pictures. The wonder was how many good ones we were getting!"

"And do you know, I still feel that way about it. Better pictures and more of them are being produced all the mtie. I n the last year or two the improvement has been especially marked.

"In contrast with this you still have the absolute indifference of the majority of fathers and mothers as to what pictures their children see. Only 51 of 476 pictures made last year were for young children, yet an average of 2,000,000 children between the ages of 5 and 15 attended theaters daily. In a recent survey, only 155 out of 10,052 school children reported their parents took any interest in what pictures they saw.

"It's not hard, is it, to see in what direction our work lies," she said.

this year," said Mr. Molay. "That is one of the reasons we expect an extraordinarily good season."

Order Sufficient Stocks.

E. M. Hurt, president of the Grand-Harlem Chamber of Commerce, declared that business men in his community were anticipating more business this season than a year ago and that they were buying larger stocks of merchandise.

"Many of them have told me," said Mr. Hurt, "that they do not intend to get 'caught short' as they were last year, when business was better than they had expected."

"We are anticipating the best Christmas season since 1929," said Sidney Levenberg, advertising manager of the Logan Department store, 2778 Milwaukee avenue. "We have a larger stock of Christmas merchandise this year, as well as more floor space in which to display it."

Logan Square Also Rises.

Retail sales in the Logan Square district are running 20 per cent better than last year, Charles V. Falkenberg, president of the Logan Square Business Men's association, said.

"Our merchants and business men are exceptionally optimistic over the outlook for Christmas business," he said. "They are laying in increased stocks in anticipation of the increased buying continuing through the holiday season and into next year."

FIVE ARLINGTON STUDENTS TAKE COUNCIL POSTS

Students of Arlington Heights High school have elected five new members to the student council. Two were chosen from each of the freshmen and sophomore classes and one from the junior class.

Miss Lorraine Foley and Warren Carlson are new freshmen members. New sophomores are Miss Nelda Studtmann and Vernon Pingel, and the holdover sophomore member is Donald Hanauer.

NORWOOD GROUP FORMS 41ST WARD BOOSTER CLUB

The West End Boosters' club, with a charter membership of 27, has been organized by residents in the northwest section of the Forty-first ward in what was formerly known as "Norwood township." The club will seek improvement of the community.

An inaugural card party will be given by the club Friday evening, Dec. 14, at its headquarters located at 6056 Slocum street.

Officers elected were Fred Follmer, president; Louis Mueller, first vice president; Theodore Ostrand, second vice president; Steven De Janovitch, treasurer; George Kamin, secretary, and Anton Altmeyer, sergeant at arms.

NORTHWEST ASKS TEN FEEDER BUS LINES TO 'L' ROUTE

Monopolies for Surface Cars Threatened.

A network of feeder bus extensions from the Rapid Transit system will be at the service of northwest side residents in the near future, if a complaint asking the facilities now pending before the Illinois commerce commission is successful.

The complaint filed last week asks that the Chicago Rapid Transit company be directed to establish free bus extensions on ten indicated routes. The first regular hearing of the case will take place before the commission on Monday, Dec. 10.

Companies Willing.

A new interest was injected into the move for "L" feeder buses with the declaration by both the Chicago Motor Coach company and the Rapid Transit company representatives that they were willing to establish service on many of the routes proposed.

Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer for the receiver of the elevated lines, stated: "The Rapid Transit company will make an earnest endeavor to establish free bus lines on Foster and Kimball avenues. We have not, however, made surveys of the other routes sufficient to allow me to say anything as to their feasibility.

Cites Fair Service.

"We are interested in the present proposals and will do all in our power to coöperate. Our World's Fair service was so successful that we are willing to extend our system on the northwest side. Undoubtedly buses on many of the proposed routes would enable people to get from one district to another on the "L" lines without the necessity of first going down town."

A representative for James G. Condon, attorney for the Motor Coach company, said the company would be willing to give service on any or all of the street routes named in the complaint.

The Motor Coach company also has tendered to the commission a proposal for a free transfer system on Foster and Kimball avenues. It would operate buses to the Logan Square and Ravenswood terminals of the elevated and collect fares and issue transfers to the "L."

Surface Lines Opposed.

The Surface Lines, which until now have had a monopoly on feeder bus extensions, probably will oppose the proposed grants.

The street routes proposed are Oak Park avenue, Austin avenue, Laramie avenue, Kostner avenue, Central Park avenue, Kimball avenue, Wabansia avenue, Palmer avenue, Roscoe street, and Wilson avenue.

Welfare and Citizenship Will Be Stressed.

MRS. W. J. D. BECK.

Four of the civic departments—American citizenship, civil service, public welfare, and Indian welfare—will unite to give the first club institute program of the year in the Seventh district on Wednesday. With Mrs. William J. D. Beck, district institute chairman, presiding, the meeting will convene at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and continue through the evening at the Jefferson park fieldhouse, Higgins road and Long avenue.

The first speaker will be Mrs. C. M. Dargan of Pontiac, state American citizenship chairman. She will be introduced by Mrs. Charles W. Anderson, district chairman. Mrs. N. L. Pelletier, district civil service chairman, will introduce two speakers for her department—Mrs. E. E. Byerrum of Warrenville, state chairman, and Mrs. E. A. Jones of Western Springs, Sixth district chairman.

Will Display Handiwork.

Miss Florence E. Sparks, occupational therapist for the state hospital at Elgin, will speak for the public welfare department, of which Mrs. Harry Quaintance is district chairman.

Mrs. W. Earle Adams, district Indian welfare chairman, will talk on her department and also introduce Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, state chairman.

Wicker Park Music Day.

The Wicker Park Woman's club will observe music day on Tuesday. The program will be presented by the Gorham Concert company, with James Durham, tenor, Mrs. Gertrude Koehler Joerms, contralto, and Miss Vivian Gorham, harpist. Mrs. Mary Gorham Parker will direct and accompany the performers. Mrs. Osmund Vinje, program chairman, will be in charge.

Mrs. O. M. Lund and Mrs. Victor D. Simmer will head the hostess committees for the day. They will be assisted by Mrs. N. F. Berwick, Mrs. E. H. Boettcher, Mrs. Milton Boettcher, Mrs. F. P. Dossing, Mrs. Joseph K. Roach, and Mrs. H. C. Wickersheim.

Irving Park Clubs Unite.

"Down to the Sea in Ships" will be Chester Scott Howland's subject before the evening auxiliary and the senior group of the Irving Park Woman's club at their union men's night meeting tomorrow evening at the Myrtle Masonic temple, 4240 Irving Park boulevard.

The evening auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Women's Community building, 3900 North Hamlin avenue.

Albany Park Juniors.

Tomorrow evening's meeting of the Junior auxiliary of the Albany Park Woman's club will be known as "Home Talent Night." The club will meet at the Albany Park Methodist Episcopal church, Albany and Wilson avenues.

Norwood Park Dance.

The annual dinner dance of the Norwood Park Woman's club will be held at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club, 505 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. William Watt is planning the event. Her committee includes Mrs. A. S. Bakken, Mrs. E. W. Droege, Mrs. J. H. Ellis, Mrs. L. E. Naffz, and Mrs. L. J. VanNote.

Belmont Woman's Club.

Miss Zizbeth Gorman of the Peoples' Gas company will discuss "Table Decorations" at the Belmont Woman's club meeting at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Chopin park fieldhouse, Long and Newport avenues. Mrs. Joseph Charney, Mrs. David Floreen, Mrs. Arthur Kerber, Mrs. Carl O. Nelson, and Mrs. Harry Rowe will receive the guests.

Hermosa Juniors.

The Hermosa Junior auxiliary will meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Hope Patterson, 4329 Drummond place. Roll call response will be "What I like to do for charity." Mrs. Harry Quaintance, district welfare chairman, will discuss "Philanthropy."

FABIAN DISPLAYS ART AT EXHIBIT OF POLISH CLUB

Young Tailor Also Has Works in Show.

Jan Fabian, young northwest side artist, who recently won the Logan scholarship prize awarded by the Art institute, is one of the most prominent among those displaying their work at the seventh annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture of the Polish Arts club. The showing is being held at 1200 North Ashland avenue and will last until Sunday, Dec. 9.

Of the 23 Polish-American artists whose works are shown 22 reside on the northwest side. The works include oils, water colors, pen and ink drawings, and wood and plaster cast sculpture. There are 77 exhibits.

Skilled in Modeling.

Mr. Fabian has four offerings, a Paris street scene in carnival time, a nude study, a still life study of a sculptured head and torso, and a portrait of a woman. All have aroused favorable criticism on the part of visitors to the show, both for skilful modeling and excellent coloring.

Mr. Fabian was born in Vienna but came to America when very young. He was a TRIBUNE carrier boy for some years and practiced painting and sculpture in his spare time. Finally he came to attention of Walter Wieczorek, Milwaukee avenue druggist, who arranged for a private exhibition of his work about five years ago.

Wins $2,500 Prize.

A number of his pictures were sold, the Polish National Alliance awarded him a scholarship and he was enabled to study for two years in Europe—in Florence, Vienna, Krakow, and Paris. This year his sculptured piece, a baptismal font, won the coveted Logan prize at the Art institute, a prize which carries with it a grant of $2,500.

Mr. Fabian, only 28 years old, is again in Europe studying at the Jagiellonian University Academy of Fine Arts in Krakow, Poland.

Another northwest side exhibitor whose work drew much comment is Anton Rogalski, whose humorous and often bizarre water colors show vivid imagination and a flare for caricature.

Tailor and Artist.

Mr. Rogalski was born on the northwest side and is a tailor, following the trade of his father. He has studied only in Chicago and has developed his own technique. He has drawn for the American magazine and other periodicals.

Exhibitors at the show are Ludwig Bodzewski, Leon Bulowski, Norbert Czarnowski, K. A. Dabrowski, Joe Drut, Andrew Dziurdzik, Jan Fabian, Jan Furgal, E. F. Karnowski, Harriet Krawiec, Walter Krawiec, Stefanja Kwiatkowska, Walter Mazeski, Peter Porowski, M. V. Rekucki, Leonard Rodowicz, Anton Rogalski, Joseph Rusiecki, Adam Szwejkowski, Felicja Tarasiuk, A. S. Dabrowski, W. W. Gawlinski, John Szaton.

Horticulturist to Talk at Mayfair Garden Club

The Garden club of Mayfair will hear an address by Frank Isel, horticulturist connected with a nursery company in Elmhurst, at a meeting Wednesday evening in the Gompers park field house, Tripp and Foster avenues. The talk will be illustrated with slides.

Thanksgiving Golden Wedding

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM LARSEN.

[Stafford Photo.]

This year Thanksgiving day had a special significance for Mr. and Mrs. William Larsen, 2233 North Kilbourn avenue, because it coincided with the 50th anniversary of their wedding day. They celebrated at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Gus Carlson, 2423 North Kostner avenue.

Besides Mrs. Carlson, their five sons, Louis, Axel, Hilmer, Ralph, and Ernest, and three other daughters, Mrs. Charles Hildebrand, Mrs. Theodore Johnson, and Mrs. Herman Wickmann, attended the family dinner party and reception.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Larsen came to Chicago from Norway 52 years ago. They have 15 grandchildren and a great grandchild.

BEAUTY CONTEST WILL AID NEEDY IN LOGAN SQUARE

More than 300 baskets of groceries for the needy of the northwest side on Christmas morning—that is the aim of a popularity contest fostered by Logan Square merchants in which the candidates are voted for with 1 cent pieces.

Each merchant sponsors a girl whose photograph appears in the window of the store she represents and on the display board in the lobby of the Rio theater.

Patrons vote by dropping pennies into sealed glass containers beneath each picture. Each penny represents a vote and the girl with the largest number will be acclaimed "Miss Charity."

Next Thursday evening all entrants will make personal appearances at the theater with their sponsors. Proceeds from the contest will be used to buy groceries for the needy.

The girls entered are as follows: Miss Lorraine Potter, 3040 North Spaulding avenue; Miss Lucille Rogers, 3335 Diversey avenue; Miss Sonia Zale, 3304 North Avers avenue; Miss Ruth Osterberg, 2622 Emmett street; Miss Florence Laskin, 2156 Addison street, and Miss Beth Mann, 3606 Douglas boulevard.

Albany Park Boys Will Bear B'nai B'rith Talk

Joseph Levinson will speak on "B'nai B'rith Today" before the Albany Park Juniors of that organization at its meeting at 8:15 o'clock this evening at Temple Beth Israel, 4854 Bernard street. Miss Molly Opper will preside. Miss Joan Wax is president of the club.

PALATINE AREA FARM FIRES LOSE THEIR TERRORS

Volunteers Protect Property Over Wide Area.

No longer will the sudden cry of "Fire," the crackling of zames, and the ominous red glow in the sky strike chill terror into hearts of the Palatine area; no more will fire in a farm building result in an almost inevitable total loss to the unfortunate owner.

With the organization of the Palatine Rural Fire Protection league, under the leadership of Chief W. R. Comfort of the Palatine volunteer fire department, the menace of fire losses on isolated farms is fast being minimized.

Cuts Insurance Rate.

Incorporated "not for profit" the league will mean substantial reductions in insurance rates on farm buildings, Chief Comfort said. Already the three mutual insurance companies which have written the most policies in the protected area have agreed to divide among themselves the operating expenses of the specially designed truck reserved for use on rural fires.

Under the plan now in operation each farmer owning ten acres or more pays $10 for a permanent membership in the league. Property owners in subdivisions and those with farms of less than ten acres pay $5. No extra assessments will be levied during the life of the present truck, since the Palatine fire department mans and houses the truck free of charge and the insurance companies pay other running expenses.

The first test came three weeks ago at 4 o'clock in the morning. A farm home three miles out on Rand road was burning. Within seven minutes, on the authority of those who telephoned, trucks and firemen were on the scene. The house was saved.

The territory covered by the league extends seven miles north and south of Palatine, four miles to the west and three miles to the east. Eighteen men now are enrolled in the regular volunteer department and are available for rural fires, and eight others will be added solely for rural protection.

Unites Community.

Not only will the arrangement make for a greater feeling of security among the farmers, Chief Comfort pointed out, but also for "a closer tie between Palatine and the rural residents in its vicinity."

Members of the Rural Protection league are: Fred Porep, president; Louis Pohlman, vice president; Fred Phingsten, secretary; William Freise, treasurer, and W. R. Comfort, John Meyer, Emil Schroeder, A. H. Schmidt, Gilbert Klehm.

Following is the roster of the Palatine volunteer fire department: W. R. Comfort, chief; Henry Roesner, assistant chief; William Davidson, secretary; William Bockelman, treasurer, and William Wolf, Oscar Weide, Fred Kurz, Fred Hormening, William Roden, Fred Wildhagen, Elmer Walters, Otto Goore, Harry Tins, Jack Thompson, Alfred Harz, William Goore, Walter Meyer, and Henry Heide.

HUMBOLDT JEWS OPEN CHANUKKAH 8 DAY FESTIVAL

The celebration of Chanukkah, the festival of lights, opened yesterday evening at the Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard, and will end with a gala program next Sunday.

By that time eight candles will be burning on the altar—one for each evening of the celebration—symbolic of the rekindling of the Menorah and the rededication of the temple in Jerusalem after the Jews were victorious over the Syrians who had defiled the building by setting up Greek Gods in it.

The feast of Chanukkah, so Dr. Julius F. Siegel, rabbi of the temple, explained, teaches the lesson of religious liberty and tolerance, and is one of the most important of the lesser holidays in the Jewish calendar.

In next Sunday's celebration 60 children of the Hebrew and Sunday schools, directed by Miss Rayzele Wiernick, will participate. Miss Laura Brenner will direct the younger children—those between the ages of 4 and 5—in their part of the program. Miss Sarah Kahan will present a dramatized Hebrew reading.

WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED

Miss Helene Gruszeczka, 1521 Tell place, will play the leading feminine role in "Just What the Doctor Ordered," a three act comedy farce to be presented at 8:30 o'clock on the evening of Dec. 9 at St. Stephen's parish hall, Sangamon and Ohio streets.

SLAVS DEDICATE UNITY DAY RITES TO MARTYR KING

Consuls of European Nations to Talk.

Chicago's Jugo-Slavs are dedicating their annual Unity day celebration today as a memorial to the late King Alexander I. of Jugo-Slavia.

Consuls of Great Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia will address the gathering at 7 o'clock this evening at the New Lawndale hall, 2619 South Lawndale avenue. Invitations also have been extended to Mayor Edward Kelly, Gov. Henry Horner and Attorney General Otto Kerner to speak.

John Relic, national vice commander of the American-Jugo-Slav legion and chairman of the program, will speak on the significance of Unity day as marking the anniversary of Jugo-Slav liberation from foreign domination.

There will be addresses by Prof. John A. Zvetina of Loyola university, Valentine Cuci, president of the Jugo-Slav Central organization; Mrs. Helen Kusher, secretary of the Zena Jugo-Slav Woman's organization, and Edward P. Skubic, national commander of the American-Jugo-Slav legion.

Historical tableaux will be presented by the Zena organization, assisted by the Jugo-Slav Strollers and the Chicago post of the American-Jugo-Slav legion.

Other features on the program will be given by Miss Gloria Strimic, singer, the Aeolian chorus, the Slavonic trio, composed of Olda Jirousek, cellist; M. W. Wilkomrsky, violinist; Jasna Bjankini, pianist, and Miss Marian Simic, reader.

The St. Peter and St. Paul Croatian Greek Catholic church choir will sing under the Rev. George Chomitzkej's direction. The Rev. Andrew Popovich of the Serbian church of South Chicago will give the invocation, and the Rev. Victor Rogulj, pastor of the Croatian Roman Catholic church of Milwaukee, Wis., will give the benediction. Harold A. Taylor, American Legion post will open and close the program.

HAS LEAD IN PLAY

MISS DENISE ORTMAN.

Miss Denise Ortman, 5811 Manton avenue, will play one of the leading rôles in "Family Affairs," a three act comedy to be presented by the Edgebrook Young Peoples forum on Wednesday and Thursday evening at the Edgebrook Community church, 6748 Loleta avenue. The supporting cast includes Albert Nischke, Miss Betty Anderson, Sidney Hurlburt, Miss Virginia Koenig, Chester Link, and Miss Audrey Carter.

ISABELLA GROUP TO PLAN HOLIDAY CHEER FESTIVAL

Notre Dame council, Ladies of Isabella, will hold its December business meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Jefferson park fieldhouse Higgins road and Long avenue.

Plans for the council's annual Christmas cheer party will be discussed and arrangements completed for the country fair next Sunday at Democratic headquarters, 5306 Lawrence avenue.

ST. STEPHEN'S CIRCLE TO GIVE PLAY IN ENGLISH

Drama Group to Forsake Polish Language.

"Just What the Doctor Ordered," an involved and rollicking comedy by Walter F. Swanka, concerned with two innocent jailbreakers, a doctor, and his two wives, a Russian nobleman, and an Italian desperado for good measure, is the play the St. Stephen's Dramatic circle has selected for its first English presentation.

In the play, which will open at 8:30 o'clock next Sunday evening at St. Stephen's parish hall, Sangamon avenue and Ohio street, Al Kulick plays the title rôle. The parts of Harry Hastings and "Stubby" Riggs, innocently arrested and confined to a jail, from which they make their escape, are taken by Phillip Lawrence and Casimir Saszynski.

Plot Grows Involved.

The plot's first complication arrives when the two "convicts" are captured by Dr. Jennings and reconfined in his sanitarium. A more involved situation comes about when Dr. Jenning's deserted wife, portrayed by Miss Lillian Rodzon, arrives from Italy.

Pedro De Santos accompanies his sister, resolved to vindicate her honor, but the hero is saved by an amazing counterplot in which the erstwhile jailbreakers play a prominent part. Teddy Helminiak plays the part of Pedro.

Love interest is provided in the reunion of Betty Bracebridge—Miss Helene Gruszeczka in real life—and Harry Hastings. When Betty is introduced, she is engaged to Count Ivan Sarsky, the part played by Edward Stasiak, so the course of her love does not run smooth.

Others in Cast.

Another important rôle is that of Mrs. Andrew Marcinski, who plays Jane Waring, the head nurse. The supporting cast includes Bruno Obrichewski, as John Bracebridge, father of Betty; Leon Helminak, as Binns, a policeman; Walter Dobasz, as Jerome Brewster, a patient in the sanitarium; Miss Anne Brzezinski, as Mrs. Jennings, the doctor's wife; Miss Genevieve Baron, as Ruby, a maid, and Miss Irene Bukawski, as Fanny Stubbins, an old maid. Casimir Saszynski and Leon Helminiak are directing the play.

Edward Stasiak is president of the circle; Casimir Kubík, recording secretary; Mrs. Marcinski, vice president; Miss Estelle Bialy, financial secretary, and Miss Bizezinski, treasurer.

NORWOOD LEGION WOMEN TO HEAR HOSPITAL HEADS

Mrs. Ella Edwards of Hines Memorial hospital, state hospital chairman, and Mrs. Frances Mieczynski of the North Chicago Veterans' hospital, will be guest speakers at a rehabilitation program to be held Tuesday night at the Norwood fieldhouse under auspices of Norwood American Legion auxiliary unit, No. 740.

Mrs. P. J. Vanderbergh, president of the unit; Mrs. Al Ponce, chairman; Mrs. George Avery, Mrs. Edward Frank, Mrs. Van D. Schneider, and Mrs. J. J. Lenard have charge of the program.

Logan Square unit, No. 405, American Legion auxiliary, will present a vaudeville program Friday night for disabled war veterans. Dr. Vincent Webb will be master of ceremonies.

According to Lee R. Hill, chairman, it will be necessary to have two halls to accommodate those who attend the annual dance sponsored by the Ninth district posts Jan. 12 at Lions club halls, 4300 West North avenue.

Portage Park post, No. 183, and auxiliary will hold a whoopee party Friday night at Legion hall, 3963 Milwaukee avenue. Ed Wigdahl, chairman of arrangements for the post, will be assisted by Mrs. George Schelkopf of the auxiliary.

WANT SOMETHING NEW? MIGHT TRY 'AMATEUR NIGHT'

Gives Answer to Plea for Diversion.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

Radio, sadly in need of some new diversion, seems to have found just such a stimulant in "Amateur Night."

The amateur program has real possibilities, any number of them. But it is to be hoped that the air vendors don't go gaga as the Hollywood producers have a habit of doing with their "cycles." If every station goes for this new "good thing" without proper planning or direction, the public soon will be quite fed up.

W-G-N has assumed leadership in the middle west with Quin Ryan's amateur series at 6:45 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. An idea of the program's popularity may be gained from two figures: the sponsor has asked for 150,000 application blanks in the first three weeks, and about 7,500 already have been filled in and mailed to W-G-N.

In New York, Maj. Bowes of "Capitol Family" fame puts on a 90 minute bell-ringer once a week. He asks for listener votes, and the studio phone lines become clogged. He rings a bell to cut off efforts too far below par, and in return receives brickbats from disagreeing listeners.

It's a "Natural."

Listener response here has been huge. An informal canvass of friends substantiated studio claims. The program is a 'natural," so much so that it didn't occur to anybody for a long time. Amateurs were relegated to the dot-dash field, neighborhood theaters, and parties. Everybody has an idea he might be an entertainer of some kind. Everybody likes to see what a beginner has to offer, likes to cheer him and to sympathize with him.

We suggest, however, that even greater interest would be shown if audiences were permitted. A look at one program and how it is staged lends an indelible impression and begets further interest.

About 6:15 Quin Ryan goes to the studio to find out what his program will be half an hour later. He finds 20 to 40 persons of varying ages and social standing. They have been chosen at random from applications and embrace a variety of ambitions, for the program must be varied.

Rehearsal and microphone instruction continue to the last 30 seconds. None of the aspirants knows whether he is to go on the air or not, but Quin has been picking about 10 acts. Maybe time will permit only half a dozen, but some may be asked to appear later.

In this connection, if we were to make a suggestion, it would be that the sponsor cut down his commercials. Two 45 second pieces would get his message across in great style and permit another act.

No False Hopes Raised.

Frankly, we like the honesty of the program. Particular pains are taken not to lend false encouragement to the hopeful player. He MIGHT click, but the chances are slim. At least, he gets a shot at their air waves and his friends get a chance to listen.

Quin's handling of the program is deft in a tough place, and the performers like it, too.

No instruments regularly used in orchestras may be broadcast because of union rules, but this does not stop saws, kazoos, ukes, mouth organs, Jews' harps, combs, bike pumps, slide whistles, jugs, cigar box fiddles, glasses, and acarinas.

Imitations are a leading stock in trade—an 8 year old lad did a typewriter the other evening. If you didn't hear him, you should have. Also, did you hear that pig? Impersonations? Plenty.

One would-be-announcer wrote and delivered his own commercial. Most of the tryouts would be singers; next in popularity are whistlers! Announcers, actors follow. Instruction would be preferred from Ethel Shutta and Lee Bennett in singing, Elmo Tanner in whistling, and Quin in announcing.

"Hooey" and Dance Music.

Something ought to be done about it!

If not, radio editors either will succumb to eye strain or throw conscience out of the window, while the endless stream of press agentry pours into the waste basket "noted but not read."

A perfect example is the breeze stirred up by the "Let's Dance" première last night. For weeks the "old hooey" has been flowing.

The simple answer is that the radio moguls were turning handsprings over acquisition of sponsor for a three hour program of dance music.

An impressive array of talent was assembled, to be sure. The cast overflowed the stage. But John A. Public was little more interested than the besieged radio editors. They have heard fine soloists and bands quite regularly through their loud speakers.

W-G-N consistently has presented A-1 popular music. Wayne King ranks at the top with his orchestra. Ted Weems has been a headliner for years. Charlie Agnew continues to lead with his singing ensembles. Jan Garber's long run at the Trianon is mute evidence of his danceable rhythms. Many consider Earl Burtnett one of today's best bands.

Kay Kyser, W-G-N's newest star, has introduced a style which deserves to be copied widely. Kay's soft announcements of soloists blend with his flowing music just before the featured star takes his place at the mike. It is a courtesy much appreciated by both soloist and listener.

But, returning to the "Let's Dance" progam, the cracker and cookie sponsor may be widely copied, too. Many have wondered why other advertisers have not taken dance band time before now.

Barrymore Radio Debut.

Another ambitious schedule is that announced by the Kenosha automaker. Elaborate three hour shows will be presented over 100 station nets on Christmas and New Year's days in what is billed as "radio's greatest combination of concentrated time, talent, and coverage ever attempted by a single sponsor." New York, Chicago, and Hollywood talent will be recruited. The Christmas revue will mark Lionel Barrymore's microphone debut in drama. He will appear as Scrooge in Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

RAPT IN THE SHADOWS

When Harold Stokes, the W-G-N's dance orchestra director, sits down at a piano he always attracts an audience. The photographer caught Maestro Stokes in the studio the other day working out a new vocal arrangement, while his two soloists with the orchestra, Dorothy Miller and Vernon Craig, leaned over the piano and listened.

Play Foster Ballad

Another brilliant concert made up of special arrangements of well known popular tunes will be presented by Harold Stokes and his W-G-N dance orchestra on Wednesday evening at 9:30 o'clock. The arrangements for the show have been made by Director Stokes and his arranger, Leo Shuken.

Included on the program will be a ballad written by the immortal Stephen Foster many years ago, but which until two years ago was unpublished. The tune is entitled "This Rose Reminds Me." The original manuscript, which is now a Stephen Foster memorial, was discovered two years ago in an old trunk, and has only been presented on the air twice before.

The beautiful "Liebestraum" will open the program. A special concert arrangement of the old favorite "Down By the Old Mill Stream," "Polly," a novelty number featuring Roy Graham on the xylophone, "A Boy and a Girl Were Dancing," Director Stokes' own version of "St. Louis Blues," "Manhattan Masquerade," and "Hallelujah," will also be played. The W-G-N choral ensemble will be presented on the old favorite "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

N. U. PLAYERS TO PRESENT COMEDY SATURDAY NIGHT

"The Passing of Chow Chow," by Elmer Rice, a satyric little comedy, will be presented over W-G-N Saturday evening by a group of Northwestern university players from 8:00 to 8:15 p. m. The Northwestern players are directed by Prof. Garrett H. Leverton, director of the university theater. The play is the second of a series to be presented during the fall and winter over W-G-N by Mr. Leverton and the university players.

FOOD AUTHORITY TRAVELS BY AIR FOR RADIO TALKS

C. Houston Goudiss, well known author and an authority on foods and diets, does plenty of traveling to make connections for his various radio appearances.

This pioneer in the fight for pure foods and pure food laws is heard on W-G-N every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Goudiss also is guest speaker on Paul Whiteman's Music Hall program heard at 9 p. m. Thursdays from Radio City. Then at 11 a. m. Friday and Saturday Mr. Goudiss is presented over WOR in Newark, N. J.

Mr. Goudiss travels by plane between Chicago and New York in order to fill his engagements, but air travel bothers him not a bit. He is a veteran on transcontinental air lines and has made several such trips to the Pacific coast.

PRINCESS TALKS OF EXPERIENCES ON W-G-N TODAY

Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, writer and traveler, will be the guest of Clara Laughlin on her program over W-G-N at 4:45 this afternoon. Princess Kropotkin and Clara Laughlin have been friends and fellow travelers for many years and both have a great store of memories of interesting places they have visited.

Princess Kropotkin is the daughter of Prince Peter Kropotkin, Russian geographer and philosopher, who was exiled by the czar in 1870. Prince Peter went from Russia to England, where Princess Alexander was born and educated. Later, the princess served the British government in Russia during the closing days of the world war. Some of her thrilling experiences there will be told today.

AIR NOTES

The quiet, rhythmic dignity of Keith Beecher's string orchestra blends perfectly into the spirit of the new Continental room of the Stevens hotel. A saxophone is the one wind instrument. Dancers will find the CBS band to their liking. Gypsy Nina scores deservedly as No. 1 entertainer.

KYW, midwestern pioneer station, will say good-by to Chicago tonight after thirteen years of service. A farewell party at 11:30 p. m. will feature old time KYW pioneer artists such as Wendell Hall, Sen Kaney, and Morgan Eastman. Irene Beasley, Morin Sisters, and a number of others will help entertain. The program outlets over WMAQ as well as KYW. Tomorrow will find KYW in a new home —Philadelphia—with an NBC net planning to spread gala opening programs.

Friends of Eddie Cantor and Rubinoff may be reassured. The program resumes Feb. 3 over CBS. Hall of Fame on same net beginning Jan. 6. . . . Mary Pickford's contract renewed. . . . Beloved Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will appear on the Sunday afternoon Sentinel program beginning early in 1935. . . . Grace Moore, on WBBM at 7 o'clock tonight, will appear in Orchestra hall next Sunday. Nino Martini, first opera star to gain fame on the air, will sing at the Auditorium tomorrow.

Lou Haddad to Compete in Winter Bridge Tourney

Lou Haddad, director of "the Bridge Club of the Air," which is broadcast on W-G-N each Tuesday and Friday evening at 9:15 o'clock, will compete in the American Bridge league's annual winter tournament at the Pennsylvania hotel in New York next week. Mr. Haddad will leave for New York on Friday and will play in both the pair and the team of four tournament.

LUM AND ABNER PUT RACINE POST OFFICE IN FRENZY

Folks Want Their Copies of Pine Ridge News.

If any of you are looking for a good, old fashioned knock down and drag out encounter here's a recipe that is sure to bring results. Make a trip to Racine, Wis., and go to the postoffice there. March right up to it, open the door, and yell: "Pine Ridge News." Then, stranger, you'd better run. Them's fightin' words in that postoffice.

Here's how it all started. A week ago last Tuesday Lum and Abner, famed Arkansas comedy team whose antics are aired over W-G-N and the Mutuel Broadcasting system Monday and Friday each week at 8:30 p. m., decided to get out a newspaper, the Pine Ridge News. That night they announced the fact to their radio audience, and invited listeners to write them, care of the sponsor of their program at Racine, if they would like copies.

Postoffice Swamped.

Employés of Racine's postoffice, either blissfully unaware of what had happened two nights before or else skeptical of Lum and Abner's popularity, arrived at their place of business Thursday morning in their usual high spirits. They found the place swamped with mail. There must be some mistake, they told themselves. Christmas was still better than four weeks away and, as every postmaster knows too well, it just isn't natural for people to do their Christmas mailing early.

Then the truth dawned on them. All these were requests for copies of the Pine Ridge News. Well, they'd get this stuff cleared up and out of the way in a hurry, and grimly they went to work. Swifty and efficiently they whittled down the stacks of letters and postcards that littered the floors.

But still the mail came. Friday brought another deluge. So did Saturday, and every day last week. This sort of thing can't go on much longer. And if it does—well, rumor has it that old squirrel rifles are being cleaned and oiled by Racine postal clerks.

Lum and Abner Just Grin.

Lum and Abner just grinned broadly when told their Pine Ridge News was almost disrupting Uncle Sam's mails. "Let them letters and postkeerds keep acomin'," said Lum. He turned to Abner: "Abner, I reckon you bitter git back to that press and git some more o' them Pine Ridge News printed up. We shore don't want to disappoint none o' our friends." Abner trudged off wearily.

The Pine Ridge News is a small town sort of newspaper. It's breezy local items, advertisements, and editorial comment will delight every Lum and Abner fan. It contains character photographs of the old fellows, and one picture of Lum and Abner as they appear in real life. There also is a story on the origin and growth of the program itself.

BERMUDA TALES BRING FAN HELP TO SINGING LADY

After a vacation in Bermuda last summer, Ireene Wicker, "The Singing Lady," wrote a series of scripts telling of the adventures of a make-believe pair of children, "Nancy and Charlie," on the famous island. These stories are presented each Tuesday evening on "The Singing Lady" broadcasts over W-G-N and NBC at 5:30 p. m. as a part of her Monday to Friday series of air programs.

Since she started broadcasting the adventures of this pair of children, Miss Wicker has received hundreds of letters from listeners in Bermuda. They have given her valuable information about legends of the island which "The Singing Lady" has woven into her stories for the programs. One of the letters which contained considerable information came from Miss Lillian Hayward of the Bermuda Historical society.

Prominent Club Women on W-G-N This Month

Prominent Chicago women will be speakers during December on the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs programs which are broadcast over W-G-N each Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Tomorrow afternoon the speaker will be Mrs. Ralph W. Pringle; Dec. 10, Mrs. Charle R. Holton; Dec. 17, Mrs. James Oldshue; Dec. 24, Mrs. Herbert V. Weed; Dec. 31, Mrs. James G. Davidson. Mrs. G. H. Nippert is the state chairwoman in charge of radio.

City Map Archives Head to Tell Chicago History

Howard C. Bodman, superintendent of the map department of the city of Chicago, will speak before the Men's Fellowship club of the Norwood Park Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening. Mr. Bodman will tell of the city's growth and development as it is revealed by records in his department. A. L. Lindquist and Walter L. Wenger will be in charge. T. Duff Smith is president of the club. George J. Eckhoff is program chairman.

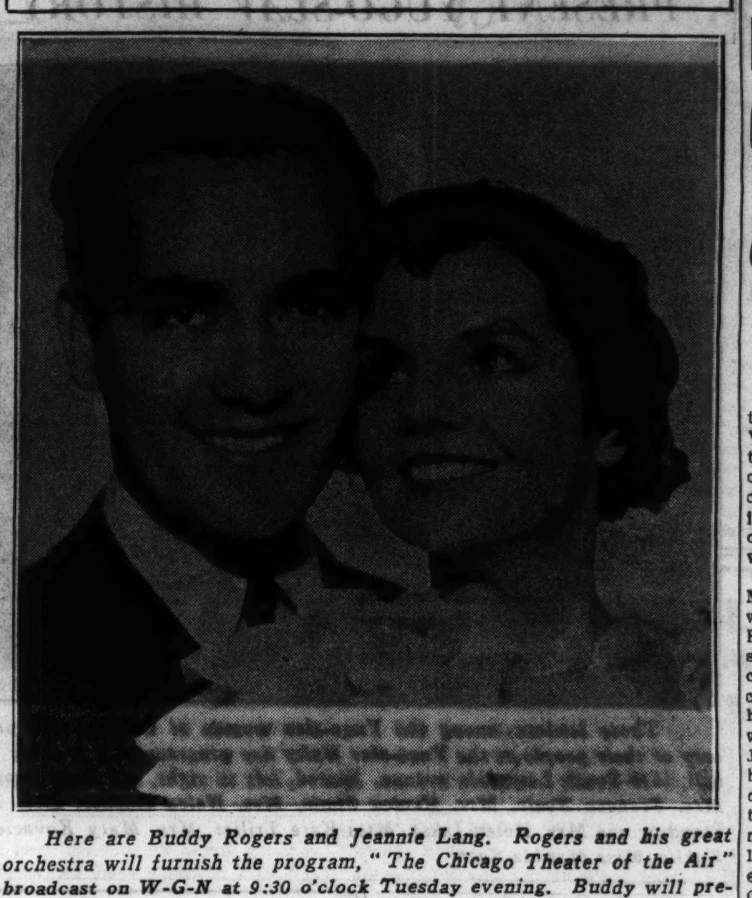
Sunday Evening Club to Hear Recovery Talk

Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray will speak before the Chicago Sunday Evening club and over W-G-N at 8:30 o'clock tonight on "Altitudes and Recovery." Dr. Gray became chancellor of American university, Washington, D. C., last March, and formerly was minister of the Central Methodist Episcopal church in Detroit.

Northwest Women Voters to Hear Talk on Housing

The Northwest League of Women Voters will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Jefferson park fieldhouse, Higgins road and Long avenue. Miss Mary Louise Ramsey, chairman of the department of government and economic welfare of the Cook county league, will discuss "Federal Housing."

TREAT FOR EYE AND EAR



Here are Buddy Rogers and Jeannie Lang. Rogers and his great orchestra will furnish the program, "The Chicago Theater of the Air" broadcast on W-G-N at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Buddy will present Jeannie Lang, Jack (Screwy) Douglass, the Three Rhythm Rascals, and Gene Conklin.

Race Horse Named After Pierre Andre of W-G-N

Pierre Andre, W-G-N announcer and master of ceremonies on the Midnight Flyers broadcast, has had a race horse named after him. Andre received a letter from C. H. Ferguson of Georgetown, Ky., noted owner and breeder of racers, stating that he was naming one of his newest thoroughbreds after Pierre. The colt has a great racing background, being sired by High Time out of Our Betsy, both noted horses. The colt also is a half brother to Vitamin B, a well known colt.

SHAKESPEARE IS HONOR GUEST OF MIDNIGHT FLYERS!

Bard of Avon 'Stoops' to Night Club.

For the first time in history, Shakespeare will be the guest of honor in a night club. This unique event will take place tomorrow at the weekly program of the "Midnight Flyers" from the Blackhawk restaurant. The "Midnight Flyers" present Kay Kyser and his orchestra with guest artists in a broadcast over W-G-N each Monday night from midnight to 2 a. m.

The Shakespeare program is made possible through the presence in Chicago at this time of the two leading Shakespearean groups in the world—Max Reinhardt's "Midsummer Night's Dream" company, now at the Auditorium theater, and the Globe Theater players, who open an engagement at McVickers theater on Tuesday. Thus, for the time being, Chicago is the Shakespeare capital of the world.

As one of the features of the diversified entertainment to be offered by these celebrated players, Miss Hannah Moore, who plays the part of Titania in the Reinhardt production, and John Willard, who portrays Marc Antony for the Globe players will enact a satirical sketch especially written for the occasion by Fritz Blocki. It is a humorous dialog concerning the feelings of such eminent patrons of the Immortal Bard on suddenly going Hollywood—and in a night club.

From the Reinhardt production will come George Breakston, famous movie star who plays the part of Puck; Hannah Moore, Olivia de Avaland, Raymond Brown, Otis Harlan, Joseph Branin, M. W. Weisgal, and the well known movie director, Fred Niblo. From the Globe theater the guests will include Thomas Woods Stevens, Helen Rahn, John Willard, Miss Jackson Perkins, Irene Tedrow, Martha Ellen Scott, Carl Benton Reed, and Manager Nielsen.

Buddy Rogers and his great entertainment troupe, including Jeannie Lang, Screwey Douglass and the trio from the Chicago theater, as well as Cab Calloway, the colored music master, also have been invited to attend the "Flyers."

Elson to Describe Hocky Game Tonight

W-G-N will broadcast the final period of the Blackhawks-New York Americans hocky game tonight from the rink at the Chicago Stadium. Bob Elson will be at the microphone. The broadcast will start at 9:45 o'clock, during the intermission between the second and the final period.

HELEN ORNSTEIN IS GUEST STAR OF CONCERT TONIGHT

Classical Music on Three W-G-N Programs.

Three great concerts of music of the classics will be presented by Henry Weber and the W-G-N concert orchestra during the coming week.

HELEN ORNSTEIN.

Tonight Mr. Weber will present Helen Ornstein, Chicago opera contralto, as his guest vocal soloist Joseph Vito, harp virtuoso, will be the instrumental soloist in the regular half hour Sunday evening concert at 8 o'clock. Miss Ornstein, one of the younger singers, has a fine reputation throughout the country, and has appeared several times in Chicago both as opera and concert artist.

Vito Plays Harp Solo.

For his harp solo Mr. Vito will present the great "Concert Waltz" by Alberstotter. Mr. Vito is the harp soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and internationally famous for his artistry.

The orchestra will present music from two operas and two of the famous classics of Rachmaninoff and Lehar. The program follows:

Overture to "Orpheus" .... Offenbach
W-G-N orchestra.
"Voce di Donna" .... Ponchielli
Helen Ornstein, contralto, and orchestra.
Prelude to Oct. I. of "Lohengrin" ... Wagner
W-G-N orchestra.
"Concert Waltz" .... Alberstotter
Joseph Vito, harpist.
"Floods of Spring" .... Rachmaninoff
W-G-N orchestra.
"Ah, Love but a Day" .... Beach
Helen Ornstein, contralto, and orchestra.
"Gold and Silver Waltz" .... Lehar
W-G-N orchestra.

Salerno, Baggiore Featured.

On Thursday evening Lawrence Salerno, Neapolitan baritone, will be the soloist with the concert orchestra. He will offer four songs: "Could I" by Tosti, "Danny Boy," "The Kashmiri Song" by Findeu, and "Napoli Mio." The orchestra will play Bartik's "Rumanian Folk Dances," "Cacilie" by Richard Strauss, "Spanish" from the suite of Serenades by Herbert, and Suk's "Intermezzo Folk Dance."

Two songs which are famous the world over will be presented by Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N's brilliant tenor, during the Friday evening concert. Mr. Baggiore will sing "The Lost Chord" and "Only a Rose," as the old favorites, in addition to "Una Furtiva Lagrima," from L'Elisir d'Amour, by Donizetti, and "Dawn Awakes." Mr. Weber and the orchestra will offer music from opera for their part of the program.

W-G-N TO CARRY BEARS-DETROIT STRUGGLE TODAY

When the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions clash in their National professional football league game at Wrigley field this afternoon, W-G-N again will present an exclusive broadcast of the battle. W-G-N has had exclusive broadcasts of all of the Bears' home games this season.

Bob Elson will give the story of the game in detail, starting his broadcast at 1:45 p. m., fifteen minutes in advance of the kickoff. Before the game, details of the standing of the teams, dope on the players and the league race will be given.

Rabbi Silver Speaks.

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of the Temple of Cleveland (O.) will be the speaker this morning on the W-G-N broadcast of University of Chicago chapel services at 11 o'clock.

ROOSEVELT HIGH P.-T. A. WILL HAVE CHRISTMAS FETE

Members to Fill Share of Santa Claus Pack.

Christmas carols and inexpensive holiday gifts promise to make the Roosevelt High School P.-T. A.'s early celebration a festive occasion. As the members assemble for their regular meeting at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon in the civics room of the school, each one will deposit a contribution in Santa Claus' pack. The value of each gift is to be limited to 10 cents.

After the business has been taken care of, the pack will be distributed, grab-bag fashion, and the Symphonic choir of the school, directed by Erhardt Bergstrasser, will sing carols. Mrs. Morris Springer, parent education chairman, will introduce Mrs. Matt Reilly of the Uptown Players, who will review "Mary Peters," by Mary Ellen Chase.

Mrs. Louis Sauer, ways and means chairman, has arranged for the association to make a tour of a laundry plant on Dec. 10. The group will meet at 2 o'clock at 5425 North Hoyne avenue.

For their husbands, at the annual "Fathers' Night Program," the women of the Falconer P.-T. A. will present a one act comedy, "Crazy to Reduce." The play, directed by Miss Carolyn Troy, will be the concluding number of the program which will open at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow evening in the school assembly hall, 3000 Lemon avenue.

The Rev. V. R. Pearson, talking on "Character Education," will be the principal speaker. P. T. Wallgren, principal of the school, and Herbert C. Hansen, principal of Foreman High school, also will speak. The Mothers' chorus of the association will sing, and the school orchestra and chorus will give several numbers.

Both Teachers' Day and Fathers' Night will be observed this week by the Portage Park P.-T. A. The teachers will be the association's guests at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. W. B. Pratt will speak on "Why Parent Education." The second grade mothers will be hostesses at the social hour.

Dr. Lewis Convis, whose topic will be "The Closed Mind," will be guest speaker at the Fathers' night meeting at 8 o'clock Friday night. The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 843 will give a demonstration of Indian lore, and Paul and Ralph Steinborn will give a piano and violin duet. Refreshments will be served.

The association is sponsoring a class in Red Cross work which will meet at the school every Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clara Schelkopf, 1528 North Keeler avenue, will be hostess to the Nobel P.-T. A. at a card party at her home at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. Proceeds will be used in philanthropic work.

At the association's regular meeting at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the school assembly hall, Karlov and Hirsch streets, Mrs. George Herz will discuss parliamentary law. Mrs. Jack Hansen, president, will preside and Mrs. Carl Jung will be in charge of the program, which will include a piano solo by Miss Beverly Benson and community singing lead by Mrs. Elsie Heuer.

Through arrangements made by Mrs. Raymond Hanson and Mrs. S. L. Goldstein, the association will visit the Juvenile court at 10 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 11. The group will meet at the Hirsch street entrance of the school at 9 o'clock.

The pre-adolescent study class of the Belding Parent-Teacher association will meet at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the school, 4257 North Tripp avenue. A speaker from the Cook County hospital will lead the discussion on "Health." Mrs. DeForest Faunt is class leader.

Dr. Alfred Hallman will speak on "Contagious Diseases of Children," at the Schubert P.-T. A. meeting at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Say will sing a group of Christmas carols.

The parent education class of the Irving Park P.-T. A. will meet at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Hazel, 3736 North Keeler avenue. Mrs. Dorothy E. Olson will discuss "The Parent, the School Child and Clothing Problems."

Mrs. Fred Blix, ways and means chairman of the Farnsworth P.-T. A., has arranged for members of the association to make a tour of the Chicago Lighting Institute, 20 Wacker drive, at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Members will meet at 12:30 o'clock at Central and Milwaukee avenues.

The P.-T. A. board of directors will meet at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the school, 5404 North Linder avenue.

The philanthropic department of the Prussing P.-T. A. is sponsoring a card party at 8 o'clock Friday evening at 5306 Lawrence avenue. Mrs. Lillian Veith, ways and means chairman, is planning the party.

The association's parent education class will meet at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Room 213 of the school, 4650 North Menard avenue. Mrs. Helen Hagen is chairman of the group and Mrs. F. A. Ford, co-chairman.

The directors will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the home of Harold W. Kent, 6918 Ottawa avenue.

ARRANGE CLUB DANCE

Proceeds of the fall frolic to be given by the Master Arts club Saturday night in the main ballroom of the Tower Town club, 111 East Pearson street, will be used to build up a library of concert and light opera scores for the Alvernia Conservatory Symphony orchestra. Officers of the club who are making arrangements for the dance are: Miss Elenor Frank, president; Miss Ann Krupka, secretary; Miss Ruth Berg, social chairman; William Miller, vice president, and George Leahy, treasurer.

POINTS TO RULE IRVING PARK "Y" ATHLETIC MEET

A new type of athletic competition will be introduced at the Irving Park Y. M. C. A., 4251 Irving Park boulevard, Tuesday evening when the 1,000 point contest is started in the senior gymnasium class.

By putting the scoring on a point basis the elimination element is abolished and, as Gordon F. Ramer, althletic director and sponsor of the event, pointed out: "Every man has an equal opportunity to compete and to be rated according to his ability."

In each of the 20 events that make up the contest the score of each contestant is kept and to those whose totals reach 1,000 a silver button will be awarded. In addition, first, second, and third place in the contest will be rewarded with gold, silver, and bronze medals.

The contest will continue for 20 weeks with one of the events contested each week. When the class meets on Tuesday evenings a preliminary calisthenic drill will precede the contest. On Friday evenings, contestants may try to improve their Tuesday's scoring or practice for the next week's event.

Approximately 40 young men, beteween the ages of 18 and 25, have enrolled for the contest which will include the following events: Twenty yard dash, two standing broad jumps, 100 yard dash, standing hop, step and jump, four potato shuttle, running hop, step and jump, six basket goal shooting, running broad jump, pull ups, three standing broad jumps, springboard high jump, standing high jump, standing broad jump, 60 yard potato race, running high jump, 160 yard potato race, shot put, fence vault, snap under bar, and target throws.

OLD TOWN HALL SPIRIT REVIVED IN NORWOOD PARK

Citizens Ask Stop Lights and Slower Trains.

Was it because "the old town hall" again was chosen as a meeting place for the Norwood Park Citizens association that the recent session of the group proved unusually successful?

The association was founded in Norwood Park more than forty years ago at a time when the community had less than 10 per cent of its present population. Most of the major improvements boasted by the community are said to have been projects of the organization. Recently, John H. Kerr, president of the association, has been dissatisfied with the small attendance at monthly meetings.

Tells of Former Site.

One of the "old timers" of Norwood Park, asked Mr. Kerr if he did not think the meeting place in Park Field house too far from the center. "We always used to hold our meetings in the old town hall," he said.

"The old town hall," he added, "was in the building where the Eckhoff real estate office is located. The post office, village clerk's office and courtroom were on the first floor, the 'lockup' was in the basement, and on the second floor we held meetings and dances."

The old hall hadn't been used for years, but when announcements were sent out for the next meeting, Mr. Kerr designated the town hall as the meeting place. As a result the attendance again was gratifying, and there was renewed action on matters of community concern.

Carl M. Johnson reported on the feeder bus hearings.

Plans were discussed for letting contracts for snow plowing along the 61 miles of sidewalks.

Letters from Mayor Kelly advised that the request for completing the pavement around the park at Natoma and Hurlbut streets was being given consideration by the park system.

Robert G. Kingery, superintendent of the state highway department wrote, saying that elm trees will be planted along the new Avondale highway next spring.

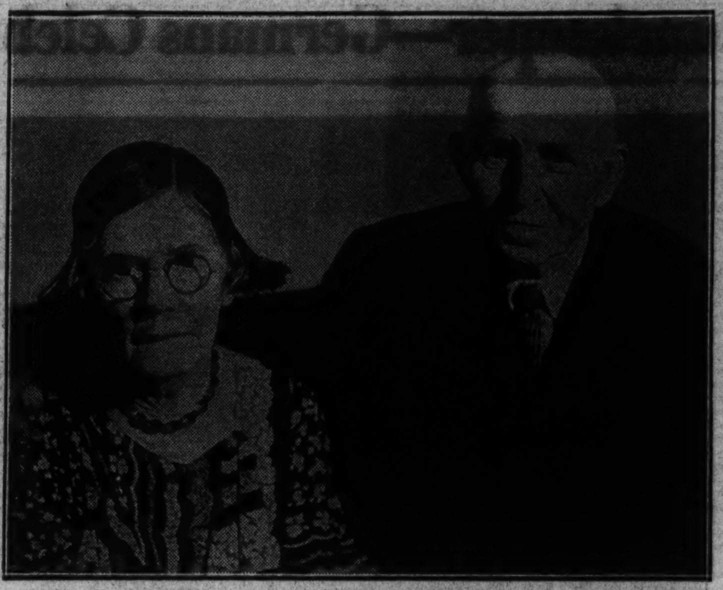
Report was made that CWA workers were busy leveling off school grounds at Circle and Nina avenues, with dirt obtained from the Avondale grading.

Demand was made for stop lights along Avondale avenue.

Edward G. Wolford, chairman of the street lighting committee was instructed to arrange for replacement of street lights on newly widened streets, including Harlem, Bryn Mawr, and Avondale avenues.

Mr. Kerr again was chosen president at the election which wound up the meeting. L. L. Zink was elected first vice president; Henry H. Logan, second vice president; James I. McTaggart, secretary; and Charles C. Crockatt, treasurer.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS



MR. AND MRS. JAMES H. JOHNSON.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Johnson, 1348 North Maplewood avenue, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently with a reception at their home.

The couple was married at Arcanum, O., and came to Chicago in May, 1891. They are the parents of four children and have nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mr. Johnson is 77 years old and Mrs. Johnson is 73.

Mr. Johnson is well known on the northwest side, having been engaged in the painting contracting business for many years. He retired recently.

Schurz High Choristers to Give 'Messiah' Dec. 12

The Schurz High School Choristers with 600 voices, accompanied by a full orchestra of sixty-five pieces, will present two performances of Handel's "Messiah" on Wednesday and Thursday evening, Dec. 12 and 13, at the Schurz High School auditorium. Le Roy Wetzel will conduct the oratorio.

LE ROY WETZEL.

Soloists will include: Miss Florence Bryntesen, soprano; Sidney Wermkoff, tenor; Mark Love, WGN basso; Miss Laura Butts, contralto; Miss Laurine Olesen, soprano; and Miss Eulah Comer, contralto. Miss Margaret Lagerquist will be accompanist and Miss Betty Stropes will be organist.

Mark Love to Sing.

Miss Bryntesen, who is a Schurz alumna, will sing the following arias: "He Shall Feed His Flocks," "Rejoice Greatly," and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." Sydney Wermkoff, senior at Schurz, will sing: "Comfort Ye My People," "Every Valley," "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," and "Behold and See."

Mark Love, well known WGN basso, will render "Why Do the Nations," and "The Trumpet Shall Sound." The "Halleluiah Chorus" will be sung at the conclusion of the oratorio instead of its usual place in the second part, Mr. Wetzel announced.

R. O. T. C. Names Leaders.

The Schurz Drama Guild recently elected the following officers: Donald Schennum, president; Jacquiline Stange, vice president; Mary Louise Stropes, secretary; and Robert Thonander, treasurer. Miss Elizabeth Keenon is faculty adviser of the guild.

The Bull Dog club, Schurz R. O. T. C. social organization, will be headed this year by Robert McIntyre. The corps of officers assisting him are: Robert Lench, vice president; Roscoe Stevenson, treasurer; John Carrassas, recording secretary; Fred Blix, corresponding secretary, and Vernon Tebo, sergeant at arms.

Elmhurst Glee Club to Sing in Eden Church

The Senior Young People's league of Eden Evangelical church, Gunnison street and Leclaire avenue, will present the Elmhurst College Women's Glee club in concert next Sunday evening. The program will be given at 8 o'clock in the church auditorium. The glee club is directed by Waldemar Hille.

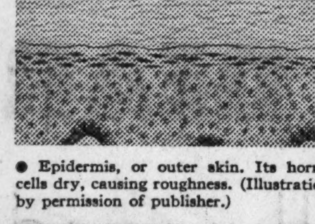
Rough Skin made fine, smooth

Skin softener MELTS DRY, HORNY CELLS, restores softness



● Epidermis, or outer skin. Its horny cells dry, causing roughness. (Illustration by permission of publisher.)

HARSH, DRY SKIN caused by rough, dried particles. These are dead cells of the horny layer of the skin.

A SATIN-SMOOTH COMPLEXION . . . Horny, dead cells smoothed away. Lady Brougham and Vaux says: "Pond's Vanishing Cream is an exquisite and certain protection against sun and wind—holds my powder faithfully no matter what I am doing."

ROUGH SKIN is dry skin. This dryness really consists of horny cells—desiccated cells—which cling to the outer surface of the skin. They make it appear rough and harsh. Rob it of its youthful clarity and fresh appearance.

How can you dissolve these dead, horny cells? How bring out the smooth, radiant skin beneath? We asked a dermatologist.

Dermatologist explains how:

"It is possible," he said, "to melt the horny substance on the skin with a cream which possesses keratolytic properties, namely, vanishing cream. This cream dissolves horny, desiccated cells, then the fresh, young cells beneath are apparent. Vanishing cream also prevents sun and wind from too quickly evaporating the skin's moisture."

Pond's Vanishing Cream serves the skin two ways. It protects from dryness and harshness—restores softness and transparency.

Smooth on this fluffy cream at night after cleansing. Let it melt like a mist over face, neck, arms, elbows, hands. Every application refines—satinizes. Little roughnesses and chappings fade away. The skin becomes silken-smooth.

Holds powder for hours

And Pond's Vanishing Cream will do even more. It is a glamorous powder base. Film it on. See your powder smooth on like a charm. Cling closely. Stay fresh and even for hours. Your skin, itself, will look velvet-soft—fresh—with that radiant clarity all admire.

STREAKY
by GUS EDSON
HELL'O GANG, HOW DO YOU LIKE THESE SKIS — I BROUGHT THEM BACK FROM SWITZERLAND WITH ME
SAY, LET'S GET STREAKY TO PUT 'EM ON AND WE'LL HAVE SOME FUN WITH HIM
GOSH — I NEVER TRIED THESE THINGS BEFORE BUT HERE GOES - - -
HO-HO — YOU SURE LOOK FUNNY — OH-O-O-O HE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR-R-R — WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE — HA-HA HO-HO-HO-HO
I'LL SHOW YOU HOW I USED TO DO IT IN THE ALPS
MARGOT WANTS BONE-HEAD AND ME TO WALK HER HOME, REG.
THIS MATERIAL ISN'T A VERY GOOD MATCH, BUT IT'S THE ONLY THING I HAVE — ANYWAY IT'LL DO TILL YOU GET T'HOME
SOME BRITCHES! HA-HA-HA!
THAT'S A NIFTY PAIR OF KNICKERS YOU HAVE ON REGGIE — YOU LOOK LIKE A BED QUILT HA-HA-HO-HO-HAW!

WHITEBOY
MUCH COLD DAY, WHITEBOY
SNOW AND BRIGHT BLANKETS, WITH WOODCHUCK ON THE TRAIL OF BUFFALO.
HE THINKS HE IS GOING TO KILL A BUFFALO—
THAT WOULD PROVE HIM ABLE TO SUPPORT A WIFE
BUT HE SAYS THAT YOU ARE TO BE HIS WIFE!
SO YOU LAUGH-
THE HUNGRY HERD ARE BURROWING DEEP FOR FORAGE AS WOODCHUCK CREEPS UPON THEM —
A LARGE BULL IS WITHIN RANGE —
WOODCHUCK DRAWS A WEAK BOW. HIS ARROW ARCHES FEEBLY AND SERVES ONLY TO ANGER THE BULL —
MUCH WARM DAY, WHITEBOY!

DID YOU CALL ME, MA?
YES, I WANT YOU TO GO OUT TO THE COOP AND COLLECT ALL THE EGGS
YETH MAM
THAT WAS A GOOD SCHEME OF MINE TO GET HIM OUT OF THE WAY - NOW I CAN HIDE HIS BIRTHDAY PRESENTS AWAY BEFORE HE COMES BACK!
LAST YEAR HE NEARLY CAUGHT ME AT IT - WELL, HE MAY BE SMART BUT I'M CLEVER
OH, HE'S BACK! I JUST GOT THESE PRESENTS AWAY IN TIME!!
HA! HA! LITTLE DOES HE KNOW THAT I'VE PUT ONE OVER ON HIM
HE'LL GET THE SURPRISE OF HIS LIFE WHEN HE FINDS OUT I SMUGGLED THOSE THINGS IN WITHOUT HIM CATCHING ME!!
I FOOLED HIM GOOD - I'LL GET HIS PRESENTS OUT NOW!
HAPPY BIRTHDAY
JINKIES! LOOK AT ALL THE PRESENTS! ONE -- TWO -- THREE - FOUR FIVE -- THIX THIX?
THAY, YOU FORGOT THIS ONE, MA!!

JUST A MINUTE! WHERE YOU GOIN' WITH ALL THAT CANDY? COME ON, DIVVY UP!
BEAT IT! SCRAM! THIS CANDY ISN'T GOOD FOR YOU ANYHOW - BOO HOO!
HEY YOU!
THAT'S THE TIME I CAUGHT YOU - PICKING ON LITTLE KIDS AGAIN, EH?
JUST BECAUSE YOU'RE THE BIGGEST KID IN THE BLOCK YOU SEEM TO THINK YOU CAN BULLY EVERYBODY - AW GEE - LET ME DOWN!
GOOD NIGHT! WHO'S THE GREAT BIG KID OVER THERE? AND HE'S GOT A HOLD OF THE BULLY JUST LIKE A BABY -
HE LOOKS LIKE A GIANT -
WHY IT'S TIM - TINY TIM - CAN'T YOU SEE?
HI FELLERS - HERE HE IS - WHAT'LL I DO WITH HIM?
COME ON, KIDS - WE'RE GOING TO GIVE THIS BIRD A DOSE OF HIS OWN MEDICINE - GOOD FOR YOU, TIM - THIS'LL TEACH YOU HOW IT FEELS TO BE PICKED ON BY A FELLER BIGGER THAN YOURSELF -
HE'LL NEVER BOTHER US AGAIN -
WHEW! WHAT A DREAM - I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN THAT IT WAS TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE -

GEE WHOP! HERE IT IS DECEMBER ALREADY AND I GOTTA MAKE SOME MONEY - AND HOW!
THAT LITTLE KIMONA COOK WOULD START SPEAKIN' TO ME AGAIN JUST AS IT GETS NEAR CHRISTMAS. SO NOW. - !!! - ! - ?
THIS IDEA ORTA BE A WHIZ IF I CAN ACT SNAPPY ENOUGH
YOU HOLD STILL UNTIL I GET THIS SKIRT HUNG RIGHT - NOW QUIT WIGGLIN'
WELL DAD BLAME IT! IT WASN'T ME. THIS PILLOW'S SLIPPIN'
NOW YOU HOLD STILL WHILE I ANSWER THAT PHONE
STEP RIGHT UP, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. ON TH' INSIDE TH' ONLY BEARDED LADY EVER BORN IN THIS TOWN. ONLY ONE DIME A LOOK
HURRY UP AND HELP ME FIND THESE PINS OR IT'S GONNA GO HARD WITH YOU
AW, GEE UNCLE MORT I'M IN A TOUGH SPOT NOW - WE GOT TWO DOLLARS AND SIXTY CENTS STANDIN' IN THERE WAITIN' FOR THE BEARDED LADY.
I'LL GIVE YOU FIVE DOLLARS IF YOU'LL FIND THIS PIN THAT'S FAST T' MY COAT.
NOW WAIT A MINUTE - I HAVE T' REFUND TWO-SIXTY. WHAT DOES THAT LEAVE ME - NAUGHT FROM NAUGHT'S NAUGHT - SIX FROM TEN'S FOUR - TWO FROM - - -

NOPE - CAN'T PLAY WITH YOU TODAY, SON - - I'VE GOT A LOT OF WORK TO DO FOR THE OFFICE
AW GEE, THE FELLERS ARE STARTING UP A NEW CLUB AND WE WANT A NAME FOR IT AND - NOW SONNY - YOU HEARD WHAT PA SAID - - HE HAS A LOT OF WORK TO DO AND YOU MUSTN'T BOTHER HIM
YEP, THIS WORK IS IMPORTANT - - I GOTTA DO SOME HEAVY THINKING
I'LL GET EVERYTHING SET FOR YOU -
SONNY, WILL YOU RUN OVER NEXT DOOR AND ASK THEM TO STOP PLAYING THE PIANO FOR A WHILE? PA MUST HAVE ABSOLUTE QUIET
OKAY, MA
CHILDREN - WILL YOU PLEASE PLAY ON THE NEXT STREET? SOMEONE IS TRYING TO WORK
ALL RIGHT, MRS. SWEENEY
SHH - LET'S TIPTOE VERY QUIETLY

SAY, PINFEATHERS; NOW THAT MARY'S A STEWARDESS AND I'M FLYIN' AGAIN, ALL WE NEED IS A PAIR OF WINGS FOR YOU!
--AND PAY ATTENTION TO PASSENGERS MAKING THEIR FIRST FLIGHT---ESPECIALLY IF THEY SHOW SYMPTOMS OF AIR-SICKNESS.
THANKS FOR THE TIP! GOOD-BY MY! HERE'S SOMEBODY ILL ALREADY!
IF YOU DON'T FEEL WELL, MISTER, JUST RELAX A BIT.
CHEW THIS GUM! IT'LL RELIEVE THE TENSION!
NO?---WELL, BREATHE THESE SMELLING SALTS-THEY'LL HELP.
I KNOW JUST HOW YOU FEEL BUT YOU'LL BE ALL RIGHT--I'LL ADJUST YOUR CHAIR SO YOU CAN LIE BACK
--BUT I'M ONLY TRYING TO HELP YOU, MISTER!
WHAT CAN YOU DO WITH A MAN LIKE THAT? --SO AIR-SICK HE CAN'T TALK, YET HE WON'T LET ME DO A THING FOR HIM!
WELL! I'LL BET IT'LL BE A LONG TIME BEFORE HE'LL TAKE A PLANE RIDE AGAIN!
GOODBYE, MISTER WILLIAMBACKER.
WHO IS THAT MAN? DO YOU KNOW HIM?
SURE! THAT'S ACE WILLIAMBACKER, PRESIDENT OF OUR AIRLINE, BUT THE OL' BOY'S GOT SUCH A BAD CASE OF SORE THROAT HE CAN'T TALK. HEY---WHAT'S THE MATTER?

THE TEENIE WEENIES
A TEENIE WEENIE IS TWO INCHCS TALL
BY WM. DONAHEY
DEAR MADAM - WE HEARD THAT YOU HAD LOST YOUR FINGER RING AND THAT YOU ACCUSED YOUR SERVANT OF STEALING IT. A CERTAIN CROW TOOK IT AND WE HAVE BOUGHT IT FROM HIM AND ARE RETURNIG IT, AS WE DO NOT WANT TO SEE THE SERVANT BLAMED FOR SOMETHING SHE DID NOT DO. YOURS SINCERELY, THE TEENIE WEENIES
THAT'S A GOOD LETTER, TURK. NOW LET'S FOLD IT UP AND TAKE IT TO THE WOMAN'S HOUSE
BOY! BUT THIS NOTE IS HEAVY
HEAVY! SAY YOU OUGHT TO CARRY THIS RING IF YOU WANT TO KNOW WHAT'S HEAVY
THAT'S THE HOUSE OVER THERE
BE CAREFUL IGGIE. THAT TABLE LEG IS MIGHTY SLIPPERY
WHEN YOU GET THE ROPE TO THE TOP OF THE TABLE, IGGIE, ONE OF THE BOYS WILL CLIMB UP AND HELP YOU PULL UP THE NOTE AND THE RING
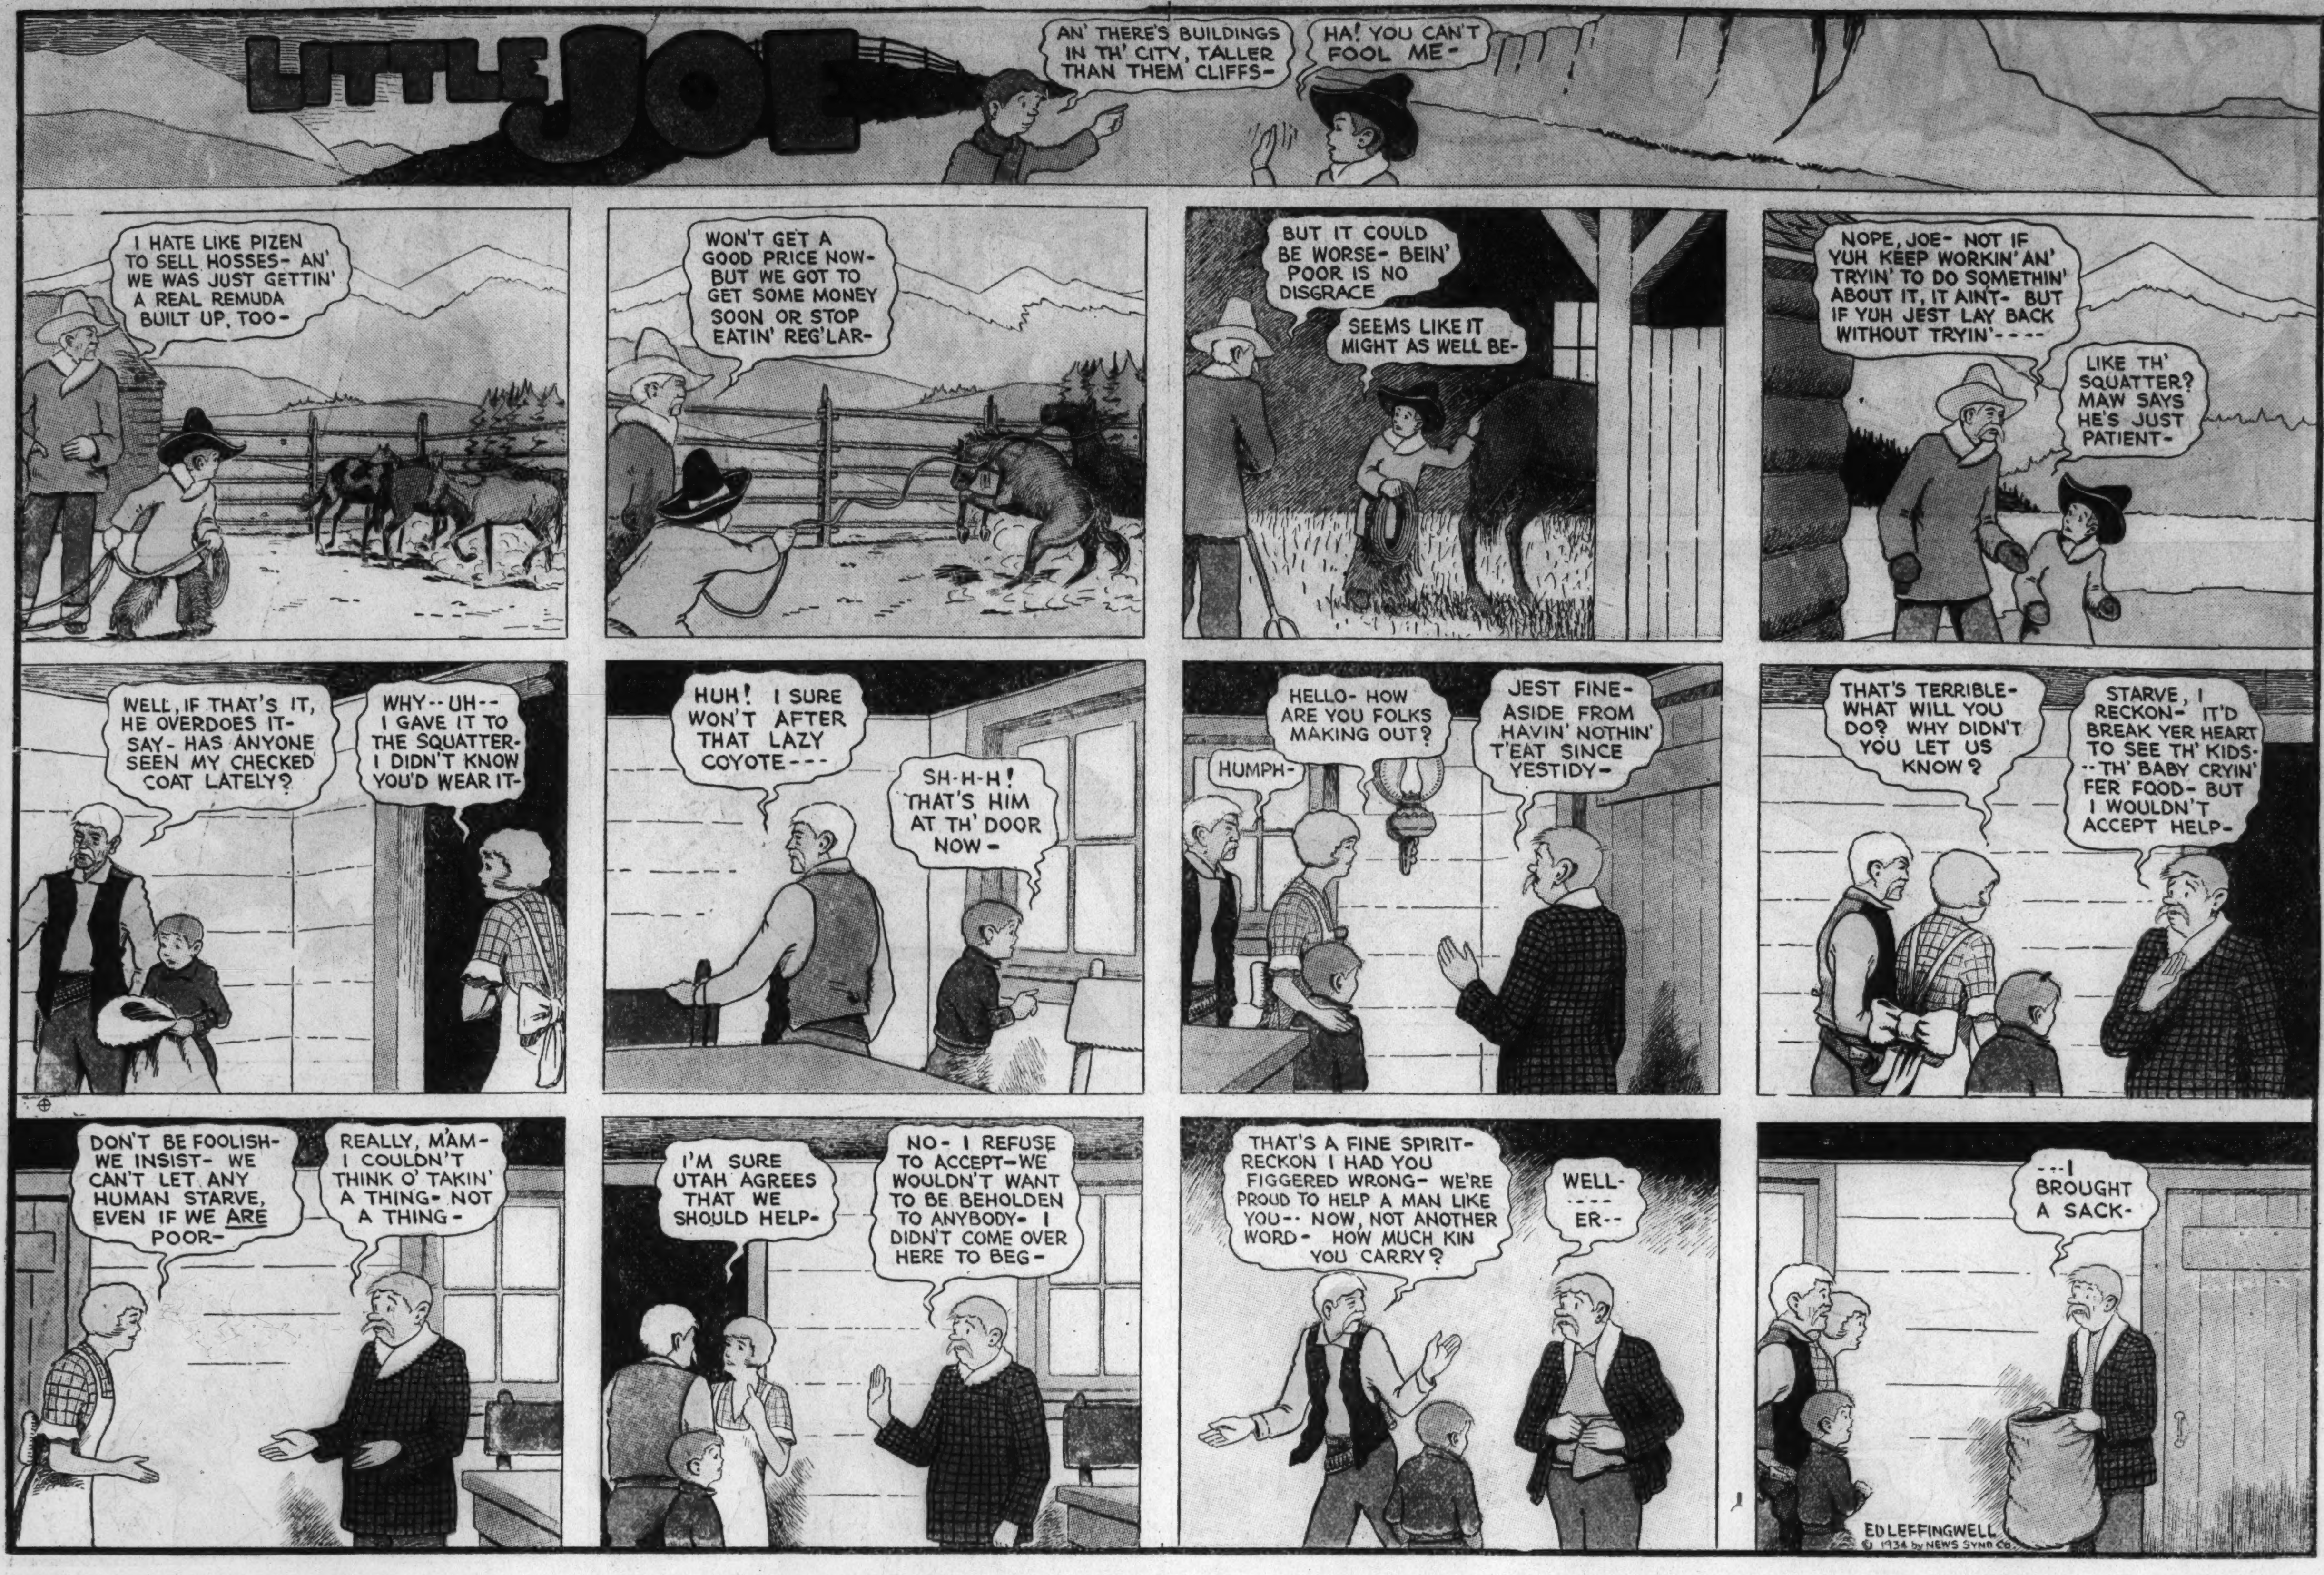
HOLD IT TIGHT IGGIE. I'M COMIN' HOIST IT UP A COUPLE OF FEET MORE IGGIE AND I CAN REACH IT.
LAY THE RING ON TOP OF THE NOTE WHERE THE LADY WILL BE SURE TO FIND IT
ALL RIGHT, GENERAL
IGGIE, THE MOUSE, KEPT WATCH OVER THE RING AND HE REPORTED TO THE TEENIE WEENIES THAT THE WOMAN HAD FOUND THE RING, READ THE NOTE AND HAD ASKED THE SERVANT'S PARDON.



LITTLE JOE
AN' THERE'S BUILDINGS IN TH' CITY, TALLER THAN THEM CLIFFS-
HA! YOU CAN'T FOOL ME-
I HATE LIKE PIZEN TO SELL HOSSES- AN' WE WAS JUST GETTIN' A REAL REMUDA BUILT UP, TOO-
WON'T GET A GOOD PRICE NOW- BUT WE GOT TO GET SOME MONEY SOON OR STOP EATIN' REG'LAR-
BUT IT COULD BE WORSE- BEIN' POOR IS NO DISGRACE SEEMS LIKE IT MIGHT AS WELL BE-
NOPE, JOE- NOT IF YUH KEEP WORKIN' AN' TRYIN' TO DO SOMETHIN' ABOUT IT, IT AIN'T- BUT IF YUH JEST LAY BACK WITHOUT TRYIN'- - - -
LIKE TH' SQUATTER? MAW SAYS HE'S JUST PATIENT-WELL, IF THAT'S IT, HE OVERDOES IT- SAY- HAS ANYONE SEEN MY CHECKED COAT LATELY?
WHY-- UH-- I GAVE IT TO THE SQUATTER- I DIDN'T KNOW YOU'D WEAR IT-
HUH! I SURE WON'T AFTER THAT LAZY COYOTE- - -
SH-H-H! THAT'S HIM AT TH' DOOR NOW-
HELLO- HOW ARE YOU FOLKS MAKING OUT?
HUMPH-
JEST FINE- ASIDE FROM HAVIN' NOTHIN' T'EAT SINCE YESTIDY-
THAT'S TERRIBLE- WHAT WILL YOU DO? WHY DIDN'T YOU LET US KNOW?
STARVE, I RECKON- IT'D BREAK YER HEART TO SEE TH' KIDS- -TH' BABY CRYIN' FER FOOD- BUT I WOULDN'T ACCEPT HELP-
DON'T BE FOOLISH- WE INSIST- WE CAN'T LET ANY HUMAN STARVE, EVEN IF WE ARE POOR-REALLY, M'AM- I COULDN'T THINK O' TAKIN' A THING- NOT A THING-
I'M SURE UTAH AGREES THAT WE SHOULD HELP-
NO- I REFUSE TO ACCEPT- WE WOULDN'T WANT TO BE BEHOLDEN TO ANYBODY- I DIDN'T COME OVER HERE TO BEG-
THAT'S A FINE SPIRIT- RECKON I HAD YOU FIGGERED WRONG- WE'RE PROUD TO HELP A MAN LIKE YOU- NOW, NOT ANOTHER WORD- HOW MUCH KIN YOU CARRY?

RUTH ARDEN - HOLDER OF 12 CHAMPIONSHIPS IN ARCHERY
SHOOTS WITH DEADLY ACCURACY, FAR BETTER THAN THE INDIANS - AND WHEN SHE IS TIRED - SHE HAS AN EASY, PLEASANT WAY OF GETTING BACK HER ENERGY.
An ADVERTISEMENT of R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Copyright, 1934, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company
I'D LIKE TO TRY THAT. IT MUST BE LOTS OF FUN
WELL, IT TAKES LOTS OF ENERGY TO BECOME A GOOD ARCHER, BUT DO TRY IT!
THIS IS GREAT FUN!
NOW, LET'S SEE WHAT YOU'VE DONE
BY GEORGE! ALL YOUR SHOTS ARE BETTER THAN MINE
WHAT A THRILL! I'M GOING TO GET A BOW OF MY OWN
FIVE-PICTURE HISTORY OF ARCHERY
THE EARLIEST KNOWN USE OF THE BOW AND ARROW - FROM A MURAL ON THE WALLS OF A CAVE IN SPAIN
THE ENGLISH YEOMAN FIRST USED A LONGBOW
THE ASSYRIAN ARCHER USED A SHORT, ANGULAR BOW
THE AMERICAN INDIAN USED A SHORT BOW FOR HUNTING, ETC.
THE MODERN ARCHER IS FAR SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS
RUTH QUICKLY SHOWS SHE HAS THE NECESSARY ENERGY FOR REAL TOURNAMENT ARCHERY - AND COMES RAPIDLY TO THE FORE AMONG RANKING EXPERTS - THEN CAME THE DAY OF HER GREATEST TOURNAMENT
SHE'S MADE 12 CONSECUTIVE BULL'S-EYES (2 GOLDS) - THAT'S A WORLD'S RECORD FOR WOMEN!
I NEVER SAW SUCH AIM AND POWER!
PULLING A 34-POUND BOW WITH A 25-INCH DRAW - MRS. ARDEN HAS TO SHOOT 120 ARROWS IN THE A.M. AND-
SHE COMES UP FOR THE FINAL ROUND IN THE P.M.
DO YOU FEEL GOOD FOR ANOTHER 120 THIS AFTERNOON?
I WAS TIRED BUT I FEEL O.K. AGAIN - I'M READY!
AND SO - RUTH WINS!
PASSING HER 2 NEAREST RIVALS, SHE SCORES 288 HITS FOR 1076 POINTS!
YOU'VE HAD A TIRING DAY, MRS. ARDEN - HOW ABOUT A CIGARETTE?
THANKS - BUT I HOPE YOU DON'T MIND IF I STICK TO CAMELS. YOU SEE -
I ENJOY SMOKING CAMELS - THEY INCREASE MY ENERGY AFTER HARD COMPETITIONS - CAMELS NEVER JANGLE MY NERVES!
RUTH ARDEN
THESE CHAMPIONS TELL YOU HOW CAMELS REVIVE ENERGY!
HOCKEY - BILL COOK ■ "Camel's taste sure hits the spot! I smoke a lot and I find that Camels never get on my nerves or tire my taste."
SPORTSWOMAN PILOT - MRS. TEDDY KENYON ■ "Camels are the mildest cigarette I know And each Camel renews the zest and enjoyment of the last one!"
PRO FOOTBALL - CLIFF MONTGOMERY ■ "After a game, or any time I feel like it, I light up a Camel - get a swell 'lift' - and in a short time I feel 100% again."
GIRL EXPLORER - MRS. WM. LAVARRE "Any time I'm tired, I just stop and smoke a Camel. It wakes up my energy in no time."
TOBACCO EXPERTS say:- "CAMELS ARE MADE FROM FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS - TURKISH AND DOMESTIC - THAN ANY OTHER POPULAR BRAND." SMOKERS FIND THAT CAMELS REVIVE THEIR ENERGY AND SCIENCE AGREES! YOU'LL LIKE CAMELS BETTER!
CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES

PAY US A VISIT AND BE CONVINCED
WE MAKE LOANS TO PEOPLE FROM ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES.

They come to us from everywhere—to the oldest and most highly respected State Pawners Association in the middle west.

This is not a sale of new merchandise, but of unpaid loan pledges. All our merchandise is guaranteed exactly as represented. Such an opportunity comes seldom in a bona fide Loan House. When it does you get the benefit.

The weights that we quote are of the center diamond only and do not include the small diamonds in the mounting.

WE OFFER
DIAMOND RINGS, BAR PINS, WRIST WATCHES, BRACELETS, ETC. PRICED FROM $10 TO $2,000. GUARANTEED TO BE THE LOWEST PRICES IN CHICAGO.

EVERY ITEM SUBJECT TO APPRAISAL BY ANY APPRAISER OF YOUR CHOICE.

We do not subject you to high sales pressure. The above advertised items are all unpaid pledges, numbers of which are properly recorded as required by law.

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded
NOTICE TO DEALERS, IMPORTERS.

If you are not dealing with us now you know us by reputation. We advise an early selection, for our Unredeemed Pledge sale announcement always brings a large response from dealers—and public.

ENTIRELY FREE

if you will come to me at once for a course of Beauty Culture OR Men's Barbering

Never since the origin of the Moler System 41 years ago has there come within our reach a feature so wholly satisfying—so completely gratifying—so highly profitable as this new friction and medicated light rays treatment.

Beauty and Barber Business have always been splendid paying professions for we of the ordinary walks of life—but with this added unit there is still better money made.

Lora Belle Ayers says:
"I have a better clientele in hair and scalp treatments with the Moler Method than I ever thought would be possible to create in so short a time."

Graduates of past years are now privileged to return for this new course of hair culture.

Learn where advanced methods are put into effect and where you are taught how to cash in on them.

Even if out of the city, you have an equal chance. Can earn your living while learning.

ANY ONE CAN MEET OUR TERMS.

Don't wait until new State Board Rulings will make it more difficult.

Get the facts—Get the Jump—Then get the Money.

Call—write or phone.
Open every day and evening.

Want a Position?

Every DeLEE GRADUATE Is EMPLOYED

Think what that means! Every woman or man who has been graduated from DeLEE has a good paying position. That means that high class beauty shops KNOW that DeLEE graduates, trained by Madame Louise, are GENUINE BEAUTY EXPERTS, capable of pleasing even the most fastidious clientele.

Each day good beauty shops are offering DeLEE graduates positions. We have had almost TWICE AS MANY CALLS FOR OPERATORS as we have graduates to fill the positions. There is no "unemployment problem" for DeLEE graduates.

You, Too, Can Have a Good Paying Position

Why worry about finding work? Why wear out your shoes answering ads? Why struggle along with low pay? Learn beauty culture at DeLEE and qualify yourself for a good paying, pleasant position. No matter what you have been doing—teaching, bookkeeping, stenography—you can learn beauty culture and assure yourself a happy, prosperous future. Previous experience or a high school education not necessary.

REASONABLE RATES

If you start NOW you will be able to take advantage of the present low rates. Why postpone beginning to learn this fascinating profession? Tuition fees may soon be higher. You'll find DeLEE a modern, pleasant place to learn. Visit DeLEE tomorrow. You'll enjoy the visit and it won't obligate you in any way.

COME—WATCH—HEAR

Next demonstration of newly-patented, faucet-controlled SPRA-WAY Dishwasher Monday night, December 3rd, 7:45 sharp, Room 805, 160 N. La Salle. MORE DEMONSTRATORS NEEDED. If you can qualify and furnish references, will teach you to demonstrate how housewives can forever keep their hands out of dishwater—at cost of only $3.95. Come and watch the demonstration and be your own judge whether SPRA-WAY is a natural seller. If you like it—and you will—we'll talk business on the spot and you can begin earning first day. No high-pressure artists wanted. Honest men doing honest day's work on our new selling plan find this one of the best paying jobs in Chicago. Three out of five demonstrations almost certain sales. No competition. No house-to-house canvassing. Come, watch, hear and judge for yourself.

A Remarkable Opportunity.

High grade salesmen, especially those accustomed to making big earnings in selling such specialties as cash registers, scales, refrigeration, store fixtures, coin operated machines, counter freezers and kindred lines have remarkable opportunity to act as direct factory representative for large Chicago manufacturer carrying the highest financial rating. We have three high class, fast selling specialties designed to make big money for retail merchants and which will be placed with the men selected for territories in and around Chicago. Commissions range from $30 to $320 unit. Men selected for these territories will be given thorough training and supplied with leads secured from gigantic advertising campaign. ARE YOU INTERESTED IN MAKING A PERMANENT PLACE FOR YOURSELF?

They say that seeing is believing, and we are going to give you an unusual opportunity to see for yourself! Men who are accepted after an interview Monday will not only be assured of a real "place in the sun," but they and their wives will receive tickets for a free moving picture that positively shows you men making money in this business right here—men who came from every walk of life and who made good in a generous way in this business.

Like you, perhaps, these men once had other occupations. Some were civil engineers, others printers, some contractors, some had stores, still others were in the trades—and so on. But their former businesses faded out and were no longer available, and never will be again. When things have righted themselves, other men who were unknown in those old lines before, will be holding the fort, handling the money, owning the good-will in your former occupation! You will see men in this stirring true movie in the act of making money in this big electric service, equipment and unit company, backed by abundant cash, that has thrived and grown beyond all former conceptions of expansion during the world depression. The men who make money in this large company, whose commission checks in many instances far exceed their former incomes back in "the good old days," and who will greet you from the screen of this unusual exhibition of money-making, have literally made their own permanent jobs, without investing a penny in this business!

Under our plan of operations, which has proved tremendously successful, we finance you in a trade territory on the North or Northwest side, or in some nearby suburb, convenient to your home, where you enjoy the good-will and patronage of a number of persons equivalent to the patronage of 75 grocery stores or 10 hardware stores, and yet with no overhead expense, and free from all actual competition. We will show you men in this movie who started out recently and who are making splendid livings, and some others with us a little longer, who are laying away considerable money, besides taking care of their families in wonderful completeness! As time passes, you will naturally make more and more. You always know your checks will be forthcoming and they will be as good "as the golden wheat."

The only thing you put into this business is time and enthusiasm. It is not a place for the man who can't meet people, or who keeps his mouth corners drooping in disgust or a perpetual peeve. He must be a live, wide-awake man, not too old to have a spring in his step, and a man who thinks more of success than he does of social relations. Once you have made this place for yourself, nobody can jar you out of it. There is no "seniority" here. As you make good, you make money faster. If you apply yourself, without respect to your past experience, you can make good. We are certainly not asking anybody to experiment. We are not experimental, but outstandingly successful. Last Thursday, dozens of families sat down to fat, savory turkeys that came as "over-and-above" awards to men whom you will see in our moving picture of practical success! There is nothing necessary on earth that we will fail to supply to make you a winner, but, first of all, YOU must have the desire to succeed. We want you to come to Suite 215-226 at 1046 Wilson-av., Monday, Dec. 3, at 2:00 p. m. sharp—no other time—if you are in dead-earnest and unquestionably sincere. Our gigantic success has been built around men such as you—and therefore we are highly desirous of helping the right men succeed in a big way! If you are one of those men, we shall look for you, without fail!

ALERT MEN who are success minded

Here is the most amazing money making opportunity ever offered to the readers of this or any other newspaper. It is a remarkable kind of business that can pay steady cash comm. and bonus of from $50 to $200 a week to any ambitious level headed man who wants to succeed. It is a business that offers unlimited opportunity—a business that is destined to make many men independently wealthy. It is an electrical unit and to the best of our knowledge it is the biggest money making opportunity in America. There is not any investment and absolutely no experience is required to quickly become successful in this business. We finance you, maintain offices for your success and thoroughly train and supervise you with the necessary information and knowledge that is required to develop this new "gold-mine."

If you are a go-getter, honest, clean cut, and willing to work, apply 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. MONDAY. NO OTHER TIME.

MEN

If you are interested in making money, increasing your income, getting into a permanent business not affected by seasons, providing properly for your family and are a real worker of good character, between the ages of 25 and 60 preferably, then this opportunity concerns you. We will give time for a personal interview to such men.

Our company is rapidly approaching in this country the complete dominance of market it has already secured in other countries, with five European and American factories continuously busy supplying our electrical units.

Men in this business from all walks of life are big earners. When they learn this profitable business thoroughly their incomes range around $2,000, $4,000, $6,000, $7,000, and more per year, yet they had no previous experience in this kind of work.

Here are a few samples of what some of our men earned on commissions and bonus alone in this territory in one day this month: H. A., a former carpenter, $46.00; J. B., former teacher, $48.00; L. B., former salesman, $97.00; K. B., former bank clerk, $48.50; L. F., former engineer, $44.00; H. G., former farmer, $49.00; J. H., former collector, $49.50; L. H., former electrician, $47.00; A. K., former fireman, $73.00; H. L., former salesman, $47.00; J. M., former policeman, $48.50. If selected you will meet all the above men and many others who are now successful in our business.

Beginners may have to be content with $125 to $200 per month. You are placed on the same basis of compensation as the others and make no investment or deposit and are given a complete factory schooling at no expense to you.

If you measure up to the above requirements, are a good learner, a hard worker, reliable and present a neat appearance, apply Strand Hotel, 6323 Cottage Grove-av., between 12:30 and 2:30 p. m. Monday. Ask for J. Anderson.

The Airway Corporation Announces

A Revolutionary System of Sanitation

AN AMAZING NEW IDEA! A mechanical device embodying a NEW principle, astounding in its application. OPENS A NEW FIELD. All territory now virgin. The ONLY system suitable for use in an air-conditioned home, school, hospital, apartment house or institution. On the market a short time — tremendous sales acceptance everywhere. Many Chicago men literally coining money.

One man in this business made $1,835 for his last month's work in commissions and bonuses. We have scores of men making a good living, and we have a few who regularly earn exceptionally high incomes. Most of our men never sold a thing before they joined our organization, but our method of training and our system of paying commissions and bonuses enables them to earn while they learn.

Are you a salesman? Would you like to be one? Would you like to get in on the ground floor of a new proposition which any intelligent man can sell who isn't afraid to work? If this applies to you, NOW is the time to act. We can use men living within a 100-mile radius of Chicago. They must have a permanent address and must furnish character reference. Age limits, 25-50. Neat appearance is necessary. We have a new commission and bonus plan which will bring you a tremendous income. It will appeal to salesmen. You owe it to yourself to just come in for an hour and you will be convinced that we have what you need to make real money with.

Don't apply unless you are ambitious to succeed. No investment required, as we furnish all necessary training and equipment free. For particulars call Monday at 11 a. m. or 3 p. m. NO OTHER TIME. Room 1008, Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker drive, near Michigan-av. Ask for Mr. Daumit.

Picture This Scene

You have probably played a part in it many times: An apartment is advertised and you decide to look it over. The manager greets you and takes you to the apartment. You stand before the door. What will it be? Just like the others or one with such a charming atmosphere that it really "clicks" at once?

You are the judge and jury, and we are not afraid of your verdict when you come to 1117 N. Dearborn. You will realize the very minute you see one of our 1-2-3 room homes that you have seen something worth your trip. Then it will just be a matter of price, and our prices close sales.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Alabama.

FARMERS IN BALDWIN COUNTY, ALAbama, are fortunately located; desirable climate, productive soils, good home conditions, abundant rainfall. Several thousand carloads of early produce are shipped to northern markets annually, growers receiving cash at shipping points. The early crops are followed by second crops on the same land. Baldwin County is a proved good prosperous, general farming, live stock, poultry and trucking region. About eighty per cent of the farmers in lower Baldwin are from the North. Good land still available at reasonable prices. For illustrated literature write E. J. Hoddy, General Development Agent, Dept. B-92, Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., Louisville, Ky.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper "The Earth," free for six months. C. L. Seagraves, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

YOUR NEXT CAR

may be listed by us in this very ad. It's always worth your while to read STUDEBAKER'S used car insertions because Studebaker's values are always unusual!

5 DAYS' DRIVING TRIAL.

DODGE SEDAN, LATE 1933 DE LUXE with side mounts and every conceivable extra. The finish has not a mar on it. Expensive broadcloth upholstery. The tires are excellent. Go over the motor with a fine tooth comb and you'll agree that it's the last word. See this auto—drive it—and then compare it with anything else in Chicago. Our price is just $545, and it won't remain long at that figure. Don't miss this one.

AUBURN DE LUXE SEDAN, 1932. A V-12; one of the handsomest cars of its kind in town, for it has low slung lines and a world of power and pep. Was owned by a wealthy North Shore family, who gave it the best of care. Specially priced now at only $395.

BUICK SMALL 8 SEDAN. A RECENT 1931. As nice an auto as you could find anywhere. The finish, upholstery, tires and motor are really 100%. This car never left the Chicago boulevards and was coddled like a baby. Don't fail to see it at only $395.

CHRYSLER DE LUXE BROUGHAM, 1933. Free wheeling, floating power, etc. You'll have to look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Offered at a bargain..$575

REO DE LUXE SEDAN. A LATE 1930. This car is in dandy running order. Many nice extras. It's a very snappy car, and the first man in with $245 drives away in it.

CADILLAC SEDAN, 1931; IN STORAGE for almost two years. We checked it over carefully in our shop; now recommend it as an outstanding automobile. It's top notch. 6 wire whls. Easily worth more than $745.

NASH 8 SEDAN. A 1933 DE LUXE MODEL. This auto was actually used for only a short time. Every detail is positively like brand new. Don't miss it at only $495.

STUDEBAKER 6 SPORT COUPE, 1933, rumble. Has every modern improvement: free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Specially priced at only $595.

ROCKNE SEDAN, LATE 1933 DE LUXE. It's a real beauty. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Our price for today is just $445.

PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN, 1930, OWNED by a wealthy family who gave it the very best of attention. Now every detail of the interior and exterior is 100%. Has a sweet running motor. A De Luxe model. A real $1,000 value, but we just reduced it to only $585.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

DECEMBER 2, 1934.

Women's Features

Classic modern pieces having a bone-white finish make beautiful holiday gifts and useful ones as well. These are available in a Chicago furniture store.

The greenery of plants affords a charming decorative touch to any room. Sold in Chicago.

Furniture Apt Solution to Many a Gift Problem

All Seekers After the Unique Should Haunt Displays of Tables, Chairs, and Desks.

By Edith Weigle.

GIVE your home a gift for Christmas, or if you want to delight one of your special friends present her with something for her house or apartment. Long after the last holiday wreath is taken down this contribution to the comfort and beauty of an interior will remain, a reminder of the thoughtfulness of the donor.

The shops are bursting with good looking small pieces of furniture and you'll find it refreshing to look about in the sections where they are displayed, for the milling, pushing crowds are usually elsewhere, fighting over handkerchiefs on a counter, or over toys.

Today the pictures show some of the most attractive possibilities for your Christmas list. No home is apt to have too many small tables, so we chose several of them—for a lamp, for books and magazines, for potted plants.

The round flower stand is beautiful in its simplicity, a reminder of the art of Robert Adam. It is especially effective when used at either end of a large case of windows. Designed by G. McStay Jackson and made by a Wisconsin firm, it is of Mayanwood finish on mahogany, darker than the colored one shown. It also comes in a lovely light yellow, with silver or gray trim. Its top measures 16 by 16 inches and it is 32 inches high.

Stand Serves Double Function.

A book and magazine stand combined is also illustrated. It is made by the same company and has a glass top and a small lower compartment for papers. The divided shelf is for books. It is available in mahogany or in a lighter finish. A pair of these tables is charming for either end of the davenport.

Have you an informal room furnished in early American maple? Then you'll like the interesting sawbuck chair shown, for it is so unusual, so simple, and so comfortable. Under the pretty glazed chintz upholstery is a spring seat. The back, too, is comfortable, for it is padded. The corners are smoothed and rounded, giving an antique effect. Seen at the Merchandise Mart, this pretty chair is sold by two Chicago department stores.

Here's a good looking book and magazine table, cleverly made, with balls dividing one section from the other. Its glass top makes it useful, also, as a cocktail table. It is available in Chicago stores.

JOTTINGS FOR A CHRISTMAS SHOPPER'S NOTEBOOK

SLIP this in your purse when you go adventuring for Christmas gifts. Here are items, some of them extremely inexpensive, that will delight the most fastidious of your friends on December 25:

● A tilt-top card table, painted white, the top showing a square of color on which are classic Roman figures in flowing robes. You see Grecian gods and goddesses on every hand in the decorative field these days. Some are used as bases for lamps, others as mantel ornaments. In bisque they are delightful.

● A mirror painting. Framed in bone-white wood, these delicate pictures on glass may be bought singly or in pairs and are delightful because of their newness and charm.

● A luggage rack for the guest room. Sure to bring heartfelt gratitude from any visitor. (Saves the wear and tear on the chairs, too.)

● A nest of tables, either in mahogany or white painted finish. Choose those having a reasonable amount of top surface, so that the smallest of the set will not be too diminutive for practical purposes.

● White tole (painted tin) holders for ivy pots and plants. The simple ones are the best looking. The price is so reasonable they should be bought in pairs. You'll find them in the gift sections of the stores.

HEADLINERS IN WINTER SLUMBER WEAR

SKETCHED IN A CHICAGO SHOP.

● No. 1: This nightgown of ivory cream satin and lace is named for Jean Harlow. It is sleeveless, but has a round collar of the fragile lace of the yoke. ● No. 2: Katharine Hepburn sponsors a satin nightgown whose hoydenish cut reflects her own piquant personality. It comes in all the pastel colors. ● No. 3: Old fashioned battenberg lace is used for the yoke of this black chiffon gown, with ruffles at the sleeves and hem. It also boasts a train. ● No. 4: Of printed satin, this long sleeved creation can double as an afternoon tea gown. ● No. 5: Because it's cut on the bias, this flannel nightie fits the figure as suavely as any evening gown. It's made of warm, snug flannel. ● No. 6: This modernized version of grandpa's nightshirt is nothing to laugh at. With its tucked bosom edged with rows of val lace, and cuffs trimmed with the same, it's the dernier cri in bedtime ensembles. ● No. 7: The knowing party gal will wear an altogether of black or flesh colored lace beneath her gown. Under it are girdle panties of knitted silk and rubber. ● No. 8: Virtually backless and with the sleekest of silhouettes, this slip will flatter the suavest evening gown. It boasts smart tailoring, lace trimming, a long length. ● No. 9: Robin's egg blue satin, trimmed with cream lace and embroidery at yoke and sleeves, is used for this nightgown.

Hollywood Has a Hand in New Lingerie Styles

Designers Take a Lesson in Glamor from Jean Harlow and Hepburn.

By Rhea Seeger.

JUST how much the movies either make or influence fashion is a debatable question. But it is a certainty that famous stars of the films have caused a furor this year among the lingerie designers. Last year they dipped into history and filmed the rather hectic married and not so married life of Henry VIII., with the astonishing results of nightgowns made for 1933 collectors after the boudoir gowns of at least four of the wives of that merry madman. This year the newest and latest things in gowns are designed for and named after glamorous ladies of the screen. And they cause plenty of excitement. The tall, lovely lady may have a cream ivory satin and lace nightgown named for Jean Harlow. Its neckline is surprisingly demure, with a round collar all of the fragile lace of the yoke. It's sleeveless and it's quite the most devastating creation imaginable.

No. 2, the long, full sleeved satin and sheer combine sponsored by Katharine Hepburn, has a piquant, hoyden manner just like the staccato star it is named after. The new number comes in all pastel colors.

Grandpa's Nightshirt Returns in Glamorous Disguise.

No. 3 is a black chiffon concoction made with a deep yoke of old fashioned Battenburg lace. The gown itself has a train and a ruffle hem that matches the ruffles used for the short sleeves. No. 4 shows a printed satin honey, with long sleeves, that can double for an afternoon tea gown . . . the background is dull white with dainty floral patterns cheerily splashed in rosy pinks and blue with green. No. 5 is a gown that shows how a flannel nightie has been glorified. It is warm, snug, and cozy, and yet just as alluring as the silk, satin, and chiffon models. Besides having long sleeves [quite the smartest and newest idea of the season], it is cut on the bias, and that makes it fit and cling as suavely as a satin sheath evening gown. These models come folded circumspectly in a cellophane envelope and they are going fast.

Don't laugh at No. 6. It is what it looks like, a feminine version of grandfather's pet nightshirt. Notice the tucked bosom edged with rows of val lace, the long sleeves that end in cuffs also trimmed with lace, and the narrow belt to tie smartly around the middle. It comes in pastel tints of silk crepe with ivory tinted val lace trim.

Evening Slip Virtually Backless.

No. 7 . . . what the knowing party going gal wears under her slim sheath dresses—an altogether of black or flesh colored lace. Under it are girdle panties of knitted silk and rubber. No. 8 shows the tailored and lace trimmed evening slip, virtually backless, with the narrowest of straps, the sleekest of silhouettes, and the new long length. Perfect finds, both of these, and moderately priced.

No. 9 is a robin's egg blue satin nightgown with cream lace and embroidery at the yoke and outlining the short sleeves.

Man's Slip-on Sweater a Simple, Neat, and Speedy Knitting Job

By Jean Macdonald.

SLIP-ON sweaters are always a favorite masculine selection for comfort and sportswear. A good quality germantown, sports wool, or camel's hair produces the attractive sweater illustrated today. The original was made of tan wool and colored yarn, a handsome combination. The stitches are extremely simple. The ribbing at the waistband is done in the dark color. The old standby, the stockinette stitch, is used for the tan body part. The neckline and armholes are trimmed with the contrasting shade.

The nicest thing about the sweater from the knitters' point of view is that it may be done on fairly large needle, and thus constitutes a quick job. From the wearer's point of view, this type of knitting also has its advantages, for it affords a certain amount of ventilation yet is extremely warm. The types of yarn mentioned are warm, lightweight, and absorbent.

There is still time to knit this sweater for a Christmas gift.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instructions for knitting the man's sleeveless slipon sweater illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

Be sure to include the following measurements:

Around expanded chest ....
Normal chest from underarm to underarm ....
Normal back, underarm to underarm ....
Back of neck to depth of hem ....
Shoulder to hem at front ....
Shoulder to hem at back ....
Around waist at largest part ....

A FRIEND IN NEED

Readers Are Urged to Give Their Christmas Help to Needy Before the Last Minute Rush; Any and All Articles Will Be Appreciated.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

By Sally Joy Brown.

THAT warning, cajoling, and ominous little phrase—"Do your Christmas shopping early"—soon will appear to nag us all into making lists and purchases in an effort to avoid the last minute rush. It's a good idea to heed. It makes things so much easier for all concerned.

The same principle can be applied to any charitable contribution you may wish to make during the holidays. Almost every one likes to do some little thing to make another human being happier at Christmas time and, if you feel that way, do it early.

If you've a baby doll for some little girl's empty arms, or a train for some little boy who's never had one, refurbish it and let me know about it as soon as possible. If you'd like to supply an invalid with some little luxury, let's hear about it as soon as possible.

We like to place articles just as carefully as we can, and the Christmas rush and the last minute offers of assistance for families often are the cause of duplication on one hand and complete neglect on the other, both of which certainly are unsatisfactory.

Christmas gifts, as far as I'm concerned, needn't be limited to turkeys and toys. A radio to a hospital ward, a discarded sewing machine to an overworked mother, a warm rug or an extra blanket to a barren home. These give more lasting pleasure and benefit.

At any rate, if you'd like to play Santa Claus in any form to this department's clients, I do hope you'll let me know of your plans and allow me to make arrangements as soon as possible.

K. W., a case worker, made an appeal for Mrs. O., a woman 65 years old. Although she is living with her son, he cannot provide winter clothing for her. She has no suitable coat for the cold weather, and needs one, size 38. She is a frail little woman who has scrimped and saved all her life, raised a family, and now is unable to provide for herself.

One reader, who is busily preparing for the holidays, has asked my assistance. She's making cunning little woolen dogs for a children's hospital and is in need of yarn. That half ball you have left over from your sweater or other knitting work will be used nicely if you care to send it to Mrs. S.

Mrs. C. A. R. made a similar request. She's been discouraged and ill and, because of her financial condition, is unable to secure enough yarn to finish an afghan she started. She'd appreciate extra material and bright silk scraps. Can you help her?

Mrs. McC. writes as follows: "I am spending my leisure time making lap robes for men in a veteran's hospital. Would you request your readers to search for pieces of material for me? I would be glad to call for them."

J. D., a cripple, who also is totally deaf, has had no employment for years. He is much in need of warm underwear, size 40, but is unable to purchase it. Are you able to supply it for this handicapped man?

The A. family consists of a mother and five children, all under 9 years of age. Mr. A. was killed about a year ago and at that time his wife sold all the furniture in order to meet expenses for living needs, hoping that she could get employment and be able to take care of her family. That has not been possible, and she has made every sacrifice in order to meet her needs, including living in a three room furnished apartment which was entirely inadequate.

Within the last six weeks a daughter died as a result of a fall down the back steps, and Mrs. A. is anxious to move away from the building. A five room unfurnished apartment has been found. Chests of drawers or dressers, kitchen and dining room chairs, a table, rugs, and beds with mattresses are needed. A charity organization will provide cartage if you are able to help furnish this home.

Kitchen Gadgets Are Ideal Gifts for Housewives

GIVING some women a brand new and efficient device for their kitchens is like presenting a puppy with a nice, big, juicy bone. They love it. And, indeed, what nicer Christmas remembrance could there be than some of the clever gadgets now displayed by the stores?

One Chicago department store in particular has arranged a whole exhibition on the wall of its household utilities department and it is completely intriguing, for each utensil is seen mounted on a small painting of fruit, or vegetable, or whatever it is with which it is to be used. Thus you see a new little trick for picking up sliced lemons applied to a picture of the article, and an implement for lifting ice cubes mounted on a gayly colored still life showing the cubes, and a wooden salad fork and spoon dipping into a luscious green salad in a bowl.

You've no idea how many little items there are for the kitchen and the dining-table until you see this array. There are twenty-five or thirty pictures in all.

Two Women Supervisors of United States Mints

TWO women are supervising the operation of United States mints. Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, is director, and Mary M. O'Reilly is assistant director.

Although more males than females are born in the United States, by the time the age of seventy-five is reached there are more women survivors than men.

Of 9,000 women graduates of the University of California only about 3,300 are married and more than 50 per cent of the number were wed between the ages of 26 and 36, an alumnae survey disclosed.

Mrs. James Champion, aged sixty-six, built a comfortable home for herself on her farm near Holdenville, Okla., using logs she cut and hewed with her own hands.

Don't Be Fat

"Eat Sensibly—Drink Welch's Grape Juice" says the Lovely Lady of the Screen

IRENE RICH

Her Secret is Free

Excess fat comes from eating and drinking foods too rich in fat-producing elements. But in order to reduce healthfully and at the same time maintain your energy, it is not enough to substitute low-calory foods. Scientists have now discovered that you must also supply the body with a certain amount of easily-burnable sugar—so that the body can burn up its fat.

Irene Rich, now 43, weighs the same as she did at 18.

That's why Welch's Processed Grape Juice, always Certified-Pure and Pasteurized, belongs on every reducing diet. It satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods . . . yet actually helps you lose weight! In the Welch process all the sugar in the juice is predigested, hence quickly and easily burned; it actually helps to burn up fat! As you follow the Welch Way, week after week, it not only gives you slender lines, it restores a lovely natural color to your cheeks. You feel "made over"—full of new vitality.

Start Welch's Today!

Along with your daily reducing diet, drink a glass with or between meals, and before retiring. Meanwhile, write for free booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down." Reduce this delightful, scientific way and at the same time gain new energy.

Remember, Welch's is always Certified-Pure and Pasteurized, and sells today at the lowest price in many years. Don't be fooled by cheap substitutes.

Children and Athletes

Welch's helps build solid flesh, muscle and bone without adding burdensome, excess, life-destroying fat. Marvelous as a pick-up drink for that faint, hungry between-meal feeling. Wonderful for growing children. Its pure grape sugar, predigested by nature, gives the body quick new pep and energy. That's why athletic trainers recommend Welch's Certified Pure Grape Juice. Start drinking Welch's today and keep fatigue away.

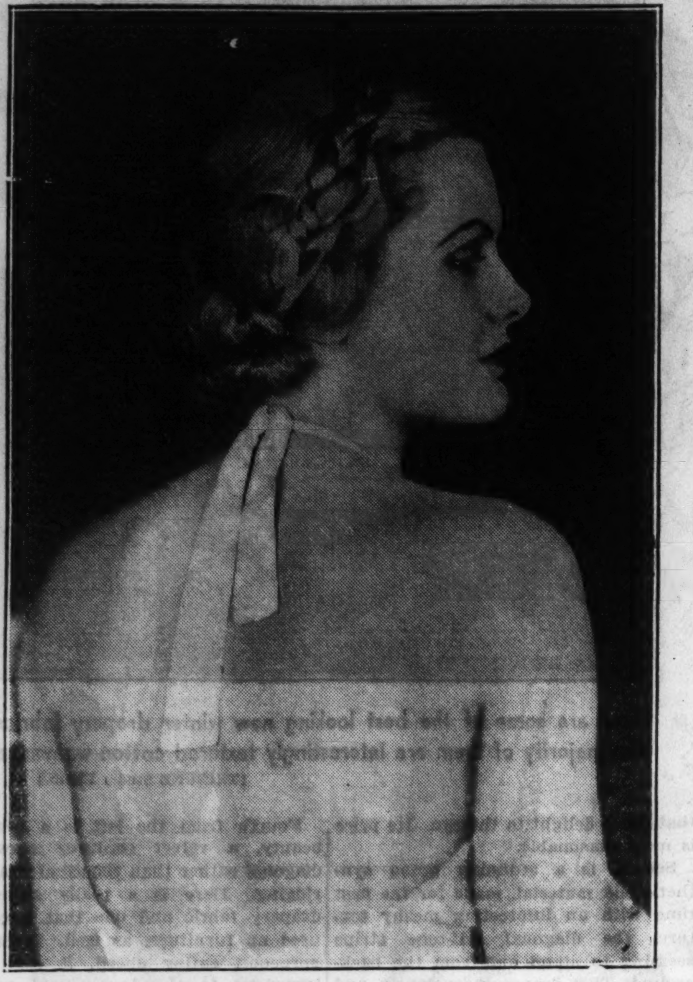
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

By Eleanor Nangle

Mild Soap, Tough Brush, and Rich Cream Bring Whiteness to the Back.



Could your back look like this above your new evening frock? And, if not, why not? The skin of your back can be as flawless as that of your face.

Two seats to the left the gown was one of those thrilling creations of metal cloth, with a harness arrangement about the back bodice that would have been a knockout if the wearer's back didn't peep through. That back was actually goose pimply, and not from the cold, either.

Robert Burns' plea for some gift to see ourselves as others see us has been popping into our mind almost every night lately. We've been whirling around at a great rate—opera, theater, and a couple of big jamborees—and we're back conscious, we are. The gowns are gorgeous and the backs are frightful.

Gradual Bleaching Will Aid Appearance of Back.

Next time you're dressing twist around for a look at that back of yours. If you see an expanse of smooth, pearly flesh all is well. But if you see that expanse anything but pearly white begin to think about bleaching it, gently but firmly, until it reaches the perfection that will do you proud in your new evening frock.

We can recommend a cream that will do wonderful things for that back and the poor, sallow elbows. It's a beautiful cleanser, an excellent emollient, and a gentle but effective bleach. It works deeply into the pores, loosening the dirt, oiling the skin and, at the same time, whitening it. And that, girls, is what dingy backs need. You should use such a cream in slathers, and you can because it isn't frightfully expensive.

Scrubbing with Stiff Brush Does Wonders for the Back.

For the deplorable state of gooseflesh, if that should be your back trouble, you have a little more work to do. You need, first of all, tons and tons of a good, rich cold cream. Mold the cream in with all the vigor you can muster. If you can bribe a sister to do it for you, so much the better. When you feel it's worked in pretty well wipe it off. In this one instance we like a rough towel better than the soft tissues. We have a hunch this bit of friction is good for rough skin.

Then warm water, soap and a brush, a good stiff one. Complexion brushes are excellent, but they're so small it's hard to reach all around the back with them. A bath brush on a little stick makes it much easier.

The kind of soap you use is important. We think you'll like a cold cream one, bland as any butter ever churned, that doesn't dry the skin. With this trio of mild soap, a tough brush, and not too hot water you scrub like mad, and end up with a good, brisk rinse with cold, cold water. Then another creaming and the operation is over. Just one back treatment like this will show results and, if you do it every day for a while you'll have a back of which you can be proud.

Crochet Expert May Turn Out Her Own Bright Hued Gauntlets

By Ellen Bruce.

THESE bright colored, crochet gloves of shetland floss may be made in two days. Isn't that something, and especially at this time of the year when it's so near Christmas! Tight at the wrist with a flared gauntlet cuff, these smart, inexpensive gloves are perfect for everyday wear. Most people hesitate to crochet gloves thinking it a difficult task. On the contrary, it is a simple job that even an amateur may undertake and it is an ideal way to learn the so-called intricacies of shaping crochet work, as well as creating an even crochet stitch.

The gloves illustrated are made of emerald green shetland trimmed with brown. These are most economical in comparison with the hand made gloves available in our shops. Sizing is included on the instruction sheet and only one type of yarn is used—shetland.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the gloves made of shetland illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower lobby.

Furniture Aptly Solves Many a Gift Problem

white finished coffee table, the legs simulating sticks of bamboo tied together. Any of these items would make a splendid gift for your home. All can be seen in a Chicago furniture store, where they were photographed.

Also available in this store is the dramatic flared back chair covered in quilted fabric, its frame of light finished natural wood. It may be had in several colors and materials and is as comfortable as it is unusual. One or two objects such as this can give character and charm to the drabbest interior.

The handsome knee-hole desk adapted from a Chippendale model has a white lether top adding distinction. It is a most convenient piece of furniture to have in the living room, where each member of the family will find it useful. Desks of this type are seen in all the furniture stores at this season.

Another easy to find and desirable gift is the little drop leaf lamp table illustrated on page 1. It is in the style of Duncan Phyffe, with its four curving supports branching from a pedestal base and is ornamented with carving and with a decoration on the front of the small drawer.

A table such as this has innumerable uses. It may hold a lamp, as in this picture, or it may be placed near one end of a sofa to hold a low bowl of flowers and smoking things, or it may be used for solitaire or for writing. The one shown is mahogany. Now, isn't your Christmas shopping made a little easier?

Miss Weigle's booklet, "What's Wrong with Your Rooms?" will help you to arrange the furniture in the most livable and attractive way. Before you start shifting the davenport read it over. It is 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower lobby.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, Dec. 3.

All work that should be completed during good weather must not be neglected. Material that is to be used to mulch perennials, shrubs, newly planted trees, and other plants should be piled preparatory to spreading. A heavy mulch is not necessary for hardy plants and the covering should be carefully done to prevent smothering. The peony and iris will survive, but newly planted stock is always better covered. Have all the house plants that can be given attention, for they add much to the appearance of a room. At present the chrysanthemum is the vogue. Keep potted flowering plants well watered.

Tuesday, Dec. 4.

Bulbs in pots will require about eight weeks to root sufficiently to take into the light for flowering. The first tulips will take about six weeks to flower, but as the season advances the time will become less. Narcissus paperwhite may be ready at this time. Do not give these flowers a high temperature or the foliage will become grasslike, with long flower stems.

Wednesday, Dec. 5.

Wash the leaves of house plants, such as palms, aspidistra, corn plant, and similar foliage plants. Give the terrarium attention. Air the container by removing the covering slightly. This reduces the amount of moisture and prevents the growth of fungi, the noxious enemy of enclosed plant life.

Thursday, Dec. 6.

Snow is said to be the best protection for plants, but snowfall has been so slight in the last few years that it has become wise to use other materials. Snow also adds moisture to the ground, enabling the plants to do well in spring when growth begins. Potted chrysanthemums that are indoors are seldom satisfactory when planted out of doors. It is best to procure those kinds offered as hardy.

Friday, Dec. 7.

See that all plant storage stock is properly cared for. Look over the roots occasionally to see that no rot has developed. The cleaning and separating of large mother bulbs and bulbils of the gladiolus may be done at any time. Keep all kinds accurately labeled. Use soft wooden labels, paint with white lead, and print the names while the paint is still moist but not wet. They will last a long time by this method.

Saturday, Dec. 8.

Do not plant magnolias in fall, as the roots are rather fleshy and will not readily become established. Wait until spring and plant the two best kinds, such as magnolia stellata and soulageana, the large flowering kind. Poplars do best when spring planted. Hill up around the roses with soil. Later place a good covering of straw over the entire plantation. Bend down.

Hot Soups and Nippy Weather Synonymous

Several New Recipes Fill Need for Warmth and Nourishment at Meals.

By Mary Meade.

SOUP, that sibilant starter for a well turned meal, is worth all the noise that's made over it! Whether it's a sturdy, stick-to-the-ribs chowder, a savory bowl of creamy lusciousness, or a tureen of twinkling bouillon afloat with alphabetical noodles—nothing is more welcome on a frosty December day than soup.

Notwithstanding all the lukewarm affairs I've had presented to me, I still maintain that winter soups must be hot, hot, HOT! It's much better to scald your guests than to chill them. But strike a happy medium if you can.

Surprise Ingredients Add Delight to the Best Soups.

The true soup lover asks also for a surprise in his bowl, plate, or cup—some snowy flakes of rice or pearls of barley for the spoon to dive after, some crisp croutons, popped corn, puffed cereal, or minced parsley to sail on the top, or some bits of juicy vegetable or meat to seek out in the depths.

A one dish supper soup is the perfect answer to our search for an adequate menu involving little work. It may do duty just as well at noontime.

ONE DISH SUPPER SOUP.

3 cups water
1 cup chopped celery
2 small onions, chopped
1 green pepper, cleaned and chopped
6 eggs
¾ cup uncooked rice
2 cups canned tomatoes
⅓ cup grated cheese
Salt to taste

Heat the water to boiling and drop into it the chopped celery, onions, and green pepper. Cook slowly for fifteen minutes. Add the canned tomatoes and salt to taste. Have ready the rice, which has been cooked until tender in salted boiling water. Just before serving stir the beaten eggs carefully into the hot soup, beat a minute, then pour over mounds of cooked rice in individual soup plates. Sprinkle with the grated cheese and serve with crisp muffins and tart pickles.

Onion Soup and Croutons Are Inseparable Companions.

Croutons are the preferred topping for this onion soup. Take care that you pre-cook the onions only until they are straw colored, no longer.

BERMUDA SOUP.

6 medium sized onions
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups water
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and cayenne to taste
1 beaten egg yolk
¼ cup minced pimientos

Chop the onions and cook with the fat over a low flame until the onions are straw colored. Add the water and boil for thirty minutes or until the onions are tender. Rub through a sieve Melt the butter, combine with the flour, and add milk gradually. Heat to the boiling point, stirring frequently. Add puréed onions and seasoning. Just before serving stir in the slightly beaten egg yolk and minced pimientos.

A new version of fish chowder contains flaky, boiled rice. It's one of those all-in-one soup meals!

FISH CHOWDER WITH RICE.

2 pounds fish
6 slices salt pork
2 cups cooked rice
4 potatoes
1 onion
4 tablespoons butter
1 pint hot water
Salt and pepper
2 cups hot cream or milk

Clean the fish and cut into slices one inch thick. Place several slices of salt pork in the bottom of a deep kettle. Over these spread peeled and sliced potatoes, a layer of the fish sprinkled with salt, pepper, and a little of the minced onion. Place on this a layer of the cooked rice, salt and pepper, and bits of butter. Repeat these alternate layers, add the hot water, and cover the kettle with a tightly fitting lid. Simmer slowly for one hour. Add the two cups of hot cream or milk and serve. The milk or cream may be omitted if preferred.

Creamy Soup Glorifies Nourishing, Humble Spinach.

Spinach is reported to be the Waterloo of a lot of young and older diners. But when spinach turns up in bowls of creamy soup that's quite another matter.

CREAM OF SPINACH SOUP.
With Puffed Cereal.

1 cup milk
Slice of onion
1 tablespoon fat
½ tablespoon flour
⅓ teaspoon salt
1 cup canned spinach and juices

Barely scald the milk, to which the slice of onion has been added. Remove the onion. Blend the melted fat and flour in a sauce pan. Remove from the heat and slowly stir in the hot milk. Now stir constantly over direct heat until the sauce reaches the boiling point. Add the seasoning and stir in the spinach and juices, which have been pressed together through a sieve. Reheat and serve in bowls with crisp, puffed cereal sprinkled over each.

Some days it's sport to go even further in adventuring with soup toppings. Besides the already mentioneds there is minced pimiento—delicious afloat on cream soups. Minced chives are great with potato soups. Salted whipped cream forms a gay little island in the center of a tureen of bouillon.

By Clotilde.

SCHOOLGIRLS are appreciative of smart dresses, especially for classroom wear, and the one made by pattern No. 3381 should catch their fancy immediately. It's a darling, and practical. The dress is cut in three pieces, one for the front and two for the back, and it buttons in the back from neck to hem. Making the buttonholes will take time, for each one must be made perfectly, but the rest of the dress will be completed quickly.

The pattern shows both long and short sleeves, and the long ones are particularly pretty, and comfortable, too. They should be made to fit comfortably all the way. The flaring at the wrists is a smart detail. Note how the skirt flares at the side seams, making it ideal for walking.

Several Detachable Collars May Be Made for Variation.

It would be a good idea to bind the neck and make several collars, putting each one into a narrow band so that it may be basted easily to the neck of the dress. This will give a pleasing variation. When you are ready for the buttonholes, try the length on a piece of cloth, and set your scissors firmly. Mark the place for each button hole with a basting thread. Cut the material for binding each one, lay the center of a piece over the basting, and then baste this piece, sewing exactly over the under basting.

Stitch around this basting, exactly ⅛ inch from it on all four sides, then cut through the bastings and make a tiny diagonal cut at each corner. Pull the cloth to the wrong side and tack down invisibly. On the right side, baste the buttonhole together and leave in the bastings until the dress is finished. Press perfectly flat.

Two suggestions for this pretty dress are: A brown and beige checked woolen with brown velveteen collar and brown bone buttons; and a navy blue wool crêpe with matching velveteen collar, bright red buttons, and a matching red lether belt.

For a Smart Coat Dress.

Pattern, No. 3397, is for a smart coat dress. It has raglan sleeves that are easy to set in place, and at the wrists the sleeves are gathered into narrow, fitted bands. The dress buttons in front, and in an unusual way. An inset pocket on the right side of the skirt is smart for this type of dress. Brown rabbit's hair woolen, with shiny green bone buttons and buckle, and a green velveteen collar, made the original model. Canton crêpe, velveteen, and wool crêpe are other suggestions.

Paris Pattern Interprets the Popular Robe de Style

No. 5062—The Paris pattern for this "robe de style" frock is available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

THIS pattern, No. 5062, will allow you to get yourself a party frock for the coming holidays, and it is in a style so new that you will be in fashion for a long time to come. This modernized "robe de style," revamped from the modes of Empress Eugenié and Queen Victoria, is a Paris favorite this winter and is worn by some of the smartest women in American society.

I have designed it so you can make it easily, and by making it long, with the big sleeves, you may have a glorious party frock. You can, if you wish, make it shorter and wear it more often for less gala occasions.

Velvet or slipper satin, taffeta or moire are the materials that will be best for this model. The collar and cuffs may be of lace, as shown, or you may make them of the material of your dress. If you want to be exceedingly elegant button the frock on rhinestone buttons, and, if more practical, have cloth covered buttons of your material or metal buttons that you can buy in the stores.

Choose one of the old-fashioned colors like garnet or wine red, robin's egg or sapphire blue, almond green, or black for this model if you wish to fulfill entirely the old-fashioned air.

Convalescent Child Requires Tact, Attention

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

SOME day, I hope, we shall have conquered colds and grippe and children's diseases. At present, though, with the onset of winter, we know that our children are more prone to certain illnesses than they are in the sun-bathed days of summer.

When a child who has been ill is beginning to be convalescent there are a number of hints that the inexperienced mother may take from the experienced one to help her child and herself.

But first, before I get down to practical considerations, let me say this: Your child's convalescence can be for both of you either a wearisome marking time until full health comes back again—or it can be something for you both to enjoy and something for him, at least, to look back upon as one of the cozy and happy experiences of his childhood.

I know that the happiest of my childhood memories would not be complete without little scenes recalled like that of my grandmother [a real old fashioned one] standing at the foot of my bed, rosy from outdoors, holding up a bunch of big, silvery, green grapes; of hours spent with luscious odds and ends of satin and silk and velvet, making at one fell swoop birthday and Christmas presents or dolls' clothes; of the quiet dusk with the lights shining in from the street, and then my mother's steps on the stairs coming up with my supper tray of things I liked best, with the certainty that she would linger and talk alone with me while the cheerful noises of the rest of the family went on on the floor below. Convalescence in our family—with all of us—was a treat.

Mothers Must Make Allowances, Raise No Issues.

I sometimes think of this in connection with two mothers I know of. One is annoyed, irritated, restless, even a little bit injured, when either of her children is laid up. Another tells of the fun she's just been having with her 5 year old boy. "As soon as we were sure it was scarlet fever we decided that with things as they were just then I'd have to send the others away and stay with Dickie. The anxious time didn't last long, thank heaven, and then I found myself free to do nothing but nurse him and be with him until the quarantine was raised. I think we'll both remember that as one of the happiest times in our lives." And she, usually overworked and pressed for time, went on to describe the things they did and the talks they had. Convalescence can be one of the interesting experiences of childhood.

Now for a few practical suggestions: There are two sides to consider in caring for the convalescent child—the physical side and the psychological side. It is not enough to give a child who is weak only physical attention. He must be kept happy and amused, too.

His mother, or whoever takes care of him, must manage him with the understanding that he is not himself. Allowances must be made and no issues raised. Tactfulness and cheerfulness must both be used in accomplishing whatever is for his good at this time. We don't scold or punish a convalescent child.

Alternate Short Periods of Play and Rest.

First, plan your day so that you have time for your child. Let all the unimportant household duties go—even then you'll be tired enough at the end of the day. Manage his convalescence so that when it is over you have both gained in understanding and affection.

Here are some suggestions as to physical care:

Feed your young convalescent often and not too heavily.

Never let a convalescent child get too tired.

Let him sit up for a while and play [if well enough], then lie down. Short periods of each.

Don't let him do anything to the point of nervous strain—this is vital.

Don't let him do things in bed that tire his muscles too much. Children grow tired just holding their arms up to play with toys when they are not well and are in bed in an unfamiliar position.

For long convalescences of younger and older children, too—we have a booklet called "Gifts the Children Can Make." A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring it to you.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Old Kitchen Is Made New by Built-in Gadgets

Foresighted Cook Remodels Workshop Before Holiday Rush Sets In.

Are you interested in lifting your kitchen's face a bit this holiday time, and during the coming new year? Send for new booklet by Louise Bargelt, "Modernizing the Kitchen," 3 cents at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower; 5 cents by mail. At the same price: "A New Deal for the Old Basement," by Louise Bargelt, a booklet telling how to revamp the old cellar.

By Louise Bargelt.

IS our kitchen nearing the "dangerous age?" Is it beginning to function more feebly than of yore, and are we beginning to be frankly bored with it? Do we look at it, as we work, with the frank look of a love grown tired in our eyes? Then it is time to consider thoughtfully its arrangement, its units, its equipment, as well as its walls, its floors, and its woodwork.

But it is so near holiday time, some one protests! We are all so busy! That's just it—we will be busy—in our kitchens. So why not plan on celebrating this approach to a new year, and a better year, by giving the home's heart, the kitchen, a present or two which it may be much in need of, a present of something we have wanted for a long time, but have kept putting off—until . . .

"For that "until" time is now with us, a propitious moment for making ourselves and our houses much more comfortable and a great deal happier. Financing possibilities now include any built-in unit which is a part of the house, or becomes a part, after its installation. Under the head of built-in features we find not only sinks and ranges and refrigerators, but built-in desks, tables, breakfast nooks, ironing cabinets, utility closets, incinerators and the like.

New Sinks, Cabinets, Linoleum Can Transform Kitchen.

In the remodeled kitchen pictured today, which was a prize winner in a recent modernizing contest, Mrs. Link achieved a number of practical and attractive improvements. She availed herself of some of the modern wall cabinets and cupboards, units which, by their extreme flexibility, are well adapted to modernizing work. She also installed a new acid resisting porcelain enamel sink of a soft green color. She laid new green linoleum on her floor and resurfaced the walls with paint and prettily patterned, washable wall paper. Besides this she refinished her woodwork, waxing its enameled surface. This waxing of woodwork is an excellent treatment, for it not only preserves the finish but keeps it from becoming stained and too hard to clean.

In brief, Mrs. Link transformed a 1925 kitchen into a 1935 kitchen! And what others are doing, we can do!

While we are busily preparing for the Christmas ahead, let's keep a finished picture of our kitchen—as we would like to have it. We can move ahead much faster, we're told, in every way in life, if we will only keep the picture of what we want in our minds! No architect can create the plan of a house without the definite idea first. Nor can we recreate successfully from the old, a single room in our home, unless before we start we have definitly imagined—and laid out—the whole.

Waste Space May Be Used for Breakfast Nook, Rest Corner.

It is comforting to reflect that many of the faults which most frequently beset our kitchens are faults which after all are easily remedied.

If we have an old kitchen which is too large, we have abundant space then for a colorful breakfast set, or a play nook for young children, or a rest corner for ourselves . . . that is, a corner according to the newest idea; a built-in desk, a telephone, a radio, a comfortable chair, and cook books, account books, recipe files, and order blanks.

If we have a kitchen which is too small, then by dexterous arrangement and by investing in a few of the newer space saving units . . . a kitchen cabinet, a cupboard, a cabinet sink and so on . . . we can manage to increase the feeling of size in our kitchen by many cubic feet, and wrest for practical uses more actual square feet of space.

Plumbing Tells Tales About Age.

There is nothing which reveals the age of a house more quickly than its plumbing. Perhaps it is a new sink the kitchen needs, an easy to clean, acid resisting porcelain enamel sink or a silvery sink stamped out of one piece of shimmering, stainless metal. Or we may decide on a new automatic refrigerator, one large enough for the entire family's use, a modern one with all the marvelous luxury conveniences these new refrigerators possess.

We'll be lucky, too, if this Christmas brings us a new range, gas or electric; a stunning range, harmonizing in color with our kitchen scheme and equipped with the automatic controls now so much in evidence—and appreciated by those who use them.

Or again it may be a new cabinet we decide on, or a work table with acid resisting enamelware surface; a table mounted on casters if our kitchen is large enough and a table, besides, which is the right height! Or this may be the year when we will add an electric dishwasher to our kitchen, and help ourselves in the doing to some extra time for other things!

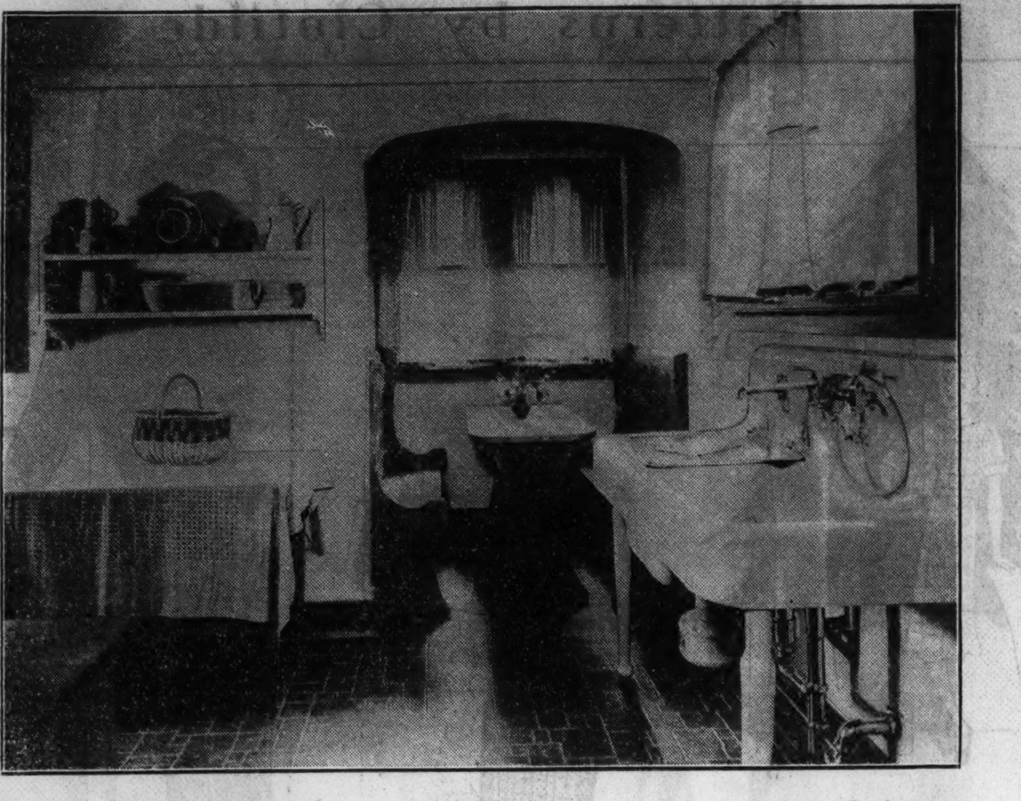
Prices Are Still Low, Financing Problems Simple.

When we modernize or take steps toward definitly renewing our kitchen's youth, we each of us have our individual problems. But in most cases, with a little thought, our kitchen will prove more amenable to change than we may have imagined. On investigation we will find, too, that in most instances, financing, if we wish to avail ourselves of it, will not be difficult. And last, but not least, prices are still low!

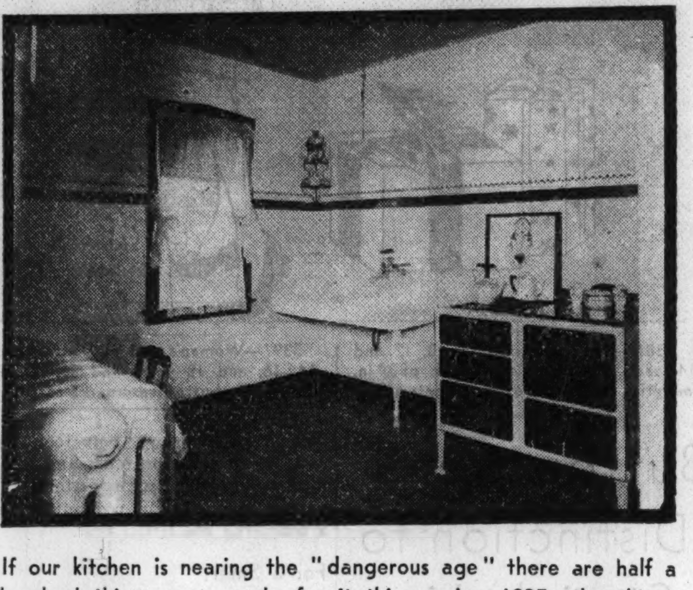
By way of suggesting some ideas for attractive indoor and outdoor lighting at holiday time, I have prepared a free leaflet, "Christmas Lighting." It will be sent to you on request, if you will send in a stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Saturday at 11:50 a. m.

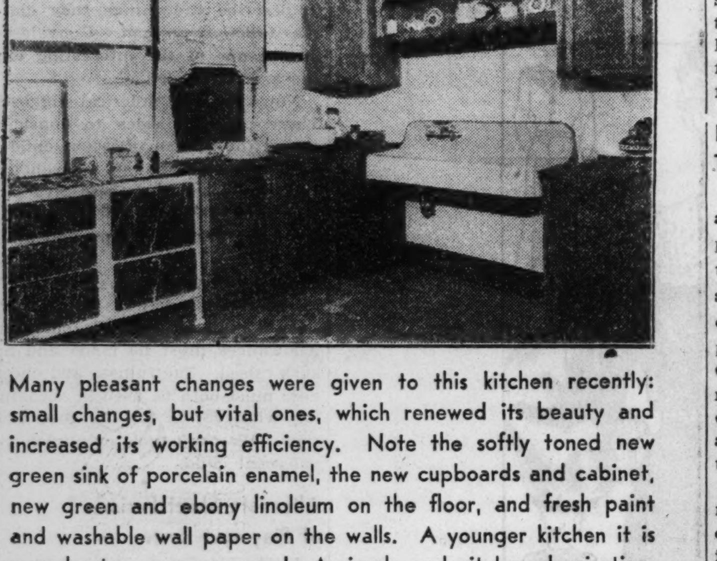
A CONVENIENT NOOK



Many kitchens are large enough so that, with a little careful planning, they afford space for a gay little breakfast nook. Or an old pantry or porch or entry hall may be brought into the picture and remodeled to house brightly painted table and chairs. It doesn't matter so much where a breakfast nook is, assuming of course that it is near the kitchen . . . the main thing is to have it! For in this way we recreate from the old a bright, new room.



If our kitchen is nearing the "dangerous age" there are half a hundred things we can do for it this coming 1935—the things we have wanted to do for a long time. These are psychological weeks for home stock taking, with the wealth of financing opportunities available. Here a kitchen is shown in the home of Mrs. A. C. Link, 5151 Addition street, Chicago, before its modernization.

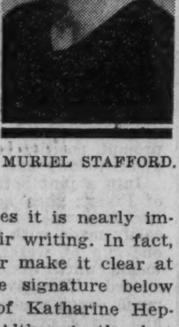


Many pleasant changes were given to this kitchen recently: small changes, but vital ones, which renewed its beauty and increased its working efficiency. Note the softly toned new green sink of porcelain enamel, the new cupboards and cabinet, new green and ebony linoleum on the floor, and fresh paint and washable wall paper on the walls. A younger kitchen it is now, by ten or more years! A simple and vital modernization.

Emotional Persons Write So Fast Their Scribble Is Illegible

DO YOU feel everything keenly and do you find it very difficult to control your feelings? Are you warmly and deeply sympathetic? If so, you are to be classified with the emotional people.

These writers are ruled by their heart and not by their heads. They are apt to fall desperately in love and they do not recover easily.



MURIEL STAFFORD.

Their likes and dislikes are intense. Most of them show what they feel and say what they think. For evident reasons many great actors and actresses belong in this classification.

Emotional persons write fast, very fast. Sometimes it is nearly impossible to read their writing. In fact, I think I had better make it clear at this point that the signature below is a reproduction of Katharine Hepburn's signature. Although the last name is practically illegible, there is still evidence of a swinging rhythm.

There are two other important points to be emphasized in this interesting handwriting. The letters slant to the right, so that they seem to be rushing fervently and impulsively ahead. The pressure is very forceful. The firmer and darker the pressure in a very sloping handwriting, the more positive you can be that the writer is not mildly affectionate, but passionately and ardently emotional.

Even if you knew nothing about Miss Hepburn and little about graphology, your reaction to this signature would probably be correct. You would immediately think, "What an unusual person!" And you would wonder about her. There is so much to discuss in this unusual specimen that I must take care not to digress. Notice the long, sweeping, powerful t-bar and the definitly upward swing of the base line. Here is some one who wants what she wants—and gets it!

Softly rounded letter formations are not found in a super-emotional handwriting. The letters have a sharpened effect at the top. The more nearly pointed the letter tops are, the greater the intensity of the subject's nature.

THREE TULIPS

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

"THREE TULIPS" is a combination pieced and applique block which is as old as the St. Louis exposition, where it was first exhibited. Two shades of red and soft green and brown are tones which blend together beautifully and mellow with age. The quilting used with this block is a self pattern with a narrow rope design along the three inch border. My first acquaintance with this lovely pattern was in the small town of Roberts, Ill., where it was packed away with twenty-five of the loveliest quilts I have ever seen. These were made by the same woman. Now that her family has grown up and left home she doesn't need more than the eight she has on her beds and in the guest room!

New Draperies Frame Windows in Gay Colors

Cotton Damask, Linen, Velvet Corduroy Appear in Novelty Patterns.

Would you like to dress your kitchen in new colors? Are you tired of the same old thing? Miss Winslow has arranged some color schemes for both the well lighted and the dark kitchen which will be sent you on request. Remember to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this leaflet.

By Claire Winslow.

YOUR windows can be the loveliest pictures in your living room this season if you'll make the acquaintance of the beautiful new drapery fabrics. When the dark days of winter fill the house with subdued lights, when the world outside is all in grays and violets you need color in your rooms to carry warmth and cheer.

Women still hesitate, as a rule, to flaunt it on walls and floors. They cling to the neutral background. So, where else can they introduce it if not in draperies and upholstery fabrics?

The picture today shows a half dozen smart, artistic, medium priced materials I collected as being both colorful and brand new. They are photographed at close range to give you some idea of their lovely textures, but unfortunately I can't record their colors. You will have to see those yourselves to become as enthusiastic over them as I am. You can buy any or all in a Chicago store.

New Velvet Corduroy Has Diagonal Ridging.

First, starting at the left, is a beautiful, rich brown fabric with a wavy ribbon pattern in beige. Its sheen is so lovely that you'll be sure to call it a satin damask, but it is not at all. It's one of the new cotton damasks. And it comes in other artistic hues that are a delight to the eye. Its price is most reasonable.

Second is a stunning green synthetic silk material, made for the first time with an interesting meshy texture, the diagonal self-tone stripe seeming to stand out from the background. This drapes marvelously and is quite luxurious in appearance, while remaining in the medium price range. It would be charming in a room with pale gray walls and a deep green rug, with notes of Chinese yellow in upholstery and accessories.

Next comes a handsome printed linen, moss green and beige. You can buy it by the yard, or already made up into draperies at an astonishingly low price. And if you can't use green you have a selection of three or four other colors. This is the sort of design and material that are good in almost any living room, no matter what the furnishings.

Fourth from the left is a perfect beauty, a velvet corduroy showing diagonal rather than the usual straight ridging. Here is a really stunning drapery fabric and one that may be used on furniture, as well. It has a gorgeous, satiny sheen, is soft and luxurious to the touch, and wears splendidly. It's fifty inches wide and may be had in pure white, turquoise, golden yellow, and blue. You'll love it.

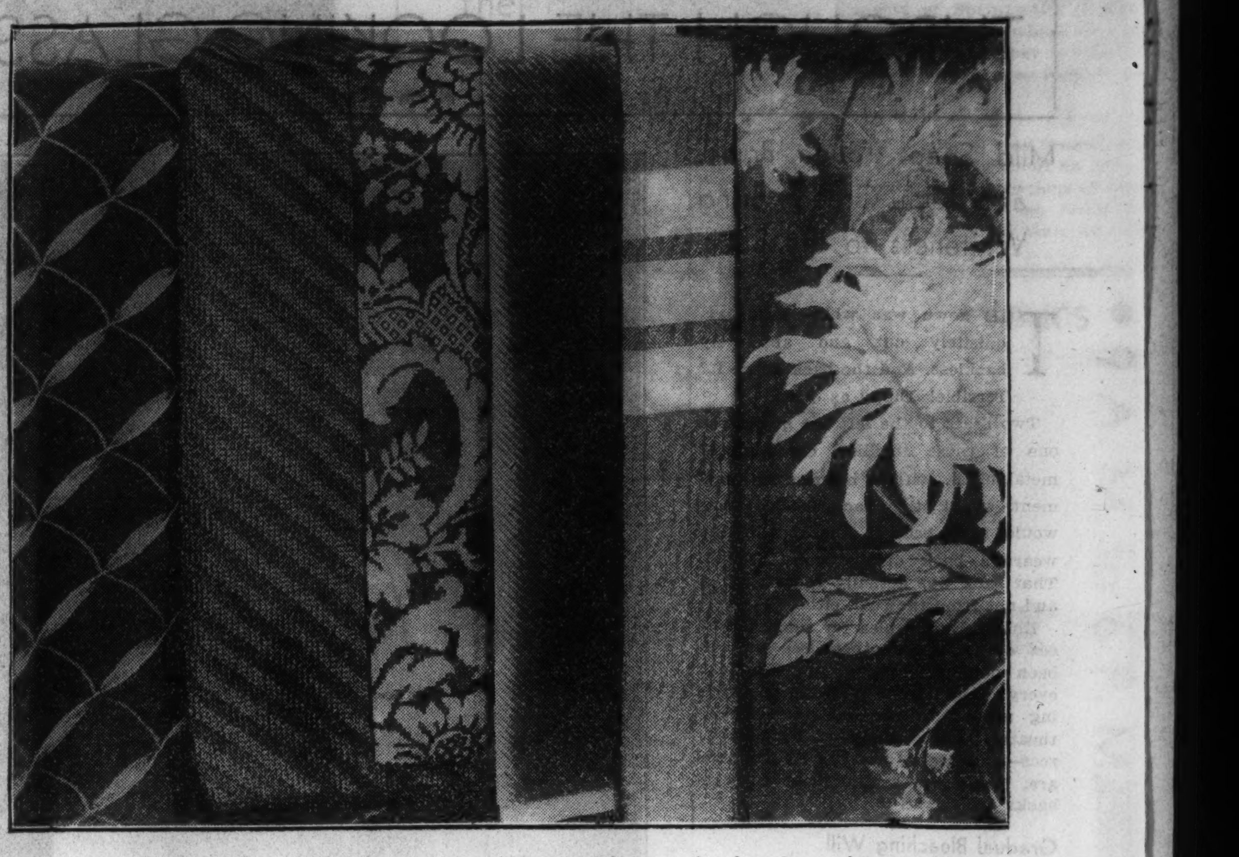
Cotton Crash Shows Graduated Colors.

Next, a plain cotton crash takes on a flair because it comes 100 inches wide, so that you use the width of the material for the length of your draperies and buy just the amount you want on the rods. It's ideal for the window of unusual measurements, or for any type, for that matter. The color is graduated, starting with light tints and deepening toward the bottom of the drapery and is traversed horizontally by groups of white stripes, three together. The crash pictured is beige and light brown and you may also choose a pretty yellow or a peach. There are some terrifically bright combinations intended for the younger fry.

Last is the unusual fascinating Japanese chintz—as new as today, as old as the culture of the orient. On a brilliant, deep blue ground great white chrysanthemums weave a beautiful pattern, their green foliage contrasting and proving once more that blue and green do "go together" in accord. You know, so many women are afraid to combine them, for some strange reason.

This chintz, while intended for the living room, would be equally lovely in a bedroom or a dining room. And, again, the price tag is a nice surprise.

LUXURIOUS BUT INEXPENSIVE



Here are some of the best looking new winter drapery fabrics to be found anywhere in Chicago. The majority of them are interestingly textured cotton weaves, and the colors are rich and beautiful.

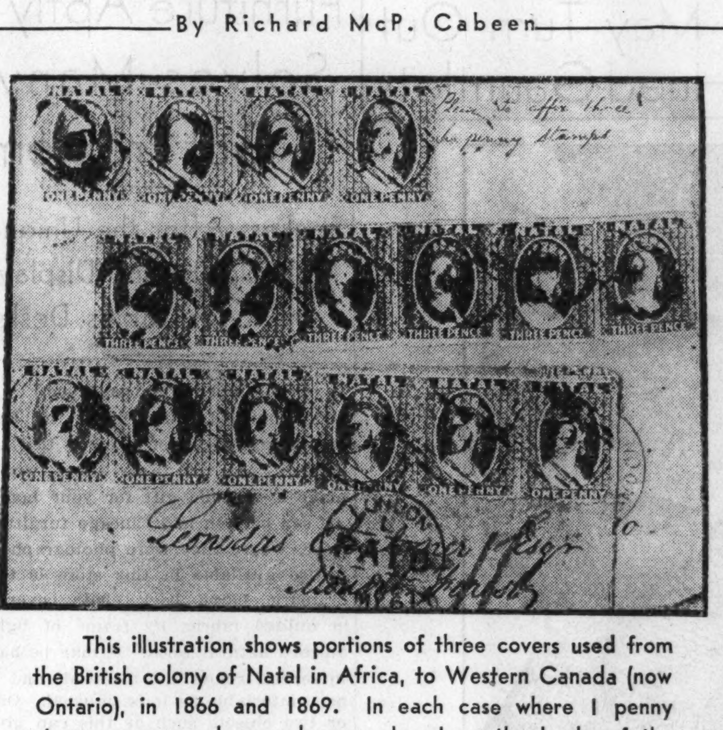
THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

THE 24-cent value of the "Bank Note Issues," as the stamps issued between 1870 and 1890 are called by collectors, should be an easy one to classify if the collector is fortunate enough to own one or more copies. The National Bank Note company first issued this value, and along with the other stamps in the series, it occurs both with and without the grill of points which was used for a time in an attempt to prevent the cleaning of stamps.

When the Continental company took over the work in 1873, the original plate of the preceding company was in good shape and was used for all stamps printed, and no new plate was ever made showing the secret mark which had been engraved on the die in 1873. The demand for this value became less and less due to reductions in foreign rates, and upon June 30, 1875, printing and issuance was discontinued. The records are not clear concerning the number of stamps printed and issued by the Continental company, but it is certain that the greater share or possibly all of the 365,000 stamps printed by that company were ultimately destroyed.

There is no way by which the collector can identify the work of the last named company, and it is a good plan for every one except the specialists and experts to forget that the standard catalog lists a 24-cent stamp of 1873.



This illustration shows portions of three covers used from the British colony of Natal in Africa, to Western Canada (now Ontario), in 1866 and 1869. In each case where 1 penny stamps were used several were placed on the backs of the envelopes. The rate at the time was 18 pence, or 36 cents.

Lithuanian Stamp.

In 1918 Lithuania became a self governing country after centuries of Polish and Russian domination, and in 1928 the completion of ten years of independence was celebrated by a stamp series of which two values were of the design shown. This is an allegory of the ten years freedom and shows a laurel crowned figure emerging from a dark semi-circular cavern into the bright sunlight. The figure has a cuff and broken chain on his right wrist and holds aloft the cross of Lorraine in his left hand. The sun is represented by a colorless disc surrounded by a sunburst of colored stripes and bearing a Roman numeral "X," indicative of the ten years.

Stamp Maps.

This does not refer to maps made up by cutting and fitting stamps together, but to maps which are illuminated by mounting upon a broad margin, typical stamps of the countries included in the map. These serve not only to give interest to a map, but also to fix the location of minor countries firmly in the mind of the collector.

While often made by individuals, it seems that the labor involved in making a set of maps of the entire world should be shared by the members of a club, or by pupils in a geography class, etc. Complete instructions for making maps, with a list of all materials needed, is contained in the recent catalog, "United States Stamps and Other Offers," which may be obtained upon request from H. E. Harris & Co., 108 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, Mass.

Novel Auction Idea.

The Franco company of Chicago has introduced a novel idea in auction sales which appears to have some merit in that it eliminates competitive personal bidding which sometimes becomes a sort of contest between bidders and raises prices to unwaranted heights. The new idea is a perpetual auction in which the lots are mounted on loose leaf pages and sold to the highest bid entered at the bottom of the page at 9:00 p. m., on the fourteenth day following. Bidders, who are limited to recommended collectors, receive a number which is entered with their bids, and the date, in spaces provided for this purpose. Details may be obtained from Ernst A. Stewart, auction manager, 3252 North Clark street.

Airmail Stamps for Iceland.

This interesting country has just issued a series of six airmail stamps, although it is understood that there are no airplanes or airways for mail on the island. Perhaps they will be ready for the next flying armada which drops in on its trans-Atlantic flight. The 10 and 20 aur values show a plane over the plain of Thingvalla, the 25 and 50 aur values show a plane over a glacier and the 1 and 2 crown stamps show a plane over Iceland.

New U. S. Rarity.

The event of the month, so far as United States stamps are concerned, was the discovery in November of an unused copy of the rare perforation variety of the 1 cent stamp of 1922 which is listed in the standard catalog as number 594. Heretofore some thirty used copies of this stamp were known but until Max Wulson, a New York dealer, spotted the missing variety in a boy's collection, no collector had ever seen an unused copy. This unique specimen is of the same type as the current 1 cent stamps, and is printed on the rotary presses, but instead of being perforated 11 by 10½, as are the current stamps, it is perforated eleven all around. In 1922 when this rarity was issued the gauge of the perforation usually applied to sheets of rotary press stamps was ten, that is ten holes in each two centimeters.

Used copies of this stamp will bring about $300 each and it would not be far amiss to say that it will cost some one as many thousands before the unused one is buried in a collection.

Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

Trousseau of Marina Lesson for All Women

Her Wedding Dress, Her Attendants' Gowns the Ultimate in Paris Chic.

Marginal Notes on Marina's Trousseau

● Princess Marina is, among many other things, an accomplished artist, and her choice of color schemes for her frocks gives proof of her genius for mixing colors. In her trousseau she has combined:

A beige velvet evening jacket with a bois de rose crepe evening dress.

A navy blue taffeta evening cape with a pervenche [periwinkle] blue evening frock of crinkled crepe.

A navy blue wool afternoon ensemble highlighted with sky blue velvet.

A black corrugated crepe satin evening dress with silver lame bands and petunia red sash.

● A new fashion in details for evening comes via the trousseau. One of the Princess' black velvet evening gowns has a natural pigskin tailored belt and she wears short, bulky pigskin gloves with it.

● The preferred silhouette of the many frocks in this splendid trousseau, all made by Molyneux, is a slim, streamline, mostly bias-cut, and with simple sleeves, soft bodices and sashes or simple belts at the waistline. Jackets are preferred to coats, and they are mostly loose and rather long.

● The Princess' hats are low-crowned, and her slippers are simple pumps, trimmed only with tiny bands.

By Bettina Bedwell.

ANCIENT Westminster abbey discarded a mantle of remote and glorious memories last Thursday, and stood forth in trailing clouds of white and silver, hung with the white roses of England. The handsome young duke of Kent, fourth and youngest son of King George V., and blue eyed Princess Marina of Greece were being married.

It all began a while ago in a little salon, beside an open window through which the Slovenian Alps peered in. There in that room the Princess Marina said "Yes" to Prince George of England.

When the news of the engagement broke, Princess Marina of Greece could have walked into any dress making salon in this entire world and have taken her pick of the most glorious clothes. The princess knows her way about the world of fashion. She has that invisible but powerful quality we call "chic." She finally chose Molyneux of Paris and London to make not only her wedding clothes and those of her cortège but most all of her trousseau.

"Marina Green" Already Flashed Over the World.

Already "Marina green" has been flashed over the world. It is a soft, pure shade of turquoise, and one of her most beautiful Molyneux evening gowns is done in this color.

The wedding gown, sketched by Miss Dulin, is made of silver brocade. The court train and the cuffs are lined with gauze woven with silver threads. The tulle veil is held by a glorious tiara of diamonds.

The stately simplicity of the moyen age bridal dress, with its wide, gracious sleeves, caught the rhythm of this most magnificent of marches to the altar.

The bridesmaids' frocks of pebbly white crêpe threaded all over with tiny silver threads, had sleeves copied from those of the bride's dress, as you can see at the right. Sashes of silver lamé tied slim waists, and the skirts with their nine yard hems fell in organlike folds almost to the floor. The cowl drapery at the necklines in front gives way to surpliced crossing at the back of the bodices.

Bride's Mother Introduces Only Note of Gold.

The two littlest bridesmaids, Lady Mary Cambridge, aged 10 years, and Princess Elizabeth of York, aged 8, were clad in white tulle dresses—No. 3 in the sketch. They had foundation frocks of silver spotted crêpe and wore white rose garlands in their curls and at the necklines of their frocks.

A PRINCESS AND HER BRIDAL CORTEGE

● No. 1: Princess Nicolas of Greece wore this slim, streamline frock of ivory and gold brocaded silk crepe, made by Molyneux, when her daughter, Princess Marina, married Prince George of England. The luxurious fur cape is mink. The only trimming consists of softly shirred drapery at the neckline and on the sleeves. ● No. 2: This is the wedding gown of Princess Marina—the most famous wedding gown in the world today. It is made of pure silver, brocaded with roses, and the court train and sleeve cuffs are lined with silver gauze. No trimming mars the royal simplicity of the gracious moyen age line. Clouds of white tulle flow from a magnificent tiara of diamonds. Molyneux made it. ● No. 3: Two of the smallest maids of honor, Princess Elizabeth of York and Lady Mary Cambridge, wore frocks like this. They are made of white tulle with bouffant tiered skirts and flying sleeves. Molyneux put them over foundations of white silk crepe closely dotted with silver. Garlands of white roses appear at the neckline. They are also used in the hair. ● No. 4: Six bridesmaids—the grownup maids of honor—wore this Molyneux model, which was made identical for each. The material is pebbly white silk crepe, dulled-like angel skin, and closely threaded with silver. Flashing silver lame makes the short sashes. The skirts are circular and nine yards around the hem. The bodices are draped softly at the neck and have wide sleeves. White rose garlands bind the hair. This gown was worn by Princess Juliana of Holland, Princess Irene of Greece, Princess Katharine of Greece, Princess Eugenie of Greece, Grand Duchess Kyra of Russia, and Lady Iris Mountbatten of Great Britain.

Individuality Gives Anna Sten a "Different Beauty"

Of All Her Features, the Eyes Are Loveliest, Intelligent and Deep.

By Antoinette Donnelly

MISS ANNA STEN, motion picture star, is one of those lights in a newspaper-working girl's life that brighten an interview hour appreciably. She's "different." She's interesting. She has something. She's not one of the most startling beauties I have met. Without being fat, she is, nevertheless, not of the Patrician clan to whom we have become more or less accustomed in our big box office women of the screen. But even in that warmth of line she's different, and refreshing. She's Russian, as you know. And she stages herself [for an interview, anyway] in that character. A Chauve Souris, bright hanky-bandeau binds her blonde locks, framing the full, round face.

Her Eyes Reveal Intelligence and Depth.

But, sisters, she has eyes! Don't ask me what color. Gray, perhaps blue, hazel, maybe. I don't know. The color doesn't matter. They're intelligent, wide set eyes. Talking eyes, if you will! Flame, depth, warmth, sparkle, as the mood is on. Of these orbs one of our famous authors, comparing Miss Sten's photograph with another's, said: "Look at those eyes. They show a different inner life." As a rule I avoid conflict with "the inner life" when exploring for beauty secrets. I have heard certain young women of beauty fame spouting about "beauty from within" as the key to their good-looks luck, when their inner lives already had made sensational headlines. Their eyes did not support the testimony somehow. To paraphrase the old saying about eyes being the mirror of the soul, let's just say you can't get away with murder [in the beauty secret sense] because of the eyes. There's a warm soul or a cold, calculating soul, a shallow, a cheap, or a fine big soul for eyes to mirror, and the eyes do it. It's Miss Sten's theory, too. As she puts it, "there's soul and heart in the eyes, spirit and light!"

The greatest beauty of Anna Sten, Russian actress whose loveliness is completely individual, is in her eyes. They reflect intelligence and the warm and vital spirit of her personality.

And eyes, being what they are, the point of authority, why not, asks the Russian born star, make them the highlight of the face? Why strawberry-jam the mouth, why deep-dye the cheek-blush with lipstick and rouge to drown the importance of the most important feature—eyes? So Miss Sten plays down her lipstick tones, leaves rouge for other cheeks, shadows the eyelid with a faint gray-blue, and lets them go ahead and talk for themselves.

Overdoing Is Handicap to Any Beauty Scheme.

Overdoing, thinks Miss Sten, is the secret of mistakes in everything in life. I suggested "underdoing" as a possible rival. "No," she argued, "underdoing leaves something to guess about; what it would be like if finished." And that's not a bad idea to register, either.

We talked of charm and charming people, the coming standard supplanting straight beauty appraisals. She characterized the old world woman's charm as a lazy charm, the American woman's as a quick minded, vital charm, each in the rhythm of the world in which they live. She likes the straight shooting aim of the American in contrast to the way other women have of aiming in a roundabout way to hit their mark.

Born in the snow, as Miss Sten says of herself, the balmy California weather is not her idea of heavenly climate. She wants cold, invigorating climate, and ice cold water for her daily bath. Her bath water is as cold as it runs from the tap, she tells me. Icy water with soap is the only beauty secret she can claim. This and a lung expanding exercise in which breathing is the vital note. No matter how little time she may have, this is her religiously kept morning health prayer. It's to wake up her body, she says, by filling the lungs with fresh air, exhaling the stale. Outdoors, if possible, it is done. If not, indoors, then, before a wide open window. Thirty times, at least, she raises her arms in a wide circle up overhead, inhaling fresh ozone. Then down with the arms, exhaling. But the movement is not done with hands. On the upswing of arms there is tense, slow muscle pull in the arms. Shoulders, bust, and back are conscious of the muscle lift, to get an "opened up chest," as she puts it, lungs filled. Then, for good measure, a couple of minutes' run around the room, or outdoors, lifting knees high.

THE WINTER LEAF

By Eleanor Jewett.

A little dry leaf
Clings brown and high
To the top of the elm
In the winter sky.

Tell, little brown leaf,
Why did you stay
When your brothers and sisters
Were blown away?

The little leaf laughs
With a crackling sound:—
"I can see more here
Than I could from the ground!"

Bleaching Drain Boards Improves Their Appearance

OLDISH looking wood drain boards are not a happy sight, especially around a house at holiday time. To bleach these drain boards apply a saturated solution of oxalic acid, used generously, and allow it to remain all night. In the morning wash it well and rinse thoroughly. Then, when the board is dry, soak in a coat of raw linseed oil, wiping away the oil in about an hour. After two or three applications of this oil you will find that the board is quite resistant to further staining and soiling.

Woman Is Among the Best Wheat Growers in Oregon

ONE of the best wheat growers in Oregon is a woman. Mrs. Elizabeth Kunpetz of Springwater reaped twenty-four bushels of wheat to the acre this season, while her neighbors harvested but two to ten bushels to the acre.

Irene Rich, who had the role of Linda in "The Champ." The title part was played by Beery.

Meet Mr. Wallace Beery of the Films, the Wise Man of Hollywood

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

Hollywood, Cal.

WALLACE BEERY is the wisest man in Hollywood. Behind those twinkling eyes and that comedy pan lives the clearest brain in the picture colony. The beetling, bushy brows; the half growth of beard on the face and chin that usually ornaments it when he is not lunching at the Brown Derby, the apex of his social appointments; the scowl or grin that drapes his distinctly nonclassical features (his face is never neutral; it's either happy or scowling)—all this does not suggest a philosopher. Wally probably would be quite offended at being called that, but it's exactly what he is.

He's had an Arabian Nights sort of career, this mug; he's had ups and he's had downs. He doesn't stay down; that's what makes him different. He's taken the breaks, man and boy, in the entertainment business for twenty-five years. He's made money, and he's lost it, again and again. He's been on top of the heap, and he's been looking for jobs that didn't come. He married Gloria Swanson, the most glamorous of all Hollywood's exotic women, and he knew the bitterness of losing her. He's been a success and a failure.

Underneath, and aside from the wallops Fate has handed him, Wally always has been the same. He weighs things, sizes up situations, and doesn't get thrown off balance easily. There never was a better actor with less temperament. He's been up and down so many times that he's never become too dizzy about his own importance. He had that first taste of glory in the old days, when he was getting seventy-five a week at Sennett's and Gloria got fifty, and they used to dash about Hollywood in a yellow open car, Gloria hanging onto a huge sailor hat draped with an auto veil as Wally drove at the breakneck speed of twenty-five miles an hour, scattering unwary dogs and chickens from the ranches that still abutted along pepper-tree-lined Hollywood boulevard.

That was the first peak in the longest career in pictures on record. There have been three others since then when Wally Beery has been a star. His amazing versatility always has made it possible for him to come back and make a hit again, when the vogue for him has faded, in some entirely new sort of part. Beginning as a Swede housemaid in Essanay comedies, he progressed into the Sennett comedy roles; when his loss of Gloria Swanson made him lose interest in everything for a while, he drifted, but landed nicely as the German villain in "The Four Horsemen" after starting his successful villaining in Marshall Neilan's "The Unpardonable Sin," with Blanche Sweet. "Behind the Door," with Hobart Bosworth, was another of the villain hits at that time.

A Hit as Jolly King Richard

Then came "Robin Hood," with Douglas Fairbanks, and he was such a hit as the genial King Richard that a picture was made starring him in that role. "The Wanderer" at Paramount supplied another mutton-leg-gnawing role for him, and then came a slump. The third peak was as a comic, with Raymond Hatton, with whom he was teamed very successfully. This wore out, and then came his contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He waited eight months for his chance in "The Big House," but it brought him stardom again, and his success in character-lead stories has been phenomenal. His fourth peak has brought him through "The Champ," "Grand Hotel," "Tugboat Annie" with Marie Dressler, "The Bowery," and "Treasure Island," and shortly, as "The Mighty Barnum," he is to appear again. He has never had a larger public than he enjoys at present. There is no career in Hollywood like his for its ups and downs.

Beery's secret of success, if one may call it by that trite term, is his versatility. Many other mugs have been popular on the screen, have had their day and gone. Walter Huston, a very fine actor, with a face as unromantic as Beery's, achieved success, but has returned to the stage and been absent from films for more than a year. Charles Bickford, red-headed he-man of films, star of "Dynamite," the big De Mille production of several years ago, had his vogue, and in spite of being a fine actor is little heard of on the screen now. George Bancroft, another unhandsome he-man, has suffered an eclipse. While these men were all tremendously successful for a time, and very able actors, Beery has outdistanced them all, for his roles have been so varied that his appeal has not become stale.

Luck is not accountable for all of this success. Beery has had numerous misfortunes in his private life, in his career, and in his business ventures. He has been flat broke many times since he has been a star. His new home was burned to the ground a couple of years ago, during his absence. His own plane, lent to a friend, crashed with fatal results for one passenger. These things struck deep. His greatest tragedy was his loss of Gloria Swanson in his early years. The heights and depths of that marriage can best be judged by the blazing career of the exotic Gloria from those days right down to the present. Any one of these reverses supplied enough material for any man to lie down and cry over. When Beery was working in "Treasure Island" he was constantly ridden with anxiety over his wife, Rita, who lay near death in the hospital. Radio, planes, and motor boats kept him in constant communication with her from the location at Catalina, from which he rushed as soon as his day's work was done to be at her bedside. Yet the picture shows one of his finest characterizations.

That's where Beery's brand of philosophy comes in. He can take it. He's not easily thrown off balance.

Ill at Ease with Interviewers

He hates woman interviewers. He has no "line" to hand out. Beery is frankly ill at ease with writers. He spars around a bit, frankly suspicious, but with encouragement he settles down and begins to talk. He's a good talker. He talks about things that interest him. If he's asked questions he answers them sometimes in a very unexpectedly frank way.

At the beginning of the interview herein recorded Beery sat at a desk in the publicity department of the studio, sketching diagrams and jotting down figures as he spoke. It's about airplanes and flying, his hobby. "You've got to allow a certain deflection for wind velocity or you'll get nowheres, d——n it,"

Impressions of a Drama Old Enough to Vote

Revival of "Romance" at Blackstone Illustrates Process Called 'Dating.'

By Charles Collins.

THE revival of Edward Sheldon's once famous drama, "Romance," at the Blackstone theater stimulates discussion of the process of decay, called "dating," which attacks a play almost at its birth and continues until the work is either a classic or an old program in the scrapbook and a few lines of type in the archives. "Romance" is not and never will be a classic, and it has become "dated" much more than many other plays of its own age, which is twenty-one years. Let us seek, therefore, for the reasons why.

In the first place, it is a full-blown illustration of a method of dramatic authorship which is practiced no longer—the deliberate development of a stellar rôle. The contemporary playwright endeavors to create a group of characters more or less in balance. He writes for a cast. Certainly he will have a leading rôle or two, but he will not be constantly influenced by the necessity of building up a character as an elaborate full-length portrait of a star. "Romance" is a perfect example of the "star system" school of drama, which has become obsolete.

Love Story of the Old School.

In the second place, modern plays have become topical and thematic; they deal with a subject, a phase of life, a certain aspect of this or that matter, about which the author feels he has something to say. Often his point of view is ironical. "Romance" deals with nothing but love, certainly a well worn subject, and its heroine is merely that figure of Sunday supplement romance, an opera singer.

Thirdly, this is a drama of "situation" according to the technique of the elder playwrights, who felt that the mechanics of plot was the all-important matter. Your modern author also has a sense of "situation," but he has become sophisticated in the matter. He causes issues to meet by indirection; he avoids obvious "plants" of plot-making devices; he seeks to avoid the typical "big" situation, in which emotion meets counteremotion nose to nose.

Furthermore, "Romance" is frankly and totally a sentimental play, while today's style in life, as well as letters, is cynical. Sentimentality is regarded in this year of grace as a form of literary leprosy.

Clergyman of Boy Scout Type.

And again, plausibility of detail is sedulously sought after by the journeyman playwright of the present, even if his ambitions are merely commercial and his highest hopes are represented by a six months' run on Broadway and a fat honorarium for the cinema rights. Edward Sheldon has achieved plausibility in his central rôle, Mme. Cavallini, "golden nightingale" of the opera stage who was Patti's rival. He has studied the character carefully and painted her in rich and convincing detail with fidelity to the type as it was known in the 1870s. But his other leading rôle, the rector of St. Giles', is merely the stalking-horse of a plot.

It is difficult for me to believe that this ingenuous young man, a stereotype of the old school athletic parson and a Boy Scout at heart, would have been found in the pulpit of a fashionable New York church with a cultured and worldly congregation. He might have risen to such a pastorate in time, for distinction of presence and a touch of eloquence are implied in the rôle, but he was not ripe for this charge when he met the seductive Cavallini.

He keeps boxing gloves in his study, but I think that the rector of St. Giles', if he had a bent toward the manly art of self-defense, would have left his equipment in the parish house gymnasium. He is said to be an enthusiastic angler, but he permits his trout rods to spend the winter leaning against the wall in a corner over his book shelves, getting a permanent kink.

Habits of the Savage Deer.

This clerical sportsman, incidentally, speaks a line which causes me to believe that his outdoor life was an utter fake. When talking about his hunting exploits he points toward a mounted deer's head over his doorway, calls attention to its antlers, and says:

"He nearly got me with those prongs, but I dropped him just in time."

This allusion to the ferocity of the American deer and its dangerous habit of charging with lowered horns upon shuddering hunters, armed with repeating rifles and high explosive ammunition, makes me gasp with incredulity. I have often tried to get within half a mile of one of these animals in its native forest, but it always charged in the opposite direction.

Perhaps Mr. Sheldon, when he wrote that fantastic line, was thinking of the unicorn.

GOOD Morning!

Well, one batch of white and dark meat has gone to that bourne from which no turkey returns. Now we've got our Christmas shopping to do before we speed the next birds on their way.

Spikking of shopping—make as much of a party of it as you can, darlings! Eat lunch—and take in a movie between forays. You'll accomplish more if you do. And be better satisfied with what you do accomplish. Some good shows are on tap for Christmas and New Year's week, and many of November's banner movies are and will be making heyday at the neighborhood houses.

Following—my favorites of the last month:

"MARIE GALANTE"—"Good news! Good picture!" seddi. ". . . In fact, 'Marie Galante' is a regular humdinger of a mystery spy movie, introducing in the title rôle a most interesting new French star. Ketti Gallian is the name and she is charming. . . . Seldom has a stranger story come to the screen . . . alive with action and suspense . . . inspires your almost hypnotized concentration . . . director sure built up to his climax with amazing skill . . ."

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"—"As compared with the modern, sophisticated movie, 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch' is a soporific, a cool hand on a fevered brow, a little frog pond far removed from the surging ocean . . . right slick job. . . . Any liberties taken with the original story have not been objectionable ones."

"THE MERRY WIDOW"—"Is frothy, tuneful, diverting. The best your money can buy if you're in the market for something that will blithely while the time away without causing you one minute of brain fag. . . . Choosing Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chevalier as Sonia and Danilo was, of course, about the smartest thing the producers could have done. . . ."

"GREAT EXPECTATIONS"—"Universal could be excused for getting a swelled head over 'Great Expectations.' Because it's GOOD. . . . No sinecure to adapt a Dickens' story with its plethora of characters and plots within plots."

"WE LIVE AGAIN"—"Much kowtow to Samuel Goldwyn's perspicacity in securing Russia's Anna Sten for our screens . . . the star of 'Nana' here proves herself, without doubt, to be not only glamorous but great."

"WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS"—"Something whispers sweetly in my ear that you're going to LOVE 'What Every Woman Knows.' . . . Picture, as was the play, is a cunningly contrived affair. It cloaks shrewd philosophy in the homeliest kind of humor, and its thrusts at the amazing conceit of the male of the species are as tenderly delivered as they are pointed. . . . Helen Hayes has never given a more compelling characterization."

Stevens Hotel Has New Cafe; Cabaret Shows

Continental Room Added to Dance, Dine Realm; Terrace Garden's Bill.

THANKSGIVING EVE marked the opening of a new dance-and-dinner room in the Stevens hotel, called the Continental. Manager Otto K. Eitel has sought to make it represent the latest ideas in decoration. Keith Beecher's orchestra has moved from the Boulevard room to this new scene of festivity, and Gypsy Nina, a singing accordionist, is the principal entertainer. . . . Ivan Eppinoff's dance band now plays in the Boulevard room.

● The Terrace Garden, in the Morrison hotel, staged a new cabaret program last Wednesday. Stan Myers' orchestra provides the music; the Virginia O'Brien girls appear in dance numbers; Saita and Anis are the ballroom dancers, and Danny White is the comedian and eccentric dancer. This café has been redecorated in preparation for the winter holidays.

● The Palmer house celebrated Thanksgiving day with entertainment in two dining rooms. The Empire room offered a matinée performance of its regular nightly floor show with dancing from 1 to 4 p. m. This troupe includes Stan Kavanaugh, Roy Cropper, the operetta singer who originated the title rôle of "The Student Prince"; Tommy Martin, Harry and Dorothy Dixon, Dorothy and Dave Fitzgibbons, Lorraine Santschi, Josephine Buckley, June Taylor, the Four Californians, and the Abbott ballet girls.

● George Trabert, light opera singer of extensive experience on the American and German-American stage, has begun an engagement in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. He recently sang here in an all-star revival of "Die Fledermaus." He also acts as master of ceremonies for the floor, which contains Beth and Betty Dodge, Robinson and Loueen, Natalie and Howard, Florence Schubert and Norman Ruvell. Art Kassel's band continues its engagement.

● Charles Hepp, owner of Harry's New York cabaret, dedicated the Globe Trotters' club, a new section of his premises, last Wednesday night.

● Art Fischer and his orchestra are now providing the entertainment at the Southway café. . . . The International Casino club is announced as an addition to night life on the north side. It is situated at 1028 North State street and is under the management of Señor Ramirez of the Casa de Lopez, Spanish restaurant at 158 East Ontario street.

Whisker Situation Is Complicated for Bing Crosby

THE whisker situation is getting Bing Crosby down. Just when he had a bountiful crop of imposing looking mutton chops, beard, and mustache, grown arduously over a period of four weeks for his rôle in "Mississippi," some "added" scenes had to be shot for "Here is My Heart." There are no whiskers on Bing in that picture, so off came the facial adornments.

Which means that Bing once more is recognized by his twin sons and, furthermore, that every day during the making of "Mississippi" he will have to attach crepe whiskers with particularly tenacious glue, and remove them at night with gasoline or alcohol.

Broadway Finds School Tragedy Vigorous Fare

"Children's Hour" Bitter Play of Vengeful Pupil Ruining Teachers' Lives.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—This village of ten million seekers after sensation, taking the outlying districts, has been considerably stirred by a bold but particularly well written drama called "The Children's Hour." The title, I hastily add, is more than a trifle ironic. The play, neither in theme nor content, bears even slight reference to the children's hour about which Mr. Longfellow wrote. Far from it, and au contraire, this is a drama in which a lying child, a brat out of hell if ever one was permitted to roam a stage, completely smashes the lives of two of her lady school teachers by circulating a vile fiction concerning the nature of their admitted love for each other. The dreaded theme is handled with extreme delicacy and without offense.

It is a first play, and Lillian Hellman is the author. She was at one time, I believe, secretary to Horace Liveright, publisher and play producer, and acquired her knowledge of the dramatic form by reading the manuscripts of others. They must have been particularly well constructed plays she read, for her "Children's Hour" is a model of construction, save in one respect. She did not know when to stop writing. The last act is fifteen minutes too long.

Aunt Hints of Unnatural Love Between Schoolma'ams.

In the play Karen Wright and Martha Dobie, after eight years of personal sacrifices and devotion to their jobs, have built a girls' school into a promising success. Now they are prepared to reap a few of the rewards. Karen is to marry young Dr. Joseph Cardin. This, however, will in no way disturb her school work. She, Martha, and Joe will be three in place of two.

On the faculty of the school, teaching voice production and diction, is Martha's aunt, a shallow Lily Mortar, who clings to her memories of being an actress when Sir Henry Irving was her god. Mrs. Mortar is a nuisance and a disturber. Martha decides to send her away for a long rest. Resenting this decision, Mrs. Mortar turns on her niece, accuses her of being unnaturally attracted to and dominated by her friend, Karen, and jealous of Karen's fiancé.

Eavesdropping students overhear the quarrel. One of them, the Mary Tilford who is a brat, a precocious adolescent at the moment fevered by her dippings into neurotic literature, adds her own ideas to the story. To escape punishment for infraction of rules, she runs home to her grandmother and reports the awful goings-on at the school.

The grandmother, a credulous person, calls up other guardians of the young. Within the week the school is deserted and the town buzzing with gossip. Unsuccessful in breaking down the story of the devil child, the schoolma'ams bring a suit for libel against the grandmother and summon the aunt as a witness. She, frightened by the scandal, avoids testifying and the suit is lost.

In the end the victims of the scandal are broken. Karen, sensing the suspicion her fiancé tries to hide, breaks her engagement. Martha, made aware of the deeper significance of her affection for Karen through their trouble, shoots herself through the heart. With defeat completely enveloping her, Karen is left alone to receive the belated regrets of Mary Tilford's grandmother. She has found out now that Mary Tilford lied.

In the perfection of its acting and the sensitiveness and sincerity of its statement "The Children's Hour" becomes rather tremendous drama. There is likely to be some protest against the theme, though its handling is literate, adult, and tactful. The players engaged, fired by the earnestness and honesty of their author, give inspiring performances. Katherine Emery and Anne Revere are the unhappy school mistresses, Florence McGee the diabolically perfect imp of a child, Katherine Emmett the grandmother, and Robert Keith the fiancé.

Up to now there is a good deal of excitement around the theater and no hint of police interference. I am considering organizing a fund that shall pay for the compulsory attendance of all gossiping women.

Morro Castle Disaster Messes Up Bolton-Wodehouse Play.

There is joy in another of the week's productions. That is a musical comedy called "Anything Goes," which comes over from Boston after several weeks of preparation that kept the Codders laughing fit to kill.

"Anything Goes" was written originally by that superior team of librettists, Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse, who were to provide a framework for songs by Cole Porter, himself a superior sort of composer. But a lot went wrong with it. Bolton and Wodehouse were busy with other enterprises in London; Porter was scooting about the continent, and it was difficult to get them together.

Then, when the piece was finished, all its action taking place on an ocean liner, the Morro Castle up and burns and it is discovered that a number of scenes in the play might be unpleasantly reminiscent. The script was thereupon turned over to Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse and they rewrote large parts of it.

But "Anything Goes" Emerges as Smart Entertainment.

As it stands "Anything Goes" is a smart and handsomely produced entertainment, lacking no more in coherence than musical comedies with half as many authors, and having three or four entertainers of first quality to help it along.

Victor Moore is the first of these, appearing as public enemy No. 13 with an ambition to be No. 1 before the evening passes. Victor carries his little putt-putt machine gun with him in making his getaway to Europe. Disguised as an Anglican bishop he easily wins the trap shooting contest with his putt-putt.

Sailing with Victor are William Gaxton, who is pursuing the prima donna, Bettina Hall, and Ethel Merman, who is pursuing the orchestra leader with a variety of songs which she sings with fascinating rhythm and emphasis through a nose that serves nicely as a harmony filter. "I Get a Kick Out of You" protests Miss Merman, melodiously, and "You're the Top." "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" she does with a proper hallelujah spirit. Miss Hall, on the other hand, is not given more than a couple of songs, and this is a waste because Bettina can sing well.

DAWN O'DAY WHO NOW IS ANNE SHIRLEY

Her name used to be Dawn O'Day. Now it's Anne Shirley. She lifted her new monicher from the character she portrays in the film, "Anne of Green Gables." At the Palace.

"JANE EYRE"

And now Jane Eyre and Mr. Rochester step from story book to screen. Virginia Bruce and Colin Clive play the little governess and the man who loves her. "Jane Eyre." Opening at McVicker's Tuesday.

Classics Plus Cinema Bills at McVicker's

"THE combination of Shakespeare's plays and the cinema at McVicker's will be a new event in the theater," says Thomas Wood Stevens, director of the Old Globe Theater productions.

"We believe that Aaron Jones' experiment at McVicker's will prove exciting as a demonstration of the modernity of the world's greatest dramatist and proof of the essential harmony in the methods of the great popular arts of the theater through the ages.

"The old McVicker's presented to its patrons the finest plays of its time; its stage was the home of Shakespearean drama in Chicago.

"The modern McVicker's, taken over by Jones, Linick & Schaefer in 1913, has for many years presented the most distinguished work in the field of the motion picture.

"Starting with a public preview next Tuesday evening, McVicker's will combine two policies. On its screen new feature films of special interest will appear; on the stage, the plays of Shakespeare will be given in the brief, swift form which made the Globe theater the dramatic sensation of A Century of Progress.

"The new stage we have had constructed will reproduce that of the Old Globe, Shakespeare's own theater, which was built in 1598, and our abbreviated versions of both Shakespearean comedies and tragedies will be seen approximately as their author gave them, without intermission, without painted scenery, and in the costumes of the age of Queen Elizabeth.

The program for the first week, in conjunction with the film "Jane Eyre," founded on Charlotte Brontë's novel, will be "Julius Cæsar" at 1:00 p. m. and 2:45 p. m., and "The Taming of the Shrew" at 4:45 p. m., 7:30 p. m. and 10:00 p. m.

Coward Writes Tragedy.

Noel Coward's new play "Point Valaine" turns out to be a tragedy which gives Lynn Fontanne the rôle of a hotel keeper and makes Alfred Lunt a bartender.

Few Composers Able to Write Book of Opera

Most Masterpieces Collaborations of Musicians and Men of Letters.

By Edward Moore.

"WE know that Verdi is the composer of 'Il Trovatore,'" write the Misses M. Mayrand and E. Schou to Vox Pop, from which desk the note is relayed to this, "but we are desirous to know whether or not he also wrote the play.

"We should like to know this about all operas. Is the play as well as the music created by the composer? Is an opera the complete work of one composer or of several?"

Composer and librettist are generally two persons, though some composers have preferred to write their own books, or plays, as the letter calls them. Wagner wrote all his; Gustave Charpentier must have put in about as much time on his popular "Louise" and its unsuccessful sequel, "Julien," as he did on their music; there are a few like cases in the history of opera, such as Arrigo Boito, who wrote librettos for other people and also himself, his "Mefistofele," an adaptation of Goethe's "Faust," and his later "Nerone." But in general the two are rightly considered as distinct, difficult, and specialized professions, and the one who excels in both is an exceptional person.

Book of "Il Trovatore" Based on Gutierrez Drama.

Coming to Verdi. He wrote only the music of his long list of operas, though one finds that he used to confer at great detail with several of his librettists as to the construction of scenes and even to the choice of words. "Il Trovatore" has a book by one Cammarano, but it is not entirely original. It is based on a drama by Gutierrez.

As to the last question, it may not be entirely safe to mention it. Probably most composers would find their blood pressure distinctly raised at the mere thought of collaborating with another composer. It is true that some of the light musical shows may be credited to several composers, but those shows have the special mission of trying to be popular and attract large and continuing audiences.

Metropolitan Star Writes Thrilling Mystery Yarn.

There has been a recent receipt of two books of widely differing import but with real reasons for being on the music shelf. The first is "Murder in the Opera House," by Queena Mario [E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc.].

Queena Mario is a singer of first soprano rôles at the Metropolitan Opera house, New York, with a voice and an ability that would make her an ornament to any opera company. Here she approaches her rôles by indirection. She has written a mystery story, and an uncommonly entertaining one.

Consuelo Elvado is singing Nedda in "Pagliacci" one night—by the way, it is one of Miss Mario's own best performances. At the end of the mimic murder, Elvado is found stretched out on the stage and really dead. From then on trouble starts for every one.

One need not be overly concerned here about how Miss Mario has worked out the mystery story formula, how nearly every one on the stage that night had reason to dislike Elvado and be relieved at her removal. All this works out in the course of some 286 pages. What is more important, perhaps, is the fact that the musicians in the story are real musicians.

One is frequently saddened by the musicians of fiction. Too often such works contain an average of one major musical error and three minor ones to the chapter. Miss Mario, being a musician herself, has avoided them all. She also knows how to spin an interesting tale and tell it in a swift and satisfactory manner. She is a person of more than one marked talent.

New Manual Tells How to Give Gilbert and Sullivan.

The other book is a manual of valuable information to amateur operetta companies, "How to Present the Gilbert and Sullivan Operas," by Albert O. Bassuk [The Bass Publishers]. It is a workable and clearly told set of directions covering, it would seem, everything from musical direction to light plots.

Each operetta has an outline of its story, and a list of costumes, scenery, and properties. An appendix contains a glossary of technical stage terms, another a list of recommended music rental libraries and costumers. There is a chapter on how to conduct rehersals, there are even some hints to the business management on organizing the public and making it operetta conscious. Few things seem to have been overlooked. Incidentally the publishers announce a prize contest, first prize $25, closing Jan. 31, for 300 word essays on "An Appreciation of Gilbert and Sullivan Opera." Address The Bass Publishers, 509 Fifth avenue, New York.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

To mark the amalgamation of the National Association of Organists with the American Guild of Organists, which will become effective Jan. 1, the Chicago chapter of the first group is presenting Palmer Christian in a recital at Thorne hall, McKinlock campus, Tuesday night. Mr. Christian, a former Chicagoan, is now head of the organ department of the University of Michigan music school. Admission will be free.

Next Sunday morning, a week from today, at 11 o'clock in the morning, the Chicago Business Men's orchestra will appear at the Goodman theater in a concert to the memory of George Lytton, who founded the organization in 1921 and was until his death last year its president. It numbers 115 players, and George Dasch is its conductor. It is one of the most able amateur orchestral associations in existence.

MAKES DEBUT AS MANON

Hope Hampton, a newly acquired soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera company, will make her debut at the Civic Opera house Monday, Dec. 10, as Manon in Massenet's like - named opera.

"Salome" to Be Followed by Opera Bouffe

"The Secret of Suzanne" Will Be Sung as Afterpiece Tomorrow Night.

"SALOME" will take on a new partner when it is repeated by the Chicago Grand Opera company tomorrow night. As an afterpiece to the tragedy there will be two of the ballets by Ruth Page and her company that were presented Friday night, of serious nature and in keeping with the opera.

"Martha" and all its delightful tunes will come on Tuesday. Edith Mason and Giuseppe Bentonelli will be the high voiced pair of lovers; Mae Barron [in her debut here] and Joseph Royer those of lower vocal compass.

The two Saturday performances will have their own interest. "Tannhäuser" is billed for the afternoon, and Lotte Lehmann, who was announced to come for the "Lohengrin" performance and did not, is now scheduled to sing Elizabeth. Paul Althouse will also make his first appearance of the season in the name part; Coe Glade will be the Venus and Carl Schiffeler the Wolfram. Henry Weber will again leave station W-G-N to conduct.

"La Bohême" is up for Saturday night, with the rôle of Mimi sung by another debutante, Jean Tennyson, that of Rodolfo by Mario Chamlee, who is here for the first time this season after singing in opera at San Francisco. Margery Maxwell will appear again as Musetta, a rôle which by good singing and expert delineation she has made her own.

HELEN NELSON.

Some interesting concerts are booked for the week. Tomorrow night, at the Auditorium, Nino Martini, a tenor famous in radio and opera, will appear for the first time in Chicago. As far as this part of the country is concerned his is literally a voice from the dark, but that fact has not stopped him from being one of the best known artists in America.

He will share the program with Rosalind Kaplan, the young Chicago pianist who was so much of a child wonder that she began to play with symphony orchestras when she was eight years old, among others, those of Chicago and Detroit. For the last five years she has been studying in Vienna, and is now making her first appearance since her return. She is twenty years old.

Another young pianist whose program shows that she has gone a considerable distance on the path of progress is Helen Nelson, who will appear in joint recital with the soprano, Dorothy Lipson Schild, at Kimball hall on Tuesday evening.

When The School Question Arises

No matter how the world changes, there will always be work to be done. And the man who can bring to it skill and proficiency beyond the average will suffer least under any system of economics. As a parent you may realize this, but you still face the problem of determining the best course of training and the best school for your children. ● If you are having difficulty in selecting a school, get in touch with the Chicago Tribune School Bureau. Here, you can get complete factual information about more than 4,000 schools and colleges. You can obtain expert, individual consideration of your problem. Much of the advice and information which the Tribune School Bureau can give you is based on first-hand, personal knowledge of many schools of all types. ● There is no charge for Tribune School Bureau services. "THANK YOU FOR HAVING LOVED ME"

[Drawing by Ben Cohen.]

Here is a pen-and-ink impression of Eugenie Leontovich in the role of Mme. Cavallini, the seductive Italian opera singer who dominates Edward Sheldon's drama, "Romance," now at the Blackstone theater. Note the billowing taffeta crinoline of the 1870s—Miss Leontovich's first act costume. In the corner is the shy but ardent rector of St. Giles, acted by Philip Huston. She will break his heart.

Hollywood Happenings

Henry Travers, native Scot, who fled Hollywood after the last earthquake, has returned to play a rôle in Clark Gable and Constance Bennett's new starring film, "Town Talk." He will be remembered as the funny Father Krug in "Reunion in Vienna."

Movie rain is wet, and sometimes cold as well. Francis Lister, English actor imported to play with Ronald Colman in "Clive of India," is suffering from a severe cold contracted while working in rain scenes for the film.

Irving Berlin is a new arrival in town; to do music for a radio opus.

Will Rogers is seen about since his return at the fashionable Wilshire Ebell club. At the Sunday night vaudeville program, packed with a movie audience anxious to see Benny Rubin and Julian Eltinge, among others on the program, Rogers and his wife were in the audience. So was Ruth Roland and her husband, Ben Bard, Ruth in gray velvet coat lavishly trimmed with gray Persian lamb, and a high Russian hat, in velvet and Persian. Mrs. Walace Reid was there with Gordon Westcott. She wore a black velvet gown, with black caracul jacket and clever skull cap ornamented with a sweep of coq feathers over one ear. Mrs. Reid is now writing and producing her own pictures for an independent company.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN:

Bricks for Crawford and Orchids for Mr. Cavanaugh.

Dear Miss Tinée: If Joan Crawford ever comes out in a flicker in which she is not the poor misunderstood girl weeping bitter tears in every reel, hang out ye flags and sound a salute of twenty-one guns. Only one thing impresses me more than her splashing teardrops and that is the unaccountable closeups showing her as she decides between two, three, or more lovers.

While I'm harping on stars I'd like to give three lusty huzzahs for a real star who is not, however, given rôles that will prove it. Paul Cavanaugh is the name, and if ever a more polished, natural actor stepped before the camera, please ship the body. Why is it that men with Cavanaugh's ability are given rôles that will never give them a chance?

Fewer tears and more justice.

G. R.

Editor's Note: But they say that justice is blind.

* *

Menjou Praise from Indiana.

Dear Mae Tinée: Can one give an accolade and a big hand to Adolph Menjou for his superb portrayal of "Sorrowful" in "Little Miss Marker"?

PHINEAS PLONEROVITCH.
Dutch Beach, Ind.

DRAW ME

TRY FOR AN Art SCHOLARSHIP

Copy this girl and send us your drawing—perhaps you'll win a COMPLETE FEDERAL COURSE FREE! This contest is for amateurs, so if you like to draw do not hesitate to enter.

Prizes for Five Best Drawings—FIVE COMPLETE ART COURSES FREE, including drawing outfit. (Value of each course, $190.00.)

FREE! Each contestant whose drawing shows sufficient merit will receive a grading and advice as to whether he or she has, in our estimation, artistic talent worth developing.

Nowadays design and color play an important part in the sale of almost everything. Therefore the artist, who designs merchandise or illustrates advertising has become a real factor in modern industry. Machines can never displace him. Many Federal students, both men and girls who are now commercial designers or illustrators capable of earning from $1000 to $5000 yearly have been trained by the Federal Course. Here's a splendid opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules and send your drawing to the address below.

RULES FOR CONTESTANTS

This contest open only to amateurs, 16 years old or more. Professional commercial artists and Federal students are not eligible.

1. Make drawing of girl 5 inches high, on paper 6½ inches square. Draw only the girl, not the lettering.
2. Use only pencil or pen.
3. No drawings will be returned.
4. Write your name, address, age and occupation on back of drawing.
5. All drawings must be received in Minneapolis by Dec. 23d, 1934. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and neatness by Federal Schools Faculty.

Christmas a Reminder of the Value of Toys

Child Psychologist Helps Parents to Choose Playthings

By JOSEPH U. DUGAN

TOY time is here again. Resplendent and glittering thousands of brightly colored new toys are on display in the shops and department stores. Christmas, most exciting day of all the year for children, will soon be here. In the meantime boys and girls are paying eager visits to the magic fairylands provided by the stores to exhibit the Christmas playthings.

For many parents the problem of what to buy their children for Christmas is simple. But for thousands of others the task—outside of consideration of expense—is vexing. Many parents and others who buy toys for children consider playthings to be merely objects which afford pleasure and amusement to the small ones. They may not be aware that in recent years toys have come to be recognized by educators and psychologists as vitally important aids to the wholesome development of children. This recognition has led to much research, the results of which are available to parents as guides to the wise choice of toys for children of all ages.

One child psychologist, Miss Ethel Kawin of the University of Chicago, has made considerable progress in the effort to assist parents in choosing toys most appropriate and valuable for wholesome child development. She has written a book, "The Wise Choice of Toys," published by the University of Chicago Press, and, in association with Prof. Frank N. Freeman of the department of education of the university, she has conducted for two years an annual exhibit of toys for the purpose of demonstrating to parents and others interested the ideas about toys which have been evolved from observation of child development. The exhibits were held through the coöperation of Marshall Field & Co. in the toy department of the Field store.

Miss Kawin's specialized study of toys represents a new development in the field of child psychology. Her own story of why she took up the work is interesting.

"My first professional experience," she said, "was as a case worker in the field of social science. As I worked with unfortunate men and women whose tangled problems had forced them to seek our aid, I came to feel more and more that the time when those individuals could have been helped most was in their adolescent years. Since I was interested especially in prevention, I turned to work with boys and girls and became a vocational counselor in the Chicago public schools.

Miss Ethel Kawin, psychologist, of the University of Chicago.

Completing a Circle

"As I worked with adolescents I came to feel that many of their greatest difficulties might have been avoided had they been given help during the very early years of their childhood, when their fundamental personality trends and behavior patterns were being established. Thus my interest in preventive work led me still farther down the age scale—to the pre-school period of the child's life. Eventually, of course, I found that I had completed a circle and was dealing largely with adults again. The behavior of the child of pre-school age is to a great extent a reaction to the way in which he is handled, so that in working with his behavior or personality problems one must work largely with his parents or other adults who are entrusted with his care.

"To anyone interested in the development of little children, play activities and play materials become matters of considerable importance. Play is the chief activity of early childhood and occupies most of the waking hours during that period. In few other aspects of a child's life is his whole personality expressed so clearly as in his play. Nor are there many of his activities which offer such an excellent opportunity for guiding his developing personality in those directions which make for good adjustment and satisfactory living.

"What the child plays will be largely determined by what he has to play with. 'Toys are the tools of play,' and play materials serve specific functions in child development. Thus I became interested in helping parents to choose toys wisely for their children."

Miss Kawin, after taking her master's degree in psychology from the University of Chicago, was for six years a vocational guidance counselor in the Chicago public schools. For eight years she was director of the pre-school department of the Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research. At present she is psychologist of the laboratory schools of the University of Chicago and also is counselor in child development for the public schools of Glencoe.

Play materials, in relation to the various age groups of children, are placed by Miss Kawin in the following ten divisions: 1. Toys for the infant before he can walk. 2. Toys for the development of strength and skill. 3. Toys for constructive and creative play. 4. Toys for dramatic and imitative play. 5. Toys for social development. 6. Toys for artistic development. 7. Toys that stimulate knowledge and aid in school activities. 8. Toys that lead to an interest in science and mechanics. 9. Toys and materials related to hobbies and special interests. 10. Toys suitable for children confined by illness or convalescence.

Of these groups only the first is based primarily upon age. It has been the observation of Miss Kawin that many parents, asking for advice about toys, will invariably emphasize the age of the child for whom the toy is intended. This is natural, but from the psychologist's point of view toys other than those for infants have no specific age classifications. There are certain toys, such as blocks and dolls, which may serve a child through several age periods. A child will play with such toys differently at different ages, but the same toy nevertheless will be valuable for a long time as an aid to the child's development.

In discussing toys especially suitable for infants Miss Kawin points out that such playthings should be durable and easily cleaned, should have fast colors, be free from sharp edges, and should have no small detachable parts capable of being put into the mouth or ears. The first toy for a baby should be a bright object, hanging where he can follow it with his eyes but not grasp it. It should be brightly colored, preferably red, yellow, blue, or green. These colors, research has revealed, are the ones which most attract an infant's attention. The next toys should be stationary objects which the baby can grasp. Soft dolls or animals, bath toys, large wooden beads, rattles, and soft, light balls are recommended. At the age of about four months two or three blocks and hanging, dangling playthings may be added. A common mistake of parents is providing small children with small toys. Toys for little children should be large and simple.

Alphabet Block Mistake

Another common mistake, made most often by grandparents, is providing alphabet blocks for children of pre-school age for the express purpose of teaching the children the alphabet. Young children no longer need to know the alphabet as an aid in learning to read. Knowledge of the alphabet, in fact, might be a hindrance rather than a help. Children today are taught to read by visualizing whole words and sentences in association with pictures of the objects which the words represent.

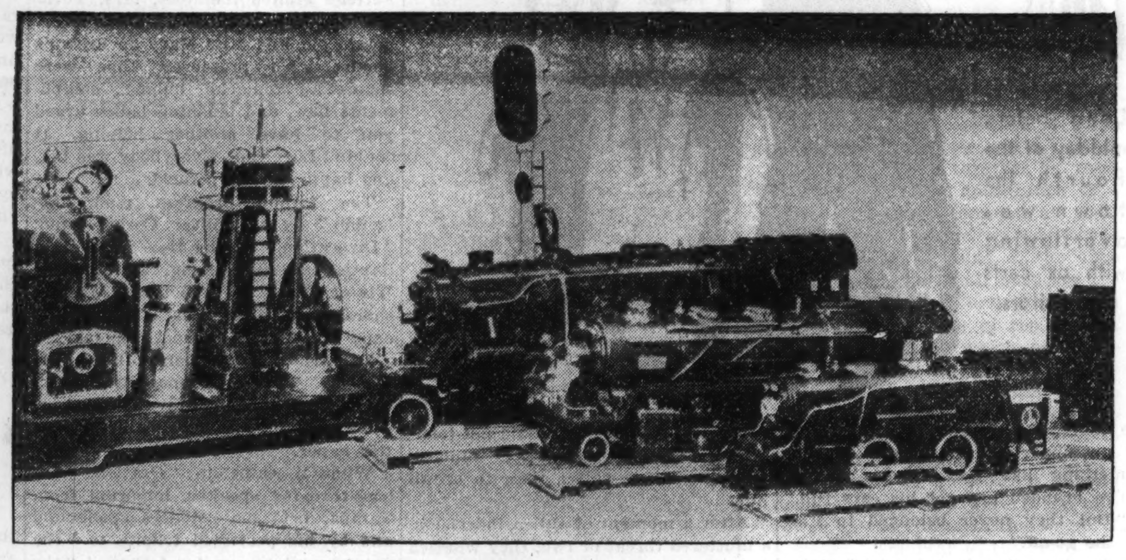
Toys suitable for the development of strength and skill include climbing and sliding apparatus, walking boards, swings, seesaws, scooters, kiddie-cars, wagons, toy automobiles, tricycles, velocipedes, bicycles, stilts, roller skates, ice skates, and many other types of "activity" toys.

Any toys such as games, tea party sets, and others which can be used by more than one child at the same time are especially suited as materials aiding in social development, a toy group which psychologist consider to be highly important. Early group play is urged and play materials which encourage such play are recommended. Another toy group which is considered of great importance is that containing toys for artistic development. Drawing and painting easels, crayon sets, modeling clay, water color painting sets—all these are in this classification.

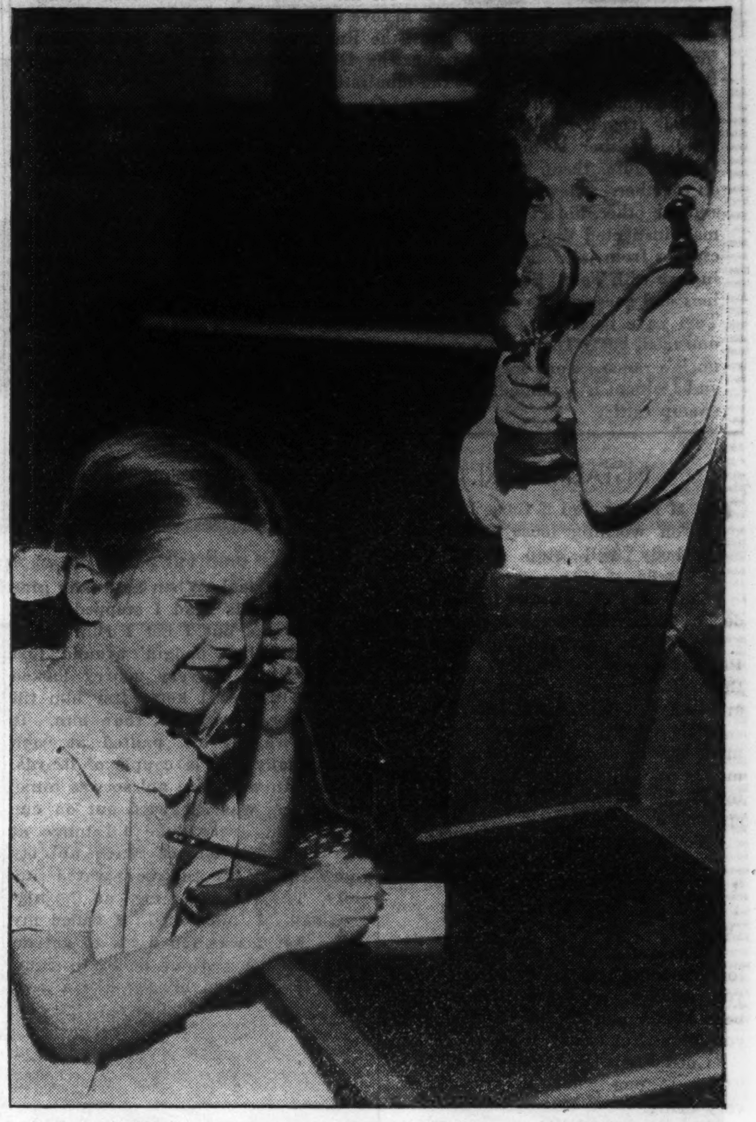
Educators formerly attached little importance to the value of such toys as miniature electric trains, motors, etc., but now such materials are considered as having high educational value. Another important group is that containing toys for constructive and creative play. Building blocks and construction sets, hammers and nails, miniature workbenches are included in this group. Toys suitable for dramatic and imitative play include dolls and housekeeping toys, doll houses, miniature stores, small boats and automobiles, toy farm equipment, telephone sets, toy fire engines, etc.

It is Miss Kawin's advice to parents troubled about the choice of Christmas toys to consider playthings as valuable aids in child development and to choose toys with this in mind.

"Another important group is that containing toys for constructive and creative play. Building blocks and construction sets, hammers and nails, miniature workbenches are included in this group."

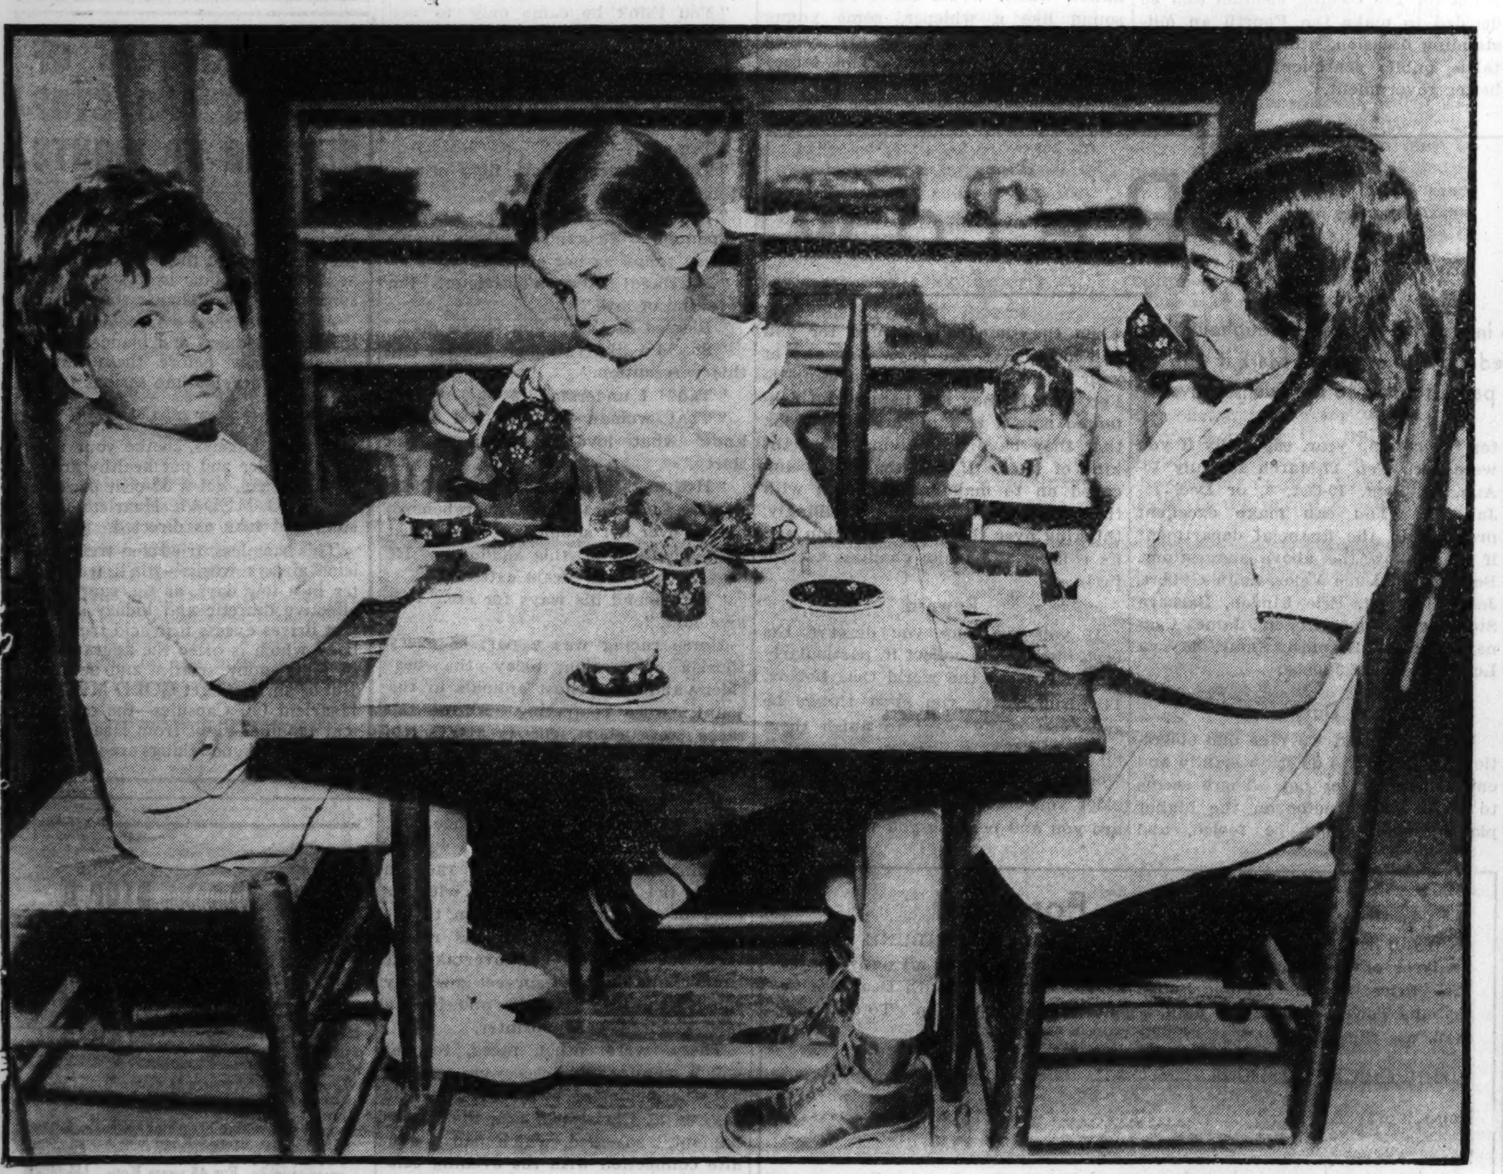


". . . such toys as miniature electric trains, motors, etc. . . . are considered as having high educational value." These electric trains were in the department store exhibit conducted by Miss Kawin.

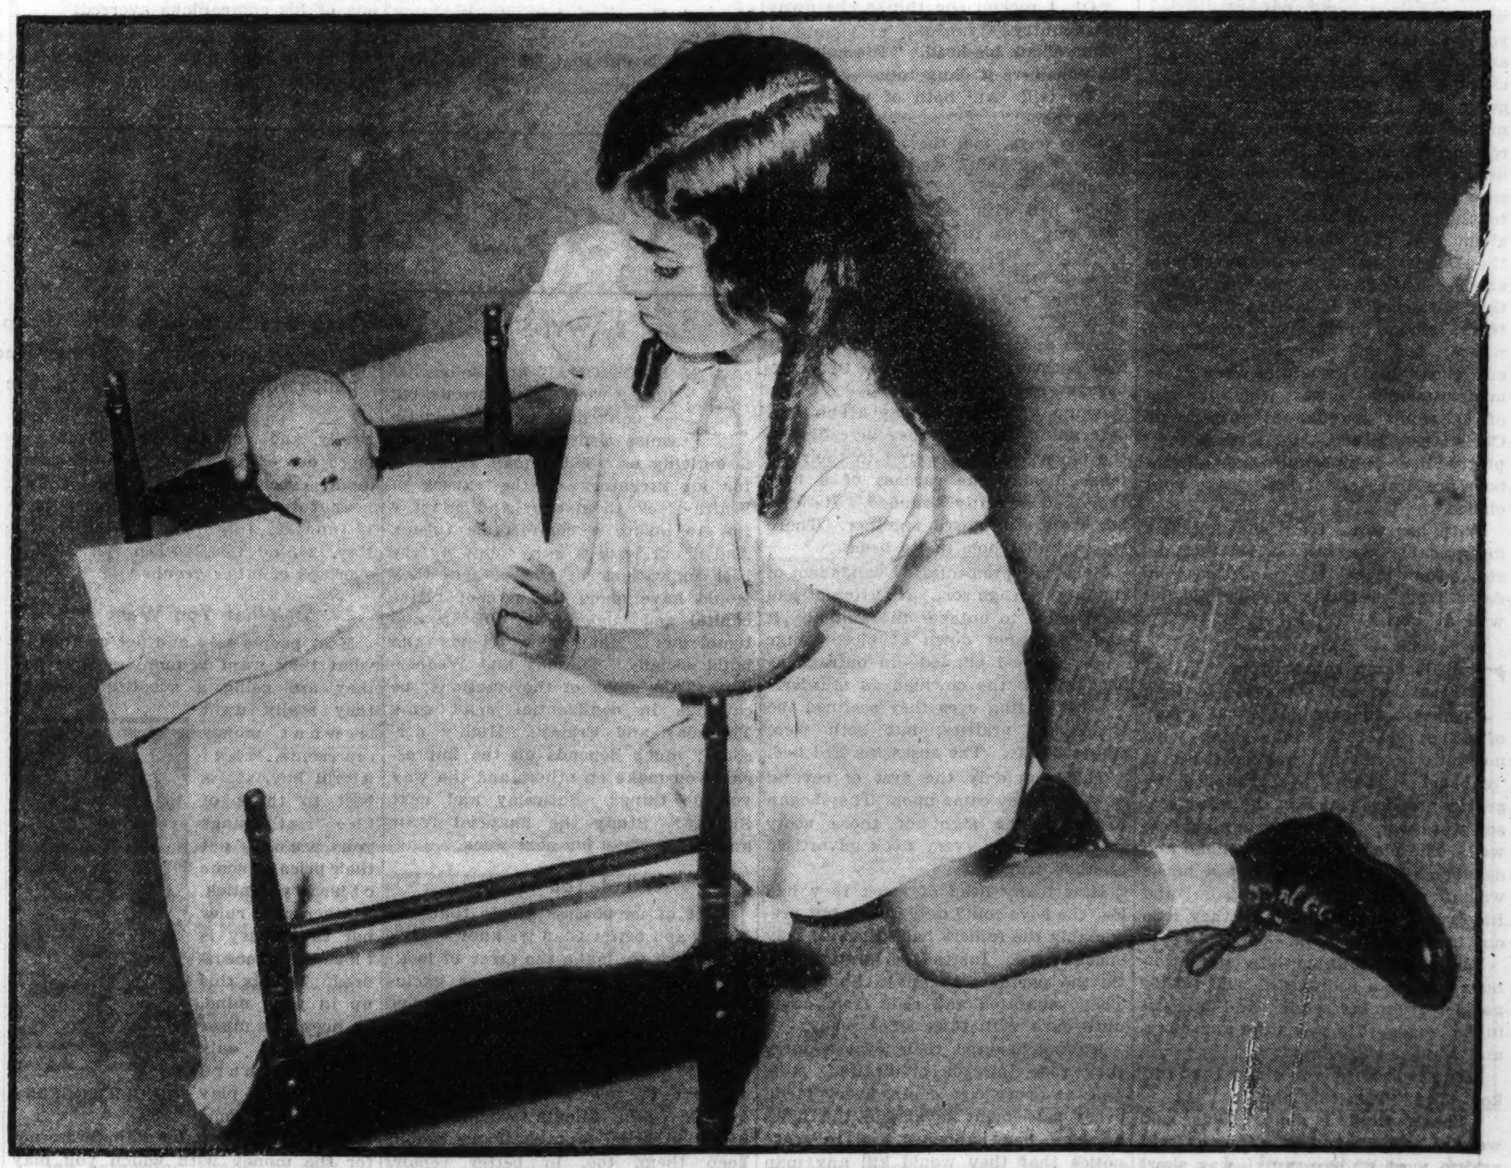


"Toys suitable for dramatic and imitative play . . . telephone sets." Such impulses are strong in children at the ages of 4 and 5.

". . . toys for artistic development. Drawing and painting easels, crayon sets, modeling clay, water color painting sets . . ."



"Any toys, such as games, tea party sets, and others, which can be used by more than one child at the same time, are especially suited as materials aiding in social development, a toy group . . . highly important."



"There are certain toys, such as blocks and dolls, which may serve a child through several age periods. A child will play with such toys differently at different ages, but the same toy . . . will be valuable for a long time."

WILD PASTURES

THE STORY TO DATE

Tom Kennedy, youthful Texas cowboy, comes to the wild cattle country of Florida in the '90's to work for his uncle, Capt. Ben Noble, wealthy and respected rancher. Tom falls in love with Rita Mendez, beautiful Cuban girl, who is visiting her relatives, the Rubio family, in Fort Myers. Tom incurs the enmity of the overbearing Dolman brothers, Tad and Sonny. By a cowboy feat Tom wins the admiration of Mrs. Belle Sprague, an unconventional woman ranch owner. One night on the range Tom and his cowboy friend, Bide Willing, are attacked by gunmen, who attempt to kill them. Neither is hit, and they ride in pursuit of the outlaws. Belle Sprague joins them. Willing is bitten by a snake, and Tom and Belle ride on together. They find the outlaws' camp. Tom kills one of the two men, and the other, Sid Fisher, is taken prisoner. Fisher confesses that Tad Dolman instigated the murder plot, but before he is brought to trial Fisher escapes from jail. Belle Sprague, who is separated from her husband, falls in love with Tom and determines to marry him. She starts divorce proceedings and goes to Rita Mendez to tell the Cuban girl that her relations with Tom have been more than friendly. Rita dismisses Tom, and his uncle, outraged, beats Tom with a rawhide. Tom takes the beating, but leaves his uncle's ranch. Tom encounters Sonny Dolman. They fight a revolver duel and Dolman is wounded. Tom and Bide become partners, reclaiming wild swamp cattle.

INSTALMENT XI.

"I'M telling you if those boys keep on working loose cattle somebody will stop them," said Belle.

"Tom isn't easy stopped," his uncle declared.

"Well, I'm going out to the Lower Place tomorrow. If you won't call them off I'll scout up those two idiots and—have a talk with them."

Noble eyed the speaker for a moment before saying, "I wonder what makes me like you. You're a contemptible woman. You're mean and spiteful and——"

"You'd fight anybody that said so."

"Why, sure. And I wouldn't say it if I didn't have a right to. I've got a kind of quarter interest in you. Darn the luck!"

"I reckon you like me, bad as I am, for the same reason that I'm fond of you, good as you are. If you had been Jim's age I—I'd have married you instead of him."

"Good Lord!" Noble exclaimed. "Two to one you'd have done that very thing."

"You needn't shudder. . . . Funny how we always lock horns and still continue friends. You've done your best to ruin me with Tom, but I haven't started to fight. You see, I've got the edge on you, Cap'n Ben. You're straight and I'm crooked. You're honorable; I'd lie, or steal, or cheat to get the man I want."

Later that day, as if in proof of her statement, Mrs. Sprague stopped in at the bank to see Tad Dolman.

"I reckon you know I've got that confession of Sid Fisher's," she began abruptly.

Tad was startled; he managed to inquire, "What confession?"

"Now don't be stupider than God made you. I'm here to do you a favor."

The man raised his brows. "Is the world coming to an end?"

"No. But I always admired you, Tad; you're such a splendid, upstanding fellow, such a credit to the community."

"Don't get funny," he said angrily.

"It would be a shame for that story of Sid's to get in the papers, wouldn't it?"

"If there ever was a 'confession,' as you call it, it's a damned lie. Nobody would believe it."

"On the contrary, right now people in this country believe anything about anybody with your name. They're getting readied up for the next election. By the way, you're aiming to get married, aren't you?"

"What the hell are you driving at?" Tad inquired with a scowl.

"Just this; the day you marry Rita Mendez I'll mail you that paper, provided you get a move on. How's that for a wedding present?"

"I think I understand you. But it takes two to make a marriage."

"O, no it doesn't! I ought to know. My husband didn't have a thing to say about it. . . . I wouldn't marry you on a bet, of course, and neither would any woman who knows you, but you've got that kid fooled. She's worried to death over the way things are going in Cuba and she seems to like you. You can frighten her into it; blackmail her——"

"You're crazy! I don't allow anybody to talk to me——"

"You'll allow me to talk any way I want to, Tad. Listen, cowboy! I'm not fooling. Better make haste, because if she won't have you nobody will—not after I get through with you. O, take it easy! I'm as rough and dirty as you are. The decent citizens are preparing to turn your gang out of office, take the county money out of this bank, and—it's a rotten little old bank, anyway, and we need a good one. With my help they're sure to succeed. What's more, a word to the governor general in Havana about you and Vicente Rubio and the Dolman outfit would never ship another head of stock into Cuba. Give that a thought! If you couldn't ship there, where yould you ship? Nowhere. You and your dad would sell out cheap and leave the country—a misfortune, by the way, which the rest of us would manage to stand with Christian fortitude. . . . She's a right pretty little numbskull and all the boys are crazy about her. Take your choice."

With her white teeth showing in a disagreeable smile Mrs. Sprague stalked out of the bank and Tad wondered why he hadn't thrown his ink well at her.

THE camp consisted of a palm-thatched roof supported by four posts, under which stood a sort of table and two bunks hung with mosquito netting. It was located on a "cabbage island" surrounded by grassy prairies, which in the rainy season were wet. Near by was a shallow well. The place smelled of smoke and dead embers; there was not a house within miles. This was Tom and Bide's headquarters; from it they rode out in every direction.

Willing dismounted late one afternoon, untied a bedraggled wild turkey gobbler from his saddle, and hung it in the shade. He was tired and dirty, and stained with sweat.

"You look as if you'd run that turkey down," Tom told him.

"That's what I done," Bide said wearily. "He was feedin' out on that prairie west of here an' I was short of ca'tridges, so I took after him. I flew him up twice an' he was too fat to rise again, so I hazed him away from the bayheads an' let him tucker out. Thought I'd ketch him an' stake him out here till we needed him. . . . Don't you never be tempted that-away."

"No?"

"Look at me! When he finally give out an' hid his head I stepped off to pick him up, but I bet I run him a mile. An' him dodgin' around just out of reach. Every scurry looked like his last, so I kep' after him till I was worse wore out than him. It got so we set an' panted at each other finally, like a couple of lizards. His mouth was open an' so was mine; both of us was sprawled out on our bellies, but every time I'd lunge at him he'd flop out of reach an' lay there till we both recuperated up. Hot? The 'bear got me,' as the niggers say. I 'most died. I called my horse, but I was too weak to get on him. An' not a stump or log in sight! I finally crep' up his leg like a seed tick an' when I'd rested a while I popped that dam' gobbler's head off with my whip. Now if you'll fetch me that spring hole I'll wash up. If I walk to it I'll fall in."

"Eat dirty. Supper is all ready."

"More turkey, I bet!" Bide spat with disfavor. "Every day is Thanksgiving out here. I'm kinda gorged on quail, an' turkey, an' deer meat. I could kiss a yam, an' if I ever see another collard patch I'll gnaw it down."

"We've got corn and tomatoes tonight."

"I bet we have!" Willing jeered. "You probably froze up a batch of ice cream an' baked a chocolate layer cake, too. Lie on, cowboy, I like it."

FOR answer Tom uncovered a stewpan and passed it under his campmate's nose, whereupon Bide was galvanized into sudden life.

"Hey! . . . I'm dam' if it ain't! Where'd you get 'em?"

"We had a visitor. She left a couple of cans——"

"'She!' Was Miss Belle out here?"

Tom nodded. "When I come in at noon she had dinner cooked."

"Lord! An' I missed out on it! I hope you married her. Imagine havin' a woman cook for you; a woman that carries canned tomatoes in place of face powder! . . . Say! I got to ride in to Fort Ogden right now an' see my little ol' die-dipper. . . . What has Miss Belle got on her mind to come lookin' us up?"

"For one thing she says we must stop marking wild stock."

"O! I reckon she thinks she owns this country."

Tom shook his head. "It's not that. She considers it dangerous——"

"Do tell! An' both of us skinned to the bone!"

"She says, too, the stock men are sore. They think we're changing brands."

"To hell with 'em!" Bide exploded. "Do you aim to stop?"

"Who? Me?" Tom looked up with a bleak stare. "I told her we could get along without advice. She won't be back."

Belle Sprague did not return, but it was not very long until the two cowboys were forcibly reminded of her warning. Noting one day a spiral of descending buzzards, they investigated the cause and discovered to their intense dismay the carcass of a beef they had recently branded. Its eyelids were still sewed together. There was a bullet hole in its head.

Here was premeditated vandalism of the most savage sort. No attempt had been made to butcher the animal. It had been shot down at close range while it stood blinded—an outrage as shocking to the cowmen as murder.

With blazing eyes they scanned the woods and prairies, but both were empty of life. The assassins had fled.

This was only the first of several carcasses they came upon. They began to dread the sight of those sooty scavengers, for every flock advertised another tragedy.

How many head of stock they had lost the boys could only guess, but presumably the raiders had killed all they encountered. Instead of hunting cattle the partners began to hunt men. They separated and rode from dawn until dark with their rifles ready.

Having scoured their own country they rode towards civilization, stopping at every cow camp, every farm, every settlement to spread the news of what had happened and to serve notice that they would kill any man who killed their beef. They were furious and they talked more than they should. Isolated ranchers showed them a sort of frightened courtesy. Town loiterers eyed them with respect; nobody lifted his voice in argument, and as Bide put it on their way back to the wilderness, "We certainly had a nice trip. Why, the James boys were never treated better."

Some time thereafter, while they were engaged in branding a lusty "mosshorn," Homer Tuttle and three strangers rode up to them.

"Hi, boys!" the sherif cried genially. "Dogged if we didn't ketch you right at it. . . . Sa-ay! What you-all doing to that critter's eyes?"

"Sewing 'em up," said Bide.

The newcomers looked on with undisguised interest until the captive was finally set free. All were frankly impressed.

"There's tricks in all trades, and that's certainly slick," Tuttle admitted. "How many head have you-all marked?"

"We've got a start," Tom told him.

Long before midday of the Fourth the town was overflowing with ox carts and visitors.

One of the strangers shook his head disapprovingly and said, "You boys hadn't ought to do that."

"No?"

"These cattle ain't yours."

"Whose are they?"

"We-ell! A lot of us been runnin' stock in these woods for years. I reckon they belong to Tom, Dick, an' Harry."

Bide promptly flared up. "This particular cow beast is Tom's, all right, for yonder is his mark. What's Dick an' Harry's brand?"

Tuttle took up the conversation again. "I heard you was markin' loose stock and——"

"Loose nothin'! This stuff belongs to anybody who can put an iron on it. Always has, an' always will. You fellows mark every critter you can pen, an' so does everybody else."

"Um-m!" Tuttle spat with painstaking accuracy at some target; he appeared to reflect. "There's a nice question of law involved."

"Suppose you shot one of these beeves to eat?" Bide persisted. "Would you settle with anybody?"

"I reckon I would if the owner caught me."

"You're talkin' in circles, Homer. If vealers killed nothin' but these outlaws would you run 'em down?"

"Vealers is different," said a third visitor.

"I hope to tell you!" Bide gestured widely. "Who owns this land? . . . I'm askin' you."

"Nobody, I reckon. It's state owned."

"Sure it is, until it's homesteaded. Me an' Tom are homesteadin' this stock."

"Stock is different from land. Cattle are—born."

The fourth member of the party now spoke. "It's one thing to mark an odd head here an' there; it's something else to make a business out of it. Purty soon there won't be no wild stuff."

Tuttle agreed with this statement. "I'm no lawyer," he acknowledged, "and you boys certainly put up a good argument. Chances are you're right, but the judge'll have to decide."

There was a silence which Tom broke by saying, "You can tell him our side of it."

Tuttle grinned; he wagged his head. "He'll have to hear it first hand."

"Are you arresting us?"

The officer lifted a deprecating hand. "If you're right it won't mean a thing. Me, I had a complaint, so of course I had to——"

"Complaint of what?"

"Changin' brands. Stealing stock."

"But, Homer," Bide protested, "you can see we ain't doing either one. Is there ary mark on that critter except a Heart K? Are her ears cropped? Is her dewlap cut? Was there ever a knife laid on her?" There was no response to these queries. "Every brand in the state except ours carries an ear mark. We didn't register one on purpose, just so nobody could claim we changed a swallow fork to a crop, or an upper square into a bolt, or something like that. Every animal we've branded has got his ears full."

"But they never belonged to y'all on the go-off."

"I ask you again, who do they belong to?"

"And I say once more that you're probably right. But I got to perform my duty."

"Who made the complaint?" Tom inquired.

"That's neither here nor there——"

"We're here and we're going to stay here until we see your warant."

"'Warant'!" Tuttle voiced the word with good natured contempt and one of his companions averred:

"Homer's an officer. If he sees the law broke he don't need no warant."

During Bide's argument Kennedy had edged aside until the posse was between them. His rifle rested against a tree; without haste he picked it up and cocked it.

"Shove on!" he ordered in a tone that caused the mounted men to start. One of them shifted in his saddle, whereupon he cried savagely, "Don't creak your lether! . . . Put your hands on your saddle horns, all of you!"

"Why—that's a threat!" the sherif stuttered. "You're resistin'——"

"It's more of a promise," Kennedy told him with a level gaze. "If ever you serve a warant on me have it in your hand. Don't carry it in your pocket or I may burn a hole in it."

"You can't do a thing like——"

"Get going! And don't look back. . . . Next time anybody says we're rustling cattle you call him a liar. Hear me? If you don't stand up for us we'll take it as an unfriendly act and start work on you at sight."

Tuttle and his three followers were simple, piney-woods men and their lives lay within a narrow circle, but experience had taught them that the wilderness fosters a fierce, implacable stubbornness, an uncompromising independence of spirit which will break before it bends. In Kennedy they recognized a man who would not tolerate an injury, either real or fancied, and they knew better than to crowd him.

After a moment of sullen indecision, a muttered threat or two, they wheeled their horses and rode away.

IT IS a quaint southern custom to celebrate both Christmas and the Fourth of July with firecrackers, and Fort Myers, being a lusty town with acute growing pains, usually observed the one holiday with the same sound and fury as the other. This year, however, the leaders of the "reform" element had begun early to lay plans for the coming election and so decided to make the Fourth an outstanding occasion, utilizing it to crystalize public sentiment in favor of better government.

Accordingly they arranged a mammoth celebration consisting of a barbecue and fish fry, followed by a program of music and oratory, with horse racing and a "tournament" in the afternoon and fireworks and a grand ball during the evening. They planned to make it the outstanding event in the history of Fort Myers, and they worked to such good effect that people came from all over the country. Long before midday of the Fourth the town was overflowing with visitors; every shady place was crowded with ox carts, farm wagons, buggies, and saddle horses.

The picnic and the speaking were held in a grove of majestic live oaks; experienced cattlemen supervised the roasting of the meats; the most prominent matrons and the prettiest girls in town waited upon the long board tables and each wore a knot of red, white, and blue ribbon as a badge of authority.

What a feast that turned out to be! Beef, pork, and mutton sizzling hot from the barbecue pits; platters of fried fish, mountains of crabs and crawfish, salads, watermelons, lemonade, ice cream, cake, pie.

Calories and vitamins, of course, were unheard of, children ate what they craved and their parents ate what they could reach; a balanced diet was what a man could hold on his knife.

Every housekeeper took pride in her cooking and this was a sort of field day for her—an opportunity to advertise her artfulness; the result was a rivalry to promote indigestion. A hundred famous specialties were served. Just to name a few there were Mrs. Fetter's stuffed tomatoes, Mrs. Turner's layer cake, Grandma Goble's sweet potato pie, and Miss Mary Jo Brown's pickles and preserves. Lips were smacked, stomachs bulged, compliments flew, and blushing ladies urged you to have another helping. It couldn't hurt you. Everybody was hot, and happy, and hyperacid.

The formal program read, "Selection" by the Silver Cornet band; "Invocation," by the Rev. Mr. Jones, Baptist minister; "Song, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee'," by the town's leading soprano; "Declaration of Independence." read by the school principal.

This last the audience liked immensely. They pronounced it a splendid document and fully as good as some of Capt. Ben Noble's articles in the paper.

When it came to "Oration," the bass-throated speaker, imported from Tampa, held his listeners spellbound and by his perfervid tribute to "the government of our forefathers," "the democracy of Thomas Jefferson," and "the starry flag which flaunts defiance at kings and tyrants," he made practically certain his reëlection to the state senate.

So far there had been but one mishap, but fortunately nobody had suffered a hurt thereby. During the morning, in an effort to promote the granddaddy of all explosions, a detonation which would make all others sound like a whisper, some young men procured two anvils and loaded them with gunpowder. The larger was balanced upon the smaller and when the charge was fired the upper anvil was blown to bits, and roofs, awnings, and store fronts nearby were riddled by "grape and canister," as one confederate veteran put it.

TOM KENNEDY and Bide Willing witnessed the accident and counted themselves lucky to survive it. They agreed that a man's life was not safe in any city.

They had heard of the coming celebration weeks in advance and had speculated upon the advisability of attending it. The home cooking, the cold drinks, the ice cream and sherbet were a temptation; loneliness, too, had begun to prey upon them. They were as hungry as two wolves, for they had drunk nothing of late but tepid water and had tasted no sweets of any kind; their eyes glistened and their mouths watered as they talked about the Fourth of July "doings." Both realized, however, that they ran a hazard in going to Fort Myers.

On their occasional trips out to the settlements for provisions and in talking with cowboys, whom they occasionally met in riding the woods, they had learned of the general disfavor in which they were held. Certain stockmen considered them out and out thieves, which was bad enough, but that was not all. The killing of Iley Rowe and the duel with Sonny Dolman had given Tom a bad reputation; he had made it worse by resisting arrest. Homer Tuttle, of course, had spread his own account of that incident and the net result, the boys gathered, was a general conviction on the part of people at large that they had "gone bad"; that they were indeed renegades and actually engaged in breaking the law.

They discussed the matter seriously and decided that it was unwise, under the circumstances, to stir up further comment or to risk actual trouble by attending the celebration. They asked each other what there was to a little old barbecue, anyhow. Nothing. Who did they want to see in Fort Myers? Nobody. Did they have any business there? None. No sense having a run-in with Homer Tuttle just to fill up on free ice cream. Certainly not.

Having chosen the course of wisdom they altered it without warning and here they were—ragged, famished, and mosquito bitten, but shining from soap and water.

They were having a miserable time, however, and long before the picnic was served they wished they were back in camp. People they knew either ignored them entirely or passed them by with a nod. Women eyed them with an ominous curiosity, children followed them and asked embarrassing questions. When the tables were finally set and they managed to find seats nobody volunteered to wait on them, and they would have gone hungry except for one compassionate, middle aged woman who presumably did not know who they were. But what cowboy enjoys being waited upon by a middle aged woman, with pretty girls romping all over the place?

Tom grew more silent, more resentful, more sullen constantly, although Bide pretended to enjoy the experience and even swaggered a bit. They had left their horses saddled at a convenient spot; each kept a watchful eye out for Homer Tuttle.

"DID you see him?" Luisa Rubio excitedly inquired of her cousin.

Rita paled; her eyelids fluttered. "Yes. During the oration I felt something burning into me. It was—his eyes. I thought I would die!"

They were seated on the front row of benches at the race track. Behind them and along the straightaway course carts, wagons, and buggies had been drawn up wheel to wheel. This was the first opportunity the girls had found for a word together. They spoke in Spanish.

"He loves you more fiercely than ever," Luisa asserted. "He can see nobody but you."

"You think he came only to see me?"

"Of course."

"Luisa! I must confess something. There are times when I'm tempted, when I forget my pride——"

"Tempted? How?"

"To surrender myself, fling myself at him."

"Impossible! You couldn't marry a desperado, a—brigand." Luisa's mouth was as round as her eyes.

"Marriage! Always marriage! I'm speaking of love."

"Blessed Mother! You shock me."

"So. I'd like to shock others; end this persecution."

"Tad? I understand."

"That woman told me I'd never know what love means until I'm thirty."

"Heavens! If somebody should hear you!" Luisa cast an apprehensive glance over her shoulder. "You must cure yourself of this madness. He kills people! He steals cattle!"

"He'd mend his ways for me. I—I love him!"

Horse racing was a part of every Florida celebration; today the best riders and the fastest animals in the county were competing. All of the races were short, for in the cattle business the test of a good horse was his quickness in starting, his ability swiftly to gather speed, and a quarter of a mile was the usual distance run.

Another favorite contest was a combination foot and horse race in which the animal was held with its head in the opposite direction to the finish line. At the gun his rider's task was to wheel and overtake the runner, and only the spryest cow pony could turn in its tracks and beat a fast hundred yard sprinter.

There were other races, too, at which sundry rivalries were settled, but the principal event at this field day, as at Christmas, was the "tournament," so-called, which had a definite connection with the evening celebrations. This tourney was open to all and it consisted of capturing rings with a wand, or lance. Three posts fitted with cross arms were set at equal distances and from these were suspended rings. Each rider was entitled to three trials and his total possible score was nine. To the victor went the honor of choosing the queen of youth and beauty and the privilege of crowning her later at the grand ball.

To spear a three inch ring while riding at full speed was a task calling for skilful horsemanship, and naturally this was the contest in which every eager beauty was most vitally concerned. Each had her champion, and Tad Dolman had promised Rita that he would present the crown to her.

"You reckon that buzzard head of mine could win one of these races?" Bide inquired of Tom when the program was about half through. "He's fast at a quarter an' he can turn on a dime, with a nickel for change."

"Better not try it."

"Why? I don't mind gettin' beat."

"They might not let you run."

"Aw, Tom! These people don't honestly think we're rustlers. That's just talk."

"How do you know? They haven't talked to us. They walk around me as if I were a 'gator hole. Much as ever we got a second helping of ice cream."

"I bet the girls would like to talk to us. My horse can run; we could get a bet down——"

"With what? We're broke. Lay low and let's get out of here."

"Pshaw! We've run Homer Tuttle into the jailhouse an'——"

"Hello, boys!" It was Belle Sprague speaking; she had approached unobserved or Tom would have tried to avoid meeting her as he had succeeded in doing earlier in the day. "Aren't you going to race your ponies?"

Bide shrugged. "What's the use? Me an' Tom have turned thrifty. Save the pennies an' the dollars will look after themselves."

"Need some money?"

"Who? Us?" Willing simulated amazement; he waved the suggestion aside. "The truth is them old dogs of ours is about wore out, Miss Belle. Much as ever I can get mine into a canter."

"Having a good time?"

"Sure!"

"We are not," Tom growled. "We're pulling out pretty pronto."

Belle inclined her head sidewise. "I want to talk to you."

As Above, So Below

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then pay attention to the counsel given.

AN EMOTIONAL and somewhat jumpy week lies before us, but we don't have to yield just because a first-class temptation is enticing us. Till Friday, favorable for an inventory of the causes of health—look them over and adopt a few to insure a comfortable future. And if our leaders were following the best indications of the planets they would have made this a coöperative capital and labor week. Today and tomorrow: Make new friends and build socially. Tuesday and Wednesday. Take stock of the emotions; be cautious in confidential matters. Thursday and Friday: Highly personal; much depends on the impression you make on others and the way you do things. Saturday and next Sunday: Study the financial front and make plans for next week.

What You Have

Most of us possess assets that are bigger and better than we know. This is because we make the error of looking around outside ourselves exclusively when we take inventory of our blessings. Keeping the house in good repair is certainly the thing to do; but we should also consider as part of our estate those inner qualities and talents which would be of great advantage if we would keep them, too, in better repair. The inner and outer parts of our lives are not so much separate departments of us as they are the same thing on different levels. Think this over practically and you will be able to get more out of life through self-development, especially in the present and near future if you were born May 12-June 28, July 13-Aug. 11, Oct. 23-Nov. 20, or Dec. 20-Jan. 17. (Note overlaps of other groups.)

What You Want

Most people talk and act as though what they want is more money; but they are using a substitute—what they really want is what money represents, what it will buy. It is best to think of the real things you want, not their price or some other yardstick. Neither the ruler nor the money is the thing measured. To mix this up in your mind, as does the miser who wants only piles of hard money to play with, is to become truly poor. Work for happiness, not for the money with which you may hope to purchase happiness. Don't worry. Money, the yardstick, eventually will measure your true worth. Pay a good deal of attention to this for the coming year, especially if you were born Feb. 17-March 18, July 10-Aug. 26, Sept. 10-Oct. 9, or Dec. 19-Jan. 15. You can make excellent progress in the financial department if you follow the above suggestions. Be advised, Lupe Velez, John Gilbert, Jean Hersholt, Eric Linden, Barbara Stanwyck, Ginger Rogers, James Cagney, George Bernard Shaw, Myrna Loy, and Helen Jacobs.

Duty

Every so often we face our obligations, whether we do it cheerfully and enthusiastically or not. There seems to be a tax collector on the higher planes who cannot be fooled, and when the time rolls around for you and me to pay—we pay. Ask any of your friends who were born Jan. 16-Feb. 21. If they are happy and contented now it is a mighty sure index that they have been living the right kind of lives. If not, they are being called on to make adjustments with their pasts and should do so willingly, thinking over the entire situation and its causes, and make changes accordingly.

Reward

If you are sure you deserve the best, step out to collect it, particularly if you entered the world Oct. 10-Nov. 14. But before you start things be sure you really want to finish them on the basis of true justice. In other words, don't fool yourself—don't consider you deserve it just because you are you and because you want it.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is so scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms develop into serious trouble.

To flush out waste poisons and acid from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine always works—you'll feel better in a few days, as the supremely effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis. But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland. All good things are imitated.

In color, a railroad train of western pioneer days and a modern streamlined train, on page 1 of the picture section of this issue.

By WHITLEY NOBLE

THOUSANDS have marveled at the new streamlined railroad trains—premier exhibits of an age of speed—that have traveled about the country in recent months. Displayed at A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, these trains have revived to a marked degree the public's interest in railway progress.

The Union Pacific's Pullman-built aluminum M-10000 and M-10001, the Burlington line's stainless steel Zephyr, and other examples of similar train designing both in this country and abroad have convinced the world that streamlining is the thing. Its application to airplanes and automobiles more than clinches the widespread conclusion that streamlined vehicles move with greater speed and less effort than those that are compelled by their outlines to engage in constant battle with air resistance.

Streamlined trains now in operation are powered with internal combustion engines that operate dynamos that in turn deliver electricity to motors that turn the wheels to make the trains go. These trains are the offerings of a distinct school of rail vehicle designing. Converts to another school of designing hold the belief that improved rail haulage and increased speeds can be accomplished by sticking to the steam locomotive. And to attain their goal they have set themselves to the task of streamlining the "iron horse." The American Locomotive company is reported to be working on the construction of two streamlined steam engines for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad is expected to make an announcement soon to the effect that its new streamlined steam locomotive is ready—the locomotive that is to pull the cars of its streamlined train, the Lady Baltimore, which are being built in Philadelphia.

Foregoing paragraphs perhaps tell the reader little that he has not read elsewhere, though they can serve in this case as a lead-up or introduction to the statement, based upon fact, that streamlining as applied to railroad trains is nothing new to the Baltimore and Ohio, and as a preface to the story of that railroad's experiments with a streamlined train more than 34 years ago.

Principal character in the story of that early streamlined train is the late Frederick Upham Adams, a Chicago newspaper man familiarly known among his cronies as "Grizzly" Adams. It was as long ago as 1887 that Mr. Adams was assigned to obtain a story from a man who was working on the invention of a locomotive that he claimed would be able to speed from Chicago to New York in the amazingly brief time of one hour. Mr. Adams discovered that the theories of the inventor had certain merit, but that the factor of wind resistance had been overlooked in this proposed engine that was to travel so rapidly that it would outspeed the screech of its own whistle.

The problem of air resistance to moving vehicles plunged Mr. Adams into a scientific study of the subject, which in turn led him to the idea of designing a railroad train that could overcome to a great degree that natural obstacle to high speed. He knew from consulting tables on wind resistance at various speeds that the ordinary train, presenting flat surfaces to the air and handicapped with many pockets that created back suction, encountered increased resistance with every increase in speed and that beyond a certain point it would be almost impossible to accelerate its rate of travel.

Early Experiments Financed by Chicago Tribune Editor

Mr. Adams, as a reporter employed by The Chicago Tribune, interested Joseph Medill, editor of that newspaper, in his idea of developing a streamlined train that would operate much faster than an ordinary train and at a considerable saving in fuel.

Writes John W. Adams of Evanston, Ill., a brother of Frederick Upham Adams:

"Although the progress made in the experiments that were tried out during the years of 1892 and 1893 were frequently reported by Mr. Adams in the news columns of The Tribune, the sole object of his newspaper service for two years was to develop a new type of railway train that would materially increase the speed and safety of operation and greatly reduce the cost of operation. During these two years Mr. Joseph Medill bore the entire cost of the experiments undertaken, paid Mr. Adams his usual reporter's salary, met all promotion expenses, and provided for the necessary engineering research and the obtaining of basic patents. . . .

"Before making thorough demonstration tests Mr. Adams consulted construction and operating engineers of the leading American railways, obtained access to all the necessary operating and mechanical data of the roads operating high-speed trains, and collected statistics to reveal the tremendous loss being sustained by a type of engine and car construction that took no account of atmospheric resistance.

Baltimore and Ohio Experts Assigned to Assist Adams

"The railway system most friendly to a demonstration experiment was the Baltimore and Ohio. Operating experts were assigned to coöperate fully with Mr. Adams, and an engine and four cars of the usual type of construction were turned over by the Baltimore and Ohio officials for reconstruction purposes. The engine and cars were entirely remodeled on the plans fully outlined in the ninety-page book by Mr. Adams that Joseph Medill had had published. . . .

"When the train was reconstructed several fast tryouts were made to ascertain if there were any mechanical faults that needed correcting, several of which were disclosed and the necessary alterations made."

Brother of Train Inventor Recalls Speed Tests Made

Later and more thorough tests were made of the streamlined train, according to John W. Adams, who writes further as follows:

"In those tests, which were designed to show economy of operation and to demonstrate victory over air resistance, no attempt was made at high speed, and the engineer was instructed not to exceed sixty miles an hour. But one day the engineer's curiosity as to how fast the new train would run overcame his loyalty to definite instructions, and on the forty-mile stretch between Washington and Baltimore he opened up the throttle for spurts on straightaway stretches, with the result that record-breaking speed was obtained but never officially reported."

These tests, according to John W. Adams, were made in 1892 and 1893, though, on the authority of the Baltimore Sun, the first test of the Adams streamlined train, which was known as the "Windsplitter," occurred on May 8, 1900. It may be possible that John W. Adams had in mind an earlier train, but if there were an earlier train tested no mention is made of it in an article by O. Kuhler in the November issue of the Baltimore and Ohio Magazine,

The streamlined train as originally designed by Mr. Adams is described in detail in the book published in 1892, from which the drawings reproduced upon this page were taken. The sketch at the top of the page shows just how the train was expected to appear when completed. How closely original plans were followed in the actual construction of the train which was tested in 1900 can be noted in a general way by a glance at the accompanying reproductions of photographs. The "Windsplitter" of 1900, it can be seen, resembled in almost every detail the train as planned in 1892. The principal difference lay in the fact that the "Windsplitter" was drawn by standard locomotives, no effort having been made to streamline them to reduce air resistance.

Locomotive, tender, and front of car, according to designs by Mr. Adams made public in his book on the subject published in 1892. Engine and tender were designed to reduce air resistance.

Designed with the Aim of Reducing Air Resistance

Original plans specified a train made up of a tender and a number of cars all linked together by vestibules to give the appearance of a single unit and to eliminate air pockets between cars, such as were found in the ordinary trains of the open platform type. To all purposes the Adams train was an articulated train of the general type of the present streamlined trains which have created such wide interest. The locomotive of the Adams train was to bear a pair of slanting planes at its front, covering pilot and barrel, to permit it to cleave the air rather than pile the air up before it. Steam dome and cab also were to be narrowed at the fronts in the shape of a wedge. The rear of the train was designed in the form of an upright wedge to eliminate suction. The space under the tender and cars was to be inclosed in sheathing, the bottom of which was to be slanted in slightly toward the rails, giving an appearance of continuous side walls almost down to the tracks. The whole of the train was to be a smoothly flowing, carefully streamlined vehicle without protuberances to resist air pressure. Even the tender was designed with a streamlined slanting top at the front.

An interesting feature was in the proposed heating system, which was designed to take hot waste from the firebox and force it through a duct under the roof all along the train. Ventilation was to be provided for by a continuous duct starting at the tender and ending at the rear of the last car. Fresh air admitted to the opening of the duct at the tender was to be drawn back through the train, permitted to enter each car in quantities required for the comfort of pasengers, and allowed to escape finally in vitiated condition through vents at the sides of the cars. Mr. Adams planned a cool, clean train in which passengers would find it unnecessary to open windows. His idea was to keep out cinders and soot and, to a certain degree, noise—an idea carried out in a scientific manner in the present-day streamlined trains. So far as can be learned he made no special effort to lighten the weight of his train.

"In due course," writes Mr. Kuhler in the Baltimore and Ohio Magazine, "the train was actually built at the Mont Clare shops of the B. & O., and it is to the credit of the B. & O. that it displayed the farsightedness in this case that it has shown in many other outstanding pioneer developments in the railroad field. To it and to Mr. Adams goes the honor of actually having put into tests a development which, as we see it today, was years ahead of its time."

As mentioned previously, the first test of the Adams "Windsplitter" was made on May 8, 1900. The Baltimore Sun, which assigned a reporter to cover that test, quotes Mr. Adams on that historic event:

"The train was in charge of Engineer Mike Kirby, and engine 822 (shown in photograph), a small 50-ton locomotive, was sent out to pull the six cars. The best runs were 3½ miles in 2½ minutes, 10 miles in 8 minutes, and 18 miles in 16 minutes. From Frederick Junction up the hill to Mt. Airy the speed of 35 was sustained. . . . It was demonstrated that the train, with this small engine, can easily make 60 miles an hour on levels."

Baltimore to Washington in Less Than 38 Minutes

The second speed trial was made on May 22, 1900, between Baltimore and Washington. Engine 847, a 57-ton locomotive with 78-inch driving wheels, was used. The locomotive steamed poorly from Baltimore to the capital and no surprising speed was attained. Engineer John I. Way took the train back to Baltimore in that test with engine 857, doing some of the miles at the remarkable rate of 38 seconds each.

Of a third test, made on May 28, 1900, the Baltimore Sun says:

"With a 58-ton engine and drawing the six heavy cars that constitue the Adams train, the run from Baltimore to Washington was made in 37 minutes and 30 seconds. This time covers the start from standstill, the slow speed demanded by the laws and ordinances of both cities in entering and leaving, and the minute or more in coming to a full stop, as well as the slackening at the Relay viaduct. The run beat all speed records on the Baltimore and Ohio between the two cities. The significance of this feat of the Adams train will be appreciated by railroad men when the size of the engine, which is about half as large as the ones now used in making fast time, is considered."

The above statement by the Baltimore Sun, it should be borne in mind, was printed in 1900.

One of the engineers who took part in the tests was quoted at the time as saying that he made trial runs with the Adams train with less fuel than he would have used with a train of the ordinary type. Rail experts found in the tests, however, a slightly increased rather than diminished drawbar pull. Engines with faster sustained speed, it is known today, would have made streamlining effective and overcome that obstacle. The train was dismantled after the trials. Mr. Adams, the inventor, and his ideas, it is plain, were far ahead of the times. Lack of proper materials, such as are employed in modern streamlined trains, certainly had something to do with the abandonment of the idea—an idea which present-day engineers agree was fundamentally correct.

The brother of the inventor, John W. Adams, has this to say of the final result of the experiment:

"The B. & O. officials had ample proof of the train's efficiency, but as its adoption would mean the junking or reconstruction of their entire passenger equipment, and financial conditions would not permit large expenditures, the whole proposal was allowed to become dormant."

Frederick Upham Adams, pioneer of railroad streamlining, died in 1924.

Beery of the Pictures Doesn't Stay Down

The Story of an Arabian Nights Career

he rumbles, surveying his drawings and calculations. There's philosophy in this, as applied to his everyday life and work.

The old question, "How did you get into show business, and why?" brought forth a humorous reply—serious enough, too.

"Like Flaemmchen in 'Grand Hotel,' I did it for money. It was the easiest way. Who can blame me? Don't you make a living off the picture business yourself?"

Wallace Beery was born on April Fool's day, 1886, in Kansas City, third son of a Kansas City policeman. The two older boys were Noah and William. The three boys wore their father's cut-down-and-made-over uniforms, because the cloth was good and strong. Their mother saw that they got music lessons by way of culture. Wally practiced less but got farther with his music than the other two. Later work on the stage found both Noah and Wally as good singers in Henry W. Savage musical shows.

"He married Gloria Swanson . . ." (His first wife.)

Wally says he ran away from home when he was in fourth grade because he hated school. "I expect I'd still be in fourth grade if I hadn't run away," he chuckles. Here he is understating his mental capacity. He holds a transport pilot's license and is now a lieutenant commander in the United States naval reserve. You can't navigate a plane on a fourth-grade mind.

Digging ditches, working as engine wiper on a railroad, working in a circus as an elephant trainer through the grace of his brother William, then a concession manager with the Forepaugh-Sells circus, and finally tossing hot bolts into blast furnaces, palled on him and made him figure that there was more to life than earning your living by the sweat of the brow. When Noah began singing the siren song of the theater in letters from New York, where he was in musical comedy at the fantastic salary of $25 a week, Wally listened and went to the big town.

For eighteen bucks a week he sold his manhood to Terpsichore and was hoofing and singing in "Babes in Toyland" in no time at all. This was in 1904. "The Student King," "The Prince of Pilsen," and "The Yankee Tourist" all used his talents, and upped him to $35 a week. Summers saw him in stock in Kansas City. He played every sort of role. When Raymond Hitchcock became ill during the run of "The Yankee Tourist," Wally hopped into his role and closed the season at $70 a week. He was a success. He used to sit and talk in quiet cafés in New York with Richard Harding Davis and Victor Herbert. Things were fine. Then, as is the way in show business, he found himself broke and with no job. He took a tip and did a day's work at the old Thanhouser studio in New Rochelle, but was disgusted with movies. Later, when he was playing the lead in "The Balkan Princess" in Chicago, Essanay offered him steady work all year around, and he took it.

"'There's nothing like kids. You oughta see my baby girl' . . ." (Wallace Beery and Carol Ann.)

The new world revolved around people like Broncho Billy Anderson, Francis X. Bushman, and Beverly Bayne, Ben Turpin, and Bryant Washburn. Virginia Valli, Rod La Rocque, and Gloria Swanson played extra around the lot. Beery was busy with his Swedie comedies and the George Ade fables.

In 1915 Broncho Billy decided to make westerns in California. Wally went with him to Niles, Cal., as second assistant director. Three months later the venture fell flat. He went down to Los Angeles to Keystone, where Swanson was working. She had come west with her mother. In 1916 they were married. Two years later found them separated. Wally lost interest in everything.

"Did you feel you had outgrown comedies and wanted to play Hamlet? Or why was it you left Sennett's?" we asked.

"I got fired for duck hunting," he laughed. "Trouble was, I liked duck hunting better than acting, and I got so I used to sneak off with the fellows and my gun to go duck hunting, and whenever Sennett wanted me for a part I was duck hunting. He just decided to give me lots of free time and fired me."

Beery finally gathered himself together after the Swanson split and took a motion picture company to Japan. He lost his shirt to the orientals, and, with the war coming on, he returned broke. Then began his career as a dramatic actor, as mentioned before, starting with his villain role in "The Unpardonable Sin," a war story.

"Remember me as the German villain in 'The Four Horsemen'? Wasn't I dirty?" he asked with a happy smile.

Next to aviation and his children, Beery's main interest lies in hunting and fishing. In his den in his home in Hollywood are trophies of rod and gun.

"I think I must have been in twice as many big productions as anyone in the industry," said Wally pensively, naming over the long list of pictures he has made. "In fifty-two weeks once I got seventy-five weeks' work. I was working for two companies at once.

"When I did comedies I did them as serious dramatic tasks. How I hate a 'funny' actor! There's nothing so unfunny to me as a conscious comic. I hate comedy based on an obvious routine of gestures and stunts. Comedy is serious dramatic work and should be treated as such.

"In my early days, back in the Henry W. Savage part of my 'career' [this with a grimace] I had to play any role that came along. An actor was supposed to be able to play anything. You were given a part and expected to do it. They didn't photograph your profile and see if you could do it. You just did it. A million people can do some one particular role that comes along. If after twenty-five years of acting I could only play Wallace Beery, what the h—l kind of an actor would I be?

"In all my career I never have been a star in the strict sense of the word." Here he picked up a list of contract players from the office desk. "Well, I see my name tops their list of stars," he observed with a smile. "I always think it's the last kick of an old horse when a player's starred. Theodore Roberts worked all his life. If he had been starred he never would have been able to keep it up. The starring thing means too many responsibilities. The star always gets the washing up in a bad picture, no matter whose fault it is that the picture's bad. And bad pictures happen to everyone.

"No, I've never had any real regrets that I didn't follow something else than the entertainment business. Why should I? I'm really a lazy cuss. I fell into acting, and I followed the line of least resistance. I've made a lot of money and I've lost a lot of money. Five years ago I was at rock bottom again. That after getting four grand a week at Paramount for years. I invested money in eighteen or twenty different enterprises. They all flopped. I don't care. I am working and earning a good salary. Lots of folks are out of jobs now, have lost their roll and are too old to earn any more.

"I don't figure all the money I lost was wasted. A lot of it, that went in aviation companies and projects, went to advance the science of aviation.

"Physically I feel grand. Since I made 'Flesh' I've kept in training, and it's great; I never expect to get out of training again. Food tastes twice as good; the air has a flavor. I find I'm twice as good-natured.

"He holds a transport pilot's license and is now a lieutenant commander in the United States naval reserve." (At left, Beery, the airman, in service uniform.)

". . . such a hit as the genial King Richard that a picture was made starring him in that role."

". . . 'Rita comes from a big family herself' . . ." (Rita, otherwise Mrs. Wallace Beery.)

"My kids? [We asked about his adopted family of three, two boys and the baby girl Carol Ann.] There's nothing like kids. You oughta see my baby girl—you just oughta. My wife Rita comes from a big family herself, and this kid stuff is nothing new to her. I love to go home at night; there's always something going on around the place. We rarely go out. It's well over a year since we went to a party at the Cocoanut Grove."

Wally, all slicked up in striped flannels, with vivid sports shoes, a gray flannel coat with a flower in it, no hat, loves to take Carol Ann, aged four, to the Brown Derby to lunch. That's his idea of a swell affair; he holds court in his booth along the wall and sees and hears all about everything from his friends who stop. He talks fishing, duck hunting, his last vacation up country in the plane. He talks navy. Anything but pictures.

Science Can Snapshot a Black Cat in Dark

By Thomas M. Beck

THE human eye is a good camera in certain respects. It catches light rays, focuses them upon a screen, and converts their effects into conscious impressions. In this respect, however, it has two considerable defects. It fails to make a permanent record of its findings, and it is insensible to much of light that is available.

Photography was not characterized by the first of these failures even at its beginning. It had long been known that silver compounds were readily converted into silver by the action of many reducing agents, and also that silver compounds changed partly into silver after prolonged exposure to sunlight. About a hundred years ago a young French chemist named Daguerre put these two facts together and discovered photography. He coated a silver plate with silver iodide prepared in the dark and focused an image on it in a camera. On exposing this plate to mercury vapor the light-exposed silver iodide was changed to silver, or, in other words, the plate was developed. He fixed the plate, that is, dissolved off the unexposed and unchanged silver iodide, with sodium thiosulphate solution.

In the resulting photograph the high lights of the image appeared as dull silver, while the shadows were polished metal. Such a picture had to be held in exactly the right light to make it look like anything, and, furthermore, it required several minutes of exposure to prepare, but in spite of these defects the process was an immediate practical success. It became more so in 1851, when Archer invented the wet collodion plate, in which the photographic material was silver bromide distributed throughout a collodion film on a glass plate. On developing and fixing, such a plate would have black deposits of silver where the light had struck it and be transparent where there had been no light; in other words, it would be a negative and would have to be printed on paper coated with silver bromide.

This process is fundamentally the same as that in use today in the photographic and motion picture industries. The present-day plates are of silver bromide, usually along with a little iodide as well, mixed through a gelatin coating attached to a glass plate or celluloid film. A number of synthetic organic chemicals are used as developers, while sodium thiosulphate is still the most commonly used fixer.

However, for the last fifty years photography has remained more of an art than a science, and most of the advances in it have been made by the trial and error method rather than by scientific reasoning. Silver is by no means the only element the salts of which are light-sensitive. Chromium salts likewise are sensitive, a property made use of by photo-engravers; and blueprints are made by the use of certain light-sensitive iron compounds.

But the best minds of science are not able to say exactly what happens when such compounds are exposed to light. Obviously something does happen, since they are much more chemically reactive after light treatment, but there is no apparent difference betweeen an exposed and an unexposed grain of silver bromide. Presumably what happens is that light, which is a form of energy, is absorbed by the silver salt and that this increase of energy gives it a hidden vigor that enables it to react at once with the developer.

It is quite possible that a minute trace of some foreign material does the actual absorbing and passes the energy on to its neighboring silver bromide molecules. For example, there is the classic story about the scientists who made some photographic plates out of highly purified materials and found such plates to be very inferior products. They traced this effect to the following cause: Gelatin is made from the remains of cows, most of which in the course of their simple lives had eaten a few mustard-like weeds. Such plants contain a little mustard oil, which in turn contains sulphur. A trace of mustard oil remained in the relatively impure gelatin used in ordinary plates, where it reacted with some of the silver compounds to form a few tiny specks of silver sulphide, which were the cause of at least part of the light-sensitivity.

As mentioned before, the eye is not particularly sensitive to sunlight in the broader sense of the term. Light can be described as a sort of a wave-like disturbance in space. The light from the sun consists of a number of different wave lengths (a wave length is the distance between two successive waves) varying from .000012 to .0002 of an inch. These various wave lengths are bent to a different extent on passing through a prism and form a rainbow, which, if it were entirely visible, would look something like figure 1.

Unfortunately, of all this available light the eye can see only those rays the wave lengths of which lie between .000016 and .000033 of an inch. Furthermore, it does not see them all equally well. For example, yellow looks a much lighter color than red. It actually isn't; it just looks that way because the eye sees it better. The variation of this color visibility is shown in figure 2.

The flatirons at either side of the bust provided the necessary light rays to take this photograph in a dark room.

On the other hand, it is almost blind to red and orange. A glass of red wine or a pair of ruby lips would look like so much printing ink to it.

To remedy this condition it was necessary to invent sensitized plates. A little explanation may be necessary. If a red dye be dissolved in a glass of water the solution looks red. This is not because it gives off red light, but because the dye absorbs from the light passing through it everything except the red, or, perhaps, absorbs only green, which is the complement of red. About sixty years ago a German chemist named Vogel found that a photographic plate dipped in a solution of certain dyes would be able to see the color that these dyes absorbed. This is illustrated by figure 4. The most obvious explanation for this phenomenon, and one that probably is as good as any, is that the dye absorbs the light energy that the silver bromide cannot handle alone and hands it over to the bromide. However, relatively few dyes will sensitize a plate to the colors that they absorb. The best ones for this purpose belong to a class known as the cyanines, which would make very poor dyes for cloth, since they are extremely expensive, and also fade very quickly when exposed to light.

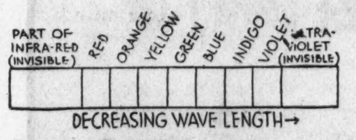

Fig. 1—Complete spectrum, or rainbow, of sunlight.

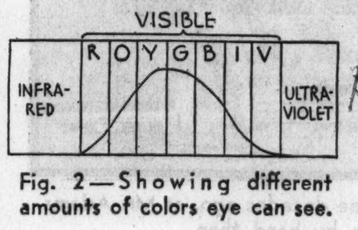

Fig. 2—Showing different amounts of colors eye can see.

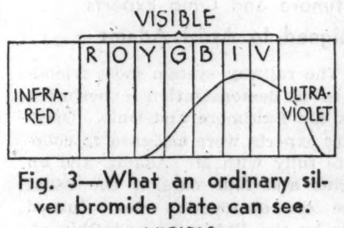

Fig. 3—What an ordinary silver bromide plate can see.

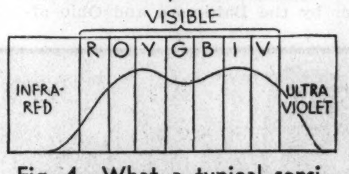

Fig. 4—What a typical sensitized plate can receive.

The discovery of these sensitizers has led to the invention of such photographers' delights as the panchromatic plate, which will photograph practically all of the visible light. While the virtues of such a plate are obvious, it has a rather unfortunate fault. An ordinary unsensitized plate is blind to red and so may be safely developed under the well-known red light of the darkroom. Some of the panchromatic plates are deliberately made blind to a limited section of greeen wave lengths and may be exposed under such light without damage, but the most nearly perfect ones must be developed in complete darkness.

This principle of sensitizing dyes has been extended still farther into plates that will photograph infrared light. Such invisible light may be considered a form of radiant heat. Consequently it now is possible to take photographs in a completely darkened room by using some heat source, such as an electric iron, as a lamp. Such a scene may be perfectly dark to the eye, but a photograph made on a sensitized plate shows the iron to be glowing brilliantly.

The most important application of this principle of photographing the invisible has been made in aerial photography. The effect of haze is due to the scattering of light rays by countless invisible dust particles in the air. It happens that light of shorter wave length (that is, blue and violet) is most affected this way. By filtering out these shorter waves by means of a piece of colored glass, and photographing the remainder with a plate sensitized to red and infrared, it now is possible to take aerial pictures of objects that may be as much as a hundred miles away from the camera and which are quite invisible to the eye.

Scientific Queries Answered

Mr. Beck will be glad to answer questions of scientific nature. Address Thomas M. Beck, Graphic Section, Chicago Tribune. For personal reply, inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Is the air pressure down in a mine higher or lower than at the surface? Why?—L. W., Peoria, Ill.

Air pressure is the result of the weight of the air above us. The higher we go, the less air above us and the lower the pressure. Conversely, down in a mine there is more air above us, so the pressure is greater.

What is the material used in printers' rollers?—H. F. S., Indianapolis, Ind.

There is no standard or fixed formula for this material. In general it consists of a mixture of water, glue, glycerin, and sugar (or molasses). Certain kinds contain small amounts of other substances, such as gelatin, rubber, or special synthetic resins.

My children are fine now

● My children frequently got upset and needed a laxative and I had an awful time giving them one—they just refused any of them. I was always worrying about their bowels. FEEN-A-MINT has certainly solved my problem. The children like it just as well as regular chewing gum and there is no coaxing and fighting like I put up with before. It works beautifully without being too rough—the children don't complain of cramps like they did with other medicines. The whole family is strong for FEEN-A-MINT.

Chewing makes the difference

Women are constantly writing us how pleased they are with FEEN-A-MINT for their children. Because you chew FEEN-A-MINT the laxative is distributed evenly through the system and works more thoroughly without being harsh and violent. That is why 15,000,000 men and women have decided that FEEN-A-MINT is the ideal laxative for them. So easy and pleasant to take with its refreshing flavor. 15 and 25¢ at all drug stores.

- ☐ Musical Instruments
- ☐ Dancing Schools
- ☐ Parcel Post and Express
- ☐ Board and Lodging

Decide which heading best fits the picture. Then turn to today's Tribune Want Ad Section and look through the want ads under that heading. If you have decided correctly, you will find the first hidden want ad in today's treasure hunt game. The first hidden want ad will help you find the second one; the second will help you find the third; and so on.

"I Defy You to Trail Me Through Today's Want Ads!"
WANT AD WANDA

$100.00 IN CASH PRIZES

WILL BE PAID BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE FOR THE BEST SOLUTIONS TO TODAY'S WANT AD TREASURE HUNT

• Can you follow a trail? Do you like treasure hunts and games which make you use your wits?

Here is your chance to prove your skill. Want Ad Wanda challenges you to follow the trail of Treasure Hunt want ads through the columns of today's Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section. You'll have lots of fun—and there's $100.00 in cash prizes to reward successful contestants.

There is no hard work to do—no letters to write—nothing to buy. Just find between 10 and 15 Treasure Hunt want ads in today's Tribune Want Ad Section. Read the rules and start looking for the Treasure Hunt want ads now!

• THE RULES •

WHAT TO DO: Between ten and fifteen Treasure Hunt want ads are printed in the want ad section of today's Chicago Tribune. The picture above will help you find the first Treasure Hunt want ad. When you find the first one it will contain a clue to help you find the second one, and so on. Altogether there are at least ten and not more than fifteen Treasure Hunt want ads. It is up to you to decide when you have found them all.

PRIZES: To the persons who submit, in accordance with these rules, the most nearly complete sets of Treasure Hunt Want ads, arranged in the most nearly correct order, the Tribune will pay $100.00 in cash prizes: First prize, $25.00; second prize, $15.00; third prize, $10.00; next five prizes, $5.00 each; next twenty-five prizes, $1.00 each.

JUDGING: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. The committee's decision will be final. Accuracy will be the first consideration; neatness will be next. Elaborate entries will receive no special consideration. Just make your entry simple and neat. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants.

PRIZES

1st Prize	$25.00
2nd Prize	15.00
3rd Prize	10.00
Next 5 prizes, $5 each	25.00
Next 25 prizes, $1 each	25.00
Total Prizes Today	$100.00

WHERE TO SEND ENTRIES: Entries should be mailed to "TREASURE HUNT 'E,'" the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Ill. All entries to today's game must be received in the Tribune office before 6 p. m. on Thursday, December 6, 1934. No entries will be returned.

WHO CAN ENTER: This offer is open to all—men and women, boys and girls, except employes of the Tribune and their families. It is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy the Treasure Hunt want ads on a separate sheet of paper if you wish. The Tribune may be examined at Tribune offices and public libraries free of charge.

WINNERS OF GAME "C," NOVEMBER 18, 1934

1st Prize—$25.00—A. Marshall, 7824 S. Winchester Ave., Chicago. 2nd Prize—$15.00—Mrs. Thomas Maher, 1217 Lunt Ave., Chicago. 3rd Prize—$10.00—Miss Clara Gutow, 3414 Beach Ave., Chicago. Taxes Eat Huge Chunks of Film Stars' Incomes

Many Hollywood Notables Served Liens for Evading Uncle Sam's Levy.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Richard Dix's recent hailing into court to answer charges of the federal government that he had not paid full income taxes over a period of years, and Judge Paul McCormick's ruling that he was guilty but with "no criminal intent," again raises the matter of film star salaries, income taxes, and what do they do in Hollywood with all the money they earn?

Dix has not been alone in this matter of difficulties over income taxes.

Recent liens disclose many claims against famous names—Fifi D'Orsay, Ina Claire, Pola Negri, Betty Compson, Barbara Stanwyck, Frank Fay, Sally O'Neill, Sidney Fox, Bette Davis, Buster Keaton, Harry Langdon, Hoot Gibson, Sally Eilers, Joan Blondell, Lila Lee, Ted Healy, Roscoe Ates, Carmel Myers, Ian Keith, Fern Andra, Doug Fairbanks, C. B. De Mille, and Gloria Swanson. Even the estate of Paul Bern, which was inherited by Jean Harlow, was nicked.

Stars' Ultimate Earnings Less Than Business Men's.

Several years ago there was a sensational trial of a woman income tax expert who had advised many movie stars on how to avoid payment of large amounts. Dorothy Mackaill and others testified in court, clearing themselves but allowing the expert to be convicted. The case showed mainly that movie people are like most of the rest of American citizens in that they view any attempts at escaping paying taxes as perfectly fair, a sort of game, in fact, not at all comparable to paying debts owed to any one other than Uncle Sam.

There is a stronger reason for this attitude in the film colony than elsewhere. In a highly competitive business where the bulk of the players are selling personality, beauty, and youth as their main assets rather than their actual acting ability, the average term of being "in the money" rarely stretches beyond five years.

Yet their income taxes are based on this earning capacity in the same way that the taxes are computed on any business man who can reasonably expect to keep earning a large salary indefinitly. Thus, figuring things out on a lifetime basis, a movie star is obliged to pay many times as much of his earnings in taxes as a business man.

Income Tax Almost Impoverished Charley Ray.

This same situation has another angle. When the government clamps down on some movie actor for a huge deficit on his income tax of several years back, it frequently proves to be a great hardship, as the actor more often than not has passed out of the big money class and is obliged to cut into a slender capital left him and his family and designed to carry them through the lean years ahead.

Charley Ray, once a big money maker, was almost completely broke when a huge income tax deficit sent him staggering into the red some years ago. There are many cases like this. The depression has made it a lot worse, of course, as it has in other lines of endeavor, with the savings and investments of successful but completed careers swept away.

Many Stars Hire Agents to Manage Their Finances.

People who read in the papers that Mae West made $500,000 for "She Done Him Wrong"; that Will Rogers gets $7,500 a week; Garbo, $9,000; Chevalier, $7,500; Constance Bennett [at present salary], $7,000; John Barrymore, $6,500; Norma Shearer, $6,000; Richard Barthelmess, $6,000; Ann Harding, $6,000; Wallace Beery, $5,000; Ruth Chatterton, $5,000; Kay Francis, $5,000; Wiliam Powell, $4,500; Joan Crawford, $4,000; Janet Gaynor, $4,000; Edward G. Robinson, $3,000; James Cagney, $2,800; Clark Gable, $2,500; Jackie Cooper, $1,300; Shirley Temple, $1,000 and her mother an additional $200, feel that movie stars should never complain at paying taxes.

"What," the harrassed householder who is figuring how to get another pair of shoes for junior, asks, "can these people know about expenses?" Ah, what does the householder know of what a movie star's bills are like?

Following the old ditty that it isn't the money that you've made, but the money that you've saved, that counts, the movie star is not much better off than most people. His or her situation is in many cases a difficult one in which to save money.

Agents who handle the business affairs of movie stars are becoming more and more common in Hollywood. There are many of these who make out budgets for their clients, draw their pay checks and pay their bills, and give them an allowance to live on.

A peek at a few of these budgets is highly revealing. M. C. Levee, former Chicago boy who made good in the movies as a producer and now handles picture stars as business manager and agent, offers a budget suitable for a bachelor in films, of normal instincts, who earns $5,000 a week.

Society Deftly Combines Mirth and Esthetics

Symphony Furnishes the Highbrow Fare, Papi, as Cook, the Merriment.

By Cousin Eve.

THANKSGIVING, come and gone, with tons of things to be thankful for. Shades of rose in sunset skies; turquoise blue in our own great lake, placid and calm.

The week leaves piquant pictures in the mind, a panorama of persons and events, passing strange: Gertrude Stein in gray, monkish robe, high priestess of simplicity in dress and speech, with a vocabulary of narrow range.

A concert, symphonic, at Orchestra hall, where composers, two of Chicago's own, combine the noises of cities into works of great beauty: John Alden Carpenter's "Skyscrapers" and Gardner Read's "Sketches of a City." Two voices, a man's and a woman's, combine with the Carpenter score, adding a certain poignancy. The next time it plays in Chicago Frederick Stock will add the voices of the twenty-four Negroes for which the music calls.

Again in realms of music, a sight of Maestro Papi, musical leader of Chicago grand opera, aproned and capped as a chef, bending over the Ernest Grahams' stove. The sacred rites of preparing spaghetti and macaroni are under way. Paul Longone, director of opera, stands hard by. The tall, hospitable hostess conceals white satin, ruffled in white tulle, under a vast apron. A shining feast, a table of thirty or so, whereat beautiful sopranos eat macaroni plus spaghetti, plus chicken à la Papi. Singers have good appetites, and Tetrazzini is not in this country any more to frighten them.

SNAPPED AT THE DAY NURSERY

The institution is a day nursery at 1621 North Marshfield avenue. Mrs. Bowey is a member of the finance committee of the Creche. On Dec. 8 the organization will give a gay dinner-dance at the Bal Tabarin in the Hotel Sherman for the benefit of the nursery.

Charity Comes Off the Winner in Gala Events.

Shining straws in the autumn wind are huge sums netted for hospitals by their woman's boards. Mrs. Francis Johnson's "Midsummer Night's Dream" brought $8,000 to Passavant. Mrs. Frank Hibbard's "Antiques" meant $3,000 apiece for St. Luke's and Children's Memorial hospitals—donors of antique stock claiming, if they wish, 25 per cent. The "Shut-Ins," led to victory by the genius of Mrs. Laird Bell, counted $6,500. The Merry-Go-Round, on now at the Sherman house for Chicago Lying-In hospital, has great expectations.

At the John Alden Carpenters' in Lake Shore drive, Monday afternoon late, a committee for the Bohemians dashes into the fray. Rudolph Ganz is chairman. Money must be raised for musicians out of luck. There are present many people more or less musical interested.

Mrs. Frederic Upham accepts the honor of chairman for the benefit. Mrs. Ernest Graham takes the box committee and Vera Stock Wolfe the publicity.

Argentina Opens Series at Auditorium.

The series of four dance galas opens Dec. 8 at the Auditorium with that glorious creature, Argentina, now moving sensationally along the Pacific coast.

Hers are the loveliest arms and hands in the world. Her costume with the ruffled train floating way, way across the stage is épatant. The second gala is Ballet Russe with "The Fire Bird," its only showing in America, on Dec. 28. The third and fourth are Jan. 28 and Feb. 22, when the redoubtable Sakaroffs of Paris come to town. Rudolph Ganz remarked that dancing has not yet been done on the radio.

John Carpenter was reminded of an interesting opera he saw some years ago in Paris and which he hopes to see given here some day, Ibert's "Angélique." The theme, the intriguing one of a modern French gentleman trying to get rid of his wife. The music, indescribable.

High praise for Miss Grace Denton, the tall, slight woman impresario who brings all these dashing things to Chicago. In the face of these successes, past and to come, Mrs. Howard Linn's broadcasting of pink note paper astonishes the tender hearted world of box and seat buyers. With characteristic uniqueness and grace she issues a plea for Olivet institute, a community of 35,000 working people on the near west side. One recognizes her epistolary style. "But the budget, alas! is much reduced these days. Olivet is not putting on a benefit this year, therefore the carry-on of her work is dependent upon your generosity."

This is an entirely new departure and will be, perhaps, acclaimed. Mrs. Linn is chairman of this new style benefit; Harold F. McCormick is chairman of the board of trustees, and Evan Evans of the board of directors.

Gold Coast Shops on Parade at St. Chrysostom's Bazar.

A seasonal novelty and brilliant success, the two day "new style bazar" at St. Chrysostom's parish house last week. Usually one goes to a church bazar with a hopeless feeling of frustration. Many kind friends making sheep's eyes behind counters and uninteresting objects for kitchens, pantries, and bedrooms on sale, seem to take all the glamor out of life.

But St. Chrysostom's was quite another breed of bazar. First, there was a traditional turkey dinner upstairs, with a tremendous crowd, and Newton Perry in great form, dinner jacket and the black tie. A superb head waiter.

Smart gals of the parish were waitresses and everybody was screeching merrily. Thus fortified, one sought the Christmas windows downstairs and here was the grand surprise. Two pretty streets of windows from fifty-five of the most splendorous shops on the gold coast. Orders were taken for Christmas presents and the church bazar committee took a percentage.

A man had even come out from New York to see how it was done. Brilliant success. Also exhibiting, Mrs. Robert Harvey, the former Bertha Botsford, member of an early eminent Chicago family. Her collection of antiques, unique and beautiful, has burgeoned until her Barry avenue house is a museum of lustrous and beautiful old things. Mrs. John B. Drake was in charge of this booth.

Notables Turn Thespians in "Under the Gas Light."

Each night an early and late show. Edifying indeed to find our social queens already in line at 7 o'clock. And the football rush when the doors were opened! And the gay laughter that greeted "Under the Gas Light," a social melodrama of a century ago in New York. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. was producer; Eleanor Holden, scenic artist. The cast included John Winterbotham, a trembling old sailor with a wad of savings, ruthlessly stolen from him by Walter Frazier, a curly black mustached banker. This loss killed off John Winterbotham, who became a sherif, then a fireman. For there was a great conflagration backstage, frightening the audience out of its wits.

Peggy Hambleton was a clinging vine and Catherine Noyes a dashing banker's daughter, while Sarah Hinde, as a widow woman with children, ruined by the wicked black mustached banker, wrung the heart.

An old program from Hooley's theater, ads and all, was revived. At the top Mr. Hooley's face, wreathed in long, bushy whiskers. All amusing, with much badinage and heckling from the fashionable audience.

Two clever women, Mrs. Harold Eldridge and Mrs. Mark Cummings, got up this brilliant new idea in Christmas bazars.

Gertrude Stein's Entrance Makes Audience Gasp.

The Arts club came to the fore Sunday night with a return visit of Gertrude Stein, which is the sort of thing the Arts club is expected to do. It might have been an anti-climax. But it wasn't. A large audience, and the new treasurer, Harold F. McCormick, giving the principal dinner.

I am one who takes my Miss Stein in small doses but seriously. Any one who has a mission to smash long paragraphs into smithereens has my ear.

The sole decore for her stage was two large black urns filled with big, white chrysanthemums. As she burst through flame taffeta curtains, with slate gray toga, sleek, slate gray hair, she took the breath of her smart audience, unprepared for such plainness. It was like the country lady seeing her first elephant, voicing her reaction: "My! ain't he plain!"

Some people might call it a dreary thing to spend an hour listening to Miss Stein. John Alden Carpenter frankly enjoyed it. Thornton Wilder found it unique, and many of the audience were there undoubtedly in order not to miss "anything." What I heard of Miss Stein's lecture sounded repetitious. But then I never was a lecture hound.

France Honors Two Distinguished Chicagoans.

An interesting ceremony of the week, when France, in the person of Consul General René Weiller, gave medals to two Chicago women. Miss Mary West and Mrs. George Cragg will henceforth wear the purple ribbon of Les Palmes Academiques, conferred by the ministre de l'education nationale.

I had not seen the beautiful library of the Alliance Française in the Fine Arts building since its beauty cure in the summer. President R. H. McCormick's gift of Venetian blinds, the new stage, kitchen, and coatroom, and several fine engravings had made it très

Thirty N. Y. Debs Make Bows in Four Brief Days

Emerging Buds Make the Thanksgiving Recess Gala One for College Lads.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK

Tides have a habit of turning. Sea tides; tides of oratory, and even the social tide. This week the tide turned into a debutante flood tide, and was it a rush? It still is, and it won't ebb completely until this evening, when by train and motor the lads—and some of the lassies—go sadly back to the halls of learning.

Inasmuch as the Thanksgiving holidays—speaking academically—are of short duration, it was necessary to get a lot of action in between Wednesday evening when the scholastic interim began and this evening, when it ends. So, believe it or not, there have been exactely thirty debutantes bowing in the last eighty hours. They started with the supper dance in the Starlight room of the Waldorf-Astoria, given by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Chisholm for their daughter Barbara on Wednesday evening, and finished this afternoon at the reception Francis B. Thurber III., gave at his home at 11 E. 83d street for his cousin Kathleen O'Brien, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John F. O'Brien. Thirty! And the lads in the stag horde managed to get to most. What a lot of wan faces will be displayed these next few days on the campuses at Princeton, Yale, and Amherst—not to mention Harvard and our local Columbia.

Social Whirl Quickens as Resort Season Draws Near.

Even though the deb tide is in, there is still an adult current to be felt. What with being the jolliest winter in ages and with a big Florida season ahead, all the locals and visitors are out to have as much of the fun as possible before they leave New York. Visitors come and go, and Elsa Maxwell is quiet, cooking up some deviltry or other.

Mrs. Charles Aubrey Cartwright has arrived from Southampton [England—not Long Island], and is once more in the Waldorf. The former Mrs. Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt, and earlier Bea Benjamin, will not linger long in town even though the fashionables are gasping for some of the swank and expensive parties Bea always gives. She has decided to go to Florida for the winter. Not to Palm Beach, but to Miami.

People have been telling Bea what a blunder it will be to go to Miami, but Bea says she hasn't been in P. B. so long that she knows no one there. I think she has her tongue in her cheek, and I wager she'll be in P. B. more than in Miami. The latter ville is hectic to the last degree but hardly social.

Guests, Mdivani, Hopping to Winter in India.

Winston Guest enroute for India on a honeymoon with his lovely young wife, the former Helena McCann. Winnie had political ambitions, but he ran on the Republican ticket and in New York City that is always hazardous. So Winnie is not in office, but off to play polo in India and with him and Helena went Winnie's cousin, Michael Phipps.

It's possible that Winnie and Mike will meet up with Alec Mdivani who is also going to spend the winter in India smacking the willow ball while his wife, Babs, who is, naturally, Helena McCann's cousin, and Woolworth co heir, visits her dad here in New York.

Earle Hopping is going to India as well—and he is going at the invitation of Prince Alec. It would all make for grand polo in India with scads of parties for Helena, since she is the wife of the eldest son of the Hon. Frederick E. Guest of the Churchill family, whose titular head is the Duke of Marlborough, and in the British colonies they love folk of titled families even more than in England itself.

"Bubbles" Corcoran Is Joyously Feted.

The trade tide, since we've been speaking of tides, still continues. In our midst at present is the attractive Mrs. Gerald Corcoran, better known by her maiden name, Beatrice Dawson, and to her friends as "Bubbles."

"Bubbles" was presented to the Court of St. James's in '29 and married last year. She is a cousin of the Marchioness of Bute and of the Earl and Countess of Gainborough. Like Lady Dianna Cooper, Lady Victor Paget, the Duke of Marlborough and Lady Moira Coomb. "Bubbles" went into trade in London. Her forte is designing accessories: handbags, belts, tiaras, and such. And she is doing quite well at it, thank you. In the meatime, here in town, she's being fêted wildly and loved by all.

Surprise Program at Luncheon

A surprise program awaits the members of the Fae Blanke Gordon aid and their friends who will attend a luncheon and bridge party at 12:30 Wednesday at the Chez Paree. The chairman of the party is Mrs. H. R. Preskill and the club president, Mrs. C. H. Levitetz.

Miss Sara G. Turner, as president of Chicago Junior Hadassah, will be hostess this evening at the supper dance the group will have at the Medinah club. Junior Hadassah, which maintains an orphanage and nurses' training school in Palestine, also has undertaken the support and care of thirty German-Jewish refugee children this year. The party proceeds will go to carry on these projects.

Everything good in the way of cakes, cookies, and candies will be offered next Saturday afternoon when the Martha Washington home holds a bakery sale at the Chicago Beach hotel for the benefit of the Martha Washington home on South Michigan avenue that serves needy little cripples. The sale will begin at 1 o'clock and continue until everything is sold. Then there will be an informal supper at 6:30, followed by keno. Mrs. R. K. Packard is president of the club, Mrs. B. G. Homewood is handling the arrangements for the sale, and Mrs. W. B. Hall is chairman of the supper party. Others assisting with the day's plans include Mrs. Percy Gerhart, Mrs. M. Melohn, Mrs. Harry Mohlman, and Mrs. LaVerne Norris.

To carry on philanthropy among the dependent deaf the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing will hold its fifteenth annual bazar Friday and Saturday on the fifth floor of the De Paul building, 64 East Lake street.

Paris Offers Tribute to Two Famous Artists

Pirandello, Toscanini Are Honored in Play Revivals, Orchestra Concerts.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS

Paris has always prided itself on putting its stamp on talent, or genius, in the arts, no matter from what part of the world it comes. And there is little doubt that all sorts of artists seek, not only for their own amour propre, but as a distinction that will mean much to their prestige, the favor of the Ville Lumiere. At the moment two Italians, both of them long illustrious, are attracting the interest of the capital.

One of them is Luigi Pirandello, who began to be noticed in Paris a dozen years ago and in a way which rapidly helped him to recognition in other countries than his own. The daughter of Stéphane Mallarmé, the symbolist poet who, with his L'Après-Midi d'un Faune, directly inspired Debussy's musical composition of this name, is married to an Italian, and she was one of the first to tell literary Paris about Pirandello. Shortly after that several of his plays were put on in Paris, and he had that fashionable vogue which the Parisians call snobisme. For several years he has been less to the fore, but now that he has just been awarded the Nobel prize several of the theaters here are reviving some of his successes, and the Comédie-Française is putting one of them on the boards soon.

Toscanini Conducts Straram Orchestra with Masterful Hand.

Another Italian who always evokes enthusiasm here is Toscanini, who is giving this week several concerts at the Theater des Champs-Elysées. This theater, it will be remembered, is the property of Mme. Ganna Walska, and the orchestra which Toscanini is conducting in classic numbers was organized, with Mme. Walska's aid, by that accomplished and regretted musician, the late Walter Straram. It quickly became one of the finest in Paris, and Toscanini has paid tribute to its excellence.

Its members, in their turn, are devoted to him. Last spring they gave him a present to mark their appreciation of his genius and personality. This is the more notable in that Parisian orchestras are hard to discipline. But Toscanini is a relentless taskmaster. He gets wonderful effects from the Straram band, and it is interesting to watch the way the members are eager to execute his indications.

Private Collectors Lend Masterpieces to New Exhibit.

Within a few days an interesting exhibition of pictures, from the 17th century to the present, will open at the André Seligmann galleries in the Faubourg St. Honoré. The underlying idea is to show masterpieces where the artist had a definite conception of his subject, and treated it with distinction so that the tag he put on it really meant something. This display, to which many private collectors are lending their treasures, promises to be one of the most remarkable ever seen; in fact, the public will have a chance to look upon many notable canvases for the first time. This exhibition is to be known as La Réhabilitation du Sujet, and the proceeds will be given to the Fondation Foch, the hospital now being completed at Suresnes in memory of the famous marshal.

Lita Bane New Domestic Arts School Adviser

Expert in Home Economics Sees Institution as Example of Theories.

By Ruth DeYoung.

MISS LITA BANE, well known home economist, arrived in Chicago yesterday to assume the post of advisory director of the School of Domestic Arts and Science. Although not immediately concerned with women's club programs, this news is of special interest to the feminine realm since the domestic science school has Mrs. Lynden Evans for its founder president and a directorate that has been interested in Chicago women's activities for the last half century.

MISS LITA BANE.
[Richard Dooner Photo.]

Miss Bane accepted the school's invitation to come to Chicago because she sees in it the living example of her conception of the home as expressed in her "Aim for the Homemaker":

"To have the home
Economically sound,
Mechanically convenient,
Physically healthful,
Morally wholesome,
Mentally stimulating,
Artistically satisfying,
Socially responsible,
Spiritually inspiring,
Founded upon mutual affection and respect."

The field of home economics bears the imprint of Miss Bane's leadership and vision in many avenues. Graduating from the University of Illinois, she later received the degree of master of arts at the University of Chicago and then took special graduate work at both Chicago and Columbia universities.

Miss Bane Has Brilliant Career in Domestic Science.

She began her teaching career as assistant professor of home economics at Washington State college. Later in this capacity at the University of Illinois she added to her program the leadership of home economics extension in Illinois. This led to her election as president of the American Home Economics association, a post that Miss Bane held for three years. During this term she is credited with clarifying the conception of the functions of home economics and making the association known to other organizations as a group with potential educational power. Since 1929 Miss Bane has served as associate editor of the Ladies' Home Journal.

The School of Domestic Arts and Science, always a bit in advance of the general trend in homemaking, is a product of Chicago's first world's fair. In June, 1933, the downtown departments were removed to the Belden avenue site, where the entire school is now housed in the handsome Victorian home of George F. Adams and in several adjoining buildings.

Mrs. Charles S. Williamson and John S. Miller Jr. are first and second vice presidents of the school. Mrs. James B. Herrick is the secretary and Mrs. Homer W. Chandler treasurer. The board of trustees is composed of Mrs. Clay Baird, Alfred T. Carton, Thomas E. Donnelley, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, Mrs. Alfred H. Gross, Mrs. William S. Monroe, Roy C. Osgood, and Mrs. Robert G. Peck.

Because records show that 90 per cent of all the repair and modernization of homes now being carried on under the national housing act is decided and directed by women, a committee of leading clubwomen, headed by Miss Amelia Sears, has called an all day housing forum for tomorrow at the Sherman hotel. Men and women qualified to present the many different ramifications of a better housing program for the Chicago area will appear on the program, to begin at 10:30 o'clock. Ample time will be allowed for questions after each address. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy is assisting Miss Sears as vice chairman of the forum committee, and Mrs. S. Katherine Maddux as secretary.

Miss Edna Foley to Tell About Visiting Nurses' Work.

Miss Edna L. Foley, capable superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, will trace the dramatic history of the organization's battle against disease in Chicago when she addresses the monthly dinner of the Chicago Business and Professional Woman's club tomorrow evening at the Hotel Sherman. Another speaker who will be introduced by Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, president of the club, will be Dr. Beatrice E. Tucker of the Chicago Maternity center. Dr. Tucker will give an illustrated talk on "Safeguarding Motherhood."

This is a red letter week for the business and professional group, for it is to have its second annual card party Friday evening in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. More than 1,000 tickets already have been sold, according to Miss Marie Sullivan and Miss Josephine Mutter, co-chairmen. The proceeds will go to help unemployed women in the club's ranks.

Women's Auxiliary Is to Have Bridge Tea.

Another interesting charity affair this week is the bridge tea which the women's auxiliary of the Chicago Medical society is to have at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon in the Bal Tabarin of the Sherman hotel. Mrs. Charles Schott, the general chairman, explains that the party proceeds will be used to carry forward welfare and public health projects. Mrs. John A. Wolfer is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. Rollo K. Packard the president elect.

In line with its acute interest in modern problems affecting the younger generation, the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education announces a series of four lectures on "Some Stresses of Our Modern Life" by four women well known for their speaking ability. Vera Brittain, author of "Testament of Youth," will give the first lecture at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon at the Palmer house. Her topic will be "Youth Morals: Today and Yesterday." Prof. A. Eustace Haydon of the department of comparative religions at the University of Chicago will introduce Miss Brittain.

The Travelers' Aid society, the Sarah Hackett Stevenson home, and several other worthy Chicago charities will benefit from the luncheon and bridge party which the Woman's Allied Drug club is to have at 12:30 Thursday in the Republic building. Mrs. Ada Weber, Mrs. Charles Piepho, and Mrs. Lester H. Hynes are planning the party. The club president is Mrs. Arthur Sullivan.

Need Exercise? Mexican Dance Has 118 Steps

Visitors from the North Find It Mentally and Physically Stimulating.

By Maria Teresa Martinez.

MEXICO CITY.—[Special.]—Now that weather which demands overcoats for most, and furs for some, is obtaining in the Mexican capital, which has an altitude of 7,450 feet and is surrounded by towering mountains, spry American visitors are going in for a colorful diversion which looks difficult but which can be easily mastered by those who have an ear for music and a talent for dancing.

This mentally and physically stimulating pastime is the performance of Mexico's national dance. It is called "El Jarabe Tapatio," and, while written history does not record its beginnings, it is believed to have originated soon after the coming of the conquering Spaniards in 1519. "Jarabe" is Spanish for sirup and Mexican jargon for a dance that delights everybody. "Tapatio" is the nickname of Jalisco state, where the dance was first performed. While the stepping manifests a strong Iberian influence, many of its steps are reminiscent of Irish jigs.

118 Steps Included in the Performance.

Not a few of Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces have become proficient in performing "El Jarabe Tapatio." Several of them do the entire dance of 118 steps, but most of them find it a sufficient thrill to execute its principal phases. That amount of exertion is certain to afford the desired amount of mental and physical exercise.

"El Jarabe Tapatio" is strictly a costume dance. Women performers wear the national feminine garb, known as "china poblana" and dating from the late 17th century. This costume has the magic property of making all who wear it, even the most homely, into pretty girls. It consists of a white linen blouse with low neck and shoulder length sleeves, bedecked with colored beads; a crimson or emerald green woolen skirt, drawn in tightly at the waist and full to the calves. On the front is usually woven in glittering beads the Mexican coat of arms—a royal eagle perched upon a cactus and worsting a serpent. A green silken scarf is wound around the waist, with the ends passing over the shoulders and tucked through the waistband. Stockings, usually black, and dull black high heeled pumps complete the costume, an integral part of which is a snowy and lavishly belaced petticoat of fine cambric and other white and frilly lingerie.

Originated by Chinese Princess.

One would imagine that the originator of this costume was a Mexican. But such is not the case. It was originated by a Chinese woman. She was the Princess Mir-ra, favorite daughter of the Great Mogul. The princess was sent to South America in 1686 for her health, but en route she was captured in an assault upon her ship off the Chinese coast by two notorious English pirates, Sir William Dampier and Sir Alfred Townly. They accorded their royal captive every courtesy, but, deeming that a woman aboard was an impediment to their operations and being short of cash at the time, they sold her to a Manila slave trader. He brought her to Acapulco, a Mexican Pacific port which was the Spaniards' base for their commerce between America and the orient.

Mir-ra was bought by a Spanish grandee and taken to his establishment in Puebla City, near here. The grandee's lady made such a fuss about such a pretty slave being in the household that Mir-ra was given her freedom. She adopted Christianity and, considering that coat and trousers are no garb for a Christian lady, originated what became the Mexican national feminine costume. Mir-ra was known throughout Mexico as "La China." The popular name for things pertaining to Puebla City is "poblana." Hence the costume is styled "China Poblana."

They Both Wear a Sombrero.

Male dancers wear the "charro" [Mexican cowboy] costume, a picturesque outfit, comprising skin tight black or colored trousers with stripes, silver buttons down the sides, a fancy, tight fitting vest, short, loose jacket of cloth or lether, embellished with embroidery, beads or buttons, on the back of which is woven the national coat of arms, and a white linen collar and artist's cravat. Both men and women dancers wear the sombrero, which plays an important part in the dance. Male and feminine costumes are practical as well as colorful. After the dance in country districts it is the custom to mount spirited steeds and go for a long gallop.

This is popularly known as the "white petticoat dance," as its evolutions demand prodigal displays of snowy underskirt. Many American misses who never before wore snowy underneaths sport the white petticoat for everyday wear, now that they have become "El Jarabe Tapatio" devotees.

Hair in Braids and Colored Ribbons.

Properly, girl dancers should have their hair in braids down the back and embellished with colored ribbons. But modern girls never wear a forehead band, tennis player fashion. This band is sometimes red, sometimes emerald, but some exercise the pretty conceit of having it in the national colors—green, red, and white.

The dance is wonderful to perform and to behold. The musicians play a few heavy notes, not unlike those that herald the start of a highland fling. That is the signal for the performers to get ready. Then to the spirited opening strains the dancers prance before the audience, generally only a pair, but oftimes as many as a dozen couples.

The lady, holding skirt to her knees between thumbs and forefingers, moving the garment in time to the lively music and generously displaying her snowy petticoat, half runs and half walks, head held back coquettishly as she roguishly eyes her partner, who follows at a little distance, hands behind back, feet moving in quick, short steps, mimicking the bold yet bashful swain.

More Rigid than Victorian Rules.

Then the dance portrays the progress of the courtship, the tiffs, short, tart spells of mutual coolness, the sweets of making up, and so on. But always at a distance. Not once do the dancers touch one another. That is in strict accord with Mexican courtship rules, which are even more rigid than were Victorian era sweetheart regulations.

The performance climaxes with the pretty evolution when the girl kneels, head bowed, in a posture of surrender, and to soft, sweet music the man swings a foot over her, an action that is always cordially applauded by men spectators. Then the band strikes up the "diana," frisky notes, and the pair, one after the other, lady first, dance on tiptoe around the brim of the sombrero.

Turkish Women in the Majority

ISTANBUL.—[U. P.]—Women form the majority of Turkey's population; they exceed men by not less than 7.9 per cent. This is shown by official statistics.

In rural districts the percentage of women is much higher, as in most of the larger cities the male element prevails.

The population of Istanbul, with 709,000 inhabitants against 1,000,000 under the Ottoman empire, includes 138,000 married couples, while 333,000 persons are unmarried.

More than 13 million Turkish citizens profess the Mohammedan faith; 109,906 are Greek Orthodox, 81,872 Israelites, 77,433 Armenian-Gregorians, 39,511 Roman Catholics, and 24,307 Protestants. The rest of the population of 17,500,000 souls belong either to no religious community or their religion could not be established.

Atlantic City to Be All Lit Up for Christmas

ATLANTIC CITY.—Thousands of multi-colored electric bulbs, flood lights, and lighting effects will transform Atlantic City's boardwalk during the Christmas holiday season, which will be featured by the seventh annual Festival of Lights.

Advance reservations indicate that the resort will entertain its greatest Christmas season crowds and hotel grills, night clubs, amusement piers, and theaters will take on an appearance of gayety reminiscent of midsummer.

"America's Bagdad-by-the-Sea" will be an apt name for the resort during the festival, which will start Dec. 20 and continue until Jan. 2. The towering hotels that rise along the ocean's edge will be bathed in illumination and thousands of private homes and business establishments will be decorated with colored lights.

Protect Oldest Oak in Norway

OSLO, Norway.—(AP)—What is probably Norway's oldest and biggest oak has been set aside for preservation at Vestby, southeast of Oslo.

The massive giant of the forest, several hundred years old, is 24 feet in diameter, with its branches covering an area 150 feet in diameter. It is 60 feet high.

A curious feature is a cavity in the runk caused by lightning having torn off a branch. Experiment showed that the cavity would accommodate a dozen children.

Panama Limited to Be Welcomed Back Here Today

CENTRAL station in Chicago promises to be the scene of a gala ceremony today when the Illinois Central's Panama Limited is welcomed back into service.

L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system; the mayors of the principal cities along the lines—including Mayor E. J. Kelly of Chicago—and consuls representing the Latin-American countries will give short talks emphasizing the advance in travel represented by the new service. There will be a distinctive musical program, and then the train will be formally christened by Miss Patsy Kelly, daughter of the mayor. The ceremony will be broadcast over station WENR directly from the lounge car.

The Panama Limited will cut the distance from Chicago to New Orleans to 20 hours—the fastest schedule ever operated between the two cities. It is all Pullman and air conditioned throughout. New type double bedrooms convertible into spacious salons are a feature of its luxurious equipment.

Following the welcoming celebration the train will leave Chicago at 1 p. m. with a group of notables aboard and will arrive in New Orleans at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Canada's Famous Fantom Herd of Elk Is Found

EDMONTON, Alta.—[U. P.]—Discovery of the famous "fantom herd" of elk in the remote Yukon country, 300 miles north of any herds authentically reported by sportsmen in recent years, is reported by an expedition headed by Harry Snyder, Montreal oil man, and M. J. Shearer of Rifle, Colo., who have just returned from a six weeks' trip in the wilderness.

The expedition also reported finding evidence that the once believed extinct "dali" sheep, all-white animals with jet black tails, still are roaming the wilds of northern British Columbia. The expedition plans to return next year to capture a few specimens.

Snyder said the party came across the "fantom herd" of elk 70 miles north of the Muskwa river.

"We have heard for about 15 years about this herd of northern elk until it had become something of a myth among big game hunters," he said. "But we definitly found them this time. There are about 200 animals in the herd and they seem to be thriving."

Italian Railways Manager Here Goes to Naples

FRIENDS and business associates, including representatives of steamship lines, railroads, and tourist organizations, gathered at the La Salle hotel the other evening for a farewell dinner for Eugene V. deRosa, manager of the Chicago office of the Italian State railways.

The work done by Mr. deRosa in developing the travel business from America to Europe has been so successful that he has been promoted to the Naples office. His duties there will include supervision of all tourist trafic originating in the North American continent and other English speaking countries, and the organization of a highly specialized service intended to facilitate travel in Italy and the rest of the European continent on the part of Americans and Britishers.

Dude Ranchers Find Business Is Growing Fast

Last Summer in Wyoming and Montana Second Best in History.

BILLINGS, Mont.—[U. P.]—Montana cowboys and other western ranchers have found it paid them well to turn business men so that business men might play at being cowboys and westerners.

As Montana's dude ranchers returned from their annual convention of the Dude Ranchers' association at Cody, Wyo., they said 1934 was the second best year in the nine year history of the organization.

$5,000,000 in Equipment.

Only 1929, the peak of the boom era, surpassed this season. In that year 10,035 dudes registered at association ranches.

Dude ranching, of humble origin, has become one of the west's largest "big businesses." The total value of land, buildings and equipment of the association's members is valued at around $5,000,000—and that includes only 65 ranches out of the more than 300 scattered through the west.

Association members are for the most part from Montana and Wyoming. They operate in the better known "dude" regions such as the Big Horn, Cody, West Yellowstone and Jackson Hole countries.

Montana and Wyoming Lead.

At present dude ranches are distributed by states as follows: Montana and Wyoming, 172; New Mexico and Arizona, 115; Colorado, 31; Idaho, 12; Canada, 10; California, 5; Oregon, 3; Utah, 2, and Texas, 1.

Dude ranching may be defined as "the commercial exploitation of ranch scenery and ranch activities, wanted for the sake of recreation and pleasure."

The industry began in 1882 when Bert Rumsey of Buffalo, N. Y., paid a few dollars for board and room following a vacation on the Eaton Brothers' ranch at Medora, N. D. Ten years later the Eatons began to cater exclusively to dudes, pioneering the industry which now has more than 350 ranches, each capable of handling from 10 to 100 guests.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Please tell me when is the least expensive time to visit Europe.—C. V.

Between October and April, when there are specially reduced round trip fares in the tourist and third classes. The rates allow for 15 days abroad. First class fares are also lower during this period, and hotel rates are generally down.

We expect to visit the Dalmatian coast on the Statendam's cruise to the Mediterranean this winter. What are the languages spoken in Jugo-Slavia.—A. N.

The official languages are Serbo-Croatian and Slovenian. German is well known in these provinces, formerly under Austria. In Dalmatia, Bosnia, and Hercegovina, French is largely spoken. The Serbs and Croats speak the same tongue, but the Serbs proper usually write their speeches in the Cyrillic alphabet, similar to the Russian. A few words that may prove useful in your shopping: Koliko [how much?], to je skupo [the price is dear], gospodine [sir], dobro [good or well], ne [no], and yest [yes].

Just where is the longest day recorded?—S. T. E.

Probably in Hammerfest, Norway. This town of 3,000 souls is 300 miles within the arctic circle, and it has a summer day lasting from May 13 to July 29, a period of eleven weeks. It also has a night lasting from Nov. 20 to Jan. 21.

Does the advertised cost of a cruise cover all necessary expenses?—B. D.

Yes. Of course there are tips, the cost of wines and liquors, and such expenses as you wish to incur in sightseeing ashore. Some of the steamship companies and travel agencies offering cruises to the Mediterranean, the Carribean, and around the world include the price of shore excursions in their all-inclusive rates; others make the excursions optional, offering them at cost at each port of call.

If I booked passage on an ocean liner and then found I was unable to make the trip could I get my money back?—F. G.

Yes. But should this take place in the crowded season you would be expected to cancel sufficiently ahead of time to allow the agency to resell the accommodation.

When is this winter's Alpine Ski-runners' club trip to Europe.—W. L. K.

The members will sail from New York Jan. 26 for a five weeks' ski tour to St. Anton, on the Arlberg, Austria; Davos, in the Grisons, Switzerland, and Wengen in the Bernese Oberland, Switzerland. They will travel on the S. S. Europa.

The Clyde, Tiny River, Sponsors Giants of Sea

Ranks with Thames, Hudson, Elbe as Among Most Important to Mankind.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—When the queen of Great Britain named one of the world's largest liners "Queen Mary" recently and the huge ship slid gracefully down the ways into the River Clyde at Clydebank [seven miles downstream from Glasgow], one of the world's smallest rivers again sponsored a giant of the sea.

Although the massive 50,000 ton hull was "aimed" at the recently deepened mouth of the river Cart, where it joins the Clyde, the expanse of water was still so narrow that 18 drag chains of 1,000 tons each and seven tugs were used to slow up the vessel. Thus was accomplished the trick of launching a ship over 1,000 feet long into a river only 870 feet wide!

Rises in Pastoral Tweeddale.

The Clyde is never included in any list of the longest rivers of the earth or those of greatest volume; but it would have to be placed near the head of the most important to mankind, along with the Hudson, the Thames, the Elbe, and Shanghai's Whangpoo, says the National Geographic society.

Rising among the verdant hills of Tweeddale, the Clyde is a broad and shallow stream, broken here and there by rocky waterfalls, for the first 80 miles of its course; that is, until it reaches the center of Glasgow. The next 14 miles, to Dumbarton, the shorter but commercially important part of the river, have been made navigable by dredging at the cost of millions of dollars. Finally the Clyde widens out into a beautiful estuary, the Firth of Clyde, which curves for many miles through rocky islands and towering hills to North Channel, between the open Atlantic and the Irish sea.

"The Clyde" of tourist parlance is this lower section, where many long fingers of water reach deep into the Argyllshire highlands. Wooded shores of narrow sea-lochs are dotted with mansions and estates of the wealthy, and cottages of residents of Glasgow, who journey down the Clyde by steamer to spend week-ends in this picturesque vacationland so near to Scotland's largest city. A busy network of fast and frequent steamers connects the islands of Bute, the Cumbraes, and Arran, and mainland towns with the center of Glasgow.

A Clamorous and Somber Stream.

But to the rest of the world it is the 14 mile reach between Glasgow and Dumbarton that is important. Conrad referred to this section of the Clyde as that "clamorous and somber stream," and he who, by steamer, glides between its throbbing shipyards, crowded industrial towns, long docks, and sugar refineries, and among its raucous shipping, will agree that the great writer of sea stories captured its flavor in a phrase.

Glasgow was not always a seaport. As late as the middle of the 17th century it was a quiet inland town on a fordable stream. How Glasgow made the sea come to it—as daringly and more successfully than Mohammed with his mountain—is one of the most fascinating romances of engineering.

For a long time freight for the city was brought in ships to a point forty miles down on the Clyde estuary and carried the rest of the way on pack horses and in carts. Later a port was established 19 miles away; but, as the city grew, the need for docks at its door became more apparent. The situation seemed hopeless, but in 1773 engineers hit upon the scheme of narrowing the channel and making it dig its bottom deeper.

Its Depth Is Only 26 Feet.

The plan worked. The pitifully meager two foot depth of those days had become eight feet by 1836, 22 feet by 1900, and is now 26 feet—sufficient to accommodate huge modern ocean liners. It has been dredged once more to enable the Queen Mary to reach the sea. Picks wielded by wading men started the loosening of the river bottom in the old days; then came horse-drawn harrows.

In late years explosives and the most modern of steam dredges have helped keep the channel to its depth. Though Glasgow's waterway is where the river Clyde has flowed for ages, it has been truly said that it is "as artificial as the Suez canal."

Except where there are commercial quays, docks and factories, nearly every foot of the Clyde waterfront from Glasgow to the estuary is now taken up with some of the world's greatest and busiest shipyards. Here in a stream, which for depth at least, was once outranked by almost any second rate American creek, were launched in recent years, in addition to the Queen Mary, the giant Aquitania, the huge British battleship Hood, and other famous craft among the largest ever built. Clydebank is already making plans, perhaps a bit prematurely, for the construction of a sister ship of the Queen Mary.

HUNDRED GIVEN TASTE OF TRAVEL AT CRUISE DINNER

MORE than a hundred Chicagoans got a taste of winter travel when they attended an elaborate dinner and program at the Palmer house Tuesday night. The program was labeled, "On Board Cunard—Raymond-Whitcomb Cruise," and the idea was carried out throughout the evening. There were cabaret acts of music and dancing, talking pictures, and the game of horse racing as it's played on the luxury liners. William Franklin Crum of Cunard White Star, Ltd., presided. A short talk was given by Fred V. Robinson of Raymond-Whitcomb, Inc.

The two organizations, it was made known after the dinner, are coöperating this season on a series of cruises that will take the Aquitania twice to the Mediterranean and Egypt, and the Britannic three times to the West Indies and South America. These will be followed by the Carinthia's North Cape-Russian jaunt late in the spring. Still other Cunard trips will include five by the Georgic to the West Indies, the Carinthia's regular service to Nassau, while Raymond-Whitcomb will send the Stella Polaris to the south seas, India and Persia, and will coöperate with the Italian line on the journey of the Rex through the pages of ancient history in Syria, Palestine, Persia, and Iraq.

Mr. Crum said advance inquiries on the Mediterannean and Caribbean cruises were proof that the travel business is definitly on the way back to prosperity. Mr. Robinson pointed out that the Aquitania's trips are the only ones giving ample time to see Egypt, and that the Britannic is the largest ship placed in service for 18-day cruises this winter.

Carrier Pigeon Found in Arctic

HAMMERFEST, Norway.—(AP)—For the first time on record a carrier pigeon has been found flying in the great arctic wastes. The bird was brought into port here by a fishing boat on which it alighted far out in the arctic. It permitted the crew to capture it without resistance and was found to be banded with rings bearing letters, which were not immediately identified.

Miners Go Agricultural.

DURHAM, England.—(AP)—With the help of the ministry of labor 50 unemployed miners of this district were sent to sugar beet fields near Norfolk to try their hands at agricultural work.

Bus Tours to Florida Follow Scenic Route

WHEN THE TRIBUNE related Wednesday that its Pathfinder car was blazing the way to Florida for the motorist this winter it called attention to the fact that there are a number of bus tours following a similar route.

One of these, announced last week, calls for a 15 day holiday trip to and around Florida. The traveling is done by de luxe buses by day, and the nights are spent at hotels. Stops are made at such places as Mammoth cave, the Hermitage, Stone river battlefield, Lookout mountain, Chickamauga, and the Stone mountain memorial.

On arrival in the southland the tour moves down the east coast, and two days are spent in Miami before starting for the west coast along the Tamiami trail.

Youth Travels Around Globe on One Penny

Finds Adventure on Trains and Schooners, and Romance in Finland.

PARIS.—[U. P.]—Traveling around the globe with only one cent in his pocket, Emil Richard Nivala, 25 year old sign painter of Astoria, Ore., has passed through here after becoming engaged to be married in Finland.

Nivala had plenty of adventures on freight trains and tramp schooners during the 26,000 miles he already has covered, but he did not find romance until he reached Kautio, Finland. There he studied Finnish and fell in love with his teacher, Miss Aino Verron.

"I must hurry up and finish the rest of the 45,000 miles of my itinerary so I can get back to Oregon and get married," he said. "The life of the rolling stone is great sport, but it can't be done after you get married and settle down."

Carries Brief Case and One Cent.

His only luggage is a brief case which can be carried by hand or strapped on the back. It contains a change of linen, a diary, a map of the world and some knicknacks picked up en route. On the outside of the case is inscribed the legend: "Round About the World—45,000 Miles or More—with One Cent."

Nivala does not drink nor smoke. Encountered in an American bar, he was offered a glass of beer or a peg of whisky. "No, thanks," he replied, "but I'll have a hot dog if you don't mind." Believing in always keeping a neat appearance, he has had the crease of his trousers sewed in permanently.

Determined to Go 45,000 Miles.

Born in Astoria, Ore., of Finnish parents, Nivala left home July 18, 1932, determined to see at least 45,000 miles of the world. He got his first lift by plane to Portland, Ore. Thence he traveled through 38 of the 48 states, mostly on freight trains. After touring Mexico he returned to the United States and obtained free passage on a boat to the Scandinavian countries by looking after two passengers of doubtful mentality.

His only documents, which he carries in his coat pocket, consist of an American passport, a letter from the mayor of Astoria, and one in French from the Finnish consul in New York, attesting to his good character and honesty.

Work to Abandon Horns.

PARIS.—(AP)—The Paris Society for the Suppression of Noise, having obtained a ban on automobile horns at night, now is working to have them forbidden in daylight hours. Much of the whistling of locomotives also has been eliminated.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

WORD comes to Chicago that the French Riviera, like America, is passing through a period of change pointing to returning confidence and prosperity. At Nice the Palais de la Mediterranee, damaged by fire a year ago, is about to be reopened as one of the world's greatest casinos. After nearly thirty years of negotiation a large piece of ground, reaching along the western end of the seashore as far as the race course, has been acquired by the municipality from the state, and improvement schemes on a vast scale are being projected. The long desired road along the shore to Antibes, and eventually to Cannes, is within sight at last. The municipality also has taken over the rock on which the old castle stands, with the idea of making rock and castle more accessible to the traveler.

At Monte Carlo the rules for admission to the casino have been eased up; there no longer is an entrance charge to the part known as the Kitchen. Roulette there is showing little effect from the new competition of the French gaming places, and chemin-de-fer has been having a run since the commission taken by the table was cut in half.

● It's that way in all the other pleasure resorts along the azure coast. The Mediterranean is bringing in the business as it hasn't done since the days when the dollar was a dollar and not a plaything of European jugglers.

One reason for this is that nowhere else in the world is there such a contrast in modes of life, habit and dress. In the course of a tour of the Mediterranean and adjoining lands you may light from the cockpit of a giant airplane in Syria and, as the hum of the motor dies away, find yourself in a community that has failed to count time since the 12th century. Or you may motor past Egyptian fields where human beings still tread water wheels as other human beings did in the days of the Pharaohs. Still again, you may witness street scenes taking you back to the Arabian Nights. And these are the places that saw the dawn of civilization.

● Every novice in travel knows that in the near east are to be found turbaned Moslems, white robed priests and closely veiled women swarming around bazars, and that they are apt to be supplemented by swarthy Maronites and fair Druses airplaning, in their loose fluttering garments, in from remote Persian outposts. But few realize that there are also distinctive regional costumes in such modern countries as Italy.

In the Tuscany valley, for instance, the populace, with its deep atavistic roots, retains its instinctive liking for its ancient dress. Here rule the bright Venetian shawls and the wide straw hats of the Tuscan women. In the Sienese country and mountain villages the men still cherish their earrings, caparison their oxen with great embroidered covers, and use decorative barrels for wine delivered from hand colored woven shoulder baskets. The Crocie or Roman sandal footwear prevails throughout the district. On a visit to one of the villages you may see bevies of laughing young women trooping the streets in costumes resembling those of light opera. The answer is to be found in the habit of generations where evenings are devoted to putting a margin of gayety on one's attire.

● Folklore charm is to be had at Abruzzo, where time has left untouched the ornamentations of furniture and the costumes woven on age old looms. The rich motifs become mellowed with the years and blend with the faded greens and pale yellows. In this area religion is the main motivation of life; it regulates the dress for marriage and festivals, as well as the food preparation and other every day activities.

In many districts bagpipes accompany the dancers, who dress in the color moods of the season and carry on a sort of survival of the old Saturnalia. In other provinces the festival array includes a combination of oriental and Byzantine art, which had its origin before Roman days and specialized in the barbaric splendors of the near east. Throughout Tuscany you may see the extreme anachronism in dress: gorgeous shawls and medieval ornaments vying with the latest modes from Paris.

chic. Books in themselves are the finest decoration, and the library walls are lined to the high ceiling with the most complete French book collection in the United States. Red brocades drape the doors and windows.

Miss West has for years been chairman of the French library. Inspired by her brother-in-law, Clarence Perley, librarian of the congressional library in Washington, she has had great ambitions and succeeded marvelously with her hobby. Hence her recognition by France. Mrs. Cragg has worked tremendously on the program end of the alliance's two weekly meetings, for which she is entitled to wear a little purple ribbon in the lapel of her coat. Mr. Weiller, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, all in demure black, and Prof. Henri David sat upon the new stage. Each made a complimentary speech congratulating the two ladies honored. Each in grand gala for the great occasion, Mrs. Cragg in black and white. Miss West in hunter's green and silver. They wore great nosegays of violets, white and purple.

Mrs. John Storrs, official conférencière of the alliance, just home from France, made a discours on "International Relations." This was followed by the usual animated tea.

Princess Galitizine Quits Chicago for Scotland.

Princess Alexandra Galitzine, mother of the tall and lovely Aleka, wife of Prince Rostislav of Russia, left yesterday for Europe after a six months' visit with her daughter. Mrs. Arthur Small has made a series of small luncheons for the princess, so that several different groups could meet this interesting and unique woman.

Not tall and rather slight of figure, dressed always in black, Princess Galitzine is a real Russian aristocrat of the old school. Nothing like the hybrid types one meets usually in western Europe, principally in Paris and Rome.

Her home was in the old Russian town of Novgorod. Here her six daughters and three sons were brought up until 1917. Seized and imprisoned with those of her children not married and out of the country, she had many singular experiences. Of these she can speak with great equanimity as she knits and knits. Like one of Tolstol's grand characters in "War and Peace" is the princess. Her present journey is to visit at Ellensborough, just out of Glasgow, her daughter, Mrs. James Campbell. As lady in waiting to Grand Duchess Olga, this young princess escaped the slaughter of aristocrats in Russia. She was one of the invited guests to the royal wedding last Thursday in London. Princess Galitzine's daughter, Aleka, and her son, Nicholas, married to a Chicago girl, both live here.

Paul Nordhoff to Illustrate Talk on "Music in Drama."

Next Tuesday afternoon at the Casino a tea given by four charming hostesses, Mrs. Lawrence Houghteling, Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter.

At this will be discussed plans for the success of the opening Ballet Russe benefit, Dec. 26, for the Woman's Trade union.

Many women of prominence have given their names as patronesses for this important event.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, February 6, 1885.

DEAR JULIA: Isn't the news from Khartum most ominous? GORDON CAPTURED! Somehow I have never worried about such a contingency. He has seemed to bear a charmed life hitherto, and has come through his unparalleled adventures with such flying colors that I have taken it for granted that, with his usual luck, he would make a safe retreat from his perilous position.

He has always seemed to me like the hero of some wild romance. You know how the hero is girdled about with enemies, put under the spell of an evil magician, deliverance seeming impossible, yet how he issues from the encounter victorious, just in the nick of time. Any one else in like position, would, of course, have aroused our worst fears. He has been far from his base of supplies, in the midst of fanatical savages . . . . but I had a sublime faith in Gordon. So the sudden news of his capture is like a bombshell. There has been no hint, that I have seen in the papers, that he feared such a termination. I understood that he could hold out indefinitly. He knew of the coming of the relief forces and had sent steamboats down the Nile to meet the advance of the English columns.

Will says the capture of Gordon, disastrous as it may be to the pride of the British people, and to the prestige of the war office, will have even more far reaching consequences than now appears. The opponents of the war are the foes of Gladstone, and no effort will be spared to make the premier responsible. O, I DO hope Gordon isn't dead! That would be unendurable.

I have interrupted my writing to hear Will read from an evening paper about the home of Mr. Rockefellow [I'm not sure I spell that correctly], president of the Standard Oil company, that great monopoly. The newspaper article says he is the richest man in Cleveland, and probably the richest in Ohio. He is a self-made man, who is generous with his great wealth. The residence described is in Cleveland, at the corner of Euclid and Cass streets. On the rear of the lot, so the paper states, is a grand barn, costing more than twenty ordinary houses. He also has a residence eight miles outside Cleveland, on the lake shore, and another in New York. Perhaps you may meet the family some time. He has made all his money in oil.

I don't believe it's envy that makes me regret to see such large fortunes piled up. Will says it is a good thing to have money in the hands of a generous and public spirited person, but I say it gives too much power to one individual, even if the power is used in a good way. [NOTE: Will says the name of the Standard Oil magnate is Rockefeller—John D. Rockefeller.]

More interruptions! Martha has just run in, on her way to the R. Hall McCormicks' bal masque, to show me her costume. She is dressed as a shepherdess, like those we see in Watteau paintings, and, if I do say so, she looks like a picture. Mrs. Arthur Caton is to go as Cleopatra, and many of the young people Martha likes best will be there—Harriet Hammond, Emma Rumsey, and Lulu de Koven.

As my Aunt Margaret used to say in concluding a letter, "No more at present." Just much love, from MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Gordon was already dead when Martha wrote. He was killed on Jan. 26, 1885, following the capture of Khartum by treachery. A British relief expedition under Wolseley arrived two days too late.

At that time I was secretary of the Iroquois club and presented that flag for one of the decorations. My wife and I had the honor of attending that ball and Mrs. Hoyne remembers Miss May Lester, daughter of John D. Lester. She was dressed in pink tulle and was the belle of the ball. Late Autumn Finds Society Bound for S. Carolina Homes

AIKEN, S. C.

The season here opened on Thanksgiving day. Many of the colony are arriving daily. Mrs. J. in residence and more Averell Clark has succeeded her mother, the late Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, as M. F. H. of the Aiken Drag Hunt. The opening run took place Thanksgiving morning, starting from the Fermata school.

Others here already include Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pease of Bar Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Post of East Williston, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Warner Baltazzi, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Rutherfurd, Mr. and Mrs. William Taft Pitkin, Mrs. G. MacCulloch Millen, daughter of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Souther.

ART NOTES

Photographic art by Jessie Tarbox Beals and decorative paintings by Nelle Adams Smith comprise the first winter exhibit in the Allerton gallery.

Etchings, lithographs, drawings, and water colors by John Groth are on view in the O'Brien galleries, 673 North Michigan avenue. An "economy" sale of framed prints and water colors is being featured to Dec. 8. Etchings by such famous artists as Frank Brangwyn, Troy Kinney, Marguerite Kirmse, Hordie, Walcot, and Rosenberg will be going for almost a song, so run in and pick up several worth while Christmas presents before it is too late.

The United Exhibitors, 9 West Washington street, offer a cross-section of Chicago art in a pre-Christmas exhibit which will continue to Dec. 15.

The Business Men's Art club, 63 East Adams street, has hung a diversified show with many pleasant pictures to catch the friendly eye. The exhibit will close Dec. 7 with an auction.

Paintings by William H. Eppens are on view today at the Chicago Beach hotel, under the auspices of the South Side Art association. Mr. Eppens paints delightful landscapes. In this one-man show he is including a number of gay water colors painted at the World's Fair and a group of etchings.

The Karl Wolfe paintings at the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, remain one of the best exhibits in town. Do not fail to see them.

The Ninth Annual Art Exhibition of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts may be seen at the Stevens hotel to Jan. 31. Space forbids a longer mention today, but it is a stunning show.

In view of the opening yesterday of the International Live Stock show in its new quarters, constructed since the drastic fire last spring, it is interesting to hear from Charles E. Snyder, president of the Saddle and Sirloin club, that all the paintings which hung on the walls of that unique building are to be restored.

The new Spanish Art galleries, 26 South Michigan avenue, have an interesting collection with which to beguile the visitor. Early 19th century Spanish platters and curious iron and wood cabinets are among the $250,000 collection of treasures of which they invite inspection. A number of paintings by Spanish artists add color and variety to the exhibit.

Local Artists Hang Splendid New Exhibition

Palette and Chisel to Benefit from Sale of Members' Small Canvases.

By Eleanor Jewett.

EXHIBITIONS are springing up on every hand. One of the most entertaining and delightful is found at the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street, where are hung the small pictures contributed by the artist members. The sale of them will contribute to the financial safeguarding of the organization for another year. Artists and their clubs have at best but a precarious footing in these times, yet the Palette and Chisel has weathered the worst of the depression and is still going strong. The current exhibit gives proof of that.

Twenty-eight painters are represented in the show with pictures which range from still life to figure studies. Each painting is a characteristic effort on the part of its artist, and each is a worth while picture. Here is no clearing out of studios. On the contrary, here, by gift, is an excellent group of small paintings, as fine an exhibit as one could discover in a search of any gallery.

Range of Pictures Will Suit Every Taste.

Although there are pictures here to suit every taste, a few stand out. There is, for example, the exquisite still life, "Old Roses," by Leo Marzolo. There is the stunning "Birches" by Holger W. Jensen. Joseph Tomanek gives us a luscious piece of painting in "Twins," two young girls, nude, in a woodland setting. Othmar Hoffler shows "Vitre Castle," fascinating in color, and "Evening," a typical Hoosier twilight and landscape. Oscar Gross is tremendously successful in his two paintings, "The Law Office," an old woman sitting on a bench, and "Christmas Carol," an irresistible procession of choir boys chanting as they walk.

Oscar B. Erickson, Arnold Turtle, Karl C. Brandner, Anthony Buchta, C. H. Cooke, J. Jeffrey Grant, Max Herzog, and Fred T. Larson are among the other painters who give this show its excellent rating. The exhibit will continue to Dec. 14 and closes that night with an auction at 8 o'clock. This is an opportunity for all lovers of good pictures.

Mary Peterson Carries Off Honors in Swedish Exhibit.

The Seventh Annual Exhibition by Swedish Artists is current in the east lounge of the Edgewater Beach hotel. It is an interesting exhibit. Mary Peterson carries off the highest honors in an appreciation of the paintings with her striking "Composition with Figure," a most unusual and lovely canvas. Thomas Hall is second in interest with his water colors. "Snow Clad" and "Floral Design" are gorgeous.

Signe Palmblad contributes one of her best paintings, a vibrant and virile winter landscape, "Winter Mood." Gus Wick has a clever self-portrait; Fridolf Spolander a superb marine, "Thundering Shore"; Carl E. Wallin a successful "Portrait of Mr. Ohlson"; G. Ahlman a quaint and formal "Winter," and Anne Anderson several delightful tiny water colors.

The exhibit will continue to Dec. 9.

Krawiecs Distinguish Themselves in Polish Art Show.

This is rather a foreign week. The Polish Art club is holding its Seventh Annual Exhibit of Paintings and Sculpture to Dec. 9 at 1200 North Ashland avenue. It is an interesting exhibit, though not as extensive nor as attractive as the Swedish one. Walter Krawiec and Harriet Krawiec are, of course, the most prominent of the contributing artists. Both of them are well known to a large Chicago audience. We see and enjoy their paintings in virtually every important exhibition in town which pretends in any way to be representative to the best in Chicago art. In this little exhibit Mr. Krawiec shows a dramatic painting of a fireboat—"The Joseph Medill in Action"—and a splendid, crowded impression of a horse fair, "Auction at Stockyards." Mrs. Krawiec offers several effective still life compositions. "A Little Wood Carving" and "Daisies" make a particular appeal.

Jan Fabian, a graduate student of the Art institute and a winner of several important money prizes there, is inclined to modernism as the four paintings by him in this show confess. He is getting away from the earlier influence to some extent and finding himself as a solid painter. There is great promise in his "Nude Study."

Norbert Czarnowski is a capable craftsman, and his "Galena" is an expressive bit of beauty. E. Karnowski submits four water colors. The "Chinatown, Frisco," is picturesque.

French Lace-trimmed Gowns, Slips of Genuine Silk Satin d' Lune

Evening Gown Lines!
Dressmaker Details!
Romantic Satin!
Woven Exclusively for Mandel Brothers.

$2

Feel the Quality!

Note the texture and lustre!

A quality reminiscent of Marie Antoinette days when satin was the by-word for quality. It's rich, elegant—very feminine! Satin d'Lune is expertly woven of specially selected raw silk "RELIANCE" finish, known "in the trade" for giving that elegant look to satin, for making it hold its newness, for giving brilliance to the colors. Every dainty piece is fashioned with the same care and exactness which identifies all Mandel better lingerie.

Reliance SATIN FINISH XL
Processed Exclusively by Reliance Piece Dye Works, Inc.

● Slips, lacy and tailored, all double stitched. Tearose, sizes 34 to 44! ● Chemise and dancettes, some that ensemble with gowns and slips! ● Gowns, lacy or tailored, sizes 15, 16, 17 (24-38)! ● Sun Gold, Vanity Rose, Old Blue, Delicate Tearose (in swatch).

MANDEL BROTHERS MEN'S SHOPS

Particular Shoppers Demand Facts Before They Buy! That Is Why We Had These Shirts Literally Torn to Pieces . . . to Discover for You Just Why These Are Our Best Shirt Values in Years!

GIFT CLASSIC! 48,000 Men's Shirts! RIGIDLY TESTED for QUALITY!

White or Colored Broadcloth! Fancies! Worth $1.95!

$1.29

Feel the sample swatch below—note its fine texture, lustre, quality!

We've really gone into this shirt proposition—inside and out . . . and we think we're giving you the greatest value you've seen in years! Samples of the shirts were tested by an impartial testing laboratory! And what punishment they took! They were washed, ironed . . . pulled . . . mauled . . . torn to pieces . . . just to prove you can't go wrong on these shirts!

And Just Look at the Variety!

- White broadcloths, collar-attached or neckband
- Woven-pattern broadcloths, collar-attached or two starched collars to match
- Blue broadcloth in collar-attached
- British stripes and pencil stripes
- Tab collar shirts in British stripes

Fancy Shirts—
Sizes 14-17; sleeves, 33-35
(Sketched right is a pin-stripe. Just 1 example of the large variety of patterned shirts.)

White Shirts—
Sizes 14-18; sleeves 32-36

Note the Lustre! Feel the Quality!

Here's What She Is Asking . . . and Here Are Our Answers . . . ;

Q. Is It Good Material?

A. As fine as you'll find in many $1.95 shirts. The cotton fibres are extra long—which means added strength. They're carefully combed and thoroughly mercerized—which means beautiful, silky lustre.

Q. Will It Wear Well?

A. Will it Wear? We sent these shirts to an impartial testing laboratory, where they were washed and ironed 30 times. And after the 30 launderings there was no rupture in the fabric and only a 23% loss of strength.

Q. Will the Shirt Shrink?

A. No, madam, they are pre-shrunk. After 30 launderings, there was not over 1% shrinkage at any point.

Q. Will the Buttons Stay On?

A. They certainly should! They're 4-hole ocean pearl (just about the best) and they're sewed on with 16 threads! In fact, it took a force of 21 pounds to tear one off!

Q. Will They Fit Around the Collar?

A. They'll fit perfectly . . . because they are made specially for us by one of our oldest and most reliable manufacturers of our $1.95 and $2.55 shirts. It's a real job for him to make a shirt that doesn't fit.

You'll Notice She's Feeling the Fabric. You Can Make the Same "Touch Test" with the Sample Swatch Attached.

FAILURE TO CLEAN

★ "The Forgotten 60"

CAN RUIN YOUR GOOD LOOKS

THERE'S A NATIONAL

SWING from paste to POWDER

Dentists are advising the use of tooth powder. Look at your tooth brush and you'll see one reason why. Is there a gummy deposit at the base of the bristles? Get away from a brush clogged with last week's dentifrice —a catch-all for germs and impurities. Use Calox Tooth Powder for a clean brush and clean, shining teeth!

Do you think you are really cleaning your teeth when you brush them with an ordinary dentifrice?

★You can't see the 60 hidden surfaces between your teeth. Your brush can't reach them. But there—on "The Forgotten 60"—food particles collect and germs breed. There decay begins the destruction of your teeth.

Calox Penetrates to "The Forgotten 60"

One dentifrice, Calox Tooth Powder, has been scientifically developed in the McKesson Laboratories to reach and clean those danger spots! Calox sets free tiny bubbles of oxygen in your mouth. They foam into every crevice, purifying, deodorizing—hunting out the germs. A mild antacid, milk of lime, neutralizes decay acids. The breath is sweetened, and the teeth are whitened and polished safely—without gritty abrasives. A special ingredient tones and cleanses the gums, helping to keep them firm and healthy.

When your dentist advises you to use powder, be sure the kind you buy is Calox, the penetrating tooth powder that guards "The Forgotten 60." You'll be delighted with its clean, refreshing taste—and even more, you'll appreciate the money it saves!

Here's Real Economy

The average tube of tooth paste gives you 45 to 50 brushings. Calox—in the family-size package—holds enough for more than 300 liberal cleanings of the teeth. Goes six times as far! Buy Calox today at any drug store.

"VELURE MAKES HANDS Wonderfully Soft BECAUSE IT WORKS WITH NATURE"

• Ordinary methods of hand care attempt the impossible. They try to feed the skin from the outside—to soften it artificially. Skin specialists have always known that the only way to really soften hands is to use a method that works with Nature. Now Velure—a new hand lotion—proves this!

• Nature tries to keep your hands soft with a supply of softening oils from the tiny cells in the underskin. But housework, exposure to weather, even water tend to dry out these natural oils, to interrupt their flow. That's where Velure comes to the rescue.

• Velure immediately softens the outer skin, of course. Then it is quickly absorbed to the underskin. There it aids and protects Nature's own oil cells, and restores the normal flow of natural softening oils to the outer skin.

• Velure leaves no thick, sticky coating, no artificial veneer that may clog the pores. Use Velure every day, (just two drops on each hand after housework, exposure to weather, and washing the hands) and you will be rewarded with hands of exquisite softness.

Don't Endure Skin Torment

Whether the itching and burning is from eczema, or some acid condition, or just a simple rash—just apply RESINOL OINTMENT lightly but freely at the first suggestion of skin irritation anywhere on your body. The soothing effect of its bland medication is almost immediate. Resinol also promotes healing and is specially recommended for tender skins.

FOUR ANSWERS TO THE QUESTION
"What shall I give her?"

Why not take a tip from the lady herself? These are the gifts she'd choose for a friend—and end up by keeping for her very own! But you really couldn't blame her for yielding to temptation—the Gemey Gift Collection is so utterly feminine, so cleverly packaged! Go at once to the nearest drug or department store — see these charming Gift Sets for yourself. (The pictures can't possibly do them justice.) The prices are surprisingly low—from $1 to $5. Made by RICHARD HUDNUT, famous for more than fifty years as America's leading perfumer.

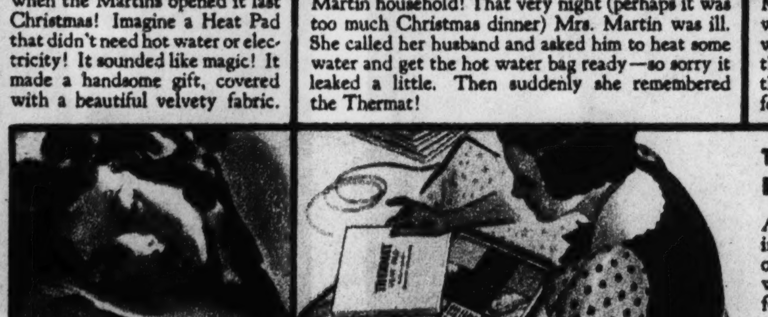
Watch the Martins make this a magic CHRISTMAS! all because someone, last Christmas, gave them a Thermat* MAGIC Heat Pad

*No hot water, no electricity!

1 Thermat looked very intriguing when the Martins opened it last Christmas! Imagine a Heat Pad that didn't need hot water or electricity! It sounded like magic! It made a handsome gift, covered with a beautiful velvety fabric.

2 It didn't take long to give Thermat a trial in the Martin household! That very night (perhaps it was too much Christmas dinner) Mrs. Martin was ill. She called her husband and asked him to heat some water and get the hot water bag ready—so sorry it leaked a little. Then suddenly she remembered the Thermat!

3 And Thermat was out in a jiffy! Mr. Martin added 2 tablespoons of cold water, and within 60 seconds Thermat was giving forth steady, comforting heat that would last 8 to 10 hours. Before the water could have been on the stove for heating, Thermat was already in use.



4 Before going to sleep, Mrs. Martin said a silent prayer for the chemists who perfected this new Thermat heat pad—(the most comfortable way to apply heat to any part of the body).

5 Watch the Martins this Christmas! They were so pleased with their gift last year that they are giving Thermats to all of their friends this Christmas! It is really a most acceptable gift—handsome, inexpensive, useful in so many ways every month in the year. It is one gift no one wants to exchange.

THERMAT, LARGE DELUXE GIFT SIZE Complete $1

Millions have Waited for Christmas to Bring Them This Beauty—

THIS REVOLUTIONARY PARKER VACUMATIC

—the Sacless, Pistonless Pen that won't run dry because it holds 102% more ink, and shows when it's running low!

This new and lovely style creation has all the velvety shimmer of laminated Pearl and Jet. Yet when held to the light, the "Jet" becomes transparent—reveals the column of ink inside—shows when to refill, like the gas gauge on a motor car.

The Vacumatic Filler, an exclusive Parker patent, eliminates 14 old-time parts, including the rubber ink sac and the lever filler found in sac-type pens, and also the squirt-gun piston pump found in other sacless pens. So be sure you get the genuine Parker Vacumatic.

The miracle Two-way Writing Point of Platinum, Gold and Iridium actually transforms writing from a chore into work you love. For it's slightly turned up at the tip so it cannot possibly scratch or drag—even under pressure.

New Christmas styles are now arrayed at all good pen shops, department stores, jewelers, stationers, and druggists. Make selections early—and receive autograph engraving certificate, free. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin.

ARISTOCRATS OF BOND STREET

world-wide Christmas travelers

In the long shadows of a gilt-and-indigo tropic sun, a fair-skinned woman is hastening from her drive along the Bund. She has seen a great white liner in the roadstead—anticipates the arrival of important visitors—her box of Christmas gifts from Yardley of London. Months ago she listed them in her own hand on crested paper . . . planned for their reception. For months we've been dispatching similiar orders to far-off places. For the English elegante, wherever she finds herself, prefers to think months in advance rather than forego her shopping at 33, Old Bond Street, London! Always,—she must return to Mayfair for the luxuries that have given her a world-wide reputation for her perfect taste and charmingly personal, luxurious gift lore!

To the gentlemen—the famous Yardley Shaving Bowl accompanied by Lotion, Talc, Soap, and a liquid Brilliantine. $5.

Delightful provender for a Mayfair or American toilet table. Yardley's Cream, Soap, Lavender, Bath Salts, Bath Powder. $5.50.

YOU have only to step around your nearest corner—to join these smart international shoppers on grand Old Bond Street, London. What a delightful solution to Christmas giving—to give as do the most charmingly sophisticated people in the world. The clear Lavender fragrance of Yardley carries an international message of distinction. Yet no remembrance is too slight for Yardley to provide for you, in its most enchanting Bond Street guise. A slender glittering compact—a tiny platinum-surfaced lipstick—a royally luxurious bath array; such trifles will carry a casual but distinguished message. The entire content of a Mayfair beauty's dressing-table (laid upon gleaming satin)—a traveling case that might treasure the jewels of a duchess (we've heard the preparations in it so described!). No matter what the cost, you could not provide presents more flattering or more appreciated. And the cost itself—but 95c to $30! Find them at your nearest fine cosmetics counter—and fill your list so inexpensively you'll have an excuse for a Yardley gift for you! Yardley & Co., Ltd., 620 Fifth Avenue (Rockefeller Center), New York City; 33, Old Bond Street, London; and in Paris, Toronto, Sydney.

A complete exquisite English complexion—Face Powder, Cream, Soap, Talc, Lotion, Sachet, Lavender, and a double powder vanity. $10.50.

Christmas fragrance incarnate! This set of Dusting Powder, Soap and traveling bottle of exquisite English Lavender costs but $4.

Golden, glittering, exotic. The Yardley Triple Compact with extra evening lipstick at $5.50. (Silvered it costs $3.85 complete.)

FIELD'S IS HEADQUARTERS FOR GIFTS

Because

PRACTICALLY ALL THE SMART GIFTS IN THE COUNTRY ARE HERE

We know what we are talking about because we have just checked up in the principal fashion centers. A thorough last-minute survey of the New York market proved that we already had in stock at least 95% of the smartest and most novel things shown there. We added many of the most interesting gifts which we saw then, for the first time. SO NOW WE SAY WITH FULL CONFIDENCE THAT OUR CHRISTMAS STOCKS ARE COMPLETE. Here are a few of the thousands of gifts.

Don't miss Field's at Christmas time. It is a festive fairyland of color and shopping interest. Pictures cannot tell the whole story. But if you cannot possibly come in, address your mail orders to the Personal Shopping Bureau. They will receive immediate attention.

It's a grand idea to bring your Christmas list straight to the Gift Court on the second floor. Here you will find more than 7,000 gifts from all over the store displayed in one room. There's the Answer Shop, too, on the fifth floor of The Store for Men, to aid you in finding the very gifts that a man would choose for himself.

With all these aids to successful (and easy) Christmas shopping, is it any wonder that the gay Field Christmas boxes are almost always among the first ones opened when gifts are brought out on Christmas day?
